FEELING BITTER AS UPPER SILESIA PREPARES FOR PLEBISCITE TODAY

British Troops Reported to Have Been Warned Not to Enter One Polish District—Crowd That Calls Them Pro-German at Beuthen Dispersed.

30,000 TROOPS ON DUTY IN DISTRICT

Poles Use Dynamite in Celebrations of Anticipated Victory—Allied Commission Goes to Great Length Seeking Fair Vote.

By the Associated Press.

KATTOWITZ, Silesia, March 19.—Threats by the Poles that they will shoot British officers should they appear in Schopponitz, tomorrow, the day of the Upper Silesian plebiscite (when Upper Silesia will decide whether it is to join Poland or remain part of the German empire), have reached Col. Critchton, British control officer here. He previously had detailed two officers to visit the polling places in that district, and, upon learning the threats, announced he would watch the Schopponitz district, where anti-German sentiment is reported to be most bitter. Eichenau, however, is an exception, German voters not yet having entered the village.

Fears are expressed that the population, which is known to be armed, will attack the soldiers in these districts tomorrow

At Beuthen, British soldiers, openly charged in the streets by the Poles with being pro-German, broke up the crowds.

It is reported that British officials have confiscated a large quantity of arms and ammunition found in a hotel at Lomnitz.

Rifle and machine gun fire was heard along the entire lower Polish border last night as the Poles celebrated their anticipated victory. Heavy explosions early this morning reported a continuation of the celebrations with dynamite.

There is a threatened situation at Rybnik where a German automobile carrying foreign newspaper correspondents was fired on today as it passed through a Polish settlement.

30,000 Troops on Duty in Area in Which Plebiscite Will Be Held.

By the Associated Press.

OPPELLN, Upper Silesia, March 19.—Capt. Lench, who was an adherent of Dr. Wolfgang Kapp during the short-lived revolution in Berlin last March, and who was head of the press section of the Foreign Office during Dr. Kapp's regime, was arrested here yesterday by Italian occupation troops. It was alleged he was at the head of a military organization aiming to uphold German claims in Silesia by force, if necessary, should the plebiscite on Sunday go in favor of the Poles. He was released later upon offering to procure proof that he was a reporter for a German newspaper.

Coincident with the arrest of Capt. Lench came reports from Gleiwitz that two Poles had been shot and killed by plebiscite police while urging interference with the plebiscite in favor of Poland.

There are approximately 30,000 troops, including a complete French division, four battalions of British two Italian battalions and a large number of German and Polish police on duty in the plebiscite area. Germans complain that the border between Poland and Silesia has been left virtually unguarded, although strictest regulations are enforced on the German frontier. It is said in French sources that allied officials do not expect disorders anywhere, with the possible exception of Kattowitz and Gleiwitz, which are industrial centers, where there are many Polish workmen and where national sentiment is intense.

Commission Seeking Fair Election Faces Tremendous Obstacles.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch.

BERLIN, March 19.—Every kind of communication in various parts of Upper Silesia ceased at noon today and will be shut off until Monday noon, by order of the interallied commission. A species of martial law has been put in force, preventing all forms of public entertainment or gatherings of any kind, the declared purpose being to make equally impossible political demonstrations or the intimidation of voters.

Except when on the way to cast

MATEWAN CASE WITH JURY AFTER 46 DAYS' TRIAL

Court Adjourns to Monday When No Verdict Is Reached in Two Hours.

By the Associated Press.

WILLIAMSON, W. Va., March 19. After two hours and a half of deliberation the jury considering the evidence in the Matewan riot trial reported tonight that it had reached no decision. The report was given to Judge Bailey at 9:15 p. m. and he ordered court adjourned to eight o'clock Monday morning. The case went to the jury at 5:05 p. m.

Attorney Sanders of counsel for the prosecution, delivered the last argument. He addressed the jury for four hours, and two minutes after he closed, the jurymen retired from the court room to consider the evidence.

It has been 10 months to the day since the fight occurred in the little mountain town of Matewan, in which 10 men met death. The jury began its deliberations today at about the same hour the fight started 10 months ago.

The 16 defendants were tried on an indictment in connection with the death of one victim of the shooting, Albert C. Felts, leader of the Baldwin-Felts detectives.

Examinations of several hundred talesmen, the calling of scores of witnesses, numerous postponements for sundry reasons and arguments of the array of counsel engaged by the defense and the prosecution, occupied 46 days.

MISSOURI FRUIT GROWER PREDICTS BUMPER CROPS

Says Peach Yield for 1921 Should Be Largest on Record.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

POPLAR BLUFF, Mo., March 19.—According to Fred Vanston, fruit grower, the peach crop in this section and over a radius of 200 miles, promises to be a record one, if a killing frost does not come. Vanston states that the crop this year will be two-thirds greater than last year. He bases his statement on the present healthful appearance of the young fruit just appearing from under the blossoms. Vanston has devoted many years to the fruit business. On his farm near Doniphan, Mo., he has 3500 bearing Elberta peach tree and a thousand new trees that will bear next year.

The strawberry crop likewise looks like a bumper one. The farmers and fruit growers in the Doniphan neighborhood are atempting this year to establish a strawberry center in that section and the setting out of strawberry plants on a large scale is under way.

BODY OF WOMAN SHOT IN HEAD FOUND IN CHICAGO SUBURB

Police Believe Victim Was Carried to Clump of Trees—Boy Scout Makes Discovery.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, March 19.—The body of a well-dressed woman with a bullet hole through her head was found today concealed in a clump of trees by a Boy Scout at Willow Springs, a suburb.

Police believe that the woman had been slain about two days ago and the body carried to the place from some distant point.

"FEMINIST CAMPAIGN" PLANNED

Woman's Party Want "All Sex Discriminations" Removed From Laws.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 19.—The New Woman's National party will inaugurate its "feminist compaign" April 6, it was announced today, by personally appealing to President Harding to give the support of his administration to a blanket bill removing "All sex discriminations in laws that Congress has the power to deal with."

The bill would make citizenship for women independent of the nationality of their husbands, and remove discriminations in the civil service laws. Similar bills will be introduced in state legislatures.

DRYS WANT LAWS AGAINST MEDICINAL BEER TIGHTENED

Prohibitionists Hold That if It Can Be Prescribed in Any Quantity Then There Must Be No Beer.

WOULD AT LEAST FIX AMOUNT OBTAINABLE

Pre-Prohibition Custom of Prescribing It by the Case for Sick Is Regarded With Concern.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 19. — The sign once displayed in the dining room of a North Carolina hotel announcing that to prevent guests taking fruit from the table there would be no fruit, about expresses the view of dry leaders in Congress with respect to the new ruling as to medicinal beer.

"If beer is to be prescribed in any quantity for everybody who is ailing, there will be no beer," was the upshot of opinions by House prohibitionists.

Several members, including some who worked for enactment of the Volstead law and who believe now that it ought to be tightened up, declared today that former Attorney-General Palmer rightly construed the act in holding that beer, like liquor, could be prescribed for a sick man. But they added that they were awaiting with deep concern publication of prohibition department regulations prescribing the manner and amount of beer dispensation.

No Limit Placed on Beer.

While the Volstead act limits the amount of whisky that may be prescribed, there is no provision dealing with beer. Prohibition leaders think it may be necessary to fix that by statute.

Predictions are made by several prohibition members that the future policy of Congress will depend upon department regulations and a beer tryout. They see no likelihood of any early change in the law by which a physician may prescribe not more than a pint of whisky in any 10-day period. By going back to pre-prohibition days, dry leaders recalled that the sick man's beer supply was rather liberal, certainly as compared with modern possibilities. It used to be prescribed by the case, and three bottles a day often was regarded by physicians recommending it as a modern dose.

Prohibition enforcement officials declare they are not responsible for the idea that somehow has spread over the country that the new regulations will permit the sale and drinking of a glass of beer at a drug store fountain. There is not a chance. Druggists alone will be permitted to handle it on bona fide prescriptions.

Scramble for Committee Places.

In conection with publication of the Department of Justice ruling it has developed that the Anti-Saloon League will renew its fight before Congress to eliminate from the Volstead law the provision relating to sales of liquor by prescription, and that its guns will be opened against beer. Meanwhile the scramble continues for places on the House Judiciary Committee, which may settle the beer issue definitely and attempt to tighten up all the loose joints in the Volstead law. There are eight vacancies to be equally distributed between Republicans and Democrats. If all the seats were given to wets the committee still would be dry but Republican leaders assert that the party, in making up committee assignments, would take no backward step on the question of prohibition.

Chairman Volstead expressed the view today that the membership would be made up without regard to the beer development. A recent checkup, it was said, showed that of more than one hundred new members elected to the House the prohibition percentage ran exceedingly high. It is known, however, that a number of members representing districts opposed to prohibition and who are earnestly advocating a more liberal policy with respect to use of light wines and beer, especially for the sick, are seeking places on Volstead's committee in the hope that they might be able to liberalize the law. If they cannot do much along that line they at least hope, it is said, to keep it from becoming more drastic.

Drug Manufacturers Call Protest Meeting on Regulations.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 19.—Drug manufacturers, asserting that prohibition regulations now in effect are curtailing preparation of "essential medicinal-agents," have called a protest meeting to be held here Monday, under the auspices of the American Drug Manufacturers Association, and the organization of pharmaceu-

TWO MEN HELD AS ALLEGED BLUE SKY LAW VIOLATORS

Prisoners Admit Selling Stock of an Oil Company Without Permission From State Bank Commissioner.

$9724 IN CHECKS AND NOTES SEIZED

Better Business Bureau Says Stocks Are Worth Only 20 to 30 Cents—One Man Says He Paid $2.

On information furnished by the Better Business Bureau of the Chamber of Commerce detectives at 3 p. m. yesterday arrested at Hotel Statler James D. Welcher, 32 years old, and Eli Kleinman, 24, both of Chicago. Warrants against the men for violating the blue sky laws of Missouri will be applied for Monday.

Detectives Linder and Reinwald went to the hotel after they had found the offices of the International Securities Corporation of Illinois in the Rialto Building closed for the day. Welcher was paged and came from the dining room into the lobby. The detectives told him they had important business with the firm and he asked to be permitted to get his partner in the dining room.

The detectives followed him and told both men that they were under arrest. Kleinman handed an envelope addressed to the corporation offices, 20 East Jackson street, Chicago, to his wife, instructing her to mail it. The detectives confiscated the envelope and took the men to police headquarters, where they were locked up.

Notes and Checks Seized.

At headquarters it was found the envelope contained checks given by St. Louisans in payment for stock amounting to $2833.36 and notes amounting to $6891.50, a total of $9724.86. The men said they had been operating since last Wednesday.

Investigation of the affairs of the corporation was begun on the complaint of John A. Rohan of 5912 Cates avenue, president of the Rohan Boiler Company, who complained to the Better Business Bureau that a reference the salesmen had furnished him had been repudiated by a banker whose name was used. Rohan told the bureau representatives that he had given the men a check for $781 and a note for $800 for stock in the Manhattan-Texas Petroleum Company of Dallas, Tex.

When the banker told him he did not know Welcher or Kleinman, Rohan stopped payment on the check and demanded the return of his note. This was refused, he said.

The Better Business Bureau wired J. G. Hughes, State Bank Commissioner, at Jefferson City, as to the legality of the sale of Manhattan-Texas Petroleum Co. stock and received the following telegram in reply: "Manhattan-Texas Petroleum Co. of Dallas, Tex., has not been granted permission to offer for sale its share under the Missouri blue sky law."

Business Bureau's Report.

The Better Business Bureau learned that the stock is unlisted, and that its market price is 20 cents a share without dividends, and 30 cents a share with dividends. Rohan paid $2 a share, he says. Rohan formerly held stock in the Old Dominion Co., which was merged with the Manhattan-Texas. The Old Dominion failed to develop, and Kleinman and Welcher offered Rohan stock in the new firm, offering him a "chance to make some real money."

A copy of the "Financial Summary," a newspaper, was found in the possesion of Kleinman. A two-column article sets forth that the Manhattan-Texas Co. is a "new big oil combine," capitalized at $20,000,000, and that 1,000,000 shares of preferred stock at $10 a share and 10,000,000 shares of common stock at $1 a share are offered for sale. The articles declares the company has properties in the Ranger, Burkburnett and Electra fields.

In the envelope Kleinman gave his wife were sales slips, checks and notes. The price of the Manhattan-Texas Petroleum stock to the public is given in the printed forms as $20 and to shareholders $10.

Some of the Investors.

Checks and contracts are contained as follows: R. J. Lucas, 4827 Sacramento avenue, $125; O. J. Lawler, 215 Pine street, $312.50; Edward Blinne, Baldwin, Mo., $125; Robert J. Lucas, 4827 Sacramento avenue, $100 Liberty bond and a check for $35.36; En N. Hartman, 3641A MacDonald avenue, $155; Louis Leib, 1445 North Sixth street, $462.50; and Florence J. Bears of 5016 Ridge avenue, for $737 for stock in the Texas and Arkansas Oil and Gas Co.

More than 100 checks made out for different persons for amounts from 60 cents to $11 purport to be

WOMAN, 72, HIT BY TRUCK, DIES FROM FRACTURED SKULL

Driver Arrested After Accident Downtown—Five Men Injured When Machine Strikes Lamp Post.

SEVEN OTHERS HURT IN AUTO ACCIDENTS

Three Children, 5 to 11 Years Old, Among Injured—Man and Son Thrown From Motorcycle in Crash.

Mrs. Elith Richardson, 72 years old, of Affton, St. Louis County, was knocked down by a motor truck on Washington avenue, a short distance west of Broadway, at noon yesterday, and died at 5 p. m. in the city hospital from a skull fracture.

Clem Bowden of 1398 Temple place, driver of the truck, was arrested, the first charge being one of felonious wounding, and was released on a common law bond. He will be summoned to the Coroner's inquest tomorrow. The truck belongs to a machinery firm.

A son and a daughter took the woman's body home to Affton last night.

Five men were injured, two of them seriously, when the automobile of Frank Eaves of 4610 Olive street, a laundry proprietor, struck a concrete lamp post at the Loughborough avenue entrance of Carondelet Park at 7 o'clock last night.

Lost Control of Machine.

Eaves, driving the machine, swerved to avoid striking another automobile, and lost control of his machine. The car was overturned, and Eaves, according to city hospital physicians, suffered fractures of the spine and of the skull. Russell Slater, 18, of 5102 Wells avenue, suffered scalp wounds and a possible skull fracture. The three others were less seriously injured, but all were taken to the hospital. The others were Joseph McGivern of 5094 Easton avenue, William Silverberg of 5057 Ridge avenue, and John Latty of 5044 Easton avenue.

Samuel Vulopo, 6 years old, of 623 Morgan street, suffered a skull fracture yesterday afternoon when struck by an automobile driven by James McKissick of 2913 Lawton avenue, negro chauffeur for a service company, at Sixth and Morgan streets. The child was taken to the City Hospital. McKissick was arrested.

Alois Muller, 50 years old, of 325 St. George street, and his son, Joseph, 17 years old, were seriously injured when thrown from a motor cycle and sidecar at Pestalozzi street and Nebraska avenue, when the motor cycle was struck by an automobile driven by Frank J. Yoch of 2861 South Thirteenth street. The father suffered a fractured collar bone and several ribs and the son sustained scalp wounds and cuts and bruises.

Boy, 11, Knocked Down.

Modesto Roso, 11-year-old son of Anton Roso of Mount Clair, Ill., was knocked down at Twelfth and Locust streets by an automobile driven by Lawrence Fraley of 1327A Hamilton avenue, when the boy broke away from his parent and ran across the street ahead of him. His back was injured. The father took him home.

Bernice Harris, 5 years old, of 4223 West Natural Bridge avenue, suffered scalp wounds and cuts and bruises when struck by an automobile driven by Louis van Spronsen of 821 Belt avenue, a janitor, as she crossed the street in front of her home. Van Spronsen was arrested.

William Wertz, 29, of 2900A Michigan avenue, and Irvin Padfield, 32, of 2200 South Jefferson avenue, were thrown from an automobile driven by Fred Ruedlinge of 3011 Osage street, when the machine swerved and was wrecked against a pier on the free bridge. Both were taken to the City Hospital suffering from scalp wounds. Ruedlinge was uninjured.

DIVISION OF $26,000 REWARD IN DALTON CASE AGREED ON

Constable, Who Made Arrest, to Get $5000, Son and Another Informant the Remainder.

By the Associated Press.

BLOOMINGTON, Ill., March 19.—James Dennis, Paul Draper and Jack Draper will share in the $26,000 reward offered by the Northern Trust Co. of Chicago for the arrest of William Dalton and the return of $772,000 of bonds stolen by Dalton from that institution several weeks ago.

The division has been agreed upon whereby Jack Draper, who actually made the arrest, will receive $5000, and Paul Draper, his son, who got his father to make the arrest, and James W. Dennis, who gave the first information about the whereabouts of Dalton, will divide $21,000.

FIVE FLOWS OF LAVA SPOUTING FROM HAWAIIAN VOLCANO

Police Hold Hundreds of Tourists at Safe Distance From Kilauea.

By the Associated Press.

HILO, Hawaii, March 19.—The volcano of Kilauea is overflowing from the pit of Halemaumau. All of the trails in the old crater bottom have been destroyed.

Five flows are running north, south and west, and a fountain of lava, the largest in the volcano's history, is spouting high, surrounded by hundreds of other fountains. The lava lake rose 80 feet in eight hours. The main flow is running at the rate of 40 miles an hour.

The outburst is believed by scientists to be due to an equinoctial change.

Police guards are holding hundreds of tourists and automobiles at a considerable distance from the scene because of the danger of a greater outburst.

DANIELS AT NAVY DEPARTMENT SEEKING "STORY" FOR HIS PAPER

Former Secretary Incidentally Points Out to Denby Advantages of Raleigh, N. C., as Naval Base.

By the Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 19.—Josephus Daniels was back at the Navy Department today, but to ask, not to answer, questions. Joining the group of Washington correspondents at the regular press conference with Secretary Denby, Daniels fired a few questions at his successor, hoping for a "story" for his paper, the Raleigh News and Observer. They produced no results, so the former Secretary described feelingly to Denby the natural advantages of Raleigh for a fleet base, or naval air station or for most anything like that.

"After an eight-year vacation in Washington as Secretary of the Navy," Daniels said to Denby: "I am a plain country newspaper editor scratching gravel to get an honest living. I think I am going to miss that $12,000 a year."

"After two weeks on your old job, I have a very well-defined idea of what kind of a vacation you had," Secretary Denby replied.

Daniels will spend several days here getting up material for articles on naval subjects he plans to write.

3 CARLOADS OF STRAWBERRIES ARRIVE IN ST. LOUIS FROM SOUTH

First Large Shipment of Season Is Offered at Retail From 15 to 25 Cents a Pint.

The season's first large shipment of strawberries reached St. Louis yesterday from Louisiana and Florida. Three carloads, containing a total of 2520 crates of strawberries, care from Louisiana. There are 24 pints to a crate. The crates sold wholesale at from $3.75 to $4 each, or at the rate of about 15 cents a pint. Some retail dealers were selling them as low as 15 cents, but at the Union Market and most other places they were retailing at 25 cents a pint.

Only 2000 quarts of strawberries were received from Florida. These were selling wholesale at from 35 to 50 cents, while retail dealers were selling them as high as 70 cents a quart. Different quality of the fruit and loss in handling were given as reasons for the varying prices.

VIVIANI SAILS FOR AMERICA ON AN "IMPORTANT MISSION"

Former French Premier Says He Hopes to Prove to U. S. That France Is Not Imperialistic.

By the Associated Press

HAVRE, France, March 19.—Rene Viviani, former French Premier, sailed for New York aboard the steamer La Lorraine this evening.

He is going to Washington on a special mission for the French Government.

The former Premier was accorded a reception at the city hall, where he spoke, laying stress on the point that he would endeavor to prove that France was not imperialistic, nor dreaming of annexation. M. Viviani was received by President Millerand yesterday and spent several hours in conference at the foreign office. A large crowd was at the Paris station to see him away, and the newspapers reflect the great importance the French Government attaches to his visit to America.

RECOVERY OF BODY FROM RIVER TO BE WORTH WHILE, SAYS NOTE

Missive Found by Police at Point Where Man Was Reported to Have Jumped From Eads Bridge.

An unidentified man, about 25 or 30 years old, jumped from Eads Bridge into the river, about 300 feet from the west bank, at 5:50 p. m. yesterday.

Jerome Burke of Webster Groves, an engineer on a switch engine, reported to the police that he saw a man jump, and described him as being well dressed. He said the body did not come to the surface after disappearing in the water.

The police investigated and found a light gray, soft hat and a note at the point on the bridge from which the man leaped. The note, written in pencil, said: "It will be worth while to someone if they recover my body—address and name in clothes. Good-bye."

PRIMARY BILL FIGHT DELAYS ADJOURNMENT OF THE LEGISLATURE

House Refuses, on Two Roll Calls, to Approve the Senate Provision for Judicial Nominations.

MEASURE MAY GO TO SPECIAL SESSION

Seven of Nine Consolidotion Measures Passed—Governor Congratulates Ssembly on Its Work.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, March 20 (Sunday).—Clocks were turned back in the Capitol last night, delaying adjournment of the Legislature pending a final effort of Gov. Hyde to obtain passage of the primary election bill.

At midnight, at the conclusion of a conference with Lieutenant Governon Lloyd and Speaker O'Fallon, the Governor announced that he believed that the Senate would not recede from its position for the retention in the primary bill of the provision for judicial nominations at conventions. Inasmuch as the House on a second vote during the day refused to adopt the convention plan for nominating candidates for Judges of the Supreme Court and the Court of Appeals, it was regarded as certain that the bill would fail of passage.

Would Go to Special Session.

Gov. Hyde declared that, in this eventuality, he would include the bill in the call for the special good roads session which he will issue between April 18 and May 1. Senators regard the determination to strike out the judicial conventions provision as a slap at the women's organizations and the St. Louis Bar Association, which have been advocating it.

"We want this bill," the Governor said. "If this were the last session this year, we would be ready to counsel with friends of the administration to force it through, but there is to be another session and I am confident it will pass overwhelmingly then."

When the House late today concurred in Senate amendments to the penal consolidation bill, the administration's program for consolidating various State departments into what is termed a "cabinet system" was brought to a conclusion. Seven of nine consolidation measures put forward by Gov. Hyde, as the basis for the project, have been enacted at this session.

In a special message to the Legislature today, Gov. Hyde thanked the legislators for their services and congratulated them upon the amount of important legislation they had enacted.

Row Over Primary Bill.

The House tonight for the third time refused to recede from House amendments striking judicial convention provisions from the administration primary bill. The Senate in the face of this refusal was considering a counter refusal to concur in the amendment with a demand that the House send for the thirty-nine members shown to be absent on the last roll call. The House had tried to adopt a conference report that it recede from the House amendments, the movement failing by five votes to get the required constitutional majority of 72. The vote was 67 to 36; with 39 absent. The motion was to reconsider the vote by which the House in the afternoon had failed to adopt the report. Representative Botts of Audrain, a Democrat, had moved reconsideration.

As soon as Botts had finished a brief explanation of his action Speaker O'Fallon called Representative Dyott of Howell County to the chair and took the floor to urge adoption of the conference report and that the House recede from the amendments.

O'Fallon said that the primary bill was necessary for full participation of the women of the State in political affairs and reminded the House that the conference report had lacked only four votes of carrying at the afternoon session, and said that "I pray that these four come over and enable us to pass this bill and crown our work with a primary bill which will take the Appellate and Supreme Judges out of politics and enable the women fully to participate in it."

Representative Harden of Gentry then opposed adoption of the report with the declaration that no member "would dare to go home and tell

15 KILLED IN AMBUSH LAID BY SINN FEINERS

Seven Soldiers, One Policeman and Seven of Attackers Victims When Bridge Is Blown Up.

By the Associated Press.

CORK, March 19.—Seven soldiers and one policeman were killed and several wounded and seven members of the attacking party were killed in the ambush of military and police near Kinsale early today, according to the latest reports received here. The fatalities to the Crown forces were caused by the blowing up of a bridge while three lorries were crossing it.

Twenty Sinn Feiners were captured, of whom seven were wounded, and the military took a large quantity of ammunition.

A reign of terror prevails in County Cork and the Crown forces are reported to have burned farm houses and produce in reprisal for the ambush. Search for the members of the ambushing party who escaped, is being continued.

Irish Trying to Stop Immigration to America.

By the Associated Press.

DUBLIN, March 19.—A resumption of immigration to America has become evident and the Irish Republican army is taking steps to prevent it. An immigration agent in Listowel, County Kerry, has been threatened with death if he books any males between the ages of 16 and 45 for passage to America.

Nine Sinn Feiners Sentenced for Conspiracy.

By the Associated Press.

EDINBURGH, Scotland, March 19.—Nine of 15 persons alleged to be Sinn Feiners, one of them a woman, were found guilty of conspiring against the Government today and were sentenced to serve one to five years in prison. All the prisoners left the dock smiling cheerfully.

Companions Reported Killed When MacSwiney Was Arrested.

By the Associated Press.

SALT LAKE CITY, March 19.—Miss Mary MacSwiney, sister of former Lord Mayor Terence MacSwiney of Cork, said here today that her younger brother, John, was arrested in Ireland a few days ago in company with six other men, and while his companions were killed by the military authorities, John's life was saved through representation made to the British Government.

Police Patrol Ambushed by 150 Sinn Feiners.

By the Associated Press.

DUBLIN, March 19.—A police patrol was ambushed by 150 men last night in Castletown Roche, in County Cork, eight miles northwest of Fermoy. A Constable was mortally wounded and some of the attacking party also were wounded.

A police and military patrol was ambushed near Dungarven and a fight lasting five hours ensued. One Constable was killed and a police Sergeant is missing. Several of the attackers are believed to have been killed.

Bombs were thrown yesterday on two lorries. Soldiers then fired on the attacking party, and four civilians were wounded, one of them dangerously.

LEAPS TO DEATH ON BROADWAY

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 19.—While crowds along Broadway watched a man jump to death from a fourth-story window of the Hotel Normandie here late today. Although definite identification of the body was not established, the man registered at the hotel at James Edwards, Camden, N. J. Police, however, found data among his effects bearing the name of Ralph W. Smith of Lynn, Mass.

Attention of the crowds was attracted when the man stood on the window ledge yelling and indicating he was about to jump.

SPRING WILL START TONIGHT

The first day of spring will start at night this year. The official time for the beginning of the spring equinox, marked by the entrance of the sun into the zodiacal sign of Aries, will be at 9:51 o'clock tonight.

Spring started last year at 3:59 o'clock in the afternoon of March 20.

HARDING STANDS BY WHITE'S DECISION IN PANAMA DISPUTE

President, in Reply to Appeal From Panama Executive, Declares U. S. Position Is Unalterable.

WILL CONSIDER NO OTHER SETTLEMENT

Expresses Regret That Award in Costa Rican Boundary Issue Should Have Been Disappointing.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 19.—The decision of Chief Justice White in the Panama-Costa Rica boundary dispute "mut be the unalterable position" of the United States Government, President Harding declared today in reply to a personal appeal from President Porras of Panama.

Although he expressed regret that Panama should feel wounded by the White decision, described in Senor Porras' message as "painful and humiliating," Mr. Harding declined to consider any other basis of settlement and asserted that the recent State Department notes insisting on enforcement of the decision had his party's approval.

The exchange between the two executives, made public textually tonight at the White House, was in the nature of an ad interim discussion while the State Department awaited Panama's reply to its note. Costa Rica already has accepted the White award, and some definite answer from Panama now is expected within a few days.

Expressions of Friendship.

In making his appeal, President Porras recalled the expressions of friendship for Panama given by Mr. Harding last November during his visit there as President-elect, and voiced a hope that the people of Panama might not be disappointed in their faith in the new administration at Washington, to this President Harding replied by renewing his avowals of cordiality, but added that the exercise of friendly relations always must be tempered by justice.

The message from the Panamanian President was received late yesterday, and before replying Mr. Harding held a long conference today with Secretary Hughes of the State Department. It is understood that they not only went over in detail the latest information regarding the situation between the two Central American republics, but also discussed the broad questions of policy involved in a final determined insistence on the position taken by this Government.

Text of Cablegram.

The text of President Porras' cablegram follows:

"Demand from State Department that my Government would accept White's decision is painful and humiliating. More so when two successive Legislatures and all the municipalities in the republic have petitioned for the rejection of that decision on the ground that the arbitrator notoriously exceeded its jurisdiction, giving to Costa Rica more than what her representative Peralta asked for from President Loubert and also because it is against the provisions of Panama's Constitution.

"I appeal therefore directly to you, Mr. President, recalling your kind words with which you expressed your friendship and good wishes toward my country when you honored us with your visit in November. I address myself to the magistrate who loves justice and equity so that my country's cause be better appreciated and that we may be classified amongst the nations with self consciousness and dignity that feels herself deeply wounded with the State Department's demand.

"I beg of you, Mr. President, to use your personal, political and administrative influence so that the boundary dispute between Panama and Costa Rica may have a solution more in accord with justice and dignity than the one which we are being asked to accept. We Panamanians are confident in your righteousness and we hope that the confidence will not be rewarded with disappointment."

President Harding's Reply.

Following is President Harding's reply:

"The communications from our State Department to the Government of Panama and the Government of Costa Rica have been sent with the full knowledge and hearty approval of the executive.

"It would be exceedingly distressing to me to believe that the Government of Panama had cause to feel wounded or to assume, for any reason, the Government of the United States is in any way unmindful of our peculiarly friendly relationship, with a recognized mutuality of interest. The friendly expressions made in your presence informally last November, are repeated now, and there is deep concern for full justice in the exercise of our friendly relationship.

"It must be apparent, however, that the decision of the Chief Justice of the United States, in an arbitration submitted to him, and reached after exhaustive study and rendered in fullest devotion to justice must be the unalterable position of this Government."

GOVERNOR THANKS ASSEMBLY FOR LEGISLATION THAT HAS 'SET STATE'S FACE FORWARD'

Hyde in Special Message Commends Lloyd, Speaker O'Fallon and Floor Leaders—Would Welcome Referendum on Laws.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, March 19.—Gov. Hyde tonight reviewed the work of the Legislature in a special message, copies of which he sent to each house to be read to the members. The message was as follows:

"You have labored diligently and well. Not only do I feel a sense of personal obligation to each of you, but, as an official of the state, I am compelled to intrude upon a few moments of your closing hours to express the gratitude which I am sure is due you from the people of the state.

"It is perhaps too early, and too close to the event, to properly estimate the value of the service you have rendered. Nevertheless, a few points stand out in such bold relief that they cannot escape comment.

"Yours has ben an economical assembly. When the final figures are made up, I believe they will show that you have spent $200,000 less than your predecessors. But it is not for its economy that this assembly will be chiefly notable.

"Broader Justice" in State.

"You have done much to establish a broader justice in Missouri. You have opened the way to put women on full political equality with men. You have provided relief measures for the farmer. You have underwritten and guaranteed a free, fair and honest ballot. You have removed the charitable institutions of the state from politics and have recognized the humanitarian obligation of the State towards its wards. You have increased the dignity of labor, and established a more sympathetic relationship between employer and employe.

"You have made it possible to eliminate waste and duplication from the state expenditures. You have provided the means of proper supervision of those expenditures. You have put those charged with executive responsibility in position to demand economy and enforce efficiency. The criticism has been made that you have raised salaries. That criticism is not true, but if it were, it would sink into insignificance compared to the savings and the service which you have made possible and which all will be apparent two years hence.

"You have given to the cause of education a great forward impulse in Missouri. More than half of the total estimated general revenue of the State has been devoted to the schools and higher educational institutions of the State. By your tax reductions measures you have made it possible to put the assessment of the State upon the basis of true value, thus enabling the people of the various counties to vote larger revenue for their own schools without increasing taxation for other purposes.

Equalized Educational Opportunity.

"By the county unit bill you have equalized educational opportunities in Missouri. You have put it in the power of the people to give their own children the education which they deserve, and which Missouri desires they should have. This measure is almost universally acclaimed as a forward step of the first magnitude. I measure carefully the weight of words when I say that I rejoice more to have had an small part in the enactment of a measure which shall do so much for the generations of Missourians, living and yet unborn, than in any other event in all my life.

"More than all else, you have created a new spirit in Missouri. Our people will no longer submit that Missouri shall slip in her standing among the states, that our rural districts shall be slowly depopulated; that our schools shall be ranked thirty-fourth in the nation. Our people may not be swift to essay changes, but they have set their faces forward with determination, and they will not turn back.

"Men talk of using the referendum to undo what you have done. Partisanism may blind and bourbonism embitter, but such talk is both vain and foolish. What reason have they to offer for tearing down your work? To return to a system which is discredited? To keep a few officeholders in jobs? For this, would the people turn aside from the pathway of progress, economy and education? If a sufficient number of purblind partisans can be enrolled for a referendum, let us welcome the issue. To embark upon a Statewide discussion of the needs and problems of the State, her schools and institutions, can be disastrous only to those who espouse reaction, or who oppose the mandate of progress, which the people have given us. Such a discussion will serve to further inform our people and to put behind your measures the irresistible force of an aroused public determination.

"None of us will claim that the laws that we have passed are perfect. Experience will develop imperfections which subsequent assemblies will correct. But we have established principles and started upon policies which are immutably right, and which will operate to upbuild the state and to bless her people in years to come. To have had a part in the beginnings of these principles and policies is a proud boast which members of this assembly can confidently proclaim.

Commends Legislative Leaders.

"So much good has been accomplished, so many willing hands have been set to the plow, so many unnoticed sacrifices have been made, and so great and genuine service rendered by the members of this assembly, that it seems odious to mention the names of any, individually. The list of those who helped would include many more than half of the combined membership. Nevertheless, I would be ungrateful if I failed to acknowledge my personal obligation for the faithful co-operation and assistance of Hon. Hiram Lloyd, president, and Howard Gray, floor leader, in the Senate; and of Hon. Samuel O'Fallon, Speaker, and Hon. J. G. Morgan, floor leader in the House. For their intelligent and efficient efforts, I am personally indebted, and accept the opportunity of grateful public acknowledgement.

"Soon you will separate to go to your homes until we reassamble for the consideration of road legislation. You have done well. I congratulate you, but you have not completed your task. I hope that every one of you, regardless of party or positions here, will become an evangelist for a new and greater Missouri. Carry the message that Missouri has set her face forward, and that Missouri will carry on until she resumes her rightful place in the forefront of the states of the Union, until she has developed her wealth of mine and forest and farm; until she has guaranteed justice to her humblest citizens; until every boy and girl in Missouri has an educational chance in life equal to that offered by any other State in the Union; until the proudest boast of Missouri's proudest as well as her humblest citizen will be 'I am from Missouri.'"

HOLDS OPERATORS NEED NOT RECOGNIZE UNION

Alabama Governor Announces Award in Strike of Miners; Assails National Organization.

By the Associated Press.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., March 19.—Recognition of the United Mine Workers of America is not obligatory on the coal operators of Alabama and the day wage scale and subcontract system remain unchanged under the award announced today by Gov. Thomas E. Kilby, sole arbiter in the strike.

The Governor also declares in his award that the existing methods of adjusting grievances are found to be fair and equitable. It is also declared that the operators are under no obligation to re-employ the striking miners, but the recommendation is made to the operators that they re-employ the unemployed men who struck, as fast as places may be found for them without displacing men who are now at work, as a means to promote peace and harmony.

The award says the freedom of contract shall be inviolate, and that agreements may be entered into by mutual consent.

The Governor recommends that "since this strike was wrongfully and without the slightest justification called, the organization of the United Mine Workers of America is responsible for the present strikers being without employment, and that therefore the organization should support the strikers until they find work."

The award becomes operative immediately under an agreement reached with both the miners and operators to abide by the Governor's findings.

STILL AND WHISKY ORDERED RETURNED TO DEFENDANT

Federal Court Makes Ruling When Illinois Home Is Searched Without Warrant.

In the United States District Court at Springfield, Ill., yesterday a proceeding against Joe Kelih of Granite City, who was arrested last March after his home had been searched by prohibition enforcement officers, was halted when James M. Bandy of Granite City, counsel for Kelih, entered a motion that a still and a quantity of whisky taken from Kelih's house be returned to him because the search had been made without a warrant; that a warrant to search a private residence could only be lawfully issued in a case where liquor was being manufactured and sold; that the indictment in this case did not show any sale, and that the warrant was issued by a Justice of the Peace instead of a United States Commissioner.

Federal Judge Fitzhenry ruled in favor of the defenuants on the two points that the warrant was insignificant and that the defendant had not waived his rights by giving permission for the search. He ordered the still and the liquor taken from the defendant's cellar to be returned to him.

W. E. Johnson Not Seriously Ill.

By the Associated Press.

HAMPTON, Io., March 19.—The condition of William E. Johnson, prohibition worker, ill in a hospital here, is not alarming, his physician, Dr. J. C. Powers, said today. Johnson had acute laryingitis and bronchitis. Although ill last night, Johnson filled his engagement at Hampton, his physician said.

RAIL EXECUTIVES DENY DISSENSION OVER LABOR ISSUE

Union Counsel in Hearing Before Railroad Labor Board Fails to Show Division Over Agreements.

GRAY EXPLAINS TWO REPORTS ON SUBJECT

No Set of Rules Will Work Reasonably Over Whole Country, Union Pacific President Says.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, March 10.—Attempting to bring out alleged dissension in the ranks of railway executives over the question of national agreements, labor counsel put two high officials through a grilling examination before the Railroad Labor Board today. Frank P. Walsh, union counsel, failed to obtain any admission, however, that there was any division of opinion on national agreement and, after plowing through an eight-hour session, the board recessed until Monday.

Carl R. Gray of Omaha, Neb., president of the Union Pacific system, was on the stand the entire afternoon and, under questioning by Walsh, detailed his activities as chairman of the now abandoned Labor Committee of the Association of Railway Executives. It was in this committee, the unions contended, that a split developed, and for two days they have been digging into the association records in an effort to show that all the railroads did not favor abrogation of the national agreements.

The questioning at times led the witnesses far afield from the specific question of the justness and reasonableness of rules and working conditions which the board is determining in hearings begun Jan. 10. Walsh was several times interrupted by the chair and counsel for the roads, but interposition by some member of the board invariably allowed the examination to proceed.

Two Reports by Rail Executives.

After outlining the activities of the Labor Committee, of which he is chairman, Gray explained the basis of his majority report on the subject of establishing national boards of adjustment. This report was rejected by the member roads, it was brought out, and a minority report of W. W. Atterbury, vice president of the Pennsylvania, adopted instead.

The majority report of March 29, 1920, Gray said, was presented with the idea that agreeing to national boards, which were urged by the employes, was the easiest way to settle disputes.

"The report was not a recommendation," Gray said. "The majority of the committee had an open mind on whether boards of adjustment should be national, regional or local. The objection to regional or local boards was that they would require too many men. Mr. Atterbury took the position that national boards meant national agreements. That was the fundamental distinction between the majority and minority reports. If I or any member of the committee majority had felt the way Mr. Atterbury did we would have changed our position."

Gray declared, under questioning, that he had resigned as chairman of the Labor Committee when the member roads adopted the Atterbury report and, although continuing as a committee member, suggested to D. de Witt Cuyler, chairman of the association that Atterbury be appointed as the committee chairman.

Upon completing his cross-examination, Walsh turned the witness over to James M. Sheehan, counsel for the Railroad Committee before the Labor Board. Sheehan asked Gray to tell what he thought about national agreements, contending that the line of questioning thus far had not borne on the justness nor reasonableness or such rules.

National Agreement Impracticable.

"My feeling is that it is practically impossible to devise rules which operate justly and reasonably over the whole country," Gray said. "I reached this conclusion on my experience as an operating official in many parts of the country and as director of operations under the Director-General of Railroads. I have had rules before me which seemed reasonable, yet technical application produced extraordinarily unusual and unfair results."

Sheehan asked if there had ever been any disagreement on the continuation of national agreements by the rail executives.

"Never," said Gray.

Sheehan then referred to the 11 fundamental principles laid down as "labor's bill of rights," by union officials yesterday. "Could any road operate with efficiency with all these rules in effect?" he asked.

"Certain of these rules are very restrictive," Gray replied. "It is almost impossible to set up any set of rules which will do justice to all."

Earlier in the day T. DeWitt Cuyler, chairman of the Executives' Association, was on the stand and maintained throughout his testimony that he had no part in the formation or adoption of any labor policy. Walsh attempted to bring out that the Pennsylvania, of which Cuyler is a director, and the New York Central, controlled the policy of the carriers' fight on national agreements. Cuyler refused to admit, however, that there was any difference of opinion on national agreements. He explained the positions taken by the majority and minority reports, which recommended and condemned such boards, respectively.

Charges of publicity to influence public opinion, which Walsh declared was the Labor Board's only means of enforcing its rulings, were also made by the unions. The underlying motive, it was declared, was an attempt to crush labor organizations and to establish the open shop.

Says Two Roads Dominate.

Walsh called attention to copies of correspondence of the Association of Railroad Executives, read at yesterday's hearing, which showed that the association's Labor Committee twice adopted reports favoring national boards of adjustment, but finally the individual roads adopted a minority report by Atterbury, favoring local boards and opposing national boards.

Walsh said this proved his contention that the roads really favored national agreements, but had been influenced by "a few big roads." He pointed out that E. T. Whiter, another Pennsylvania official, had charge of the railroads' present fight against the agreements, and that the New York Central had 10 votes and Pennsylvania roads six votes in railroad balloting.

GARDENER ARRESTED, CHARGED WITH ROBBERY IN KIRKWOOD

Man Held Up Says Teutonic Accent of Prisoner Is Similar to That of Highwayman.

Ernest Bentheim, 26 years old, was arrested at Sixth and Chestnut streets yesterday and is being held for the county authorities in the investigation of the robbery March 6, in Kirkwood, of Albert Werner, 3867A Ashland avenue, by a highwayman who accosted him with a Teutonic accent and robbed him of $26 and a certificate of deposit for $156 on the Lafayette-South Side Bank. This certificate was found on Bentheim's person, and he told the police it had been given him by a stranger. Werner could not identify Bentheim as the robber, except in that he said Bentheim's accent was like that of the highwayman. Bentheim was made to stand in front of Werner and repeat, Hance up. Haff you a pistol? No? Den giff me your money."

Bentheim, who is a gardener, told the police he had served one year in a Wisconsin penitentiary on a charge of robbery of which he was innocent, and denied he robbed Werner.

their ballots the people must stay at home or apply themselves to their ordinary work. Use of telephones has been stopped. If riots occur in any district, neighboring districts, even if only a few miles away, will know nothing of them, according to this plan.

Thus the commission hopes to get an honest and unintimidated vote. It is pleaded that such stringent measures are justified by the intensity of interest, both in Germany and Poland, in the outcome of the plebiscite. If the measures work as expected there will be no terrorism or sinister influences in the voting.

Germans induced the commission to issue an order that voters destroy their unused ballots, so that watchers at the polls can have no inkling as to the way a vote was cast. The reason for this order was based on the fear expressed by Germans that their nationals would be terrorized into voting for Polish annexation in districts in which the Poles are strongest numerically. Germans complain that the Poles are favored by French troops, who have been stationed in large force in towns where Germans are in the majority and who are said to have been sparsely assigned to districts in which Poles predominate. The inference from the German reasoning seems to be that it will be unfair to let the Poles terrorize where they are strong unless the Germans shall be permitted to employ similar tactics in the German towns.

It is the commission's purpose to prevent terrorizing in every district. Obviously, voting conditions can be more easily controlled in the restricted areas of towns than in the widespread rural districts.

League Cannot Act on German Protest Unless Member Takes Initiative.

By the Associated Press.

GENEVA, March 19.—The League of Nations cannot act on the German protest against the enforcement of penalties unless a member of the League takes the initiative, Dr. Da Cunha of Brazil said in a statement today. The German note to the League of Nations on the allied penalties was received at League headquarters March 17, and sent to the members of the council, as requested by the German foreign minister, and also, in conformity with the League's practice, to all members and to the press, declared Dr. De Cunha.

"I am not, of course, prepared to express any opinion on the substance of the note itself," he said, "but as president of the council for the time being I should like to emphasize that the League itself as an organization has in this case no power of action unless one of its members sees fit to take the initiative, as provided by the covenant. The League is an association of states and is not directly endowed with executive power except in certain special cases, but serves rather as a common meeting ground for the governments."

Reichstag Passes Bill Abolishing Conscription and Reducing Army.

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, March 19.—The German army bill abolishing conscription and fixing the strength of the army at 100,000 men and of the navy at 15,000 men, passed the Reichstag yesterday. The Independent Socialists and Communists voted against the measure.

CHICAGO ROCKED BY GRAIN DUST EXPLOSION

One Dead and Four Missing—Elevator Wrecked, Windows in Nearby Towns Broken.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, March 19.—An explosion of grain dust rocked the entire southern section of Chicago early tonight, wrecked one of the world's largest grain elevators and broke every window within a radius of a mile.

Of the nine watchmen who were trapped in the structure by the blast, one is known to be dead and four are missing.

The elevator, which consisted of a series of steel and concrete towers, was in the southern outskirts of the city on the banks of the Calumet River. It was built at a cost of more than $10,000,000 and was operated by the Armour Grain Co.

The explosion was due, it was said by officials who made an early inquiry, to a fire that started in a loading chute. The blaze set fire to the dust-filled air and the resulting blast rent asunder the big tower, releasing thousands of bushels of grain.

So great was the force of the explosion that it hurled great concrete blocks for hundreds of feet and derailed a freight train which was standing on a track beside the elevator.

Heavy damage was caused in nearby towns by the explosion. Windows were shattered in Hammond, Whiting and East Chicago. The heaviest sufferer was Whiting, where it was reported every window in the business district was shattered. The property loss there, according to merchants, will reach $100,000.

Normally about 5,000,000 bushels of grain are stored in the elevator, but at the time of the blast there was only about 500,000 bushels. This was destroyed by the fire that raged after the explosion.

The explosion took place just after 150 employes had quit for the day.

625 M'KINLEY HIGH SCHOOL GIRLS PLEDGED NOT TO PAINT

Move to Eliminate Use of Cosmetics Conducted by the "Helpful Hundred."

The excessive use of cosmetics at McKinley High School is on the wane as a result of a campaign carried on the past week by the "Helpful Hundred," an organization of girls that succeeded in obtaining 625 voluntary signatures to a pledge to abstain from the use of rouge, lipsticks and the like.

Miss Gertrude Blodgett, dean of girls, stated that "painting" had never been much of a problem at McKinley, only about 2 per cent of the girls indulging in its use to excess. No action regarding the wearing of the extreme in dress has been found necessary.

Similar action has been taken at Soldan High School by the Big Sister organization, and, it is stated, has had a beneficial effect. At Central, Yeatman and Cleveland high schools no organized effort has been made to pledge the girls to refrain from the excessive use of cosmetics, cases being dealt with individually by the proper authorities.

HIEMENZ SCHOOL BOARD BILL KILLED WITHOUT HOUSE ACTION

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, March 19.—The Hiemenz bill to restore the convention method of nominating candidates for the Board of Education in St. Louis died tonight without action by the House. It had been passed by the Senate and referred to the House Elections Committee, which had not acted upon it when the hour for clearing consideration of Senate bills arrived.

in payment of dividends. Twenty-nine notes, with contracts for shares of stock, total $6,091.50.

Kleinman and Welcher told the police that they came to St. Louis Wednesday with a man named Feldman to sell stocks for the International Securities Corporation, which, they say, has branch offices in 12 principal cities.

They admitted selling stock in the Manhattan-Texas Co. and declared they did not know it was necessary under the Missouri laws to obtain a permit for the sale of stock.

tical chemists. Most of the larger producers of medicinal preparations will attend, it was announced tonight.

Alcohol as an extractive, solvent, or preservative must be included in hundreds of compounds, a statement which "may be fit for beverage purposes, especially if the term is stretched to cover those alcoholic addicts who will take chances on anything containing alcohol, no matter how dangerous it is."

The logical and equitable way of enforcing the law is by ferreting out purchasers and sellers of alcohol for beverage purposes and "not by classifying essential medicinal preparations as intoxicating liquors," the statement added, "or by embarrassing their lawful sale and use by regulations so unworkable as to cause some manufacturers to strike them off their lists, to the detriment of the medical profession who find them effective in curing the sick."

CONFESSED SLAYER OF CHUM VISITED AT JAIL BY MOTHER

"Don't Worry, It's Done," Virgil Decker Tells Parent—Special Session of Grand Jury Called.

By the Associated Press.

WARSAW, Ind., March 19.—Mrs. Lydia Decker, mother of Virgil Decker, 18 years old, who has signed a confession in which he declares that he alone was responsible for the death of Leroy Lovett, his Elkhart, Ind., chum, was permitted for the first time today to visit her son since his arrest at Marion, Ind., last Tuesday.

Mrs. Decker was accompanied to the cell in the Kosciusko Court Jail, where Virgil is held on a charge of murder, by Mrs. C. B. Moon, wife of the County Sheriff. Mrs. Moon, by reminding Virgil of some of his religious training and by motherly care of the boy since his incarceration, is credited with assisting officers in obtaining the confession which the boy signed early today.

The boy, who told Mrs. Moon, according to her story of events leading up to the confession, that his only reason for assaulting the Lovett lad was that "the Devil told me to do it and I just did it," met his mother with no display of emotion.

"Don't worry, mother. It's done and I don't know why I did it," was his greeting. She remained with the boy only a short time.

A call for a special session of the Kosciusko County grand jury for March 24 was issued today by Judge L. W. Royce.

LEGISLATURE WORKS LATE INTO NIGHT WITH CLOCKS TURNED BACK

his people that he had voted to strike out part of the primary." Davidson of St. Louis followed with another speech opposing adoption of the report, asserting that "no man be elected a delegate to that convention from St. Louis who is not on the right slate."

Davidson immediately was interogated by Representatives Smith and Bittner of St. Louis. Smith wanted to know if the Nineteenth Ward is not part of Davidson's district, and after getting the affirmative reply, asked if that were not one of the wards in St. Louis which is regarded as "deliverable" anyway. Davidson said "no." Bittner wanted to know if Davidson was not on a slate in his ward, and Davidson said "sure." He and Bittner then exchanged compliments about the number of votes each got in the ward of the other at the last election. Representative Lay spoke briefly for the bill, after which Representative Whitaker of Hickory County then was recognized to close the debate.

Whitaker Assails Provision.

Whitaker charged that the bill was an entering wedge of a move designed to overthrow the primary. He denied the fact that Senators had come into the House chamber to lobby for the bill, and, turning to Senators in the House lobby, said, "You will go back to your chamber and recede. You know you will."

He told of having been called into a House committee room and told "by the august one" a short time ago in regard to another measure to which "I had dared to offer an amendment, and was told that I ought to withdraw it. But in trembling tones I explained and refused, and they have had little to say to me since. I think it's about time the members of this House assert themselves. I for one refuse to be browbeaten."

Proponents of the primary bill, in an effort to keep it intact in the House, prevented the departure of Representative Smith for St. Louis on an afternoon train yesterday. Smith yielded to their pleas, stayed and voted for adoption with other St. Louisans.

Governor in Conference.

The Governor and Lieutenant-Governor at a conference shortly before 11 o'clock considered two plans, one to pass the primary bill without the judicial convention feature, and to resubmit that at the special roads session next month, and the other to reject the entire bill and to resubmit the whole question at the special session. The Governor favored taking what he could get now, while Lloyd was for a rejection of the whole bill.

During their conferences the Senate and House were in recess, the House devoting the time to presenting the House officers with watches and other tokens of regard.

Final action on several appropriation bills remained to be taken after the primary bill was out of the way.

Auto Amendment Adopted.

The Senate today passed a resolution submitting a Constitutional amendment requiring the maintenance of roads constructed under the $60,000,000 bond issue from the automobile license fund. The resolution also requires the payment of interest on the bonds from the automobile fund, for which a resolution was adopted several days ago.

By a vote of 64 to 52, the House today refused to adopt the red haw as the State flower of Missouri. The Senate had previously passed bills adopting both the red haw and the daisy as Missouri's State flowers. The House, by a standing vote, decided to consider the red law bill, and it did not receive a constitutional majority.

The House today passed a Senate bill to establish a State receiving home for neglected and ill-treated children, 108 to 2. The negative votes were cast by Representatives Burch of Sullivan County and Gresham of Platte County. This bill would provide for an appropriation of $70,000 to establish such a home where children could be taken for care while awaiting adoption. It would be under the supervision of the State Board of Charities and Corrections.

Bill to Limit Liquor Stocks.

A bill to limit intoxicating liquor in the stocks of wholesale druggists to 3 per cent thereof, was passed, 79 to 28, in the House today, over the vigorous opposition of the St. Louis delegation.

The bill sponsored in the Senate, where it passed, by Senator Proctor of Kansas City, and in the House by O'Donnell, also of Kansas City, was drawn at the request of Kansas City druggists by A. L. McCawley, attorney, who drew the administration consolidation bills. Representative Frank R. Smith, Republican, of the First Legislative District, St. Louis, was the only St. Louisan who voted for the bill.

The physical eduation bill advocated by the State Tuberculosis Association was finally enacted and sent to the Governor by a vote of 86 to 26 today by the House, which concurred in Senate amendments.

The bill would provide for appointment of a director of physical education under the State Department of Education and would make physical examination of all school children optional with counties and cities.

It also requires applicants for teachers' certificates to present certificates from physicians that they are in good health and free from contagious disease.

The House today passed a bill previously passed by the Senate which would increase fees paid by barbers to the State Board of Examiners for barbers from $1 to $2 and would require the funds of the board to pass through the State Treasury. Under the old law the board, members of which recently resigned at request of Gov. Hyde, expended the money collected by it without turning it into the Treasury.

WASHINGTON DOUBTS SWITCH BY LENINE

Reported Speech on Abandonment of Program Like Addresses on Concessions.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, March 19.—No information which reached the State Department confirms the copyrighted story published in the New York Herald today from Reval, stating that Nikolai Lenine, head of the Soviet Russian Government, has abandoned the whole bolshevik program.

Some of the statements credited to Lenine in a speech before the Tenth Communistic Congress at Moscow by the writer of this story are quite similar to statements which the bolshevik chief executive has been making for the last three months, primarily for the purpose of bolstering up the concessions which he has been granting to foreign capitalists, and which have been vigorously criticised by other soviet leaders.

Lenine has stated frankly on several occasions, according to quotations taken from bolshevik newspapers, that the concessions would remain effective only so long as they proved beneficial to Soviet Russia. In other words, so far as Washington is advised, no guarantee whatever has been given any concessionaire that his concession would not be canceled forthwith if it pleased the bolshevik authorities to take such action.

The disposition shown in official quarters is not to be stamped by any sudden apparent change in the policy of the soviet authorities, especially in view of past practices which have made it impossible for the United States to extend any form of recognition to the Moscow Government.

Officials are inclined to believe that Lenine has been fully convinced that Russia must have the assistance of foreign experts and capital if any real progress is to be made in bringing economic order out of the chaos which has reigned in Soviet Russia for more than three years. How far he is willing to go in the direction of removing objectionable features which have characterized the bolshevik regime, however, has not been formally disclosed.

Definite proof must be received before Washington officials will believe that Lenine and his associates have abandoned the whole bolshevik program. For some time past Lenine has been modifying certain of his policies to meet changing conditions.

Officials here are hopeful that the Moscow authorities at last have seen the error of their course and actually are prepared to enter into relations in a frank and open manner in order that Governments which have been compelled to hold aloof from them may resume relations.

FORMER SERGEANT ADMITS HE SHOT MAJOR CRONKHITE

Ex-Soldier, Arraigned at Providence, R. I., Says He Killed Officer Accidentally at Camp Lewis in 1918.

INVESTIGATORS HAD HELD HE SHOT SELF

Witnesses of Shooting in Pistol Practice All Testified Major's Own Weapon Caused His Death.

By the Associated Press.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., March 19.—Roland R. Pothier of Central Falls, formerly an Army Sergeant, today formally admitted that he killed Maj. Alexander P. Cronkhite, son of Major-General Adelbert Cronkhite, at Camp Lewis, Wash., Oct. 25, 1918. The Federal Commissioner before whom he was arraigned accepted a plea of guilty to a charge of involuntary manslaughter.

Maj. Cronkhite, who was in command of a battalion of infantry at Camp Lewis, had marched his men from camp for pistol practice on the day of his death. During the noon hour, while the men were at mess, the Major walked some yards away behind a clump of bushes and began firing at an old tobacco tin.

On his fifth shot, he turned toward some soldiers idling on the ground nearby and called out "Did you see that shot?" The men turned toward him, when suddenly another shot was heard and they saw Maj. Cronkhite fall. There was a bullet wound under his right armpit.

An army court of inquiry at the time reported that the officer had shot himself accidentally. In a new investigation the body was exhumed and experts are said to have asserted that the wound could not have been self-inflicted.

Sergeant Had Testified With Others That Death Was Accidental.

By the Associated Press.

CAMP LEWIS, Wash., March 19.—Roland R. Pothier, who is said to have confessed at Providence, R. I., today to involuntary manslaughter of Maj. Alexander Cronkhite on Oct. 25, 1918, was formerly a Sergeant bugler in the Thirteenth Division here.

He testified in the inquest into the death of the Major, and with others declared the death was accidental ,and caused by a bullet from the Major's pistol. Pothier was standing near Cronkhite when the wound was inflicted, the testimony at the inquiry showed.

Maj. Cronkhite met his death on the Camp Lewis pistol range during practice. An army board recited that death was accidental, and the body was held for his parents, Major-General and Mrs. Adelbert Cronkhite.

The matter remained closed until a few months ago, when the parents started an investigation. They requested the Department of Justice to hold a further hearing, and two weeks ago a report was made substantiating the former finding of accidental death.

Witnesses of Killing Said Major Accidentally Shot Self.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 19.—All witnesses before an army board, which investigated the death of Maj. Cronkhite at Camp Lewis, Washington, in October, 1918, and for which Roland R. Pothier, a former Sergeant, was held at Providence, R. I., today, according to Department of Justice officials, testified that the Major died accidentally by his own hand.

The army board found death to have been due to a revolver wound accidentally self-inflicted, but a later investigation by the Department of Justice, undertaken at the request of the family, resulted in a statement by Pothier that while he and the Major were at revolver practice his (Pothier's) revolver was accidentally discharged, and fatally wounded the Major.

Officials said other witnesses would be now examined, but declined to indicate whether other arrests were contemplated.

BISHOP TO DISCUSS DISARMING

Episcopal Church Leader to Speak at University Club.

The question whether the nations should disarm will be discussed by Bishop Paul Jones, Bishop-at-large of the Episcopal Church, at the City Club tomorrow noon.

Bishop Jones was formerly Bishop of Utah. He will arrive tomorrow morning to organize a St. Louis branch of the Fellowship of Reconciliation, which proposes to do away with all programs of militarism and navalism.

The Fellowship of Reconciliation was organized in this country a year previous to the entrance of the United States into the world war. It has centers in Boston, Chicago, New York, Philadelphia and Baltimore.

Tomorrow Bishop Jones will speak on "Is a Christian World Possible?" at Christ Church Cathedral at 8 p. m. Tuesday he will address the Town Club at noon.

Joyous Adventurousness of America at Work, Our Farms Surprise Chesterton

Noted English Writer, Here to Lecture Tonight, Talks in Light Vein on Some Questions of the Day.

Yesterday was a day of rest for Gilbert K. Chesterton, English poet, essayist and wit, who arrived here at 8 a. m., anticipatory to lecturing tonight at Sheldon Memorial on "The Ignorance of the Educated."

"If ever a man was dragged around from city to city like a sack of potatoes, I have been," he remarked to a Post-Dispatch reporter, after registering at Hotel Statler. "These lecture tour managers are a voracious lot, and inexorable. Notwithstanding that he wrote free verse, I reverence Walt Whitman's memory because he said: 'I am not one of those who go to lectures'—a sentiment which I admire greatly, and which I should wish to be able to repeat when I step upon the platform tomorrow night."

Chesterton is not the rosy cherub which some published photographs suggest. Above his vast rotundity, great shoulders uprear with the massiveness of a granite boulder, and his majestic head is forever bent slightly forward, as if some good-natured giant were peering downward in expectation of seeing some new and astounding prodigy in this world of pygmies.

Veritable Fountain of Wit.

But when he unlooses the fountain of his wit—and he cares not what subject it plays upon—his words fairly tumble over each other in a sort of boyish freshness and enthusiasm, throwing off flashing sprays of wit, this way and that, and sucking into its stream all sorts of material for the purposes of presenting whimsical contrasts and strange comparisons. Frequently, after some piquant quip he would pause momentarily, turning to the interviewer with the innocent surprise of one just discovering that he has said something funny without intending to; and then his laughter would ripple forth with that of his hearers, and in a moment the sparkling flood would gush again from the boulder.

"I am struck by the joyous adventurousness with which Americans go about their work," he said. "To an Englishman, work is a dull bore that is necessary because he has to do it to live. Your young people attack work with all the enthusiasm of a sport. The Englishman finds his enjoyment outside work. He idealizes himself as a sort of country gentleman of leisure with nothing much to do but poke about and potter with his hobbies.

"Whether for good or evil, the American's hobby is his job. It has its bad side, of course. While I don't believe that most of us should spend our lives in philosophical reflection, there is good to be found in beauty, and such a thing as having more than one string to one's bow. When your capitalist finds himself unable longer to make money, he is played out, and finished. My father, who is a retired business man, has no less than 20 hobbies.

"Another surprise that America had for me was its agricultural interests. From boyhood, I had regarded this country as a sort of a general Pittsburg, full of smoke and machinery and immense factories."

The topic turned on politics. "It is hard to say what great thing is taking place in Russia," he said. "Bolshevism, which is a word, valued chiefly because it is foreign and has no apparent meaning, certainly is not Socialism. Do you know, that word really was a godsend to the stupid capitalists of the world. They formerly could go up to a man and hiss in his ear that So-and-So was a Socialist, and dangerous, but people came to know what Socialism really meant, and the epithet lost its force. Then along came this delightfully unintelligible word, 'Bolshevism,' and saved the day.

"Oh, no; I am not a Socialist; I used to be one—of the jolly old Bernard Shaw type—but I learned that state ownership meant trusting the politicians, and I had come to the conclusion that they couldn't be trusted. So far as I know, Bernard Shaw is the only state Socialist remaining alive."

He continued: "There is enormous discontent everywhere, but I doubt if the socialist formula has the kick to go over. Of course, our present industrial capitalism is a detestable thing, and probably will have to be broken up, or our civilization will go to smash.

"My politics? Oh, I am almost as lonesome as Shaw. The man who advocates such simple things as small ownership of land, and smaller units of industry, can get no support. That, I may say, is one reason for this tour. The New Witness, a paper founded by my brother who was killed in the war, advocates such things, and I need money for it. Capital is not availble for that sort of thing, the rich being either rather brutal capitalists, or rather mad Socialists.

"They will give millions to maintain a campaign for a communal pair of trousers, but when a man suggests that perhaps a pair of trousers for each man and a piece of land for each family, would, after all, be better, he is merely tiresome. So, you see, I am neither conservative nor progressive, a conservative being one who refuses to make things better, and a progressive, one who is determined to make them worse."

Some reference was made to the congestion in American cities, and the visitor was informed that a survey once showed that the most congested spot in St. Louis was a certain West End block of better class apartment houses.

"I hope," he chuckled, "that the social scientists drew the appropriate morals from that situation. I hope they visited the district in an analytical state of mind. I can hear them saying, as they pointed to some distinguished public official or capitalist who lived there—'Observe the horrible effects of crowding upon the morality and mentality of this specimen. Note the criminal outlines of his head. How is it possible for people under such conditions to live other than profligate lives!'"

Men's Loss of Liberty.

Reference to present-day fashions in dress, dancing and music elicited the comment: "I suppose the loss of dignity occurred simultaneously with the loss of liberty in this country, as it did in mine. When men are willing to give up all their personal rights, they can hardly complain if their women go about like dancing girls. However, this reversion to pagan propriety probably is a result of the war, while the destruction of freedom began before the war, and the war was merely used as an excuse for it."

"When you hear the politicians of both sides saying: 'This is a measure upon which we can all unite, as rising above party consideration', then you are fairly safe in opposing it without further inquiry. It is almost certainly ,an attempt to destroy another one of your privileges.

"Perhaps the loss of personal liberty in this country has been more sensational than in England. For instance, we have no parallel to the case of the aged Debs in prison. This violent persecution of people for their political opinions has gone further here, I suppose, because America is a democracy. No, I mean it. The American, being a democrat, is likely to say: 'Who the devil is Debs, that I should care any more about him than anybody else?'

"England, on the other hand, is ruled by its gentry, among whom there are just as many pacifists and lunatics as elsewhere. If the Debs incident had occurred there, all sorts of respectable Englishmen would have been saying: 'Really, you know, my Uncle William would have said exactly the same thing'; or, 'Aunt Sarah is forever bothering me to get poor old Debs out of jail, because she has the same beliefs'.

"But even if Debs is cracked, he is not vicious like the system he attacks. Really, unless we return to a simpler way of living, I don't see where we can end except in industrial slavery. That will come when a law has been passed forbidding men to quit work. I regard it likely that your old South will yet laugh from its grave at the enslavement of the North that fought it over that question."

Hardly Has Time to Read.

He was told that labor leaders have recently been sentenced to imprisonment in Kansas for calling strikes. "Then you have practically arrived at slavery," he said. "I had no idea it had gone so far. We haven't reached that point in England."

What was his opinion of the state of literature in this country? "I am scandalously unfamiliar with it," he confessed. "I write such an enormous lot of tosh myself that I hardly have time to read. When I do, it is some philosophical work bearing on something I am arguing about, or else some lurid yarn like 'The Bloodstained Umbrella,' or 'The Mystery of the Lost Omnibus.' Yes, I do like a good murder story, and when I can't find one, I write it myself. That is rather pathetic, when you think of it, because one can hardly be thrilled by his own thriller; it has no surprise for him."

How did he feel on the Irish question? "One is so likely to be misunderstood here," he said. "Of course, I don't approve of the deplorable thing that is going on now. It is not approved by the English people, nor done with their consent. You know, it is a weakness of the Englishman that he lets somebody else do his dirty work. He never kicks anybody downstairs; nevertheless, it is silently understood upstairs that the butler is turning away people at the door below. He considers it the gentlemanly thing not to know about these things. A weakness, of course.

Politicians in England.

"Consequently, a lot of scalawags, ragtag and bobtail—colonials and Lord knows what else—are doing this murdering and burning in Ireland. The politicians know about it, but the politicians don't represent the English people. A politician doesn't turn upon his tail, and Carson and a lot of other reactionaries are the tail of Lloyd George's kite."

Replying to a question, he said his arrangements would not permit more than one public appearance in St. Louis. "Personally," he added gleefully, "I should like to go hundreds of places, addressing raving mobs in all parts of the city from the tail of a cart, but my managers are afraid that if I should reveal the quality of my mind elsewhere, nobody would pay to hear me."

He is accompanied on the tour by Mrs. Chesterton and by a secretary. He is now on his way East, having just come from Omaha and Oklahoma City.

CAT WOULD LAUGH AT KIEL'S CLAIMS, BYRNES COMMENTS

Democratic Opponent of Third-Term Seeker Calls Platform "Long on Promises, Short on Delivery."

'BLOW ABOUT PLAIN DUTY PERFORMANCE'

Suggests Looking Into Things That Should Have Been Done, but Haven't—Will Speak Tomorrow.

James W. Byrnes, Democratic nominee for Mayor, who is running on a nonpartisan platform of business administration, yesterday expressed to a Post-Dispatch reporter his view of some of the planks in the Republican city platform, which was adopted Friday. This platform is, in large part, a recital of Mayor Kiel's list of "achievements," or, as they are now termed, "accomplishments," on which the Mayor bases his campaign for a third term. Byrnes' comment on this list was that it "would make a cat laugh."

"The Kiel platform," Byrnes said, "is the same old political claptrap—long on promises, short on delivery. We know it will be short on delivery, because Kiel has been promising for eight years, and has promised much more than he has fulfilled.

"I notice that the word 'achievements' has been changed to 'accomplishments.' Two very fine college words.

"It starts with the adoption of the Charter. Mayor Kiel, in his Chamber of Commerce speech, said by indirection that I was attributing to the Mayor more power than the Charter gave him.

"It appears to me that Mr. Kiel has never read the Charter. The Charter does give the Mayor tremendous power. If he has read it, about all he seems to have got out of it is the possibility of building up a machine at the taxpayers' expense.

Some "Accomplishments."

"How about the Efficiency Board, put in as a check against machine-building? I have been told that, before the Charter was adopted Mr. Kiel commented to machine politicians on the possibility of building up a rock-ribbed political machine under it.

"'Completion of the Municipal Free Bridge.' Yes, it's completed. What are we doing with it?

"'Construction of the Mill Creek sewer.' If I were in Mr. Kiel's place, I don't think I would mention the Mill Creek sewer. It had an odor about it before the ink was dry on the contracts. About a half-million dollars of the taxpayers' money, I have been informed, went up in smoke. How can this outfit talk business administration?

"'Wading pools.' For the first time, I have learned that a wading pool is an achievement, or an accomplishment, for the Mayor of a city of 800,000. Oh, but he's a big Mayor—and his platform is about as deep as a wading pool.

"'Construction of city jail.' The old one was about to fall down. Not much initiative about that.

"And what do you think of the size of an administration, and the bigness of a Mayor, who talks of building a few feet of retaining wall, as an 'accomplishment?' Speaking of basins, the whole town is in the soup $826,000, (the estimated size of the deficit in the municipal budget for this year) and they admit it.

"What's He in Office For?"

"Reading the list of accomplishments, or achievements, or exploits, or feats, or performances, would would make a cat laugh, when it comes to considering the Mayor's initiative in connection with them. Some began with the administration of Rolla Wells, and some under Mr. Kreismann. Most of them were agitated, during all the years of Mr. Kiel's administration, by the property owners and taxpayers, and never got attention until it appeared that they meant a lot of votes. Anyway, when a man is in office, isn't he supposed to do something? What's he there for? It is not good taste to blow about the performances of your plain duty.

"Suppose we get a list of the things he hasn't done—the things that are needed and have not been done. We are not living in the past. We must live in the future, and I don't see much for the future, either in the Mayor or in his platform.

"Why doesn't he tackle one of the most vital problems—that of transportation—and stand on his accomplishments, achievements or performances in that direction? He is amazingly silent on that subject.

"Did the refusal of the voters to pass all but the most urgent items of the proposed bond issue, last May, evince a great degree of confidence in the administration?

"The question for voters to consider is, 'What are you getting for our taxes?'"

Byrnes will speak tomorrow night at Drill Corps Hall, Iowa avenue and Sidney street.

A number of Republicans, who supported Robert Burkham in the primary campaign, have expressed willingness to serve on the Byrnes-for-Mayor Campaign Committee. One of the latest of these is L. P. Rexford, president and general manager of the American Paper Products Co. He has written to Byrnes offering to serve on the committee, "if the fact that I voted in the Republican primary does not debar me." He will be informed that it does not.

Charles Kraus, secretary-treasurer of the Missouri Belting Co., a business rival of the concern headed by Byrnes, has written to Byrnes that the "entire organization" of the company intends to vote for him. "We want the city to have a real Mayor," Kraus writes, "and we want to get rid of our competitors any way at all, though we have to elect them Mayor. Go to it."

MUMMY HOSTESS AT EGYPTIAN BALL OF THE ARTISTS' GUILD

Comes to Life After Being Carried on Shoulders of Four Nubian Slaves.

A mummy was hostess, as well as being the life of the party, at the Egyptian Ball given last night by the Artists' Guild. Being grateful for the hospitality she has long enjoyed at the Art Museum, the mummy, according to the program, decided to give the ball, upon the occasion of the feast celebrating the rising of the Nile.

So she was carried in on the shoulders of four Nubian slaves, and after much chanting and invoking, came to life and welcomed her guests. Then came other invocations, the ribald modernity of which caused one priest to remark that the gods might become angered, and "send that fellow Joseph back as food controller."

While they were waiting for the Nile to rise, one mentioned that he had heard Pindar read an ode the night before. "How was it?" inquired another. "Well," the other hesitated uncertainly, and then said in defiance, "It was as good as Edgar Guest writes, anyway."

The second feature number on the program was a puppet show, with human puppets, manipulated from the gallery in plain view, in a skit depicting the adventures of Pharaoh, a tired business man; Cleopatra, his stenographer, and the stenographer's husband, a prohibition enforcement agent. It all ended happily when the agent got full of home brew in "Babylon Joe's" place, and he and the King traded wives.

The costumes were colorful and striking.

"B. L. T." NEWSPAPER HUMORIST DIES IN CHICAGO

Bert Leston Taylor, Who Conducted "Colyum" in Chicago Tribune, Succumbs to Pneumonia.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, March 19.—Bert Leston Taylor, humorist, and conductor of the column in the Chicago Tribune "A Line O' Type or Two," died of pneumonia at his home here early today after an illness of two weeks. The widow, who was Miss Emma Bonner of Providence, R. I., and two daughters, Alva and Barbara Taylor, survive.

He was born in Goshen, Mass., in 1866, and received his early training on a paper in Plainsfield, N. H. In 1896 he came West, to edit the Duluth (Minn.) News-Tribune. In 1901 he started the column for which he became famous in the Chicago Tribune, as "B. L. T."

In 1903 he left his "Line O'Type" column and the Tribune, to contribute for several years to Puck, the New York Sun and other publications in New York. In 1909 he returned to the Tribune and resumed his famous column, and continued it until a few days before his death.

Among his better known writings are "The Well in the Woods," "The Pipe Smoke Carry," "The Charlatans," "Motley Measures," and "A Line O' Verse or Two."

MISTRIAL IN DAMAGE ACTION ORDERED WHEN WOMAN SWOONS

Counsel for United Railways Obtains Court Order in $15,000 Suit by Miss Frieda Durst.

A mistrial in the $15,000 damage suit of Miss Frieda Durst, 18 years old, 4926 Devorshire avenue, against the United Railways, was declared yesterday by Circuit Judge Falkenhainer, after Miss Durst fainted in the presence of the jury.

The Judge made the order on motion of the lawyer for the defense, who said that the incident might have a prejudicial effect upon the jury against the company's interests.

The trial began Friday. Taking of evidence had been completed and the lawyers were about to address the jury when Miss Durst swooned in a chair at the counsel table. She was carried to Judge Falkenhainer's chambers, where she was revived by a physician. The case was sent back to the assignment division and will be heard by another jury.

Miss Durst was injured a year ago in a collision between two street cars on the Southampton line near King's highway and Arsenal street. She was a passenger on one of the cars and was jarred from her seat, receiving injuries of a serious nature, she alleged. The company disputed the extent of her injuries. John Bradley, 3319 Caroline street, motorman of one of the cars, was so badly hurt that he died 10 days after the collision.

HERT DECLINES TWO OFFICES

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 19.—A. T. Hert, National Committeeman for Kentucky, has declined to consider appointment by President Harding either as an Ambassador to some foreign country, or as the President's representative in the Government reorganization commission.

In a letter made public today at the White House the President assured Hert that he could have had a "very attractive post" and said Hert would have represented him personally in the reorganization of the executive departments.

EVANGELINE BOOTH HERE TO INSPECT SALVATION ARMY

Commander of Organization in U. S. to Speak Today in Third Baptist and Union M. E. Churches.

TELLS OF RAPID STRIDES SINCE WAR

Passing of "Tambourine Day" Great Aid to Army, "Which Will Soon Ask for and Get $10,000,000."

Evangeline Booth, commander of the Salvation Army in the United States for the last 16 years, came to St. Louis last night, and today will deliver two addresses, one in the Third Baptist Church, Grand and Washington avenues, at 3 p. m., and the other in the Union M. E. Church, Grand avenue and Delmar boulevard, at 8 p. m.

Commander Booth is the fourth daughter of the late Gen. William Booth, founder of the Salvation Army. She directs a personnel of 3042 officers in 963 corps, administrates 200 institutions with a physical appraisement of $16,000,000 and is 50 years old.

"You see, we are pioneers in equal suffrage," she remarked. "A woman can attain the highest rank in our army." Continuing an interview shortly after her arrival at Hotel Jefferson, she discussed some of the effects of prohibition as observed "from the gutter," recounted the rapid strides of her organization since the war (and by reason of its record in the war), and told of its aspirations for the immediate future "in the home sector."

Witnesses Against Liquor.

"If the improbable should happen and there should again be a vote on whether liquor should come back, I would lead out tens of thousands of little children from the slums of your city and other cities to speak for prohibition," she said. "Some of them would say that they no longer flee to hiding at the sound of father's footsteps at the door. Others would say that they have learned that they have fathers for the first time. Their mothers would open their palms and show the first money they had received all for themselves for the first time in their married lives.

"To second these little children, I would bring out the drunkards, the former drunkards, who never had the will or the determination to pass the lighted windows of the saloons. Some of them would exhibit the first bank books they have ever owned. The Salvation Army has opened hundreds of savings accounts for men who never before could keep as much as a dollar for any consequential period.

"I have been asked who would cast the votes against prohibition. I cannot say, but I can say who would cast the votes for it—the men and women who have suffered from liquor. Liquor was the greatest handicap we had to fight. Now that it is passing our chances for progress in our work are multiplied many times."

Tambourine Days Gone.

Commander Booth spoke also of another obstacle to accomplishment that has been removed—the necessity of going about "begging for pennies." "The days of the tambourine have passed," she said. "The lassies who worked among the boys in the front line trenches brought that about. We now ask once a year for enough to carry on our work and America responds. We expect to ask for $10,000,000 in May. It will be forthcoming. Of that we have no doubt. We once spent half our time in asking for money with which to work the remaining half of the time. Now we can work full time. Consequently we can devote more time to our real mission—evangelization."

One of the immediate aims of the Army is the establishment of more and better homes for young women, Commander Booth said. In this connection she mentioned a 250-bed home which the Army is about to open in Washington. Another of the immediate aims is the establishment of hospitals for children, particularly, and for mothers—institutions where people without money or in moderate circumstances can obtain better nursing and medical and surgical care during illness. She spoke of such a hospital costing $250,000 which the Army has established in a South Carolina industrial center.

Chief Address Subject.

The subject of Commander Booth's chief address in St. Louis, that at this afternoon's meeting, will be "The World's Greatest Romance." Mayor Kiel and James W. Byrnes, Democratic candidate for Mayor, will speak also. R. King Kauffman, a member of the St. Louis advisory board of the army, will preside.

Tumulty in New Law Firm.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, March 19.—"Perkins and Tumulty," is the name of a new law firm composed of Representative Randolph Perkins, Republican, of New Jersey, and Joseph P. Tumulty of Washington.

Perkins and Tumulty will have offices at Jersey City and Washington. They were old friends at the Hudson County Bar, and members of the New Jersey Legislature, although affiliated with different political parties. They will do a general practice.

SALVATION ARMY HEAD VISITING ST. LOUIS

COMMANDER EVANGELINE BOOTH

PETITIONS FILED FOR SIX ON SCHOOL BOARD

Negro Preacher One of Four Men Among Group That Makes Total of Candidates 11.

Petitions were filed yesterday requesting the Board of Election Commissioners to place upon the official ballots at the city election April 5 the names of six candidates for the Board of Education, including two women and a negro minister. The addition of these names makes the total number of candidates 11. There are five vacancies to be filled in the membership of 12.

The membership formerly was divided equally between Democrats and Republicans, with candidates selected by party process, but under a recent ruling of the Board of Election Commissioners, upheld by a decision of the St. Louis Court of Appeals, candidates may only be selected by nonpartisan petition.

Petitions filed yesterday were for Stephen Wagner and Frank X. Hiemenz, incumbents; Mrs. Fannie Bonner Price, president of the Women's Chamber of Commerce; Mrs. Norman Windsor of 6131 Etzel avenue; Henry Heier, an undertaker at 2223 South Grand avenue, and the Rev. George E. Stevens, pastor of the negro Central Baptist Church.

Former Teacher Files for Race.

Mrs. Windsor, who has four children in the public schools and was herself a teacher in the county schools for seven years, was one of the candidates for indorsement by the Woman Citizens' Committee and the League of Women Voters, but was eliminated in the final voting by Clarkson, in the run-off of a tie with him. She filed as a Democrat to fill the unexpired term of Dr. John M. Grant, who died two years ago, but said she will make her campaign along non-partisan lines.

Wagner and Heimenz are members of the School Board faction of five which opposed Dr. John W. Withers, former Superintendent of Instruction, which opposition was responsible for Dr. Withers declining to become a candidate for re-election in February when his term expired.

The Board of Election Commissioners has fixed 9 p. m. tomorrow as the time limit on the acceptance of nominating petitions. The candidates will be alphabetically listed on separate ballots which will be without partisan designation.

Women Endorsed by League.

Five candidates indorsed by the St. Louis League of Women Voters, whose petitions have been filed, are Mrs. B. F. Bush, Mrs. Elias Michael, W. Palmer Clarkson, C. W. Johnson and Harry A. Rosskopf. The latter two now are members of the Board of Education.

Vacancies in the Democratic and Socialist tickets for places in the Board of Aldermen were filled yesterday when representatives of those parties filed candidates' declarations. John Adams, a professional vocalist, of 3909A St. Louis avenue, was filed by the Democratic City Committee as candidate from the Twenty-first Ward. Mrs. Mary Littman of 2733 Dickson street, is Socialist candidate from the Nineteenth Ward. There are no other vacancies.

THREE THEORIES IN MAN'S DEATH

Inquest Over Chicago Attorney, Killed in Fall From Office, Postponed.

CHICAGO, March 19.—The police today were working on three theories in connection with the death yesterday of George J. Kuebler, attorney, whose body was seen falling through the air from his office on the tenth floor of a building. The theories are that he either fell, jumped or was thrown out the window.

It developed today that $25,000 was missing from an account Kuebler was handling for an insurance firm, his fiancee and the insurance board making known this information. The inquest was started today, but after Kuebler's brother had testified it was adjourned indefinitely at the request of the police who said they believed they could find important evidence if given a little more time.

17 SENTENCED TO TERMS OF FROM 2 TO 25 YEARS

Sentences Are Formally Imposed in Recent Felony Convictions.

Seventeen defendants, recently convicted of felony, were formally sentenced yesterday by Circuit Judge Landwehr to imprisonment ranging from two years in the State reformatory to 25 years in the penitentiary.

Among them were Raymond Dittmeyer, 22 years old, of 2705 North Ninth street, who was given 24 years in the penitentiary on two charges of burglary, and Charles Kyle, 20, of 1459 Clinton street, jointly charged with Dittmeyer in one case, whose sentence of two years in the penitentiary was commuted to two years in the State reformatory at Boonville.

Harry Schmelzer was sentenced to 12 years, eight years for his complicity with five other persons in the National Refrigeratiors Co. payroll robbery last August, two years for the theft of automobile accessories and two years for driving away an automobile without the owner's consent. The automobile was used by the highwaymen in the payroll robbery.

Five-year sentences to the penitentiary in the cases of Harry Newman, Clarence Ebert, Harry Bender, Arthur Schneider and William Meyer in connection with a payroll robbery at the Bemis Bros. Bag Co.'s plant were commuted to five-year sentences to the reformatory on recommendation of the bag company and the insurance company which had protected the payroll from loss by theft.

William Stambaugh and Henry Prater were sentenced to 25 years and 15 years, respectively, for criminal assault; Ike Washington, 10 years for first degree robbery; Arthur Brooks, six years for first degree robbery; William Dangel, five years for first degree robbery; Leo Marchlewski, five years for first degree robbery; Joseph Johnson, two years for burglary; Lindsey Hartson, two years for larceny, and James N. Hughes, two years for assault to kill.

G. O. P. WARD COMMITTEEMAN HELD UNDER TWO CHARGES

Herman Meuser Arrested After Auto Injures Man; Police Report Finding Whisky in Machine.

Herman Meuser of 4132 Chippewa street, president of the Meuser-Schake Mercantile Co., and vice chairman of the Republican City Central Committee and Republican committeeman of the Twenty-fourth Ward, was arrested at 10 o'clock last night at Shenandoah and Jefferson avenues and charged with careless driving and with violation of the Volstead act in the possession of whisky, following an accident in which a man who refused to give his name was injured by Meuser's automobile. Meuser was locked in a cell at the Wyoming Street Station.

The police found Meuser administering aid to the injured man, and took both to the city hospital. The injured man was only bruised, but was held for treatment for alcoholism. In his pocket was found a doctor's prescription for whisky with directions to take a tablespoonful four times a day.

A search of Meuser's car disclosed two bottles of whisky, which Meuser claimed as his own, according to Acting Lieutenant of Police Welch at the Wyoming Street Station. Meuser said the man was injured by bumping into his automobile.

WILLIAM SACKS TO DIRECT G. O. P. CITIZENS' COMMITTEE

Miss Olivia Brueggeman Named Head of Women's Auxiliary—Hyde Invited to Speak.

William Sacks, chairman of the Board of Directors of the new Republic National Bank, an oil operator and office building owner, has been chosen as chairman of a citizens' Advisory Committee which is to co-operate with the Republican City Committee in backing the campaign of Mayor Kiel for a third term, and the Republican candidates for Comptroller and Aldermen. The Advisory Committee, as announced yesterday, contains 347 men and 256 women.

BURLINGTON CONDUCTOR SHOT BY ONE OF TWO HOLDUP MEN

Ralph Kirkpatrick Wounded in Leg When He Resists Negro and White Robbers.

Ralph Kirkpatrick, 26 years old, of 1224 North Forty-seventh street, East St. Louis, was shot in the calf of the right leg at 10 o'clock last night by one of two men who attempted to hold him up in the East St. Louis yards of the Burlington Railroad. Kirkpatrick is a conductor for the Burlington and had left his train when the men held him up.

One of the men was a negro, the other a white man. Kirkpatrick resisted and one of the men fired. The wound is not serious.

Review of Revolutionary Legislation Affecting Schools, Elections and Taxation

Adoption of Gov. Hyde's Program Almost in Its Entirety to Bring Radical Changes in Administration

Authority Centralized Under Executive Who Is Also Empowered to Stop Any Department From Receiving Salaries or Any Funds.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, March 19.—The Missouri Legislature, which tonight completed a session of 73 days has enacted more legislation of a revolutionary character in connection with the methods of administering the State government, the system of taxation, the administration of school affairs and the conduct of elections than any Legislature in the recent history of the State.

So drastic are the changes to be brought out by the legislation to become effective June 18, that Democrats active in State politics express the belief that it will be unpopular at least in the beginning, and that the merit, which they admit it may contain, can be demonstrated only by experience. The opinion most commonly heard here is that it will be impossible within two or even four years to overcome the many prejudices, and that the Republican party is almost certain to suffer in the next two elections as a result of 1921 legislation.

County Unit Bill Important.

The most important single piece of legislation enacted is the county unit school bill, which completely changes the system of rural education in Missouri, taking control out of the hands of directors in small rural districts and placing the control of all the schools of each county under a county board of education.

Gov. Hyde told the Legislature in a message early in the session that of all matters he had presented to it the county unit bill deserved first consideration. He held that it transcended in importance good roads or any other subject of legislation in that it affirmed a means to bring all the schools of the State to a single high standard and to change the poor, weak school in the isolated community into a strong school equal to any other school.

The county unit bill was the result of the efforts of the teachers themselves, and was taken up by the Governor as the first item on his legislative program. It was brought about largely through the fact that there are hundreds of schools in Missouri which are in small districts too poor to raise sufficient funds to maintain a proper school. In the same counties in which such schools are there are wealthy districts which have more than enough money for their schools.

County Boards Created.

The county unit does away with the power of the small district board to levy taxes for school purposes, and places that power in the county board of education, which means there will be one tax rate for the entire county for schools, all the money will go into one fund and all the schools of the county will be brought up to the standard of the best in the county.

One important feature is that any district which votes a tax rate of $1 on the $100 valuation for schools and does not derive sufficient funds to equal 35 cents a day for each high school student shall receive aid from the State to the amount required, and each district which votes a rate of 65 cents and does not receive enough revenue to equal 20 cents a day for each elementary pupil will receive State aid to give it the required amount. Such money as is remaining in the State school fund after this special State aid is given will be apportioned to all the schools of the State on the same basis as under the old law.

Election Law Changes.

Probably next in importance is the enactment of the new election laws, under which the blanket ballot will replace the separate or ribbon ballot in all Missouri elections, a method of contesting the result of primary elections is provided and many safeguards are thrown about elections to prevent fraud and to make fraud more easily proven in the courts.

While the election bills are the result of many months of work by lawyers in St. Louis and Kansas City, and had the active support of the League of Women Voters and other organizations of women, they were indorsed by Gov. Hyde and are generally known as a part of his program.

Change in the taxation system is causing the Republican politicians the greatest concern. The Governor announced that the State Board of Equalization would increase the assessed valuation of property throughout the State approximately 100 per cent. As there are many counties in which the valuation is as low as 25 per cent and as in none is above 75 per cent, an increase of 33 1-3 to 300 per cent in taxes appeared as a certain result of a 100-per cent assessment. This, it was figured, would be a fatal political blunder, and without much consideration of the fact that any other basis than this would mean continued discrimination in favor of some counties and against others a scheme was worked out to increase assessments without materially increasing the taxes which would be paid.

Tax Rates Reduced.

A series of bills was introduced in the House by Representative Morgan of Putnam County, Republican floor leader, at the direction of the Governor, reducing the tax rates of each political subdivision of the State about one-half, but the bills contained a provision that the taxes collected in each of these subdivisions should not be more than 10 per cent higher in any year than in the preceding year.

The certain effect will be to increase each person's taxes next year 10 per cent and the following year 10 per cent and so on until the tax rate fixed yields its true amount of a 100 per cent assessment.

The continued discrimination would be realized from this illustration. In a county in which the tax rate has been 50 cents on the $100 valuation a person owning property actually worth $10,000, but assessed at 25 per cent of its value paid $12.50 in taxes. A $10,000 property in a county where property was assessed at 75 per cent of its value paid in taxes $37.50.

Under the new law the tax rate will be reduced, but property values will be placed at 100 per cent. If on both pieces of property 50 cents on the 100 per cent valuation was paid, the taxes on each would be $50, but there is a provision that neither shall pay an increase of more than 10 per cent. Thus the $12.50 tax will go up to $13.75, the $37.50 tax will go up to $41.25. The second year the first man's tax will go to $15.13 and the second man's tax to $45.38. The third year the first will go to $16.65 and the second to $49.91, or approximately the actual amount. The first will not reach the correct amount for a great number of years.

Governor's Powers Increased.

The change brought about in the method of administering State Government comes through the passage of bills centralizing all authority directly under the Governor and a provision in the application giving him the power to stop any department from receiving money for salaries or any other purpose no matter what amount the Legislature may have appropriated.

Through many years there have grown up many departments in the Capitol. Each of these departments has had a head appointed by the Governor, but who reported to the Governor only once in two years. Unless there was some great scandal which came to public attention the Governor knew little about the actions of his appointees.

Scheme of Democrats Upset.

Through the last few Democratic administrations, the laws had been amended to purposely make the time of expiration of the terms of officers of these heads of department at the middle of a Governor's term. It was expected by this method that if a Republican Governor should be elected the Democrats would hold their jobs for two years in the new administration.

They have learned, however, that the same power which created their jobs can abolish them, and that is what has happened in a number of instances.

Never before since the reconstruction days following the Civil War had Republicans been in complete control of the government of Missouri. Naturally they wanted the jobs. That desire fit in very well with the Governor's idea of centralizing control under himself so that he could at all times be in personal control of every State department, except the offices held by other elective officials.

Other Consolidations Effected.

The departments created in addition to the budget were a department of finance, to consolidate the banking, building and loan supervision, "blue sky" and soldiers' settlement departments; a department of public welfare, to consolidate the various inspection bureaus, including beverage, food and drug, hotels and oil; a department of agriculture, to consolidate all the bureaus connected with agriculture; a board of managers for all eleemosynary institutions to replace the separate boards provided under the old law.

The Governor also caused bills to be introduced to create a department of labor, under which would be consolidated factory inspection, mine inspection and such other State activities as affected labor; a reorganization of the State Prison Board, consolidating control of all penal institutions under partisan boards; creating a Board of Control for all State teachers' colleges, and abolishing the separate boards of control, and creating a department of public buildings, which would have control of the erection of all State buildings and the making of repairs on all State buildings.

Penal Board Bill Passed.

The Senate and House reached an agreement tonight on the penal board bill and on the labor department bill, and they were passed.

The House refused to concur in a Senate amendment to the penal bill, by which Senator Irwin sought to retain the members of the Present Prison Board on the new board. Irwin, when the bill was returned to the Senate tonight, offered another amendment which did not materially change the bill from the form in which it was introduced, at the instance of the Governor.

The bill provides for a board of five members, three Republicans and two Democrats, and will abolish the present board of three. There virtually is no other change in the present prison law, the bill being merely a partisan political measure to make the board Republican instead of Democratic.

The labor bill was pushed through tonight, having been amended to reasonably suit the Governor. It will at least give the jobs to Republicans.

No effort was made to force the teachers' college consolidation bill and the public buildings bill to passage, and they were permitted to die on the calendar.

The Governor several days ago abandoned the public building department, and in reality had abandoned the others. Office seekers, however, late in the session, induced him to renew his activity for them.

Some Concessions Made.

In putting over his program, the Governor had to make a number of concessions. Throughout his fight he had the undivided support of Lieutenant-Governor Lloyd, who had organized the 19 Republicans in the Senate into a caucus combine, but to make certain that Lloyd would remain with him the Governor relinquished several of his prerogatives, one of which was the power to make appointments. He has consulted Lloyd not only on matters of legislation, but also as to appointments, several of which have been dictated by Lloyd.

There were times when the caucus combine was in danger of disruption as a result of the Governor's program, but skillful maneuvering by Lloyd saved the day for the Governor. Senator Seneker of Mount Vernon insisted upon having the tuberculosis sanitarium eliminated from the institutions under the Eleemosynary Board, and it seemed at one time that he would get one other Republican Senator to join him, enough to defeat any of the Governor's measures. A deal was made with two or three Democratic Senators, enough to save the bill, and Seneker was released from his caucus obligation to support the measure. Senator Irwin was opposed to the penal institution bill.

Several other institutions and departments were eliminated from the bills to keep down opposition, though the trouble with the labor bill was in its preparation, the final bill not being exactly what was wanted, and there being doubt that it could be properly amended. Need for the public buildings bill ended with the creation of the Department of Budget.

Low Salary Handicap.

It is conceded that the success of the radical departures in government which will result from these bills will depend upon the caliber of men the Governor appoints to head the various departments. In the beginning he wished to have their salaries fixed at $7500 a year each, but he soon found the members of the House, a majority of whom are farmers, were opposed to salaries of that size, and he was forced to consent to reductions to $5000 in some cases, and even to $4000 in others. He has expressed a fear that he will be handicapped in getting the type of men he wants at these figures, but has said he expects to appeal to men from a patriotic standpoint.

There has been a general belief, however, that these jobs are to go to men who have been more active in Republican politics than in business and administration. Several men actively identified with the Hyde campaign and with Republican headquarters in St. Louis during the general election campaign are said to be slated for the jobs.

Chairman J. G. Hughes of the Republican State Committee appears without doubt to be the Governor's selection for director of finance. Roy H. Monier of Carrollton, vice chairman of the Republican State Committee, is said to be slated for Commissioner of Agriculture unless he lands a Federal appointment. George Wagner of Jefferson City, a member of the committee, and head of a committee bureau in the campaign, and A. C. McKibben of Clayton, publicity director of the committee, also are said to be slated for positions of responsibility in the administration.

Workmen's Compensation Bill.

A semi-administration measure of great importance passed by the Legislature is the workmen's compensation bill along much the same lines as the bill passed by the last Legislature, which was voted down in the referendum at the election last November.

While the Governor in his inaugural message asked the Legislature to pass the bill, which had been agreed upon by representatives of the Associated Industries and of the Missouri Federation of Labor, it did not have active support from the Governor until after most of the consolidation bills were passed this week. Then Lloyd, at the instance of the Governor, put the power of the Senate caucus behind it and it was passed. During more than two months of the Legislature the Governor refused to exert a real influence for the bill, frankly telling representatives of labor and of industries that he did not want to do anything which would endanger the county unit bill and the consolidation bills.

Chief Objections Eliminated.

In the agreed bill the features of the old bill which met the greatest objection have been eliminated, and R. T. Wood, president of the Federation of Labor, and John C. Hall, representative of the Associated Industries, have expressed the opinion that it will not again fail if submitted under the referendum.

Appropriations Within Revenues.

The principal objection to the bill now comes from damage suit lawyers, whose business will be seriously interfered with, as under the workmen's compensation an injured employe will be paid compensation without bringing suit against the employer. Every employer is required by the bill to insure his risk either in an insurance company or with the state compensation fund, unless he can satisfy the Missouri Workmen's Compensation Commission of his financial ability to carry his own risk.

While the appropriations made by this Legislature are the largest in the history of the State by fully $10,000,000, it appears that the Legislature has remained well within the revenues and the amount which will be available to meet the appropriations.

Appropriation bills passed carry a total of less than $30,000,000. The estimate of the revenues for the two years is $28,000,000, and there will be available approximately $5,000,000 which remained in the Treasury at the close of the Gardner administration, making a total of approximately $33,000,000.

Exact figures on the appropriations cannot be stated definitely because two sets of bills were passed. One appropriated money to the State institutions and departments separately as they existed before the consolidation, and the other appropriated to the new departments created under the consolidation scheme. The Governor will veto duplicate bills.

Approximate Appropriations.

The amounts, approximately accurate, however, are:

One-third of the revenue to the public schools, about $9,333,333.

State educational institutions, $6,157,892.

Eleemosynary institutions, $4,001,960.

Deficiency appropriations, $1,343,027.

General contingent bills, $5,287,639.

Executive departments, $1,666,100.

Expenses of Legislature, $281,000.

Assessing and collecting revenue, $500,000.

Total, $28,570,951.

This total will be increased to something more than $29,000,000 by additional appropriations as overhead expenses of consolidated departments.

Legion Fares Well.

The American Legion fared well with its legislative program. Its resolution submitting a constitutional amendment for a $15,000,000 bond issue for a soldiers' and sailors' bonus was adopted. Its bill to create a State boxing commission to license and supervise boxing bouts also passed, as did a bill making armistice day a legal holiday.

A measure which is looked forward to by real estate men to relieve the shortage of money for real estate investment places real estate securities under the provisions of the secured debts law, under which they can be registered and pay a tax of $7.50 per $1000 of value, covering a period of five years, and be relieved of the general property tax.

Statements were presented to the Legislature showing that money was being withdrawn from real estate investment and put into non-taxable Government bonds, and that as a result it was virtually impossible to obtain money for building operations, one of the most noticeable effects being in the housing shortage in the cities.

Roads Legislation Deferred.

Because of a request from Gov. Hyde prior to the convening of the Legislature no attempt has been made to push road legislation at the present. Road measures proposed by the Missouri Good Roads Federation were introduced, but by agreement were held in committee, to be introduced again and acted upon at a special session of the Legislature which the Governor has announced he will call for a date to be announced later, but which the Governor said would be between April 18 and May 1.

The only road legislation passed was a resolution submitting a constitutional amendment to be voted on at a special election in August, when the question of whether there shall be a constitutional convention will be submitted. It corrects an oversight in the $60,000,000 bond issue amendment adopted last fall, and submits to the voters another amendment providing that interest on the bonds shall be paid from the automobile license fund.

A last hour attempt was made today to pass an amendment providing for the maintenance of the roads from the automobile license fund, but it failed.

Laws Affecting Women.

Rights of women received consideration by the Legislature, a constitutional amendment removing the word "male" from the Missouri constitution and laws as qualification for holding office being passed. Bills also were passed extending the civil rights of women and fixing the legal age for women at 21, the same as for men.

The Missouri Anti-saloon League obtained the passage of a law making somewhat more drastic the prohibition enforcement laws of Missouri, and bringing them into closer harmony with the Federal laws.

Two bills advocated by the Governor but which were not a part of his original program, created a state department of immigration to advertise the state, a state marketing bureau, which will have authority to license produce commission merchants with a view to protecting farmers from unscrupulous merchants. The bill was not opposed by the commission firms of recognized standing.

Children's Code Bills Passed.

A number of children's code bills were passed, including measures for caring for delinquent children, the licensing of maternity hospitals by the State Board of Charities and Corrections and requiring the use of a prophylatic solution in the eyes of new born babies .Several of the code bills failed to pass.

The measures have been before each Legislature for six years. Their failure to pass before has been due in some degree to technical errors in their construction, but more to the fact that members of the Legislature were slow to agree to the system of paternalism typified by most of them. The educational campaign for them, however, has changed considerable of the opposition, the recognized benefits of many of the measures being now realized.

Income Tax Reduced.

A slight reduction in the State income tax was provided for in a bill introduced by Senator Bowker and passed yesterday. Bowker originally introduced the bill to cut the tax from 1½ per cent to one-half of 1 per cent and to change the exemptions from $1000 and $2000 to $2000 and $4000, but the administration opposed such a radical reduction as this would have meant in State revenues. As finally passed the bill reduced the tax to 1 per cent and the exemptions were left at $1000 and $2000, though the exemption for each dependent child was changed from $200 to $400.

The corporation franchise tax was reduced from $1 to 75 cents on each $100 of capital and surplus, and surplus was defined to be the excess of assets over liabilities.

Soft Drink Tax Reduced.

The soft drink tax was reduced from 1½ cents a gallon to three-fifths of 1 cent, and the oil inspection tax was reduced one-half. These measures were made necessary because of suits which threatened the laws under which the taxes were paid, it being conceded by the State's legal department that the laws would be held unconstitutional at the rates fixed in them.

There were few measures introduced which representatives of organized labor considered inimical to the interests of labor, and labor advocated little legislation in addition to workmen's compensation. One measure, defining "industrial warfare" and permitting injunctive relief in case of strikes in violation of working agreements and in violation of arbitration awards, and prohibiting sympathetic strikes, was killed.

Over the protest of the livestock and grain exchanges of the larger cities, a bill was passed declaring exchanges to be "public markets" and requiring them to admit to membership representatives of the producers. Another measure provided severe penalties for discrimination between communities in the purchase of farm products by packing companies and other purchasers.

Attitude on Redistricting.

The Republican majority in the Legislature followed instructions from the Republican State Committee in the matter of redistricting legislation, giving no consideration of a bill fixing the boundaries of new senatorial districts. This was on the theory that the Democratic organization could by circulating referendum petitions prevent a legislative redistricting from being put into effect, but that if the districting was left to the Governor, Atorney-General and Secretary of State (who under the Constitution, perform the duty if the Legislature fails to act) no referendum would be possible.

The Democrats, however, have obtained legal advice that the referendum will be possible under either course, the Supreme Court having held that in performing the duty the three State officials were performing a legislative function.

The only districting bill passed was to change the boundaries of judicial circuits of the State and reducing the number of districts from 38 to 34. The bill was drawn to provide for the elimination of as many Democratic Circuit Judges as possible. It provided that in case two Circuit Judges were in the same district under the new districting both should be legislated out of office, but the Governor should be required to appoint one of the two to the judgeship of the new district. Under this provision the offices of seven Democratic Judges will be vacated.

Auto Registration Defeated.

Among the important measures which were defeated was the automobile registration bill, proposed by the automobile clubs of St. Louis, Kansas City and St. Joseph, which sought to establish better regulatory laws covering the operation of motor cars, provisions to make more difficult the disposal of stolen autmobiles, and to increase the license fees for automobile trucks. The bill probably would have passed had it not been accidentally overlooked in the Senate for 10 days. It did not pass the Senate until Thursday and when it reached the House today, there were nearly 50 members absent. It failed to receive a constitutional majority.

Othr measures of importance which were defeated included the St. Louis annexation bill, a bill creating a commission to censor motion pictures, the eight-hour law for women, bills abolishing the Public Service Commission, home rule for St. Louis through appointment of Police Commissioner by the Mayor, the retaliatory insurance law, minimum wage commission to investigate wages and working conditions of women, purchase of the Ha Ha Tonka tract of land in Camden County for a State park, and the bill to create a commission to gather data for the constitutional convention.

St. Louis Salary Bills.

Of measures of particular importance to St. Louis, there were a number increasing the city budget. The largest was an increase of the salaries of policemen, which will amount to approximately $350,000 additional expense to the city each year.

While home rule outright was defeated the Legislature passed three bills providing that the Board of Police Commissioners and the Board of Estimates and Apportionment should sit together in preparing the police budget, each board to have three votes, and the Governor to have the deciding voice in case they failed to agree.

Circuit Attorney Sidener failed to obtain passage of a bill abolishing the office of Prosecuting Attorney and placing its duties in the office of the Circuit Attorney. Under the bill Sidener's income from his office would have been increased from about $8500 a year to about $12,000.

Two additional Circuit Judges were provided for in another bill. In addition there were salary increases for Herman Bader, clerk of the Circuit Court for Criminal Causes, Ferdinand I. G. Knittel, clerk of the Court of Criminal Correction, for the probation officer and his deputies; for the clerks in the office of License Collector Chapman; providing two additional stenographers in the Circuit Attorney's office and increasing the pay of Jury Commissioners from $5 to $7.50 a day.

St. Louis Measures Killed.

Bills affecting St. Louis which were killed, and which were opposed by representatives of the Board of Estimates and Apportionment, included: Increasing of police force 150 men, providing parole officers for each court having criminal jurisdiction, establishing a court of domestic relations, increasing pay of judges and clerks of election, creating a divorce proctor, permitting the payment of taxes under protest, creating of four additional Circuit Judges, increasing witness fees 100 per cent, a bill relating to the method of stringing power wires, requiring fire escapes on all school buildings three stories or more in height, increasing the salary of the Recorder of Deeds.

The following were the bills passed by the Legislature:

THE CRIME OF THE AGE

Is the selling of Spectacles and Eyeglasses by incompetent opticians who call themselves doctors and others. None of these men are physicians. Ask them for their license to practice medicine in Missouri.

NOTHING IS MORE PRECIOUS THAN EYESIGHT

I AM a physician, oculist and optician and have practiced for many years in St. Louis. If your eyes are diseased I will care for them, and should glasses be needed, I will prescribe and make them correctly, and the total cost for treatment and glasses will not exceed the price of a pair of glasses that may do irreparable injury to your eyes. SATISFACTION GUARANTEED. I am both oculist and optician. The privilege of communicating with any of my thousands of patrons is extended to any who care to do so.

$3.50 a pair BI-FOCAL LENSES $3.50 a pair

For far and near seeing—two pairs of Glasses in one. The usual price is from $4.50 to $9 per pair.

$7.00 a pair THE NEW DUO TORIC LENS

For far and near seeing, in one piece and invisible. No cement—spherical combinations only.

Fred Fulton Says He Is After Jack Dempsey's Scalp Which Is, We Take It, a Cutting Remark

Kissling of Central High Victor in Hess 880 Race at Annual Municipal Carnival

George, McKinley Runner, Goes Down Five Yards From Finish and Pushes Central Entrant Over Line Just Before He Too Collapses—5000 See Events.

The feature event of the fourth annual Municipal Athletic Association track and field carnival at the Coliseum last night—the "Hess 880" for high school athletes—was won by A. Kissling of Central High School after a thrilling race with F. George of McKinley. The time was 2 minutes 9 4-5 seconds.

The carnival proved a financial success, more than 5000 persons attending. The profits will go to the Municipal Athletic Association. Approximately 1000 contestants, representing 38 organizatons, took part in the various events, which besides the athletic features included drum corps drills, zouave drils and others.

Seven stars from local and county high schools faced the starter's gun in the Hess 880-yard event. On the second lap, Frobesa (McKinley) took the lead and held the advantage until the fourth, when his teammate, George, went ahead. Kissling slowly crawled up on the leaders and ran neck and neck with George on the final lap, passing him 30 yards from the finish.

The gruelling pace proved too much for the McKinley entrant and he collapsed five yards from the finish. In going down, however, he pushed Kissling across the line, giving the Mid-City runner the victory. Kissling collapsed after finishing.

E. Clark of Cleveland beat George out of second place, although the McKinley athlete was able to crawl across the line and capture third position. F. Leiby, Webster, finished fourth.

Japri A. A. Leads in Points.

The Japri A. A. repeated its victory of last season in the municipal championship events, and with a total of 24 points gained the second leg on the Municipal Athletic Association challenge trophy. Washington University was second with 15 points, with the Illinois A. C. third with 10. Epsilon Eta and Rolla School of Mines counted 8 each, and Sewanee 7.

The poor showing of the Sewanee athletes, coached by John Nicholson, proved the surprise of the meet. Nicholson, prior to the carnival, said he expected his team to score 22 points. However, only in the shot-put did the Southerners show anything.

McKinley High School gained permanent possession of the Washington University challenge trophy, by scoring the greatest number of points for the third consecutive time. The McKinleyites totaled 28 and were not even pressed to win, as Central and Soldan, tied for second, counted only nine. Cleveland tallied five and Clayton one.

Individual stars of the games were Loren Murchison and Bob Probst. Each won two firsts, and accounted for 10 points for their respective teams. Probst will receive a diamond medal for winning the 1000-yard run for the fourth successive time. He is the third athlete, competing in municipal events, to gain this honor. The others are Jerry Freeman, the bike rider, and Ted Drewes in tennis.

Murchison Easily Wins.

Murchison, the former local sprinter, easily won first place in the Municipal championship 50-yard dash. Murchison, who has been on a business trip all week, and consequently has done little training, took the lead at the start and was never pushed. He negotiated the distance in 5 2-5s. A. Trumm, former High School athlete, running for Epsilon Eta, was second, and D. Drake of Washington University, third.

Dick Kremer, the Washington University weight star, captured first place in the shot put, with a throw of 41 feet, defeating Skidmore and Guerry, stars of the University of the South.

Probst, the veteran runner of the Japri A. A., won first place in the championship 600-yard run, defeating Runge of the Missouri School of Mines and Rowley of Washington U., in 1m. 19 1-5s.

In the first three events for high schools, for the Washington University challenge trophy, McKinley captured first in the 50-yard dash and the high hurdle event. In the three races, the McKinley athletes piled up 15 points.

Murchison Wins 300-Yard Run.

Murchison scored his second victory, when he led a field of six to the tape in the 300-yard run, in 33 seconds. This is the first time this event has been held at the local carnival, the officials heretofore having staged a 440-yard event. Murchison started on the outside, but after running one-third of a lap had an advantage of eight yards, and thereafter took things rather easy.

The first record to be tied came when J. Ryan, representing Epsilon Eta, won the championship high jump, with a leap of 70 inches. This tied the mark set by the same athlete in the meet last year.

Bob Probst, Japri A. A., also proved a double winner, when he took first place in the 1000-yard run, defeating Runge of Rolla.

In the high jump for the "prep" athletes, three members of the McKinley team, Kinsey, Westphaelinger and Jestes, tied for first place at 66 inches.

The Japri A. A. team took the lead at the start of the championship relay race and held it throughout. The Washington University team was forced to withdraw in the first lap, when Rowley fell, injuring himself and being unable to continue.

THE SUMMARIES

Municipal Championships.

50-YARD DASH—L. MUCHISON, ILLINOIS A. C., first; A. Trumm, Epsilon Eta, second; R. Drake, Washington U., third; E. Van Sickle, Epsilon Eta, fourth. Time—5 2-5s.

INNISFAILS WIN FROM BEN MILLERS, 1 TO 0

The Innisfails of the St. Louis Soccer League defeated the Ben Millers of the Municipal League, in a benefit game at Cardinal Field yesterday, 1 to 0. The proceeds of the contest went to Tommy White, a Miller player injured during the season. About 300 attended.

Jimmy McCaffery scored the lone goal on a cross from Ballam. The Innisfails were awarded two penalty kicks, but missed both. Vaughn was used in the forward line, but failed to star. In the second half, Foley used many of his newcomers. Paul Murphy refereed a good game.

Meyers to Meet Talaber.

CHICAGO, March 19.—Johnny Meyers, middleweight wrestling champion, and Lou Talaber today signed articles to wrestle at the Second Regiment Armory March 30. Each man posted a $500 guarantee that he would make 158 pounds at 3 o'clock the afternoon of the match. Meyers will get 75 per cent of the purse.

Eastern League Meets.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., March 19.—The directors of the Eastern League met here today and after a six hours' discussion failed to adopt a playing schedule for the coming season. A waiver price of $750 was voted and a player limit of 16 set to take effect 30 days after the opening.

BUFFALO IS AWARDED NATIONAL ROWING MEET

NEW YORK, March 19.—The national amateur rowing championship regatta was awarded tonight to the rowing club of Buffalo, N. Y., to be held July 29 and 30. It was also decided to hold the annual convention of the National Association of Amateur Oarsmen there July 29.

Yale Net Team Dates.

NEW HAVEN, March 19.—The Yale tennis team on its usual Southern trip before the opening of the regular season will play the Country Club of Virginia at Richmond on March 24, it was announced tonight. Other opponents on the trip include Norfolk Country Club, Baltimore Country Club, Dumbarton Country Club of Washington and United States Naval Academy.

More Challenges Expected.

NEW YORK.—More challenges are expected from British motorboat racers in addition to the one received by the Motor Boat Club of America from the Royal Motor Yacht Club of England in an effort to regain the Harmsworth trophy won from the British last August. The Motor Boat Club is authorized to make all arrangements, including the notification of the Detroit Club, foreign clubs who may want to enter boats from next summer's race and the choosing of a site for the contest.

IT then was the Chinaman's queue to look up a lawyer and sue.
He muttered "b'gosh,
'Twill come out in the wash
And I will get everything due."

WHY NOT?

"Millionaire's Son Says Fine Is Good Ad." Headline. If it's publicity he's after why not give him six months in the hoosegow?

A man in Chicago was given 25 years for killing his wife and sentenced to hang for killing a stranger. We take it they will hang him first and then let him serve the 25 years or as many thereof as able.

HANDICAPPED.

Since the barring of the headlock "Strangler" Lewis has been throwing only one guy every night.

Owner Jim Dunn has insured the Indians for $100,000. Blanket insurance we take it.

The baseball season will open on April 13. Indicating that the well-known tendency to superstition among ball players doesn't extend to the magnates.

St. Paul Men Roll Into Third Place

Mitchell and Metcalf Score 1256 Total in A. B. C. Tenpin Tourney.

BUFFALO, N. Y., March 19.—Bowling in the American Bowling Congress Tournament today was featured by a high two-man score of 1256 pins by J. Mitchell and W. Metcalf of St. Paul which gave them third place. Only two pins separated the pair in their total count, Mitchell scoring 629 and Metcalf 627. They shot team games of 423, 392 and 441 pins.

There were two other 1200 totals in the day's rolling but over the mark by only a small margin and not quite so good enough to win a place among the ten leaders. J. Epping and H. Kerner of Pittsburg were second high for the day with 1214 pins with Hellhake and T. Harkin of St. Paul showing a 1204 set.

Chicago carried off the honors of the day in the singles event when G. Callender shot a total of 659 pins, rolling into a tie for eighth place. He scored three good games of 223, 216 and 200 for the high set. G. Antic of Pittsburg and A. Reinke of Milwaukee each with a 652 total, T. Harkin of St. Paul with 650 and E. Mathie of Pittsburg with 613 pins were other high rollers of the day in the singles.

Following a 564 set in the five man event last night and totals of 614 in the doubles and 620 in the singles today, W. H. Jerrett of Chicago tied for tenth place in the all events.

BERIBBONED DOGS ARE ENTERED IN SHOW TO BE HELD AT COLISEUM

The largest entry in point of numbers and class is the manner in which Assistant Superintendent F. W. Barnes classifies the coming bench show of the Mississippi Valley Kennel Club to be held at the Coliseum March 28-29.

Among the dogs entered from cities outside of St. Louis is the great wire haired fox tearrier Tidbits owned by C. L. Gilliland of Aberfoyle Chester, Pa. Turk McBee will bring his famous kennel of English bulldogs from Greenville, S. C. The Ashborune Kennels of Chicago, famous for their Airedales, will send a brand new lot of young dogs and some veteran champions to the St. Louis show. The great chow dog, "Champion Lord Cholmondley," owned by the Adamston Kennels of Mount Vernon, N. Y., will also be seen in St. Louis, March 28-29.

Women who will show dogs at the Coliseum will be interested to know that Miss Jean G. Hinkel of Osterville, Mass., will bring her great kennel of wire-haired terriers to St. Louis. Her star dog is "Gatineur Hill's Truth," said to be one of the best fox terriers seen on the bench in many years. The Siwanoy Kennels of Hartsdale, N. Y., will show their great shepherds. The great bull terriers, "Coolridge Kenn Edge" and "Collridge Grit," owned by the Coolridge Kennels of Altamont, N. Y., will also be on the show. Also the same owner's fox terriers, "Sabine Ring Craft," "Coolridge Vixen" and "Coolridge Venie."

George F. Foley, superintendent of the show, will arrive in St. Louis on March 25.

Salt Lake Signs Wilhoit.

SALT LAKE CITY, March 19.—Joe Wilhoit, outfielder, was signed today by the Salt Lake club of the Pacific Coast League, it was announced here tonight. He was purchased from Memphis to which club he was sold by Toledo when he refused to report this season. Wilhoit is now at Santa Barbara, Cal., and will report at Boyse Springs, training camp, Monday.

Illinois Athletes Win Big 10 Meet; Michigan Second

Alberta Sets New Conference Record in High Jump—Hurdle Mark Tied

CHICAGO, March 19.—Athletes wearing the colors of the University of Illinois repeated their triumph of a year ago in winning the Western Conference indoor track and field championship at Northwestern University tonight by piling up a total of 45 points. Michigan was second with 25½ points and Wisconsin third with 23.

Minnesota pulled up in fourth place with six points, Iowa was fifth with 3½ points and Chicago sixth with 2. Illinois scored points in 8 of the 10 events.

The conference record for the running high jump was smashed and the mark for the 60-yard high hurdles was equalled.

Alberta Sets Jump Record.

D. V. Alberta of Illinois established a new conference record for the running high jump with a leap of 6 feet 4⅛ inches, beating the former record of 6 feet ½ inch, made by Wahl of Wisconsin in 1914. Osborne of Illinois, was second, while Hoffman of Iowa and Pence of Purdue tied for third.

The record of 7 3-5s. for the 60-yard high hurdles established by Carl Johnson of Michigan a year ago was tied by Knollin of Wisconsin, who won the event in a thrilling finish with Wallace of Illinois. The Wisconsin jumper cleared the hurdles in faultless fashion.

Sweitzer of Minnesota won the mile event from a field of 19 starters. He shot into the lead on the last lap after Patterson of Illinois had held the lead from the start, winning in 4m. 32 2-5s.

Butler Wins 440-Yard Run.

The 440-yard run developed into a thrilling race between Butler of Michigan and Jonohoe of Illinois, with Butler the victor by two yards. The Michigan flyer took the pole at the getaway and was never in danger of defeat. He covered the distance in 51 4-5s. Fields of Illinois nosed out Kayser of Wisconsin for third place by a burst of speed at the finish.

Simons of Michigan broke the tape a scant few inches ahead of his teammate, Losch, in winning the 50-yard dash. Knollin of Wisconsin pulled up third and Wislon of Iowa fourth. The time was 5 3-5s, a fifth of a second slower than the Conference record. Less than a yard separated the first and fourth man at the finish.

Illinois won the first three places in the two-mile run. Wharton won it in 9m. 46 3-5s by advancing into the lead soon after the start and increasing his margin as he neared the finish. Furnas of Purdue, a member of the American Olympic team, failed to run his usual race and finished fourth.

The crack Illinois quartet of runners won the one-mile relay with Michigan second, Chicago third and Wisconsin fourth. The time was 3m. 29 1-5s, a fifth of a second slower than the Conference record.

Illinois also won the shot-put with Weiss the victor with a heave of 43 ft. 2½ in.

The summaries:

Oxford Athletes Tie Cambridge in Annual Dual Meet

Trowbridge and Rees, American Stars, Capture First Places for Their Team.

LONDON, March 19.—Oxford and Cambridge universities broke even in their annual dual track and field games at the Queen's Club here this afternoon. Each team won five first places in the 10-event program.

Cambridge, which was the favorite, led with five points to four when the last event, the running broad jump, was staged and Oxford's victory in the final contest gave the dark blue an even break.

Five American Rhodes scholars competed for Oxford. They were H. J. White of Bowdoin, in the running high jump; G. A. Trowbridge, Princeton, in the 120-yard high hurdles; F. K. Brown, Johns Hopkins; A. J. Rees, University of Nebraska, in the 16-pound shot put, and B. W. Smith of Johns Hopkins.

Of the five Americans who competed for Oxford, two won their events, thus scoring two of the five points credited to the Oxonians. G. A. Trowbridge, former Princeton hurler, captured first place in the 120-yard high hurdles and A. J. Rees, from the University of Nebraska, was first in the 16-pound shot put.

H. J. White of Bowdoin, gained second place in the running high jump, and B. W. Smith of Johns Hopkins, was second in the 440-yard run, but under the English intercollegiate system of scoring second and third places do not count.

The summaries:

100-YARD DASH—WON BY H. M. ABRAhams, Cambridge; G. M. Butler, Cambridge, second; B. G. D. Rudd, Oxford, third. Time, 10 1-5s.

THROWING THE 15-POUND HAMMER—H. C. Nokes, Oxford, first; N. F. Burt, Cambridge, second.

RUNNING BROAD JUMP—L. S. T. INgrams, Oxford, 22 feet, ½ inch, first; K. R. J. Saxon, Cambridge, 21 feet, 7¼ inches, second; S. T. Ablehams, Cambridge, 21 feet 4¼ inches, third.

EVANS, OUIMET AND GARDNER MAY PLAY IN BRITISH GOLF TOURNEY

NEW YORK, March 19.—Chick Evans, Francis Ouimet and Robert A. Gardner still are possibilities for the American team which will invade Britain this summer in quest of the British amateur golf title.

This announcement was made today by W. C. Fownes Jr., team captain who has been assigned the task of making up the American team.

Evans had declined to become a member of the team because of ill health; Ouimet pleaded his business duties were too exacting and Gardner had announced he would not make the trip under any circumstances. Fownes stated, however, that he was in a fair way of inducing all three to change their minds.

Robert A. Jones, the young Atlanta star, already has definitely announced his intention of accompanying the invaders.

FRANCE EXPECTS TO HOLD 1924 OLYMPIC

PARIS, March 19.—Baron Decouberton, president of the Olympic Games Committee, has asked the French members of the committee to support the application of Amsterdam for the 1928 games in return for the expected award of the 1924 meet to France.

The International Committee will hold its next official meeting at L'Ausanne, Switzerland June 2 and is expected afterward to announce the site of the 1924 games. The cities of Paris and Lyons are both strong applicants for the world famous international meet.

Baron de Couberton expects to announce his resignation soon as he feels the Olympic games have overcome all opposition and have become a permanent athletic fixture.

Spencer Leads Shooters.

The following scores were made out of a possible 100 points over the 20-yard range, by the shooters of the St. Louis Police Revolver Club, last week: William H. Spencer 93, William J. P. Rich 86, J. Joyce 83, L. Beecher 79, Sam G. Dorman 78, Officer Criswell 78, Dr. M. R. Moore 76, Dr. D. C. Todd 75, Howard Alexander 75, Dr. C. A. Vosburgh 74, William F. Linne 73, Charles Mueller 72, Dr. G. B. Godfrey 71, Fred Krug 68, R. W. White 67, Dr. F. H. Krug 59.

Dartmouth Team Admitted.

NEW YORK, March 19.—Dartmouth was admitted to the Intercollegiate Swimming Association at its spring meeting here today. All of the graduate officers of the association were re-elected. The constitution was amended to provide for a Committee on Records of which L. de B. Handley of New York was nominated as chairman.

Country Clubs' New Caddy Master Has Novel Way of Handling Boys

John A. Twiss Brought Here From Essex Country Club Has Educational System on Subjects of Rules, Ethics and Golf Morals.

Caddies who carry clubs for members of the St. Louis Country Club will attend school this summer. Twice a week they must go to class and if there is any delinquency in their attendance there will be a few vacancies at the Price road caddy shack.

However, this school will be conducted along the lines of the rule of tee rather than the rule of three and the bag toters will be supplied with a text-book quite foreign to the little red schoolhouse. Their subjects for perusal will be golf rules, golf ethics, and good morals.

John A. Twiss, new caddy-manager at the Country Club, has brought this plan for improving the work of caddies from the Essex Country Club, Manchester, Mass. St. Louisans, who summered at the seaside resort last year, were surprised at the conduct and alertness of their youthful assistants and upon inquiry learned that caddy work might be attributed to Twiss' system. He had the reputation of turning out the best kit-carriers in New England.

Caddies in Three Groups.

The links educational system calls for two classes a week. The caddies are divided into three groups, A, B and C, and when a youth has proved his capability in one class he is graduated into the next higher one. The class-room is the links and the teacher instructs them in the correct method of caddying, explains the rules, and demonstrates the proper ethics of the fairway. If any of the pupils shows a tendency to loose morals, he is corrected.

Twiss has made a thorough study of the caddy problem which has been one of the most absorbing ones met at the various golf clubs. Most caddy-masters use this position as a stepping stone to a professional's job; but Twiss considers it every bit as important as the "pro" work.

He has been in this capacity connected with some of the most famous country clubs in the United States. He learned to "shag" the ball and hold the pin at the Brookline Country Club, one of the oldest courses in the country. A fellow-caddy was Francis Ouimet, who later won the national open championship.

First Real Place in 1916.

His first caddy-master position was at the Worcester Country Club in 1916. He then was called to the Pinehurst (N. C.) Country Club, and later became a golf writer for several newspapers and magazines. In the spring of 1920 he returned to the caddy-shack, taking a position at the Essex Club.

This is the first time that a local club has called a man from another city to take charge of its youthful brigade.

JOHN A. TWISS.

Municipal Teams In Title Series

Prendergasts and Keen Kutters Play First Soccer Tilt at Fairground Today.

The Prendergasts, champions of Fairgrounds No. 2 and the Keen Kutters, title winners of the Saturday division, are scheduled to play the first of a series of three games at Fairground No. 2 this afternoon to decide the municipal soccer championship of St. Louis. The game is scheduled to start at 2:30 o'clock.

By most followers of the municipal league, the Prendergasts are favored to land the title. However, the Keen Kutters are expected to give them a real battle for the honors.

In reaching the final, the Prendergasts last Sunday defeated the SS. Mary and Josephs, 2—0, while the Keen Kutters trimmed the Schumachers by the same score. The Prendergasts defeated the Henses in the first round, 4—0, while the K. K.'s eliminated the Rock Church team, 5—2.

For today's game an admission fee of 25 cents will be charged to defray expenses of sending the champions to Memphis for a series.

The probable lineups:

Pendergasts.	Position.	Keen Kutters.
Beggan	Goal	Diel
Giese	Fullback	Rich
Kayanaugh	Fullback	Humpert
McSkimming	Halfback	Weber
Pepper	Halfback	Lang or Cady
Solari	Halfback	Sprintz
Cronin	Forward	Bochniceck
Murphy	Forward	Drew
Creak	Forward	Ryser
McTernan	Forward	Josties
Hysen	Forward	Hitchcock

Referee—Richard Wall. Linesmen—Oliver Miller, J. Asinger, J. Cradcock and J. J. Kelly. Miller also will act as timer.

NAVY ATHLETES WILL COMPETE IN PENN MEET

ANNAPOLIS, Md., March 19.—One of the first acts of Secretary of the Navy Denby in connection with the Naval Academy has been to provide for a definite policy of athletic contests for academy teams away from Annapolis. He has given to the superintendent definite authority to permit the teams in each principal sport to engage in one contest a season away from Annapolis.

The first exercise of this general authority by Superintendent Scales will be to permit teams of Midshipmen to enter the relay games of the University of Pennsylvania at Philadelphia on April 29.

Clymer Rolls 244 Game.

Clymer, shooting in a six-handed game against Pond, Pfeiffer, McKinley, Klare and Reyburn on Peterson's alleys, put up a remarkable score of 244 at duck pins. This mark is expected to stand as high for the coming season. Only twice in past years has this total been surpassed in this city, the scores being 267 and 256. Clymer in the first frame drew a split and counted eight pins. In his second and third stanzas he spared. From the fourth frame to the tenth, he registered seven consecutive strikes, and ended up with a spare.

Scullins Oppose Innisfails Today

Victory for Brady's Eleven Will Practically Clinch Local Soccer Pennant.

The regular St. Louis Soccer League schedule will be resumed at Cardinal Field this afternoon after a layoff of two weeks, during which time local followers have witnessed U. S. F. A. cup tilts. In the first game today the Ben Millers meet the Screw Company, while the Scullins and Innisfails fight it out in the second.

Should the Scullins win today they will practically clinch the championship, as the season is scheduled to close March 27. A defeat for the men of Brady and victory for the Millers will tie the two for the leadership.

With Brannigan and Mulvey absent, Brady will be forced to make changes. He will use Schwartz at one forward position and Murphy at the other. "Duke" Sheehan is scheduled to return as goalkeeper. Foley intends to use Quinn and Turnure in the forward line against the leaders.

"Hap" Marre, who is handling the Millers during Ratican's illness, announces that he will use Slattery at halfback and Meagher in the forward line. Harry McCarthy is also expected to send in several newcomers.

First game today at 2:15 o'clock, with Paul McSweeney and Phil Kavanaugh handling the clashes.

RIFLE ASSOCIATION TO BE PROGRESSIVE BODY

NEW YORK.—Everything indicates that the National Rifle Association will be a most progressive organization this year. At the annual meeting of the association Lieutenant-Colonel Smith W. Brookhart of Iowa was chosen president. Col. Brookhart is a hustler, one who has done much for the riflemen in the United States. First vice president is Maj. Frank Maloney of Tennessee, second vice president, Maj. F. M. Waterbury of New York; third vice president, Brigadier-General W. W. Moore, South Carolina; secretary, Brigadier-General Fred H. Phillips, Tennessee; treasurer, Capt. Karl D. Loos of Illinois.

One of the things done at the annual meeting was to select dates for the national rifle matches. These matches will be held at Camp Perry, O. From July 27 to Aug. 7 the Small Arms Firing School will be in operation; from Aug. 8 to 17 the matches of the National Rifle Association and from Aug. 18 to Aug. 26 the national championship matches with rifle and pistol, individual and team.

The Small Arms Firing School is open to any citizen of the United States, though he be unattached to any team. He will be furnished arms and ammunition without charge. All team members who have not heretofore patricipated in a national match must attend the school in order to receive the Government allowance for transportation, etc.

Remer Establishes New Walk Record In A. A. U. Meet

Gotham Star Clips 10 4-5 Seconds Off Old Mark in Defeating Pearman.

NEW YORK A. C. WINS

Campbell of Yale Forced to Quit in Final Lap of 1000 Yard Run.

NEW YORK, March 19.—One new championship record was established during the national A. A. U. indoor track and field meet here tonight, when Richard F. Remer, unattached, of this city, won the one-mile walk in the excellent time of 6 minutes and 29 seconds. He finished just a few inches in front of L. G. Pearman, N. Y. A. C., who held the title and former record of 6:39 4-5. Remer's time was just one second behind the American record held by George H. Goulding of Canada.

The point trophy was won by the New York A. C. representatives. The point score was: New York A. C., 30; Brown University, 10; Princeton and Morningside A. C., 7 each; Pennsylvania State, Yale and Laughlin Lyceum, 5 each, and Harvard, 4.

Sidney Leslie of New York won the 1000-yard run easily, after assuming the lead in the third lap. Tom Campbell of Yale, who got away slowly, made his way up to third place, but the effort was too much for him and he quit in the final lap.

F. L. Murrey of Princeton won the 600-yard run. Dave Caldwell of the Boston A. A. led the field until well into the stretch, when Murrey and J. Sellers shot past him and the Boston man eased up, finishing outside of the point places.

E. O. Gourdin of Harvard led for half the 300 yards final, but J. J. O'Brien took the lead in the stretch and won by three yards from Benjamin M. Baker of the University of Virginia.

The summaries:

RUNNING HIGH JUMP—WON BY RICHard W. Landon, Yale University with 6 feet 1 inch; Walter Whalen, Boston A. A., 6 feet, second; Robert H. Brilliant Hurling By May (Yes, Jake) Wins for Rickey Southpaw Trims Athletics and Evens the Count in Spring Training Series.

PERTICA ALSO SHINES

Comes to Relief of May in Eighth and Stops Rally, Cardinals Winning, 4 to 1.

LAKE CHARLES, La., March 19.—A brand of near shutout pitching by our old friend, Jake May, ably assisted by Bill Jertica, enabled the Cardinals to defeat the Athletics by the score of 4 to 1 today. It was the tenth game of the series between the Cards and A.'s, and the victory gave the Cards an even break in the set to date.

While May and Pertica were mowing down the White Elephants with much success, save in one inning, the eighth, the Cards made good use of their bats and collected 13 hits. They massed their attack in the fifth and sixth innings off Ed Rommel, who had been a tough bird for the Knot Holers in the series. The result of this hit concentration gave the St. Louisans one run in the fifth and three in the sixth, more than enough to win.

For a time it looked as if Jakey would go the route. He blanked the Athletics for seven innings, and in that time the men of Connie Mack gathered only four hits. Jakey never looked better in his life, and in that same period had dished out only three bases on balls. Hornsby turned two misplays behind him, but these did no damage and Jakey was sailing along like Eddie Plank.

Pertica Stops a Rally.

He either lost his stuff or got tired going into the eighth. Johnny Walker, who went up for Bryan Harris at the beginning of the eighth, singled to center. Then Jake passed Dykes. He also pitched one wide ball to Perkins, when Manager Rickey wigwagged Jakey to the bench. Pertica went in and got the count to three and two on Perkins, but gave him a fourth ball. That packed the pillows with none out and with Tilly Walker at bat things didn't look so rosy. However, Walker slammed a hard drive to Hornsby, who stepped on third for a force out of Dykes and then fired the ball to Fournier at first in time to double the batter. It was a great play at both ends of the line. Incidentally, Johnny Walker scored. Pertica then bore down and struck out Welch for the third out of the inning, thus getting rid of the side with only one run being scored.

Rollie Naylor was the Mack pitcher at the start and shut out the Cards in the three innings he worked. Rommel came next, and while he blanked the Rickeymen in the fourth, got into trouble in the fifth.

With two gone he passed Mueller. Fournier followed with a long drive to left center for a double and "Heine" scored from first, while on Shannon's wild throw of the relay Fournier went to third. Toporcer left him there by striking out.

Hornsby Starts a Rally.

The game was put on ice in the sixth. This time Hornsby led off with one of his old time triples to left center. The drive probably would have been good for a homer, but the score was 1—0 and none out and he was held at third. Mann's best was a tap to Rommel and Hornsby was held at third. Lavan then put on the squeeze. He popped the ball over Rommel's head and Hornsby scored. Dykes fielded the ball and made a wide throw past first, Lavan going to third on the miscue. Clemons then drove Lavan over with a single to left and Heathcote put a one-shot in right. May attempted to sacrifice and laid down a perfect bunt along the third base line. This filled the bases. Clarence Mueller scored Clemons with a sacrifice fly to Clarence Walker. A pass to Fournier again filled the bases, but Welsh backed up for a good catch of Toporcer's drive.

Eleventh Game Tomorrow.

The championship of Houston, Orange, Lake Charles and Beaumont will be played at Orange tomorrow when the eleventh game of the series will be played between the Cards and Athletics. The count is now 5—5.

Toporcer went hitless, but met the ball hard three times. Once he was called out on strikes with the count 3 and 2 and a run on third. He played a great fielding game, however, figuring in three double plays with Lavan and Fournier. He still looks like the goods.

As Austin McHenry has not been hitting his weight Les Mann went to left field. Mann lost a hit when Shannon made a great bare-handed stop of his mean hopper in the ninth and followed with a great throw to first.

The de luxe fielding play of the game was made by Lavan. Welch hit a high bounder that sailed to Lavan's right. It had all the earmarks of a safety, but Lavan hurled himself at the ball, reached out his gloved hand and came down with the ball. He straightened out immediately and hurled to Fournier in time for the putout. Fans and players applauded.

Clemons got two doubles and a single in four times at bat. He was the hitting hero.

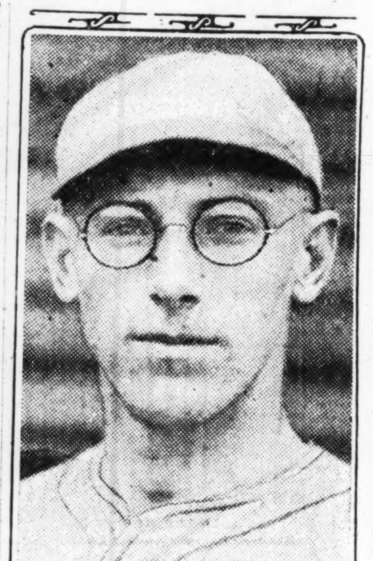
Jack Fournier fell a victim to the moss-covered hidden ball trick in the third. Two were out at the time and Jack was on first as a result of a pass. Griffin had hidden the ball after taking a pop from Toporcer and when Founier rambled off the bag tagged him. The umpire didn't see the play and Griffin held Fournier until the umpires turned around.

Pertica looked better than he did against the Yanks. He pitched nice ball after relieving May in the eighth and came back in the ninth like a champ. He retired Dugan and Frank Walker on grounders to Hornsby and topped the performance by striking out Shannon, ending the game.

Toporcer, Bespectacled Player, Cardinals' Pre-Season Sensation

New York Youngster, Who Never Played Minor League Baseball, Has Shown Unusual Ability and Has Good Chance of Becoming Team's Regular Second Sacker.

ORANGE Tex., March 19.—Undoubtedly the most interesting athlete who has broken into prominence this Spring is George Torporcer, the bespectacled infielder, now working out with the St. Louis Cardinals at tehir camp here. If Torporcer achieves his object of begeoming a big leaguer he will be the only regular in the major baseball organization who plays while wearing spectacles.



"SPECS" TOPORCER

At this writing there are two mighty good reasons for believing that Toporcer will be the Cardinals' second baseman. The first is because he has displayed unusual ability for a player, who has never had any minor league experience. The second reason is that there is a vacancy on the Cardinal infield, due to "Holdout" Milton J. Stock, the club's regular third sacker.

Toporcer is the property of the Syracuse (International League) club, but already the wheels are moving toward his release to the St. Louis club. This will not be a difficult matter because of the recent working agreement effected by the two clubs. It will be necessary for the St. Louis club to turn over several promising players to the Syracuse club in exchange for the new wonder.

Toporcer a New York Boy.

Toporcer is a New York boy and has played lot baseball for several years. He jumped into prominence last season as a member of the Orange A. A. team of Newark. In the Newark City League he hit .421 and fielded sensationally. While his fame spread like wildfire, major and minor league scouts hesitated because he wears glasses. They realized that Lee Meadows wears glasses and has been succesful, but Meadows is a pitcher. They couldn't conceive how an infielder, handicapped by specs, could get by as a fielder and hitter.

But Toporcer has fooled them all. He has been assigned to the first club and has been the sensation of the Cardinal games.

In the language of Manager Branch Rickey, "Toporcer hasn't done one thing wrong since coming to camp."

The newest sensation is 22 years old and ideally built for an athlete. He weighs about 170 pounds, is a left-handed hitter and unusually fast. He has made a study of baseball and is never better pleased than when Rickey, Charley Barrett, Joe Sugden, Burt Shotton or one of the older players takes him aside for a word of advice.

Has Always Worn "Specs."

His courage is the thing that makes him admired. He doesn't fear being struck in the eye or glasses by a batted or thrown ball. "It hasn't happened yet and even if I would be hit, I always carry an extra pair of specs with me," he says.

Toporcer's eyes have bothered him since a babe. He wears heavily rimmed glasses with lenses about 1-16th of an inch in thickness. Without the glasses he is as blind as the proverbial bat.

When the announcement was first made that Toporcer, wearing specs, would try out with the Cardinals, his coming wasn't taken seriously. Now it is different. He has made good and the holdout of Stock assumes less serious proportions as the Cardinals will start the season with the Peerless Peper Hornsby at third and Toporcer at second.

Cleveland Hockey Team Wins.

CLEVELAND, O., March 19.—The Cleveland hockey team tonight defeated the Boston A. A. team by a score of 3 to 0 in the final game of the first group series of the United States Hockey Amateur League. This gives the Cleveland team the group championship and eliminates Boston from the race. Cleveland will meet the eleventh Minnesota team in the final championship series on March 29 and 30 and April 1 and 2.

Joe McGinnity 50 Years Old.

DECATUR, Ill., March 19.—Joe McGinnity, famous iron man of baseball, celebrated his fiftieth birthday anniversary here today by pitching four innings for the Staley Yannigans against the Staley regulars in a practice game. McGinnity let the regulars down with two hits in the four frames.

Fohl's Hurlers Hold New Orleans Pelicans to Six Safe Swats.

BOGALUSA, LA., March 19.—Allan Sothoron and Billy Bayne held New Orleans safe in today's ball game, the Browns winning easily, 8 to 2. Sothoron struck out nine of the Pelicans, while Bayne fanned eight. George Sisler had only one putout at first base and that one came when Hank Severeid dropped a third strike on Clarence Underwood in the opening inning, forcing the St. Louis catcher to throw to first to retire the batter.

Sothoron held the Pelicans to five hits and one run in five innings. In the second round New Orleans bunched three hits. At other times Al held his opponents safe. His fast ball shot over the plate in splendid style and had the Pels swinging late. One was down in the second, Leslie, the first baseman, having fanned, when Boone connected for a single to left field. Sheridan singled to center, Rader poled a double between Jacobson and Wetzel in right field, scoring Boone. Catcher Smith of New Orleans hit to Sisler and Sheridan was caught at the plate, while Pitcher Lehman was number four on Sothoron's strike-out list. He displayed wonderful control, not passing a single batter during his stay on the pitching mound.

Billy Bayne went to work starting the sixth and but for an error by Earl Smith he would not have been scored against. Bayne struck out Ripperton, the first batter to face him. Underwood drew a base on balls. Leslie took three vigorous swings and retired to the bench. Boone slapped a mean hopper straight back at Bayne, which the latter was unable to hold, the batter getting credit for a hit. Sheridan waited and drew four wide ones, filling the bases. Hank Severeid made a perfectly good peg to Earl Smith to catch Underwood off the bag, but Earl allowed the ball to go through him, Underwood scoring. Rader then ended the inning by striking out. The hit made by Boone was the only one registered against Bayne. The clever little southpaw had his opponents swinging their arms off and stepping back constantly from his curve ball.

The same teams will meet again tomorrow in what will be the final clash with the Pelicans. After this game Manager Fohl will rush his first string squad to a train and the Browns Monday will meet Milwaukee at Gulfport.

MICHIGAN STAR DENIES HE PLAYED PROFESSIONAL BASEBALL LAST SEASON

ANN ARBOR, Mich., March 19.—Vernon L. Parks, captain and star pitcher of the Michigan baseball team, today declared there was no truth in reports that he had played professional baseball on the Pacific Coast last summer.

Athletic officials here refused to comment on the case further than to say that if the charges were proved, Parks would, of course, be declared ineligible for further intercollegiate competition.

If Parks were lost to the squad, Michigan would have but one veteran pitcher left, Ed Ruzicka, and hopes for a big 10-diamond title would be small.

NEW LAW WILL GUARD BASEBALL FROM FRAUD

ALBANY, N. Y., March 19.—The Kavanaugh-Merrigan law will safeguard baseball against fraud, John A. Heydler, president of the National League, today informed Gov. Miller. Under the law, which was enacted this week, the accepting or offering of a bribe to lose a professional baseball game is a felony.

Illinois Wins Title.

CHICAGO, March 19.—The University of Illinois water basketball team won the Western Conference championship today by defeating the University of Chicago, 6 to 2.

Ruth's Salary to Be $50,000 if He Beats His Home Run Record

NEW YORK, March 19.

IF Babe Ruth breaks his world record of 54 home runs this year it is reported he will receive a total salary of $50,000 from the owners of the Yankees. Insiders are responsible for the report that Ruth's contract with the Yankees calls for a flat salary of $30,000 with a sliding scale of bonuses that will swell the amount to the $50,000 mark if the Home Run King knocks out 55 or more circuit drives during the approaching campaign.

It is a fact that some of the conspicuous players draw larger salaries than they really deserve, while other men who are winning factors often are underpaid. But in the case of Ruth there is no favoritism, no financial holdup. The big slugger was worth every dollar he received from the Yankees' owners last year, and he seems to be in a fair way to earn the greatest sum of real money ever paid to a professional ball player. Last year he received about $40,000.

Kenrick Beaten in Division Final of Basket Tourney

Kansas City Quintet Proves Too Strong for St. Louisans and Wins Easily, 41 to 25.

COLUMBIA, Mo., March 19.—Batting hard, but outclassed from the start by the smashing attack and iron defense of the Kansas City Northeast five, Kenrick High School of St. Louis was eliminated from the race for the State basket-ball title here this afternoon, 41 to 25. Northeast finished first in Division 2, with Kenrick in second place. In Division 1, Warrensburg finished first, with Boonville in the runner-up position.

In the final game of the tournament the Kansas City team walked off with the championship by defeating Warrensburg, 47 to 22.

Northeast led from the start in the game which eliminated the St. Louis five, and Coach Sexton was able to save his team for the championship battle by frequent substitutions. At half time Northeast led, 25 to 7.

In the second half Kenrick fought harder and scored more heavily against the strong Kansas City five, but Northeast was too far in the lead to be checked by a late rally.

Northeast in reaching the final, defeated Independence, Columbia and Kenrick. Kenrick gave the Kansas Cityans their hardest battle in Division 2.

The score of the Kenrick-Northeast game follows:

YALE SWIMMER BREAKS THE INTERCOLLEGIATE RECORD FOR 50 YARDS

NEW YORK, March 19.—Edwin Binney Jr. of Yale set an intercollegiate record of 23 4-5 seconds for the 50-yard swim in a trial heat at the individual intercollegiate championships here tonight.

Yale won three events for a total of 26 points, 21 more than her nearest competitors, Amherst and Rutgers. Columbia had four, Pennsylvania three and Navy two.

Binney got off to a slow start in the final, however, and finished second to R. P. Demon of Amherst. The former record was 24 1-5, made by Binney at New Haven March 11.

The summaries:

50 YARDS—WON BY R. P. DEMON, Amherst; second, E. Binney Jr., Yale; third, W. Emory, Naval Academy. Time, 24 4-5s.

100 YARDS—WON BY L. P. THURSTON, Yale; second, W. L. Jelliffe, Yale; third, W. Mory, Naval Academy. Time, 56 2-5s.

220 YARDS—WON BY L. GIEBEL, Rutgers; second, C. D. Pratt, Yale; third, H. R. Marshall, Yale. Time, 2m. 27 1-5s.

DIVE—WON BY J. K. POLLARD, YALE, with 105 points; second, M. F. Armstrong, Pennsylvania, 101.3 points; third, Lam Balbach, Columbia, 101.2 points.

PLUNGES—WON BY R. H. MEAGHER, Yale, 75 feet; second, W. Mahar, Columbia, 74 feet 6 inches; third, D. J. Wood, Yale, 74 feet 3 inches.

FERSHMAN RELAY, 200 YARDS—WON by Pennsylvania (Medhordt, Loeb, Holst and Genthner); second, Brown; third, Princeton. Time, 1m. 42 3-5s.

PIKEWAY NINE DEFEATS KEYSTONES IN OPENING GAME OF SEASON, 8-7

The Washington University baseball team won its first game of the season at Francis Field yesterday afternoon, defeating the Keystones, 8 to 7. Coach Billy Bascom used three pitchers, Scurloch, Trautwein and Capt. Lyon. Lyon hurled the last two rounds and did not allow a safety. Bascom was well pleased with the showing of his other two flingers.

The lineups were as follows: Washington—Linnemeyer, 3b; Schewe, 2b; Shanley, 1b; Hurd, rf; Berger, cf; Magualo, lf; T. Thompson, lf; Debolt, ss; King, ss; G. Thompson, c; Scurloch, p; Trautwein, p; Lyon, p. Keystones—Miller, 3b; Schultz, 3b; Becker, ss; Fries, rf; B. Fisher, 1b; O'Shea, cf; Larkin, lf; McIntyre, c; R. Fisher, b, and Bishop, p.

Webster Winner In Pikeway Title Basket Tourney

County Quintet Defeats Centralia, Ill., in Deciding Contest by 21-20 Score.

A sustained effort during the last 10 minutes of play enabled the Webster High School basketball team to overcome a 5 point lead held by Centralia, Ill., High School, and gain a 21-to-20 victory in the final round of the Washington University interscholastic tournament, yesterday afternoon.

Webster and Centralia won their way into the championship round by taking the semifinal contests in the morning. The champions defeated Illmo, Mo., 21—13; while Centralia eliminated East St. Louis, Ill., 30 to 14.

The final contest was as exciting a "prep" encounter as has been played on a local court in several seasons. Webster started with a spurt, then Centralia went ahead, and finally the last period basket fusillade of the county champions decided the issue. The game was essentially a defensive one, but the score cannot indicate the number of shots attempted as both teams missed countless chances.

Failure on Fouls Costly.

Centralia undoubtedly can attribute its defeat to its failure on foul throws. Cox, right guard, had been one of the most consistent tossers from the free line in the tournament; but yesterday he was unable to locate the net. Only eight out of the 15 chances were capitalized, whereas he made 80 per cent of the shots during the earlier rounds.

Webster as usual depended upon the five-man defense and showed during the early stages that a short passing game would not get Centralia by the barrier. Consequently the Illinoisans changed tactics and dribbled right in and throufh. Webster used a passing game, sideline to sideline, through the contest and showed a smooth co-ordination in attack. Both teams had a hard time in starting and found scoring difficult. Webster netted three field goals and held a 6-to-2 lead at the end of the first 10 minutes. Centralia rallied toward the close of the half and when the intermission was called, Webster led by the unconvincing margin of 10 to 7.

Centralia Goes Into Lead.

The Illinois team came back with a determination and scored eight points in the next period before Coach Roberts' athletes could locate the basket. When the third period ended and Centralia was leading 17 to 12, it seemed as if the championship and the Leacock trophy would go across the river.

There apparently was a slight letup in the Centralia play at the start of the last period and Webster took immediate advantage of it. They started to pepper the opposing basket and made good on long shots. Twice they went ahead by one point and each time the count was evened.

With the tally 19—19, Stewart of Webster tossed the field goal which decided the issue. There was about three minutes to play and Webster then resorted to the rather odious tactics of "stalling" for time in its own territory. A foul was committed just before the game ended and Hughes of Centralia added the useless point.

The summary:

PENNSYLVANIA DECLINES MISSOURI'S CHALLENGE

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., March 19.—The University of Pennsylvania basketball team, intercollegiate champions of the East, today declined to play a series of games with the University of Missouri, winners of the Missouri Valley championship.

Pennsylvania's management explained the team had just completed the hardest schedule in its history and some of the men were in poor physical condition. Four of the squad are needed for the baseball team whose schedule begins in one week.

It was also pointed out that the difference in interpretation of rules between the West and East made such a series more or less unsatisfactory.

CENTRAL LOSES FIRST BASEBALL CONTEST TO ALUMNI OUTFIT, 9-5

The Central High School baseball team lost its first game of the season, the Alumni outfit gaining a victory by a 9-to-5 score at High School Field yesterday afternoon. Callan and McCaffery did the pitching for the winners, while Undelman went the full route for the Interscholastic Leaguers. Each team made 12 hits.

The lineups were as follows: Kutter, 1b; Fisher, 2b; Williamson, ss; Fanning, 3b; Margulis, lf; Olsen, cf; Davidson, rf; Newson, c. and Undelman, p. Alumni—Mathews, 1b; McTernan, 2b; Hendry, ss; Moronen, 3b; Anzalone, lf; McCaffery, cf—p; Crystal, rf; Trez, c, and Callan, p—rf.

First Rank Heavyweight Sought As Opponent for Heitzenroeder

Future City Athletic Club Considers Martin, Roper, Weinert, Walker and Other Eligibles for Match With Local "Heavy" at the Coliseum Late Next Month—Good Bouts in Prospect.

By John E. Wray.

THEY are framing up trouble for Herman Heitzenroder, the heavyweight wrestler and fighter, whose picture, inscribed "Our Conquering Hero," adorns the walls of the South Broadway Athletic Club. Herman not long ago suspended his duties as fight matchmaker for the S. B. A. C. long enough to train and take on Willie Meehan at the Armory, with a result surprising to all who saw the bout. Instead of being cuffed about like a "boob," Heitz took the battle in hand from the jump and savagely punished the man whom Dempsey was unable to drop in six four-round attempts.

Heitz had Willie on the floor in 90 seconds and at the end of the eight rounds the coast fighter had one eye closed, another terribly bruised and discolored, and one ear split. All the "kidding" which Meehan employs as part of his ring art had been knocked out of him.

The impression made by the rugged Heitz on Promoter Leo Heyman of the Future City Athletic Club was such that ever since he has been seeking an opponent for Herman, with the idea of featuring the contest late in April at the Coliseum.

Apparently Heyman thinks well of Herman for among the men considered he mentioned Brennan, Martin, Weinert, Bob Roper and others. It is possible that Hugh Walker, one of the toughest of the light heavies, who has met practically all of the good fighters without suffering any great disaster, will be the opponent chosen. If he is, it will be a real battle, for both men are stout and dead game.

Coliseum May Match Heitz.

Heitzenroeder is something of a miracle man. Few who saw him at the Armory, last Monday, a beau ideal, in athletic sense, with a youthful, smiling face, would have believed that the blond hercules was nearly 33 years of age. Fewer of those who saw him hammer Meehan savagely for a near knockout would have believed it was only his fourth fight.

Heitz showed he could "take" almost anything, in the Meehan bout. When Willie sent home some resounding wallops, in the later stages of the fight, and punched Heitz about the ring, it didn't feaze the S. B. A. C. wrestler one bit. Between rounds he sat in his chair beaming like a newlywed.

Yes, Willie Was Hurt.

Some ringsiders professed to believe that Meehan was not hurt when Heitzenroeder floored him. Referee Leo Shea was asked about it.

"Meehan was dazed by the blow, beyond doubt," said Shea. "He rolled his head toward his corner, after being dropped, and batted his eye slyly. But it was fully as intelligent a wink as a drunken man might use when he thought he was pulling something foxy. Meehan's actions following the blow were significant. He tucked his head behind his folded arms and waited for the Heitzenroeder storm to pass and for his head to clear. Had Heitz had more experience, Meehan probably would not have weathered the gale.

"This Heitzenroeder can hit terrifically. I believe that some of the blows Meehan took would have flattened men like Fred Fulton. You certainly have to hand it to Meehan for fighting 'heart.' He lost his smile and his kidding powers; but he surely stood the gaff like a man."

How to Handle Heavies.

Shea was asked if he had any difficulty in handling the heavyweights—his first big match in this city.

"It was like parting a pair of fighting bull moose. Both men were willing to clinch. I use a system, on this kind, however. I use my wrists or the edge of my palms to press against the Adam's apples of both simultaneously. The men are already gasping for breath from their exertions and the pressure on the Adam's apple shuts off their wind and causes a choking sensation. After one or two applications of light pressure they nearly always come apart without much effort thereafter."

This Week's Battles.

The week's local matches will include a couple of promising affrays. Monday night will witness the third meeting of that tearin', rarin' young man, Buddie Taylor and Jimmy Murphy. Buddie is from Terre Haute, but don't hold that against him. He is a regular boy full of "wim and wigor" and he made Jimmy step lively to avoid a knockout, in the earlier stages of their meeting here. He tired, however, and Jimmy finished strong.

If Buddie can keep the pace he set here at the start of his first fight, he will lead the consistent Jimmy a merry chase.

Another bout is set for Wednesday night at the South Broadway with Patsy Flannagan and Muft McKee as principals. Peewee Kaiser had been named as McKee's opponent, but Peewee's hand was not in shape to permit his appearance and Flannagan was substituted.

The next Coliseum show is set for April 1 and Jack Lawler, the wild-rushing wonder from Omaha, will face Billy Cole, as good a boxer as has entered in this vicinity in a long time. Cole has just recovered from a long illness, but is stronger and heavier than before. His workouts have greatly pleased those who have watched him.

Lawler, a willing fighter, has not always pleased St. Louis fans because now and then he does more storming around than fighting. Sweeping an opponent off his feet by rushes is one of his specialties not contemplated in the Queensberry rules. For straight up boxing Cole seems to be the better boy.

Mrs. Mallory Wins Net Title

Allows Mrs. Cole Only Two Games in Final of Indoor Championship Tourney.

BOSTON, Mass., March 19.—Mrs. Franklin T. Mallory, who was Miss Molla Bjurstedt, added another to her long line of tennis championships today when she won the National indoor singles title. Her defeat of Mrs. B. E. Cole II in the final round of the championship tournament on the Longwood Cricket Club's covered court was in straight sets, 6—0, 6—2.

Mrs. Mallory, back almost to the base line much of the time from the far court, kept up a steady fire, hammering home shots that either found placement points or forced her less experienced opponent into errors. It was not until the second game of the second set that Mrs. Cole was able to earn a point.

Mrs. Mallory, with competition for the women's doubles and the mixed doubles championships also awaiting her today, went to her task to make short work of it, and did.

Mrs. Mallory and Tilden won the National mixed doubles title in straight sets, but only after a stiff struggle with Mrs. G. W. Wightman and R. Norris Williams II. The scores were: 6—2, 6—4.

Mrs. G. W. Wightman and Miss Marion A. Zinderstein, both of Brookline, won the National women's doubles championship by defeating Mrs. Franklin I. Mallory and Mrs. L. G. Norris of New York, 6—3, 7—5.

DAWSON WILL COACH NEBRASKA NEXT FALL

LINCOLN, Neb., March 19.—Fred W. Dawson, former Princeton athlete, has accepted an offer to coach the 1921 University of Nebraska football team, it was announced tonight by Athletic Director Fred W. Bushring.

Coach Dawson is expected to arrive in Lincoln within two weeks to start spring training.

Henry F. Schulte, 1919 and 1920 football coach, will remain at the university in charge of track and intramural athletics.

In his college days, Dawson played at fullback and quarter and was captain of the varsity baseball team.

Vincent Richards Beaten.

NEW YORK, March 19.—Vincent Richards, national indoor tennis champion, was eliminated today from the metropolitan indoor championship tournament when he was defeated by Francis T. Hunter of New York, 6—1, 3—6, 6—4. Richards ranks twelfth in the national list and Hunter seventeenth.

Stanford Athletes Win.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., March 19.—The track and field team of Stanford University defeated the University of Southern California, 71 to 60, here today.

17 BILLIONS NEEDED BY U. S. IN 30 MONTHS

Secretary Weeks Points to Serious Problems in Address in Pittsburg.

By the Associated Press.

PITTSBURG, March 19.—Something like $17,000,000,000 must be provided by the Federal Government within the next 30 months to meet its running expenses and refunding operations, Secretary Weeks of the War Department declared tonight in an address before the Pittsburg Chamber of Commerce.

"This," the Secretary said, " is an infinitely greater task than was ever undertaken by any nation in the world in time of peace, and there is no one, skilled in financial operaitions though he may be, who does not view the prospect with more or less alarm. With this situation facing us it is the height of folly to undertake new commitments if they can be avoided."

The War Secretary discussed economy in Government operations, recognition of Federal activities in Washington, taxation and the tariff. He urged repeal of the excess profits tax, declaring that in a period of falling prices it was not an effective tax as probably would be shown when the returns for this year were published. He said there were innumerable instances where concerns, which made large profits in 1919, paying a tax on these profits, lost so much during 1920 that on the first of January, 1921, their resources were less than they were the first of January, 1919.

Change in Tariff Policy.

Turning to the tariff, Weeks said the country had reached a point where it must make a radical change in its tariff system. New problems associated with rates of exchange, growing out of the war, made the tariff a more complicated question than usual, he said, adding that it would seem to him that the amount of revenue which should be produced f. m importations would be between $500,000,000 and $600,000,000 a year.

"Whatever may be determined," the Secretary continued, "it would seem to me the duties imposed should be based on the normal rate of exchange and that the Secretary of the Treasury should have the power to change the rates of duty to correspond to any material change in the rate of exchange. Otherwise, under conditions like the present, no tariff rate could be imposed which would protect this country against some nations without placing an unbearable burden on those countries where the rates of exchange are nearly normal.

"Our first purpose in the past and now has been to provide for our own needs in revenue and protection, but in framing a new tariff law, we must give some consideration, if for no other than the most selfish reasons, to our markets. To impose a greater duty than the ordinary difference in the cost of production, would mean destroying the possibility of European markets, especially where the rate of exchange is such that they cannot purchase from us except under the greatest stress."

Three members of President Harding's Cabinet, Secretary Mellon, Secretary Weeks and Secretary Davis came to Pittsburg with Congressman Fordney of Michigan, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, to be guests of the Chamber of Commerce.

MUNICIPAL BOARD FOR THE PROTECTION OF GIRLS PROPOSED

Ordinance, Introduced in Board of Aldermen, Relates to the Work of the Euclid Home.

A bill providing for a municipal board for the protection of girls, which was introduced in the Board of Aldermen Friday, relates to the work of Eculid Home, 2800 North Taylor avenue. A statement appearing in a news article in yesterday's Post-Dispatch was in error, in making it appear that the bill related to the proposed Municipal Industrial Farm for Girls. An ordinance for the establishment of the farm is pending.

Euclid Home is an institution of limited capacity, and is used for specialized cases, of girls not under 17 years old. Many cases which are not received by the institution are investigated and dealt with by the officials of the home, and the number of these cases is estimated at 1000 to 1200 a year.

The bill, wihch was introduced by Alderman A. H. Niederluecke, at the request of Director Schmoll of the Department of Public Welfare, provides for the appointment of a board of seven members, to serve without pay, by the Director of Public welfare, and that the membership shall include at least one Protestant, one Catholic and one Jew, as well as at least three women and one physician.

The Director of Public Welfare and the Hospital and Health Commissioners, who are his subordinates, would be ex-officio members. The board members would hold office seven years, the first group to be appointed for terms ranging from one to seven years.

The ordinance appropriates $20,000 for salaries and expense for one year, the salaries being those of an executive secretary, $2500 a year; supervisor, $1800; superintendent, $1800 and maintenance; assistant superintendent $1000 and maintenance; a housekeeper, two field workers and a stenographer-clerk.

NEGROES AROUSED WHEN POLICEMAN SHOOTS BOY

Hundreds Gather About Station, Threatening Trouble After Commotion on Jefferson Avenue.

Several hundred negroes gathered last night at 8:30 o'clock about the Laclede avenue police station to which a 12-year-old negro boy, who had been shot and slightly wounded by a policeman, had been taken.

The attitude of the crowd was regarded as menacing and a call was sent to Central Station for reserves who, upon their arrival, dispersed the crowd.

Patrolman Leonard Flemming reported that at 8:15 he had ordered about 15 negroes congregated at the northwest corner of Jefferson avenue and Chestnut street to move on because they were too noisy. Some one, he said, threw a bottle which knocked off his cap, whereupon the negroes rushed him. He drew his revolver and fired two shots in the air, he said. One of these shots struck Herbert Wright, 12, of 2741 Clark avenue, a negro, in the left side, inflicting a flesh wound. The policeman could not say how the bullet happened to hit the boy.

The negroes ran at the shots and upon the approach of Sergt. Patrick Murphy, but great numbers of them followed the policemen when they took the boy to the station. After arrival, those within heard shouts of "get the policeman," which caused the call for reserves.

MRS. M. HANDSHY KILLS HERSELF

Wife of Illinois Traction Officer Dies at Home in Springfield.

News of the death of Mrs. Martha Handshy, wife of C. F. Handshy, general superintendent of the Illinois Traction System, was received yesterday at Edwardsville. Mrs. Handshy, who had been ill for the past two years, died at her home in Springfield from self-inflicted knife wounds. She had been for some months in a sanitarium.

The exact time of her death was not determined. At 2 o'clock in the afternoon she chatted with a friend over the telephone. At 6:15 when Mr. Handshy returned from his office to their home at 417 East Allen street, he found her dead body lying across a bed.

This Great Company Stands Behind the Oakland Car

A few timely facts about the size, experience and stability of the concern that produces one of the world's most popular motor cars

THIS is a year in the automobile business when the standing and resources of the motor car manufacturer count as they never counted before.

Wise automobile buyers, for the protection of their present and future interests, are carefully weighing the record and reputation of the company behind the product.

In common with other good manufacturers, Oakland welcomes this tendency as something long-awaited and much desired.

For we know well that every additional fact that the public learns about our Company and its methods, is likewise an additional argument in favor of our car.

Oakland's Place in the Industry

The Oakland Motor Car Company was founded fourteen years ago, which is a long time as time is measured in so young an industry.

In the period since, it has grown steadily from a minor factor in the business to the seventh largest producer of automobiles in the world.

Today it not only manufactures all the important elements of its product, but it virtually controls the manufacture of all minor parts and equipment as well.

For the Oakland Company is an important unit of the General Motors Corporation, the largest automobile producing organization on earth.

The Present Oakland Product

The Oakland Sensible Six car today represents six years' concentration by Oakland upon the development of a well-built, serviceable and lightweight automobile.

Its six-cylinder engine is of overhead-valve design, a type demonstrated as superior by its use in all airplane and racing car engines.

Because its overhead-valve cylinder is the nearest commercial approach to the ideal combustion chamber, this engine delivers more power than others of similar size.

It has very light but strong reciprocating parts which reduce bearing loads and minimize vibration, a superior method of vaporizing fuel, and the best lubricating system yet devised.

The Economy of the Oakland

The Oakland Sensible Six owner realizes a measure of combined efficiency and low cost from his car that in our opinion no other automobile can equal.

He enjoys more miles from the gallon of gasoline, more power per pound of car weight, quicker acceleration, easier hill-climbing and greater flexibility, than are available in any other car at anywhere near the Oakland price.

Because of the Oakland policy of focusing its whole energies upon a single chassis type of proved capacity, he commands a value much greater than would otherwise be possible.

Because of the size and stability of Oakland he is assured of the permanence of his investment, and consequently of the relatively high re-sale value of his car.

THE OAKLAND CREED

"To build at a fair price an automobile so sightly as to uphold its owner's honest pride, so competent as to arouse his genuine respect, so reliable as to win his deepest confidence, so economical as to serve his highest interest—this has been the purpose, is now the accomplishment, and will continue to be the endeavor to which Oakland devotes the whole of its energies, its resources and its skill."

The Record of the Oakland

Behind the present Oakland Sensible Six as an endorsement, is the record of more than 200,000 other Oaklands of similar type, already satisfactorily serving owners.

These owners report performance of a remarkably efficient character, with returns of from 18 to 25 miles to the gallon of gasoline, and from 8,000 to 12,000 miles on tires.

Ready for your inspection now are Oakland cars of similar calibre, in Open Car, Coupe, Roadster and Sedan models.

We shall be glad at any time to demonstrate the Oakland to you.

Radical Russia Today as an American Communist Found It

Patrick Quinlan, Former I. W. W. Chief, Admits Government Is Autocratic and "Held in Lenine's Hand," but Asserts That,, Excepting Great Britain and Spain, It Is the Strongest in Europe.

Tested by Efficiency and the Capacity to Get Results, He Declares Soviet Rule Is Highly Successful, for It Has Got Control of All the Machinery for Ruling Throughout the Land and Is Holding It Firmly.

Communist Party, to Join Which One Has to Go Through as Much Preparatory Ceremonial as in Joining an American Lodge, Is in Complete Dominion Through Its 600,000 Carefully Selected Members.

By Rowland Thomas

A Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, March 19.

THE Post-Dispatch has printed material brought out of Russia by persons of many widely differing types and backgrounds; by newspaper correspondents, American and foreign; by men and women; by official and quasi-official observers; by merchants, investors and concessionaires, and by mere travelers. It has not before printed the impression made by that most radical of all modern political experiments on an American radical, and particularly on an American radical like Patrick Quinlan, whom an old acquaintance thus characterizes:

"Pat is a rarely learned and thoughtful man. Only his Irish eagerness for action has kept him from being a notable scholar. And Pat is a political extremist. If his scholarly thoroughness and fairness didn't continually hold him back, he might be a Red Terror."

Before a man is permitted to speak as a radical, he must show credentials. A bit of biography, therefore.

Patrick Quinlan, 38 or 39 years old; an American citizen, born in Limerick, Ireland, of the peasantry; educated in England in a small Catholic college; went to work with his hands; came to America; union man and Socialist; became organizer successively for the A. F. L. and the I. W. W.; was active in a longshoremen's strike, an international hotel strike and the big silk strike which was "pulled" in Paterson a few years ago.

Spent a Year in Russia

Because the authorities of Paterson forbade public speaking by the strike leaders, Patrick Quinlan spoke. Because he spoke he was sentenced to the State prison at Trenton. Because he had two years to do it in, he thoroughly studied prison conditions there. Because they did not meet his approval he expressed his feelings. Because he did that the Governor of New Jersey appointed a commission to investigate. Patrick Quinlan's charges were sustained and the prison system of the State underwent reorganization and reformation. So Pat got even with the law. Since then he has been lecturing and writing.

A year ago he went to Russia on his own motion and at his own expense. He was, he says, a perfectly free agent. He represented no organization or group. His whole purpose was to see what was going on inside the federated soviet republic. For seven months he was in the country. Most of this time was spent in Moscow, the rest in visits to other localities. He inspected factories, farms, schools, camps, prisons, Government bureaus, railroads. He got acquainted. He talked with industrial workers, soviet officials, union leaders, soldiers, officers, farmers, teachers, engineers, children, foreigners of every nation, including Chinese, who were either resident or visitors like himself. He hit the highest spots and the lowest. He communed with Lenine in his study; viewed the art treasures which, he says, contrary to common rumor, are still carefully preserved in the palaces and museums; attended the imperial ballet as a guest of the Government, sitting in the box which used to be the personal property of the Czar, and also in the now more important box reserved for the use of the Third International; got into a Bolshevist jail when, exercising his Irish prerogative of being against the Government, he violated the rules of the censorship covering letters destined for foreign countries and, by a sentence in Gaelic, brought himself under suspicion of being an anti-Bolshevist spy.

What Is Matter Over There?

Having thus come into intimate contact with almost every phase of life in present-day Russia, he started home in January. Running true to form, he got arrested again in Riga, this time as a suspected Bolshevik propagandist, because the Latvian authorities could not understand how such a radical could be leaving Russia without a passport and the card which proves membership in the Communist party. After six weeks' detention he was released. A few days ago he reached New York again; and this is his first extended statement since his arrival.

Lenine Pictured as Most Popular Man in Russia

LENINE sees quite clearly that conditions, not theories, confront him and acts accordingly. When he deems it advisable to use the help of foreign capital, he makes terms with it, as in the case of the Vanderlip concessions in Siberia. When men had to be compelled to work, he compelled them. When control of the press and prevention of oral criticism seemed to him necessary, he swept free speech out of Russia, with the comment that the supposed right of free speech was only a bourgeois prejudice. Make no mistake about Lenine! He holds Russia in his hand and holds it by force of his intelligence. He knows the country and the people thoroughly. He does not understand America at all—at times he seems to fail to understand England—but he makes no mistakes at home. You hear less criticism of him there than of anybody else. At the last referendum taken in a group of factories, he received more votes than Trotzky, the second man, by something like 80 to 1, and he is so popular that men of all classes trim their beards to resemble his.—PATRICK QUINLAN.

Not as a Socialized Utopia brought down from heaven, like H. G. Wells and similar parlor revolutionaries—not as a Red confusion worse confounded, like the American business man, Hector Boon, who recently gave his impressions in this paper, but as a stretch of earth like any other, where men like you and me are striving against extraordinary handicaps to conduct an experiment of extraordinary importance and have so far, all things considered, been extraordinarily successful, does Patrick Quinlan see Soviet Russia.

"What is the matter over there now?" he was asked.

"Why, anything," he countered, and when reminded of the recently suppressed revolt in the Kronstadt-Petrograd district and the reported disturbances in Moscow and elsewhere, ignored them for the moment.

"Russia," he said, "must not be judged by any American standards, but in the light of her Eastern European setting, her own past history and the present-day circumstances and conditions, the wastage caused there, as everywhere else, by the war, and the paralysis caused by the blockade. Judged so, Russia is doing remarkably well.

"The Federal Soviets seem to me one of the three strongest Governments in Europe—Great Britain and Spain being the other two. Their rule is drastic and autocratic, but again only as contrasted with Western, not local, traditions. And again it must be remembered that war and revolution have but recently been there. To win a war any government must be made drastic and autocratic, as our own was under President Wilson.

"Efficiency, getting results, is the only real test. So tested, the men who are ruling Russia are successful. They have succeeded in getting the whole machinery of government firmly in their grasp, and throughout the whole territory—comprising one-eighth of the globe, the largest continuous stretch of national territory in the world—they are feeding the entire population, which necessarily implies maintaining transportation, law and order. Life is safer today in Moscow than it is in New York City. There are almost no crimes against the person—crimes of violence—and I saw only one trolley accident while I was there, though the system is antiquated and the city contains 2,000,000 people now and is as overcrowded as New York.

Flexibility in Appointments

"Also," he went on, "their system of elections and appointments has that extreme flexibility which industrial and efficiency engineers now regard as essential to ideal organization. Instead of being tied down to a local constituency a man can function in the place where he is most needed and useful. This enables the central Government to maintain its very firm control even in remote localities."

Again Quinlan was reminded of the Kronstadt-Petrograd revolt as a possible indication that the central Government was losing its grip on Russia.

"I do not think it indicates that," he answered. "It is the first serious internal disturbance since the Bolshevists got complete control of Russia, but it does not come as a great surprise to one acquainted with the governmental machinery. In view of the rigid political control of the army, friction was bound to develop between the old-fashioned military men commanding the troops and the political 'commissaries,' who are attached to every regiment and every staff service unit, and who constantly report to the central Government.

"It may be," he added, "that in some instances the element of racial dislike, jealousy and resentment is involved. Many of the political commissars are Jewish. Most of the army officers are Russians. But I should be very hesitant about attaching much weight to that fact, which is the result of a pure accident, not of any plan. It merely happens that there are more Jews than Russians who, as a result of education, travel and business experience, are qualified to fill these difficult positions. At any rate, there are enough Russian commissars to make it clear that the basic trouble is not racial but personal—the traditional conflict always looked for when military and civil authorities are locked in a cage together.

Kronstadt Affair Merely Protest

"So the Kronstadt affair seems more a protest against the system of internal management of the army than anything else. I do not see how it can hope for success, because the Government, controlling all means of transport and communication, can isolate it and starve it to death, so to speak. I do not see how any revolt anywhere in Russia could become really dangerous to the Government, because the Government is the Communist party, and the members of that party have surrendered all their rights as individuals and given full power to their officers to mobilize them at any moment as military forces and transfer them anywhere. While I was in Moscow one such group was mobilized and sent clear to Siberia, where a troublesome situation had developed. Instead of protesting or grumbling at this duty, the members went eagerly.

"The Communist party is by far the largest, best organized and most effectively placed group in Russia. There are some 600,000 enrolled card members, and it is not easy to become one. Joining the party is as serious a business as joining a lodge of one of the oldest and most conservative secret orders in this country. A candidate has to undergo a year's probation, and after admission continued membership is dependent on behavior. There is a constant weeding-out process of those who prove undesirable. The net result is an extremely well compacted body of men and women, mostly industrial workers, who control the trade unions. And the trade unions are the Government. Who," asked Quinlan, "is going to revolt against an organization like that and how is he going to revolt successfully?"

He was asked what had impressed him as he watched the soviet system in operation.

How the Government Works

"First of all," he answered, "its extreme indirection. Theoretically, Russia is governed by men elected by the universal suffrage of all industrial workers and subject to recall. Actually, the men high up are remote from the rank and file. Delegates to the local soviet are elected by the trade unions in each 'Gobernie' or district. The local soviets elect delegates to the Federal soviet, known as the all-Russian Congress, which, in turn, elects the central committee. This committee, being a comparatively large and cumbersome body, delegates much of its power to the Praesidium, or Cabinet of 15 men, which, to a great extent, is in the control of three persons, Lenine, Trotzky and Kameneff, who was in London with the trade commission until the British Government insisted on its departure. By its political agents this trimuvirate penetrates all parts of Russia and every night receives wired reports from all the principal centers of population."

In passing, he mentioned one other person here, Kallenin, who, as chairman of the Central Committee, might be called the President of the Soviet Russian Republic.

"A nice, pleasant, quiet old man," he said. "There is gossip that his quietism may be one reason why Lenine, the real ruler, supported him for his position. A peasant himself, Kallenin is very popular with the peasantry and spends a large part of his time traveling and talking with them. He may, because of this popularity, prove very useful later in bridging the gulf between the industrial workers and the peasantry, of which I shall speak before we are done.

"Among the tasks which this Government, so organized, faces, of course, one of the most pressing is that of maintaining the party in power, as an American politician would say—or of 'guarding the revolution,' as they phrase it. I

Secretary Wallace Tells Why Prosperity of the City Depends Upon Well-Being of the Farmer

AGRICULTURAL DEPRESSION ENDANGERS ALL INDUSTRIES

With Hogs Selling at $20 a Hundredweight, People Thought Farmer Was Getting Rich, When He Really Was Losing Money Because He Had to Buy High Priced Corn to Feed Them, Secretary Asserts.

New Cabinet Member Also Points Out That Growers Are Getting Pre-War Prices for Stock and Grain While They Have to Pay 50 to 150 Per Cent More for All Necessaries—Pleads for Sympathetic Understanding.

WASHINGTON, March 19.

ONE of the tasks which Henry C. Wallace, the new Secretary of Agriculture, has set for himself, is to try to win city dwellers to a sympathetic understanding of the farmers' problems. In the first formal statement that he has issued since assuming office Wallace seeks to show that the interests of farm and city are inextricably bound together; that, as he says, "anything which hurts the farmer will very soon be communicated to all of our citizens." The Secretary, who brings to his job a background of long experience as an Iowa farmer and farm paper publisher, also discusses the causes of the present agricultural depression and gives his idea of the duties of his department.

By HENRY C. WALLACE

Secretary of Agriculture

WE have the finest rural civilization, taken as a whole, the world has ever seen; our farmers average very high in intelligence; they produce more per man than almost any other farmers in the world; they have adopted the most advanced system of extensive farming yet developed. Notwithstanding all this they are now in a most trying period and are suffering severe financial losses. Farmers throughout the nation, especially those in the South and West, are experiencing exactly the same trouble.

People who are not familiar with agriculture find it hard to understand the situation. They refuse to believe that the depression is as serious as it really is. They point to the high value of our land, to the high prices at which farm products were selling prior to this heavy drop, to the large number of automobiles owned by farmers, to the apparent wealth and comfort on every side; and they refuse to take seriously what the farmers say concerning their troubles.

High Cost of Production One of Causes of Depression.

There are two causes for this widespread agricultural depression. One is the high cost of production last year. If we include all the factors which properly enter into the cost of production, we find, for example, that the cost of producing a bushel of corn in Iowa, the greatest corn State, was more than 90 cents. This includes the land cost, the labor cost and everything else which ought to be included.

Many people say, "You are figuring the land at an inflated price. You should not do that. The farmer did not pay that price for the land. He wants dividends on water."

It is true that the land charge is considered on the basis of its value a year ago, but it is also true that the advance in land prices was not nearly as great as many people suppose. They hear of the occasional sales at $400 or $500 an acre and assume that that represents the average. Nothing of the sort. The average advance in the value of our rich corn belt land was only about 60 per cent above pre-war values. It must be remembered also that in the principal corn States over half the land is farmed by tenants and these tenants mostly had to pay rent on the basis of the advanced land values. It is true, further, that if we omit the land charge altogether, the price which the farmer can get for a bushel of corn is still considerably below what it cost him to produce it. The largest item of cost in corn production is not land, but labor.

People Forget to Consider Price of Corn Fed to $20 Hogs

The man who has been farming his own land, and who has saved his money, has prospered. The five years prior to 1920 were profitable years, especially to the grain farmer who was so fortunate as to have good crops. If he exercised ordinary intelligence he made more money than he ever before made at farming. Those years were not so profitable to the livestock farmer. The man who grew his own livestock and own grain and fed his grain to the livestock, on the whole, made money, although not as much as if he had sold the grain instead of feeding it. The man who bought the livestock and bought the grain and fed the grain to the livestock, on the average, lost money. When hogs were selling at $20 per hundredweight everybody seemed to think the hog feeder was growing rich, but most of the time when hogs were selling at those high figures the men who had to buy the grain to feed the hogs lost money.

The second cause of the farmer's trouble is this: Prices of farm products have dropped out of all proportion to the prices of other things, as well as out of all proportion to the cost of production.

For example, the price of corn and oats today on the Iowa farm is about 20 per cent below the normal price of these crops before the war. The present price of fat cattle and of hogs is from 20 to 25 per cent above the pre-war normal, if we take Chicago prices, but on the farm the prices of both cattle and hogs are down to pre-war normal.

Wages and Materials 100 Per Cent Above Pre-War Normal

Now, note the prices of some of the things the farmer must buy: Wages of farm hands are about 100 per cent above the pre-war normal; railroad rates are from 70 to 90 per cent above pre-war normal; such basic commodities as pig iron, coke, petroleum, lumber, Portland cement, are far above the pre-war normal—from 100 to 150, and in some cases, 200 per cent above the pre-war normal. Factory wages and railroad wages are both more than 100 per cent above the pre-war normal.

In other words, while the farmer is selling the things he produces at prices no higher, and, for great surplus crops, lower than the pre-war normal, he must buy practically everything he needs at prices from 50 to 150 per cent above the pre-war normal. The severe agricultural depression is inevitable as long as such a condition exists, and this depression will certainly be communicated to industry and business generally.

It is a situation which should challenge the very best thought of the entire nation. If it continues the trouble will be communicated to everyone. We are brothers one of another. Anything which hurts the farmer will very soon be communicated to all of our citizens. The farmers represent probably 35 to 40 per cent of the population. Anything which seriously affects their buying power will bring trouble to the people who make or deal in the things the farmer buys.

U. S. Has Surplus Food Supply While Rest of World Suffers

It is a terrible indictment of our modern civilization when this great country is in the period of what almost might be called economic chaos because of our great surplus food supply, while across the seas, in both directions, almost half the world is suffering for want of food.

Now, as to this present situation, surely the duty of the Department of Agriculture is evident. We should do everything possible to find an outlet for this great food surplus. We should search for ways to produce more cheaply. Our scientific men should try to find new uses for our surplus crops. We should help develop more efficient marketing systems, straightening curves and lowering the grades between the producer and the consumer. It is a time for every man who can help to take hold. As in the days when we dragged our fire engines by hand to the scene of the fire and every good citizen rushed out and took hold of the long rope and did his bit, so we must do now. Every good citizen, no matter in what business he may be engaged, should do what he can to help the farmers through this period of depression, not for the sake of helping the farmer alone, but for the sake of helping himself.

We cannot hope to reach normal conditions until we arrive on a price level which will be fair to all our people and all products. Farm products must come up in price and other products come down until the normal relation between them has been restored. This talk of bringing prices, whether farm prices or other prices, back to the pre-war normal is morally wrong and economically impossible. We incurred a heavy national debt on the inflated prices. If we could force all prices back to the pre-war normal—which we cannot—it would be equivalent to just about doubling that debt. We can pay off our debts much easier if we maintain a price level more nearly the level at which the debts were incurred. Of course, the excessively high prices which prevailed during the war cannot continue, but if we should try to bring about a level, say 70 per cent above the pre-war normal, everybody would be better off.

We will get through this period. The nation is not going bankrupt. The farmers are not going bankrupt. Neither are they going to lie down on their jobs. Gradually farm prices will be brought into fair relation with other prices and we will go ahead hitting on all cylinders. But there is another thing in the long run—a more important phase of our agricultural problem, which we have been slow in considering. Let me sketch briefly the development of our agriculture.

Farmers for Last 70 Years Have Sold Products Below Cost

The farmers of the United States during the past 70 years have, on the average, produced and sold grains and livestock at less than the cost of production, if we take into consideration all the factors which properly enter into production costs. What I mean is that if the farmer would practice a sound system of business economy, charging a fair interest on the capital invested, both in his farm and his farm equipment, a fair wage for actual labor expended on the farm, against his receipts from the marketing of his crops, it will be found that he has not received for them enough to cover his actual costs. We will omit the value of the fertility of his soil, which is, in effect, a portion of his capital and which he has marketed in his crops, but which we will simply throw in for good measure, although this must be replaced if crop production is to be maintained. I know that when a statement of this kind is made many people question it. They think of individual farmers whom they have known and who have become very well to do, but I am speaking of the average farmer, the farmers en masse, and the statement I have just made is an absolutely truthful statement, which has been abundantly corroborated by scientific investigation.

Farmers Willing to Accept Value of Land as a Home

The farmers have been able and willing to sell their crops at less than the actual cost of production because, first, they have been willing to accept the value of the farm as a home, as a place to rear their children, as a part of the substantial reward for their work; and, second, because as our population has increased there has been a steady increase in the value of the farm land. In times past, therefore, the young farmer who could get enough ahead to make a very small payment on a piece of land—enough to give him a foothold—and who had a lot of hard work in him, and who had a good wife, as most of them have—has been able, by living very economically, denying himself and his wife the luxuries and many of the comforts of life, to hang on, paying out on the farm and finally to see it growing into a valuable piece of property.

During all this period we have been a great surplus food-producing nation. We have grown more food than our own people could consume. As a result we have had to compete with the farmers of the world in the great consuming markets and take prices fixed by that competition. Another result of this great surplus of food was to stimulate our industrial development and to build up our commercial enterprises of all kinds until now more than one-half of all our people live in the cities and industrial centers.

Conditions Have Caused Drift of Young Farmers to City

The steady increase in the value of our land and the relatively low prices for farm products has caused a constant drift of young farmers to the towns and cities, where they thought they could secure better pay for their labor and could see better opportunities to advance themselves in a material way. In some of our heaviest pro-

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Junk the Machine.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Mayor Kiel is the most sagacious politician in St. Louis. His renomination for a third term is conclusive evidence of that fact. He and his highly organized army of lieutenants and henchmen constitute one of the most formidable machines in the country.

Mr. Kiel spent more time in building up his political ring than in building up our city. Taxpayers have to pay the upkeep bills of the Kiel machine and only receive an occasional joyride in return, as it were. It carries about 7000 regular passengers.

Its garage is the City Hall. It is overloaded and is due for a breakdown April 5. Taxpayers will on election day refuse to renew the license of this omnibus. It has not yet gained such momentum that it cannot be flagged by the ballots of people who demand business before politics. It will never again run over the Democrats, independent voters and disgusted Republicans.

The United Railways runs Kiel and the latter has run us long enough. Stand by Mayor Kiel and you will continue to stand in the street cars. Mayor Kiel's machine has stood us up already too long and so has the street car company. We are sore from foot to head from standing in the street cars and paying a premium therefor. Mayor Kiel is a political boss, but what we need is a boss of public service utilities, the United Railways and the Terminal Railroad Association in particular. It is foolish, however, to contemplate redress under the Kiel regime. His record certainly does speak for itself. The taxpayers authorized the construction of the Free Bridge with the expectation that it would destroy the Eads Bridge extortionate and arbitrary tolls. It is the most expensive "free" bridge in the country. It is a municipal monster. Neither the railroads nor street cars use it, although it was built for those particular purposes.

Mayor Kiel formally and heroically dedicated it to pedestrians and vehicular traffic. We demand a Mayor who will dedicate it to steam and electric service also, and thus relieve the taxpayers of an enormous burden and enable this grand old city to at least regain its former rank among its sister cities. The Terminal Railroad Association is the octopus that is bleeding us day and night. It has stunted the growth of our beloved city. It is our arch-enemy.

Candidate Byrnes is a splendid citizen and business man of demonstrated capacity. He has the caliber, the manhood and the civic pride to solve the big problems of a big city, in the interest of all good citizens, regardless of race, color or creed, and not for private interests.

Mayor Kiel is a fine fellow personally. He is a big-hearted gentleman. He is conspicuously present at municipal functions, such as banquets, receptions, celebrations and dedications, but, unfortunately, he lacks vision, an indispensable attribute in the chief executive of any great city. He cannot visualize modern means of rapid transportation and other vital innovations. Mr. Byrnes would transform the City Hall, now a political fort, into a high-class business office.

HERBERT S. KRAFT.

War Registrars' Appreciation.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

The National Society of World War Registrars, jointly with the various other organizations of the city, extend cordial thanks for the valuable space allotted to the Joint Conference on Gold Star Highways, held at Soldan High School, Feb. 21, at 8 p. m. MRS. L. L. McELWEE,

"Ex-Soldier."

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I wonder if something can't be done to prevent the very frequent and insistent use of the term, "ex-soldier," or "veteran of World War," being used to describe participants in holdups, murders and crime in general, especially when the term has no connection with the case?

One unfolds the paper to look at glaring headlines:

"Woman Shot by Ex-Soldier Admirer."
"Veteran Calls Woman to Door, Then Shoots,"

when the fact is he could have been called an ex-plumber or whatever was his occupation as well as an ex-soldier.

Am a member of the American Legion and proud of my record as an A. E. F. man, and do not care to see the term ex-soldier dragged in the dust.

What about it?

JOHN HOPKINS JR.

As to the Teachers' Annuity.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

"This teacher needs information" also. Does Mr. Wagner's eulogist think the annuitants receive "a substantial remittance" when they receive $15 a month? Can anyone live on it? The amounts collected from the sales of waste paper are added only to the permanent fund—and have been for five years. The amount given has remained the same. The combined efforts of Mr. Wagner and the school children have never benefited the annuitants.

ONE OF THEM.

A NOTABLE LEGISLATIVE RECORD.

The Post-Dispatch, having occupied an independent position with regard to the Republican Legislature which adjourned yesterday afternoon, having sought by criticism, sometimes harsh, and by insistent warning to hold it to the pledges of the Republican platform and Gov. Hyde, takes special gratification in crediting it with an exceptional record of achievement in progressive and valuable legislation.

It is not yet possible to make a thorough critical analysis of all its work. Undoubtedly unwise measures are mingled with the good and there are things not done that ought to have been done to offset the excellent things that were done. It must be admitted, however, that there are an unusual number of acts which make for substantial progress in the State. It must be admitted that the Republicans have kept faith and have fulfilled the pledges they made to the people.

It is too early to judge the value of the consolidation laws embodied in Gov. Hyde's special program of economy and efficiency in the administration of the State's business. It is a large experiment, sound in purpose and in general policy, but dependent upon the working out of details and upon actual administration processes.

This much can be said—that the laws are in line with the best policy of administration. They embody policies approved by the best expert authorities and by experience.

One great gain is a budget system, with a budget commissioner authorized to obtain complete information with regard to taxation, revenues and expenditures and to submit his conclusions and the Governor's conclusions to the Legislature for its guidance in both tax legislation and expenditures. Properly administered, the budget system should be of immense benefit to the State. If there are faults in the law they can be corrected. There is great gain in the adoption of the budget plan.

The consolidation of State institutions and activities into general departments, with a directing commission and a head for each, should mark a great gain in economy and efficiency.

Beyond the special administrative program several measures were adopted which mark this legislative session with particular distinction as perhaps more valuable than any other for years past.

The county unit bill is a tremendous step towards better educational standards and facilities in Missouri. It provides a system by which rural schools and standards of teaching may be steadily improved, by which the children in the poorer school districts may have advantages approximating in standards and efficiency those enjoyed by the children of the rich districts. The county unit law bears the promise of lifting the reproach of low educational standards from the State.

The workmen's compensation law has been repassed by this Legislature in the form approved by the representatives of organized labor and organized employers. It is to be hoped that wise counsels will prevail to keep the measure in the statutes.

The Legislature must be credited with a sincere effort to reform the election laws in a way to insure honest primaries as well as honest general elections. It has provided a way to catch the primary election crooks.

One of the greatest advances made by the Hyde administration is the pledge of the members of the State Board of Equalization to equalize assessments of property in all parts of the State. While the tax rate reduction measure adopted by the Legislature provides a margin for increased revenue, it provides for a reduction of the rate. With other measures of tax reduction, the taxpayers should be relieved of some of their excessive burdens.

Nor should it be overlooked that the Republican Legislature has provided for the completion of the decoration of the new Statehouse, which was begun by the Democratic Legislature. The generous provision for this purpose will give Missouri the benefit of a new reputation—a reputation for consideration of the higher interests of art and culture, which the State has lacked heretofore.

Progress was made on measures of human conservation and reclamation and of social justice which reflects credit on the humanitarian side of the legislative majority.

The Republicans have made a good start in their first control of the government since the war. It rests with Gov. Hyde and his administrative associates to build wisely on the foundation laid by the Legislature.

SEEKING OTHER WORLDS.

Henry Adams, descendant of the Presidents of that name, spent a normal lifetime in the pursuit of what he called an "education." He died an old man still in process of being educated and admitting that "he never got to the point of playing the game (of life) at all; he lost himself in the study of it."

Here is one example of the scholarly brain creating its own world by recoiling from the applied facts of the human struggle itself. That is a characteristic of the scholarly brain, particularly when not driven to practical realizations by the lash of economic necessity.

We cannot escape a certain application of this disposition to the comments of William Archer, noted British critic, on the character and tendencies of the American stage. Mr. Archer remarks that "external picturesqueness and sensational incident" have got the upper hand of "delicate character study and searching criticism of life." There is no reason, he says, "why picturesqueness and even violence of action should exclude subtlety of soul searching."

But there is a reason, and it lies neither in the incapacity of the American public nor in the makers or producers of plays. It is simply that the great American public goes to the theater, not to work its brain, but to rest it; not to wrestle more with the all too prevalent enigmas of life, but to find respite from them. This fact is perhaps too simple to enter the calculations of scholars who approach their drama from the classroom angle.

The Old World drama still lives in a tradition of scholarship. This is inherited from the centuries of leisure-class patronage. It is fortified by the habitually more serious European mind. America, probably less spiritual through the fact of its absorption in the vaster material interests of a new continent, has led the theater to a new era—the era of divertive entertainment pure and simple.

This fact needs no interpretation in classroom or culture club. Its effect may be intellectually and spiritually blighting. But it is a fact into which it is useless for professional critics and highbrows to read subtleties of national character and taste. Of course America likes the picturesque, the romantic and sensational. And it is because, to the average mind, jaded with the wear of the day's work, engrossment in another world, the world of melodrama and nonsense, is recreative.

THE WOODROW WILSON AWARD.

The vague, sincere and widely expressed desire of the American people to do fitting honor to former President Wilson has been crystallized into a plan by a committee of citizens who have been identified officially or sentimentally with the Wilson administration. At a meeting held in New York a few days ago it was announced that a prize of $25,000 would annually be given "for the greatest service to humanity." The prize is to be known as the Woodrow Wilson Award. To provide for this annuity an endowment fund of $500,000 will be raised by subscription.

The idea presumably was inspired by the will of the Swedish scientist, Alfred D. Nobel, who, by yearly bestowals, bequeathed his great fortune in perpetuity to those contributing most to the benefit and improvement of mankind. The heirs to the Nobel bounty come from various categories—physics, chemistry, medicine, literature and, lastly, peace—and it is another instance of poetic justice that the Nobel peace prize has commanded a wider popular recognition than any of the other premiums from the vast estate which was founded on the invention of dynamite. The three Americans who have been awarded the Nobel prize—Theodore Roosevelt, Elihu Root and Woodrow Wilson—were so honored because of their services to the cause of peace.

The practical administration of the Woodrow Wilson Award—the manner of selecting the jury and the conditions governing or determining its choice—have not yet been worked out. But that is a phase of minor moment now. The uppermost thought of the hour is the paying of a tribute to a great American. Sentiment, we believe, will earnestly approve the proposed memorial as admirable and worthy.

This annual award will transplant Woodrow Wilson from the austere pages of books to the throbbing everyday life of the world. More than any formal observance, or any study in marble, it will familiarize posterity with the services of a man through a period of history that was "epic upon epic, Iliad upon Iliad." It will serve, by yearly reminder, to instruct far-off, serene tomorrows in the throes and agonies of yesterdays—the birth pangs of the nobler, fairer future. It will help wonderfully to give Woodrow Wilson his just dues in the gratitude of triumphant democracy.

ABOLISH THE STRAIT-JACKET.

The man who pays is asked by a conference of shippers to consider that cabbage bringing 7 cents a pound, or $140 a ton, in Chicago is sold in Texas at $3.50 a ton, and that oranges are rotting in the California groves under signs reading: "Too cheap to sell; help yourself."

The man who pays is informed by Glenn Plumb, author of the Plumb plan, that 23 officials of the Pennsylvania Railroad, which recently announced forthcoming reductions both in executive salaries and wages, receive 100 per cent more in salaries than the 23 highest Government officials, including the President.

At the same time the man who pays is informed by the railway executives of the following typical instances of comparative rates and operating costs:

> The freight rate on 100 pounds of dry goods from Lowell, Mass., to Seattle, Wash., in 1917 was $1.
> At the present time the labor cost alone on such a shipment is $1.04.
> In 1917 the cost of transporting 100 pounds of shoes from Boston to Philadelphia was 37 cents.
> Today the labor cost alone of this transportation by rail is 37 cents, or exactly the same as the whole freight charge in 1917.

The man who pays is also informed that freight traffic has declined one-third since last October and that 450,000 cars are now idle.

It is simple enough for shippers, railway officials and labor leaders to recite their grievances, protest their complete and solicitous innocence of any cupidity in the matter and join in a chorus of denunciation of all parties involved but themselves. But who is to be the umpire? Where does the public come in, and what is to come of it all?

It is clearly manifest that we are endeavoring to support certain standards of service at a time of industrial depression, financial stringency and unemployment on a basis of the most inflated prosperity the nation has ever known. It is a situation of economic contradiction which, defend and force-feed it as we may, cannot endure. As long as it does endure it will be at the expense of other resources already overdrained.

Unemployment and industrial stagnation demand a reinstatement of the factor of honest competition, which, after all, has been the most effective preventive of open robbery in commerce and service. But competition cannot be restored while so fundamental an institution as the railways is operated in an obsolete and outgrown strait-jacket of rates and wage agreements. The sooner this fact is courageously faced the sooner will business return to normal. There will be no return to normal while so serious a barrier lies in the way.

MR. ANTWINE'S OPINION.

"PANAMA and Costa Rica would like the best kind to have a little comic opera war. They need it to get back to normalcy, as necessary there after the great war as anywhere else. In the total eclipse which Latin-America has suffered while the world staged a real war, a great deal has been bottled up that requires vent.

"Nor am I so sure that to let Panama and Costa Rica have a little comic opera war would not be a valuable relaxation to us all. We have been under a terrible strain; a hearty laugh would perhaps do us more good than anyone's wisdom. Let us take the plight of the press. It has grown stale with news too big and too significant for popular comprehension. The press could not have a better turn of luck just now than a mock war in which all the elements of comedy combined to burlesque the world as an armed camp.

"Imagine passing from the great drama of the world's wars and miseries, propounding a riddle worse than that of the Sphinx, into the little theater of the dispute between Panama and Costa Rica, with its intimate quality, its separation from everything too complex for our understanding, and its substitution of Homeric heroics for the sinister death-dealing out of which almost no hero could emerge because of its horrors.

"It is unlikely that in a war between Panama and Costa Rica anybody would be killed. It is impossible that Mr. Hoover would have to be called in. It would constitute a sort of Military Follies, and as such would refresh and delight us all. Why not, then, let them fight? Because, will you believe it, the law is handed down to them by the great Powers! That can keep the peace in Central America. That there might be a power by which even the great Powers themselves could be made to keep the peace is very likely; if it could be done we would all be restrained, suffering no more humiliation than Panama and Costa Rica. They have quite as much pride as any of us; their injury is just as great. Yet a world needing peace more and more every day refuses to believe that it can set its house in order. It will not apply a principle which works admirably in Central America, but cannot be applied to the war-making powers because to achieve this great end they would have to surrender some part of their sovereignty. That bugaboo stands in the way of world peace today. Yet Panama and Costa Rica perforce surrender some part of their sovereignty. Do we think any the less of them for it? Certainly not. We are only glad for them that they are subject to restraint outside themselves."

People who supported Mr. Harding because they could not get what they wanted from Mr. Wilson are probably finding their way back into the Democratic party a little faster than they thought they would before they began to ask Mr. Harding for the same impossible things.

The MIRROR of PUBLIC OPINION

THE PHILIPPINES.

From the Colonial Dispatch (France).

THE United States wishing to give lessons of liberalism to Europe, declared some time ago that they were only establishing themselves temporarily in the Philippines, and that they would give to the people there autonomy and afterwards independence as soon as they had learnt to make use of it. A sort of colonial charter was decreed in favor of the Philippines, in the first part of which their freedom was considered, but which contained in the second part such restrictions that the concession of the aforesaid freedom became an impossibility. There is no longer question today of restoring liberty to the Philippines. To all American citizens who have established themselves there, the Philippines seem ripe for territorial Government. The principle of this government is that its acts are submitted to the approbation or to the modifications of the American Congress, and that the President of the Government is chosen by the President of the United States. It is not exactly independence, but it is a form of government with which Louisiana, after being bought from France, and Alaska were satisfied. It leads gently, and without shocks, to incorporation under the Stars and Stripes. This will be the fate of the Philippines.

INTERNATIONAL HEALTH SERVICE.

DR. RICHARD P. STRONG in North American Review.

IT was an interallied commission which directed the effort in checking the typhus epidemic in Serbia in 1915. It was by co-operation between British and American medical officers that the nature and means of propagation of trench fever were discovered. These are only two of a number of important examples of what was accomplished by co-ordinated medical effort during the war, and they may be supplemented by another striking example of a post-war problem regarding Poland. Neither the Polish Government nor the voluntary relief agencies at work in that country are sufficiently powerful to suppress the typhus epidemic which has continued for four years. It is evidently advisable that some form of international co-operation be instituted there to deal with the situation. As health is a matter of interest to every race and nationality scattered over the globe, to every individual from the cradle to the grave, it is not the heritage of any single nation. Preventable disease likewise being a matter of world-wide concern and the enemy of all mankind, united effort is most necessary in opposing and banishing it, and in fighting it all national boundaries must be disregarded. Also, to meet most satisfactorily and effectively many of the disasters that war and disease have imposed upon nations, united action is necessary under the centralized control of experienced and responsible public officials, and it would appear that it is particularly through the League of Nations and the League of Red Cross Societies that such co-operation and united official action may best be secured.

THE NEW DAY IN INDUSTRY.

WILLIAM L. CHENEY in Century Magazine.

WHEN, with workmen's compensation, industry began paying for the damage it did to human beings, safety first became a national slogan. Similarly, when unemployment is seen to be a tax to be paid by an entire industry and not by the workers alone, methods of preventing recurrent periods of intense productions and of idleness may be discovered. The union is now parleying with the associations of manufacturers on this matter. Insurance against unemployment is the immediate object in sight. The bigger goal is the attainment of regular work. That promises enormous benefits to workers, to manufacturers, and to the great public. For so long as industry asks for enough workers to meet its heaviest demands, there must at other times be idle machinery and idle men and, consequently, expensive production. The public pays for that, in the end, in many direct and indirect ways. The prevention of irregular production is the prevention of unemployment.

Of Springfield, Mo., whose marriage to Mr. Paul Moll will take place next month . .

WITH Easter opening the floodgates to spring festivities so early this year, society will have ample opportunity to overcome the social drouth of the Lenten season before beginning the migration to summer resorts. The April calendar with its weddings and pre-nuptial parties gives promise of much gaiety.

The first of the important post-Easter nuptials will be on Marach 31 when Miss Mary Randolph Gordon will become the bride of John Gates Williams. The ceremony will take place at Christ Church Cathedral and there will be a large bridal party.

Another interesting wedding of the same day will be that of Miss Mercedes Groves and George Breckenridge Groves. Miss Katherine Gordon and James D. Dawson Jr. of Houston, Tex., will be married April 2 at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Gordon. The bridal party will include several out-of-town people and a number of out-of-town guests also will attend.

The St. Louis Cathedral will be the scene on April 6 of the marriage of Miss Edith Cates to Lieut. John C. Hamilton, U. S. Army. Miss Augusta Erker and Sylvester Judge Jr. will be married on April 6. The wedding of Miss Marion Gregg and Clarence Hopkins King will be an important event of April 7. The ceremony will take place at 5:30 o'clock at the Christ Church Cathedral and will be followed by a reception at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Gregg in Brentmoor. Miss Josephine Edgar and James E. Kaime will be married April 11, Miss Marion Heffernan and Festus J. Krebs will be married on April 12, and on April 14 the marriage of Miss Hilda Whittemore and Winans Lubbock will take place.

The sixteenth day of the month will be marked by four weddings of interest, the largest of which will be that of Miss Miriam Benoist and Lieutenant-Commander Patrick N. Lynch Bellinger, which will take place at high noon at the St. Louis Cathedral. Other weddings will be those of Miss Ella Louise Link and Robert Y. Woodward; Miss Elizabeth Udell and Frank M. Imboden Jr., and Miss Frances Ryan and Elmer Hauldren of Chicago. The marriage of Miss Grace Gettys and Grosvenor Stewart McKee of Canton, O., will be solemnized April 19. Miss Helen Battle has chosen April 21 as the date for her marriage to James Bemis, and Miss Sophie Moffitt will become the bride of Glenn Russell on April 23.

Announcement was made last week of the engagement of Miss Frances Garrison, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur C. Garrison of 5240 Westminster place, to J. Howard McHenry of Baltimore, Md. No date for the wedding has been set. Mrs. Garrison and her daughter departed yesterday for French Lick Springs and New York.

One of the events of the coming week is the tea which will be given Wednesday afternoon in the Hotel Statler ballroom by the League of Women Voters in honor of Mrs. Maud Wood Park, national chairman of the organization. Mrs. Park will arrive in St. Louis Wednesday and will be the guest of Mrs. Fred J. Taussig, 4508 Maryland avenue.

Arrangements for the tea are in the hands of a committee headed by Mrs. Taussig. Assisting her will be Mrs. J. Scott Porter in charge of the ushers; Mrs. Leslie Thompson, chairman of the Hostess Committee, and Mrs. William V. Schevill in charge of the decorations.

Among the hostesses will be Mmes. George Gellhorn, E. T. Senseney, Harry W. Sprague, Fred L. English, Charles W. Swingley, O. C. Bluemeyer, L. L. Renfrow, Frank Blelock, Fred Campbell, Dwight Dana, William Blume, Vincent Price, Frank P. Crunden, George Niedringhaus, James C. Jones, Daniel Catlin, Charles Nagel, Ernest W. Stix, A. S. Rau and W. A. Layman.

The wedding of Miss Mildred Brooks, daughter of Dr. Frederick Brooks of 715 Limit avenue, and Thomas Granville Rutledge, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Rutledge of 5443 Page boulevard, will take place tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock at the home of the bride's father, the Rev. Dr. Alfred Smith officiating in the presence of relatives and close friends. The bridegroom's brother, Edward Rutledge of Louisville, will be the only attendant. A small reception will follow the ceremony.

The Alliance Francaise has sent out invitations for a soiree to be given March 28 at the Artists' Guild Theater. Three plays will be given by a French cast. "Le Dejeuner de l'Homme Sandwich," "Le Baiser," and "Le Coeur a ses Raisons." The cast includes Mmes. Franklyn Nash, Guy Study, Miss Odette de Lecluse, Henri de Lecluse and Frank Stoeffel. The patronesses for the affair are Mmes. Walter Campbell, Greenfield Sluder, Frank Crunden, Dwight Davis, Louis la Beaume, Edward Walsh, Jesse McDonald, Morrison Fuller, Guy Study, Misses Emily Sproule, Elise Pettus, Zelina Thompson, Eugenia Berthold and Annie Farrar. Tickets may be obtained from Miss Anne Farrar, 14 North King's highway.

Mrs. John W. Harrison of 5371 Waterman avenue, will depart March 26 for Pittsburg to be present at the wedding on March 30 of her son, James Eads Campbell, and Miss Helen Anderson, daughter of Mrs. Harriet Steele of Pittsburg. The ceremony will take place at 5:30 o'clock at the William Penn Hotel. Miss Pamela Harrison will be maid of honor and Stuart Harrison will attend his brother as best man. The couple will reside in Memphis, Tenn. Among the St. Louisans who will go East for the wedding will be Harry Blackwell.

Among the affairs listed for the post-Easter season will be the bridge party to be given the afternoon of April 1, at the St. Louis Woman's Club by the members of the Visitation Academy Alumnae Association.

Arrangements for the affair are in the hands of a committee made up of the officers and directors of the alumnae, Mmes. Volney C. Turner, John R. Scott, Alfred Baker, Malcolm MacDonald, Arthur Francis, J. J. O'Donnell, James J. Prendergast, Ashley D. Scott, Edward D. Scott, Lily Y. Steinoff, Margaret Sickles and Misses Alice Brennan, Emily Crowley and Regina Daugherty.

Miss Mary Jean Williams of 6811 Kingsbury boulevard is expected to return this week from Columbia University in New York, to remain until June, when she will go to Eagle River, Wis., for the summer.

Recipes from many different countries will be used to prepare delicacies for the "Easter Market," which will be held at Hosmer Hall next Saturday afternoon, under the auspices of the Alumnae Association. Mrs. Reuben C. Taylor is chairman of the committee in charge of the market, which includes Mmes. Roger Lord, J. F. Michaels, D. S. Hunkins, Misses Ada Fliteraft, Helen Jennings, Julia Drozda, Myra White and Martha Gra[illegible].

Miss June Clark, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Allen W. Clark of 5524 Maple avenue, has announced her engageemnt to A. F. Voss, son of Mr. and Mrs. August Voss, 5115 Cabanne avenue. The wedding probably will take place in June.

Mr and Mrs. F. Fishlowitz of 1271 Goodfellow avenue will receive at their home this evening in honor of their twentieth wedding anniversary.

Mrs. Anna E. Blodgett of New York is the guest of her sister, Mrs. Augusta Boemler of 4051 McPherson avenue.

The College Club will hold a meeting Tuesday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock at 325 Olive street. Mrs. Edmund F. Brown and members of the House Committee will be hostesses.

Miss Elsie Bergmann of 2238 North Market street entertained Tuesday evening at her home with a shower in honor of Miss Leanora Schneider.

Among the patronesses for the violin recital to be given by John Halk at the Sheldon Auditorium April 7 will be Mmes. Charles P. Ladd, W. A. McCandless, Max Goldstein, Phil A. Becker, L. H. Drey, D. R. Hatton, George L. Dyer, Grace A. Newmann, Ellis Levy and C. G. Rice.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Mueller of 3217 Arsenal street announce the marriage on March 10, of their daughter, Miss Lillian Mueller, to Kelly Oglesby of Jupiter, Fla. Mr. and Mrs. Oglesby will resude in Jupiter.

A dance will be given by the Young Girls' Auxiliary of the Jewish Orphan Home next Wednesday evening at the Arcadia Dancing Academy.

The regular monthly meeting of the Margaret A. E. McLure Chapter, U. D. C., was held last Monday at the home of Mrs. L. W. Ray. Assisting hostesses were Mmes. Harrington and Wray. An address was made by Mrs. J. P. Higgins, State president.

The University Musical Research Club met Tuesday afternoon at the home of Miss Charlotte Mueninghaus, 5226 Minerva avenue. Mrs. Charles Cornell was assisting hostess. The club voted to donate a przie of $10, to the be known as the University Musical Research Club prize, to the State Junior Contest of the Missouri Federation of Music Clubs which will be held here next Wednesday at Hotel Statler. The next meeting, one of the series of

Fiery, Itchy Skin Quickly Soothed With Sulphur

Mentho-Sulphur, a pleasant cream, will soothe and heal skin that is irritated or broken out with eczema; that is covered with ugly rash or pimples, or is rough or dry. Nothing subdues fiery skin eruptions so quickly, says a noted skin specialist.

The moment this sulphur preparation is applied the itching stops, and after two or three applications the eczema is gone and the skin is delightfully clear and smooth. Sulphur is so precious as a skin remedy because it destroys the parasites that cause the burning, itching or disfigurement. Mentho-Sulphur always heals eczema right up.

A small jar of Mentho-Sulphur may be had at any good drug store.

The wholesale Spring Dress season is over. Factories are now devoted to cotton frocks for Summer.

Which means that manufacturers have surplus stocks remaining—and these we have bought to the tune of more than 600 Dresses.

Some we "picked up" at half price—others at less than half—others again at reductions almost as severe.

The savings secured are offered the St. Louis public without stint—which means that two Dresses may be acquired for the usual price of one.

DEPRESSION OF FARMING ENDANGERS INDUSTRIES SAYS SECRETARY WALLACE

ducing states there are not as many people on the farms as there were 30 or 40 years ago. This movement from the farm to the city has been a perfectly natural movement and fully justified by conditions. It will continue as long as the cities offer greater financial rewards, greater opportunities for advancement, more comfortable living conditions, and better social, educational and religious privileges. It is the inevitable result of economic conditions, and no amount of talk extolling the beauty of farm life can stop it. Nor has this relative decline in the producing population been a very serious matter up to the present time. Certainly it has not been serious from the farmers' viewpoint. We have made great advances in methods of production. The development of labor-saving machinery has enabled us to increase our production per man. Notwithstanding our increase in total population and the decrease in farm population, we have until very recently, steadily increased food production per thousand of total population. This increase has come both from the use of labor-saving machinery and from bringing into cultivation new areas of fertile land. We cannot keep up this gait in the future. Consumption has almost overtaken production under normal world conditions.

Most of our fertile land which can be farmed profitably without expensive reclamation has been taken up. We still have large areas of swamp land and dry land and cut-over land, but these lands cannot be profitably reclaimed and farmed unless we can depend upon higher relative prices for farm products than prevailed before the war. So, also, we can greatly increase the productive power of a large area of the land in surplus-producing states, provided we can depend upon prices which will cover the increased expense. Under our system of farming we have produced far more per man than almost any other nation, but we have not produced nearly as much per acre as in the nations of Western Europe, for example. Our greatest increase of food production in the future must come from increasing our acre yields, but this, in turn, depends upon prices which will justify the increased cost.

The farmer is the one man engaged in a big business who has had no voice in fixing the price of the things he produces. He has been compelled to take whatever prices he could get. His cost of production has not at any time been considered in determining this price. In times of small crops prices have sometimes been high. In times of large crops prices frequently have been ruinously low. Very large crops, as a rule, give the farmer fewer dollars than small crops. Farming seems to be one business in which large production is always penalized.

No doubt, when we get through this period of world readjustment and get squared away on an orderly basis there will be a gradual increase in the value of farm land, provided our national policy is fair to agriculture, but this increase will be much slower than in times past. The speculative value has been taken out of the land. The farmer can no longer depend upon the increase in the value of his farm to make good losses suffered through his farming operations year by year. Farmers' crops must sell higher relatively in the future than in the past.

We seem to have been going on the theory that the fertility of our soil, especially in the great corn and tame-grass country, is inexhaustible. To the nation this is a most dangerous theory. We must set about in earnest the development of an agricultural policy which will enable us to feed our people at fair prices and, at the same time, retain the fertility of our soil, our greatest national material asset.

The increase in tenancy has aroused great concern. Many people seem to think that tenancy is in itself an evil. Not necessarily so. As land advances tenancy increases.

This has always been true everywhere, and it is not necessarily a bad thing in itself. The farmer who has a limited working capital can far better afford to rent than to own after the land has reached a fairly stable value, based on its productive power. Men are willing to invest their money in land and accept a very low rate of interest because of the security of the investment, but there are evils which grow out of the tenancy system which must be corrected.

If we are to make this a self-sustaining nation agriculturally, as President Harding put it in one of his speeches, there is no time to be lost in studying these great problems. It is not a question of production alone; it is a question of the farmer being able to sell what he produces at a price which will justify him in continuing to produce. We are the best producers in the world, but our sales system is very bad, indeed. We must study everything which influences both production and prices. We must look into the matter of competition from farmers of foreign lands where the agriculture is still being exploited and where the standards of living are very much below the standards which we demand for our people. We must look into world conditions, both of supply and of demand and produce more intelligently and adjust our various crops to the probable needs. We must look into the administration of our credit machinery. Those who control the finances of the country and who have in their power to influence, either directly or indirectly, the extension of credit can exercise a large amount of control over the prices of farm products. The same thing is true of the administration of our transportation systems. Through the simple device of regulating the flow of cars the prices of farm products can be sent up or down at the will of those who exercise such control. We had some costly experiences along this line during the war.

In short, the people of the nation must come to understand that our prosperity as a nation depends upon a prosperous and wholesome agriculture.

WOMAN TO SPEAK ON LOBBY

National Chairman of Voters' League to Explain Workings.

The lobby, what it is, how it works and its effect upon legislation will be discussed at the Hotel Statler Wednesday afternoon by Mrs. Maud Wood Park, national chairman of the League of Women Voters. Mrs. Park, for the past several years, has directed the suffragists' lobby at the capital.

Since women obtained the vote Mrs. Park has been joint chairman of the lobby of the league, the Federation of Women's Clubs and other kindred women's organizations, for the passage of legislation favorable to women and children.

RADICAL RUSSIA TODAY AS AN AMERICAN COMMUNIST FOUND IT

was struck by the readiness with which Lenine will stretch any point for that purpose. A Socialist is not supposed to be opportunist, but he is frankly so, 'for the sake of the revolution,' as he says. He sees quite clearly that conditions, not theories, confront him, and acts accordingly. When he deems it advisable to use the help of foreign capital he makes terms with it, as in the case of the Vanderlip concessions in Siberia. When men had to be compelled to work, he compelled them. When control of the press and prevention of oral criticism seemed to him necessary, he swept free speech out of Russia with the comment that the supposed right of free speech was only a bourgeoise prejudice.

Lenine All-Powerful, Popular.

"Make no mistake about Lenine," said Quinlan. "He holds Russia in his hand, and holds it by force of his intelligence. He knows the country and the people thoroughly. He does not understand America at all—at times he seems to fail to understand England—but he makes no mistakes at home. You hear less criticism of him there than of anybody else. At the last referendum taken in a group of factories he received more votes than Trotzky, the second man, by something like 80 to 1, and he is so popular that men of all classes trim their beards to resemble his. Coming out of Russia I even saw an Englishman wearing a 'Lenine beard.' But he had it reshaped when he reached Riga.

"Besides 'guarding the revolution' by all appropriate means, Lenine and his colleagues are, as I have said, maintaining internal order through a government by decree, feeding the entire industrial population—through the Supreme Council of Political Economy, with 25,000 employes in Moscow alone and over a million in the country—carrying on war on all fronts and as fast as possible constructing an educational system, though sadly handicapped by lack of plant supplies and teachers.

Asked about social conditions, he said he had found Soviet Russia a decidedly liveable place.

"Violent crime," as I have said, is rare. Most offenses are against the rules governing trade in various commodities or gold. Alcoholically speaking, the country is a real Sahara. As to food, the peasants are noticeably fat and the city dwellers are not emaciated. The women and children everywhere look far more vigorous and healthy than those of Germany. Clothing supplies accumulated by the old Government for military purposes, have clothed the people comfortably, though a shoe shortage is beginning to be felt. Whatever wear and tear there may be from undernutrition or lack of enough warm clothing does not affect the appearance of the younger generation. The faces of some of the people over 40 have a strained look, which may be due to those causes."

Moscow and the big cities on the Volga he found gay and cheerful, Petrograd depressing. Everywhere there was the docility which he thought a national and racial characteristic.

"Russia," he said, "must be where the line-forming habit started. There is never any shoving or grabbing. If there is one newsboy at a corner and a hundred prospective customers, they will automatically fall into line and wait till their turn comes. Newspapers cose 1 or 2 rubles a copy."

Two great problems must be solved by the soviet leaders, he believed, if this first experiment in Socialism on a large scale was to turn out well

SEVEN REASONS WHY YOU SHOULD BUY YOUR WINDOW SHADES AT KENNARD'S

1. Kennard's carry nothing but the best qualities of all the different classes of shades, such as the well-known makes of John Kings & Sons Imported Scotch Holland, Bancroft Sunfast Holland, Chouaguen Opaque in the plain and duplex, Chouaguen hand-made Tint Cloth and Chouaguen hand-made Shadow Cloth.
2. All shades are cut 9 inches longer than window measurements to prevent the shades from being pulled off the roller when drawn down to sill.
3. All shades are mounted on the guaranteed Hartshorn rollers.
4. No shade is mounted on a roller less than the 1-inch diameter.
5. All fixtures are put up with screws so as not to deface the woodwork.
6. All work is done by experienced men.
7. Low prices. Not only is the service intelligently rendered and invariably satisfactory, but of equal interest is the fact that the prices are always the lowest.

Old shades reversed, new cloth put on your own rollers. Measurements taken and estimates and samples sent free of charge.

RADICAL RUSSIA TODAY AS AN AMERICAN COMMUNIST FOUND IT

and remain a permanent succes. Russian industry must be rehabilitated. And the Russian peasantry must be brought to life and educated.

"Remember," he said, "that the Bolshevik seizure of power from Kerensky and his bourgeoise associates was not a revolution, but only a coup d'etat. What is going on now is the real revolution, and Socialism as an established fact and nationwide co-operation in production and equity in distribution are only hopes still. It has not had a fair chance yet, and, therefore, in fairness, should not be too harshly criticised.

"If the present Government has as much industrial ability as it has political capacity, the success of the experiment would be assured already. As it is, they are not self-sustaining in the industrial field, and it seems to me that to succeed they must manage to secure supplies, equipment and industrial engineers from outside.

"Russia," he pointed out, "is short of skilled workmen, too, owing to the fact that the Kerensky revolution and the Bolshevik coup de'etat were fought by mechanics and that element of the population suffered so severely that barely 30 per cent ow them have survived till today. As a consequence the factories, manned by inexperienced workers, cannot produce to capacity and, furthermore, nave deterioriated through ignorant misuse or lack of proper upkeep and repairs. But they are running, either under direct Government ownership or Government control, and are still filled with union workers. Everybody has to work and has to belong to a union. Even the members of the defunct middle classes have to do their share. When not available for factories they are put to work in offices and compelled to join the clerical workers' union.

"Workers get their food on a card system, their clothing, lodging and fuel and a small amount of money, 3000 or 4000 rubles weekly. Children whom the state regards as meriting most protection, since they are most defenseless, are provided for either in the institutions installed in the palaces and mansions of the vanished aristocracy or in the homes of their parents, as the latter choose."

Peasants Not Following Soviet Idea.

When he reached the problem of the peasantry, who live on and manage 80 per cent of the land of Russia, the man who once took two years in a New Jersey prison for the sake of his ideas smiled with tolerant amusement.

"The Russian peasant isn't playing ball," he said. "In the old days, when Socialism was a hopeless dream, he went the whole way. As long as there was no chance of his ever owning a single foot of land he was an ardent believer in the ownership of all the land by all the people. Now that all the people do own all the land he is for communism as it might apply to everything but the soil and the products. There he has become as conservative as any of the old landed proprietors, and it is only with bad grace and as many evasions as he can contrive that he gives up the 80 per cent of his produce which the Government requires. But the Government takes it, and also by conscription takes his sons and in the army teaches them to read and write, eventually sending them back to their villages with a little horizon and the beginnings of ideas. Perhaps that is the process by which in the end the viewpoint of the country and city dwellers will be harmonized and the vast mass of the Russian peasantry awakened to modern ideas and brought to the use of modern farming methods.

"But those two main problems, the industrial and the agrarian, have not been seriously attacked yet. So far the communists have been fully occupied, as patriotic Russians, in defending Russia against aggression and have done it admirably. The acid test of these politico-social experiments has had to be deferred until such aggression is over. It will come when Russia is left alone by outsiders."

This statement of the situation was so at variance with the usual idea, widespread in Europe and America this winter, of a flood of red terror pent inside the dam of the Russian frontiers and only waiting time to burst them and sweep across the anti-Socialistic nations with a combination of propaganda and armed force that it led to the natural question whether Russia would reciprocate and let outsiders alone.

Russia Tired of War.

"My impression is that it will," was the answer. "Russia is tired of war—all of Russia. It wants a rest and needs it. Also, the Russian is by nature not aggressive, but pacifistic. The people are not rough. I never saw a single bit of horseplay there. Instead, the people, when they get together, are eternally singing. The only fist fight I saw in seven months was one I could not see—because of my personal participation. I cannot believe that such a people is aching and planning to advance on its neighbors with torch and brickbat and knife. So far as I can study it out, every bit of warfare the bolshevists have indulged in has been at least strategically defensive. They are determined to keep their frontiers safe. But beyond that I do not believe they will be aggressive. The world revolution is not coming this summer, and is not coming out of Soviet Russia."

"But how about the establishment of the Third International in Moscow, Lenine's membership in it, and certain of his utterances?"

"Never forget," said Mr. Quinlan, "that Lenine is two persons. As a private individual and member of the communist party he is a Socialist profoundly interested in the spread of Socialism. But he is also the reasonable head of a paternalistic and Socialistic state, and as such one of the most conservative men in Europe. I have never seen this point of his dual personality made clear, and it has caused endless confusion.

Germany—No Field for Bolshevism.

"It should always be remembered that Lenine, the astute head of state, never lets himself be trapped into talking as such, particularly about Russia's external relations. All such statements he leaves to the Minister of Foreign Affairs. The Lenine who is interviewed by foreign correspondents or speaks publicly in Russia and is quoted outside is always Lenine the Socialist and party man.

STAYS COLLECTION OF RETAIL LIQUOR TAX

Judge Faris Restrains Collector From Levy on Saloon Owner's Property.

Judge Faris in the United States District Court yesterday issued a temporary injunction restraining Internal Revenue Collector Moore from proceeding any further in a threat to levy on the property of Steve Boggiano, proprietor of a saloon at 1803 Washington avenue, to collect taxes and penalties amounting to $557.29 for failing to pay tax as a retail liquor dealer.

The decision was based on a recent ruling of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals that the old revenue laws as to liquor traffic were repealed by the Volstead act. The Judge's ruling will have an adverse effect on the Collector's attempt to collect about $200,000 in assessments against saloon keepers who have been charged with violating the Volstead act.

District Attorney Carroll reminded Judge Faris that in another recent case he ruled that the Government was justified in collecting the liquor tax, but should resort to civil action to collect penalties. The Judge said he remembered having rendered such a decision, but that apparently he had erred. His decision was rendered before that of the Court of Appeals.

RADICAL RUSSIA TODAY AS AN AMERICAN COMMUNIST FOUND IT

who wants communism to spread.

"As to the establishment of the Third International in Moscow—where could the socialistic international more logically have its headquarters than in the only political socialistic country in the world? But it is no more Russian than it is Danish or English or Italian. It is independent of the soviet Government. The Russian contingent in it has to meet its own expenses, just as the other contingents have to.

"No," he concluded, "there is no reason for supposing that Russia is preparing to blow the capitalistic universe into bits this summer or any other summer. She will have her own affairs to attend to."

"But," he was asked, "even if Russia, as you say, is disinclined to active aggression, might she not still be the moving cause of a terrific social convulsion in Europe? Might not communistic propaganda and propagandist, seeping out from the overfilled Russian reservoir, set the suppressed radical masses of Germany aflame and so cause an explosion that would sweep the frail barriers of Poland and Czecho-Slovakia away and plunge all Europe into renewed warfare?"

Patrick Quinlan, radical scholar, waited till the last echo of that suggestion had ceased to disturb the silence.

"The suppressed radical masses of Germany?" he repeated finally, and as he spoke his voice was scornful. "Where would you go to find them? There used to be, and I suppose still are, a lot of fine German radical writers. But when their chance came, in the Kapp affair, to prove themselves fine radical actors also they showed their true colors. They were plain flock-of-sheep bourgeois, afraid of their own shadows when it came to radical action. They lost their chance then and they will never get another. An explosion from Germany? How can you create an explosion unless you first have an explosive?"

He was asked if he intended to write a book about Russia.

"No," he answered, with his genial Irish smile. "I was there too long and too intimately."

BOPP APPOINTMENT DISPLEASES COUNTY WOMEN VOTERS' LEAGUE

It became known yesterday that the League of Women Voters of Webster Groves had sent a letter to Sheriff Willman of St. Louis County, expressing "displeasure" at his appointment of the former Sheriff, Louis M. Bopp, as a deputy.

Mrs. E. F. Cushing of 26 East Rosemont avenue, chairman of the league, said to a Post-Dispatch reporter, that the letter was prompted by an understanding that Bopp established a reputation for leniency toward gamblers during his tenure, that he did not enforce the law and that, consequently, the county had been placed in an unfavorable light. She said that no request, except by inference, has been made for Bopp's removal.

CAMPAIGN FOR IRISH RELIEF CLOSES TODAY

House-to-House Canvass and Collections in Several Churches.

The effort to raise $100,000 in St. Louis for the relief of Irish sufferers, which has been in progress three days, will be concluded today by continued visits of 1500 workers to homes and collections in several churches. No calculation of the amount so far contributed has been made, but the committee in charge is confident that the goal will be reached.

The Association for the Recognition of the Irish Republic has raised more than $15,000 toward the fund, but the net result of its efforts will not be known before the end of the week, so that no figure on the total contribution of the city can be had until that time. The association gave a ball in the Colseum Thursday night.

Some of the recent large contributions are Mrs. W. C. McBride, $500; M. J. Tierney, $125 and $100 each from R. F. McNally, C. J. Kehoe and F. W. Corley.

DIVORCE GRANTED TO MRS. ANN DREW PLATT

Court Acts After 10-Minute Hearing With No Defense Presented.

After a 10-minute hearing, Judge Killoren yesterday granted to Mrs. Ann Drew Platt a divorce from James H. Platt. Mrs. Platt is a daughter of the late Francis A. Drew, glass merchant and banker. In her petition she alleged indignities which rendered her condition intolerable. The petition was filed Friday afternoon.

Though Platt entered his appearance and was represented by counsel, he was not at the trial. His attorney offered no defense and the divorce was uncontested.

Mrs. Platt testified that her husband is employed by the Anheuser-Busch Corporation. She was not asked as to his earnings and there was no mention of alimony. She testified she and Platt were married Jan. 3, 1914, and lived at 506 Lake avenue at the time of their separation, March 2 last. In her testimony she said she was a kind and devoted wife, but Platt had a violent temper and his drinking made him disagreeable. He often displayed his temper, she said, and insulted her in the presence of others.

Recounting the circumstances of the separation, she testified that Platt returned home shortly before midnight and had lost his latch key. He blamed her for this, she said, and telephoned to her sister that he was "through with her." Her brother, Francis Drew, then called and took her to his home, she said, and since then she and Platt have lived apart.

Francis Drew testified that he went to his sister's home and took her away. He described Platt as a man of very high temper. Mrs. Harry Potter and Mrs. Harold Kauffman appeared as character witnesses for Mrs. Platt.

SUGAR INDICTMENTS QUASHED

Announcement Reveals Secret Action of Federal Grand Jury in June.

By the Associated Press.

BOSTON, March 19.—The fact that Earl D. Babst of New York, president of the American Sugar Refining Co., other officers of that company and other dealers in sugar were indicted secretly by a Federal grand jury here last June for alleged conspiracy in making unreasonable profits became known today when United States Attorney Gallagher announced that the indictments had been quashed.

The latter action was taken, he said, as a result of the Supreme Court's ruling that the Lever act was unconstitutional.

President Babst, George H. Frazier of New York, Edwin S. Marston of Philadelphia, and Woodword K. Greene of Brookline, were the officers of the American Sugar Refining Co. who were named in two conspiracy and the second declaring they had fixed at 20½ cents the price of sugar which cost only 8 cents a pound.

PETITIONS TO BE CIRCULATED FOR DAYLIGHT SAVING

Effort to Be Made This Week to Organize All Interests Favoring Practice in St. Louis.

An effort to organize all groups of interests or individuals who advocate a saving daylight during the summer months by advancing the clock one hour, will be made this week from headquarters to be opened at some downtown point from which petitions for popular signature will be sent broadcast over the city.

An ordinance providing that clocks shall be set ahead on April 24 and set back on Sept. 25, as introduced in the Board of Aldermen Friday.

It is the opinion of those who advocate daylight saving that a similar ordinance failed in the Board of Aldermen last year, not because of any widespread sentiment against it, but because a widespread sentiment for it was not properly presented.

The movement was instituted this year by the Central Council of the Municipal Athletic Association and within a short time has been indorsed by the Merchants' Exchange, the Board of Directors of the Chamber of Commerce, the Executive Committee of the Advertising Club, the Associated Retailers and the Optimists' Club. Many firms are holding referendum among their employes. It was stated that in such a referendum in a downtown department store the vote was unanimous for the daylight saving measure. About 30 firms who are members of the Chamber of Commerce, have notified that organization that they favor the idea. One firm has said that it is opposed.

About 32 cities last year practiced daylight saving. New York and Chicago have ordinances establishing the practice this year.

3 CANDIDATES REPORT EXPENSE

Hall, Weil and Steinmeyer Tell What Losing Race Cost.

Three defeated candidates for nomination for the Board of Aldermen filed their expense accounts yesterday with the Election Board.

Alderman Nathan H. Hall of the Twenty-first Ward, who sought re-election, reported that he spent $62.75; Alderman Max Weil of the Seventh Ward, spent, $260.75; and August Steinmeyer, one of 10 defeated candidates for the Republican nomination for Aldermen from the Thirteenth Ward, spent $283.15.

HOLY WEEK AT ST. LOUIS U.

Holy Week at St. Louis University will be ushered in by retreats for the academic and collegiate departments, which will continue tomorrow, Tuesday and Wednesday.

The retreat for students in the academy will be held in St. Francis Xavier Church, conducted by Father Thomas Moore, S. J. At Loyola Academy Father Herbers, S. J., will conduct the retrat in Loyola student chapel, while the retreat for the collegiate department will be held in the student chapel, Father William Corboy, S. J., former chaplain of the A. E. 40 CASES DISPOSED OF IN CRIMINAL COURTS, 35 FILED Distinct Gain, if Continued, Would Work for Desired End of Early Trial After Commission of Crime.

The three criminal divisions of the Circuit Court of St. Louis, burdened with nearly 300 pending cases, worked at high pressure last week with results which, if continued, will materially shorten the time that intervenes between the commission of a crime and the trial of the alleged offender. During the week 40 cases were disposed of, as compared with 35 new cases filed and assigned to the courts, a distinct gain of the processes of justice upon the causes of delay.

The Post-Dispatch two weeks ago published the results of its investigations, showing that it is usual for the trial of alleged offenders to be delayed through one or more terms of court, following the commission of the offense. The terms of court continue two months, except the June term, which continues four months.

Congestion Causes Delay.

Although a number of cases set for trial during last week were continued when called, the cause of continuance in most cases was congestion of the docket, which did not allow sufficient time for trial of the cases in question. If the courts were up with their dockets this cause of delay would be removed and the ideal speedy justice might be achieved. The results of last week are a step toward this condition.

Eight of the cases were tried before juries. A jury trial usually requires a minimum of one full day, although occasionally two are completed in a day. One of the jury trials last week consumed four days, making it necessary to continue nine cases which had been set for trial on those days.

The greatest progress was made in obtaining pleas of guilty. Such pleas were entered by 26 defendants, saving the time and expense of trial. In most of the cases of pleas of guilty minimum sentences were imposed. Some of the pleas were made at the first arraignment of the prisoners, thus making the punishment come soon after commission of the crime.

Six Cases Nolle-Prossed.

Six cases were nolle-prossed, in most cases because the State considered the evidence insufficient. Some cases were nolle-prossed after the defendants pleaded guilty and were sentenced on other charges.

In 17 of the cases the defendants were charged with various degrees of burglary and larceny or receiving stolen property. There were seven charged with carrying concealed weapons, five of forgery, four of robbery in various degrees, four of sex crimes, two of murder and one of embezzlement.

One division of the court was not in session on Thursday because defendants in cases set for trial that day announced their intention to plead guilty and left the court with nothing to do.

Mrs. Asquith's First Love Affair Runs Into the Eternal Triangle

TELLS HOW SHE SURPRISED THE SUPPOSEDLY DEVOTED PETER FLOWER PAYING COURT TO A DARK-HAIRED BEAUTY IN NEGLIGEE

"It Was Past Midnight and I Felt Overpoweringly Tired—My Beautiful Dark Rival Opened the Front Door to Me and I Followed Her Silently Up to Her Room—I Looked at Her in Her Blue Satin Negligee and Saw That She Had Been Crying—'If You Don't Love Peter Enough to Marry Him,' She Said, 'Why Don't You Leave Him Alone? Why Do You Keep Him Bound to You? Why Don't You Set Him Free?'"

By MARGOT ASQUITH,
Wife of Former Prime Minister of Great Britain.

THINGS did not always go smoothly between Peter Flower and myself. One night after a ball, Peter suggested I should walk away with him and try an American trotter which he had been lent by a friend. As it was a glorious night, I thought it would be fun, so we walked down Grosvenor street into Park lane, and there stood the buggy under a lamp. American trotters always appear to be misshapen; they are exactly like colored prints and have never attracted me.

After we had placed ourselves firmly in the rickety buggy, Peter said to the man:

"Let him go, please."

And go he did, with a curious, rapid, swaying waddle. We turned into the Edgware road towards Acton at a great pace. There was no traffic in front of us, but Peter was a bad driver, and after a little time said his arms ached and he thought 'the damned horse" ought to be made to stop.

"I'm told the only way to stop them is to hit them," he said. At this I took the whip out of socket and threw it into the road.

This maddened Peter. He shoved the reins into my hands and told me he would jump out. I let the reins hang in festoons and we went much slower; Peter did not jump out, but suggested we should go back for the whip, so I caught firm hold of the trotter and off we went. After that we did not utter one word about the whip or anything else. The horse slacked, and in perfect silence we turned home.

The boy had been told to wait at the corner of Grosvenor Square. I drove better than anyone, as I often said to Peter, but that night taxed all my powers and when we pulled up at the corner of the square I ached in every limb. Peter was angry.

Margot: Shall I hand you your overcoat?

Peter: Don't be childish. How can you walk to your door in your ball dress?

Margot: Thanks very much for thinking of me, but I expect most sensible people are in bed by now. Take your coat—thank you very much, all the same, for thinking of me!

I took his coat off and placed it carefully and firmly on his arm. We turned away from each other and I walked home alone. When I got to our front door my father opened it and, seeing me in my ball dress, was beside himself with rage. He asked me if I would kindly explain what I was doing at 2 in the morning walking the streets in my ball dress.

I told him exactly what had happened and warned him never to buy an American trotter. He told me that my reputation was ruined, and that his was also, and that my behavior would kill my mother. I put my arms round his neck and told him I hadn't enjoyed myself at all, that I was only too glad to be safe home, and I promised that I would never do it again. By this time my mother had come out of her bedroom and was leaning over the staircase in her dressing gown.

"Don't agitate yourself, Charles," she said. "You've done a very wrong action, Margot! No one knows how impressionable your father is; you ought to have more consideration. Pray tell Mr. Flower that we do not approve of him at all!"

Margot: You are perfectly right, dear mam; that is exactly what I said to him; in fact, we had a high old row. Luckily, no one saw us. Let's go to bed, I'm dog tired.

Peter was extremely inconsequent about money; he told me one day in great sorrow that his only chance of economizing was to sell his horses and go to India to shoot big game, incidentally escaping his rapacious creditors.

I was very happy when Peter went to India, but to please my people I told him I would say good-by and not write to him for a year, a promise which was faithfully kept.

While he was away, a young man of rank and fortune fell in love with me. He never proposed; he only declared himself. I liked him particularly, but his attentions sat lightly on me. This rather nettled him and he told me he was sure I must be in love with someone else. I said it did not follow, and that if he were wise he would stop talking about love and go and buy himself some good horses. We were staying at Cholmondeley Castle, hunting in Cheshire. My beloved hostess. Winifred Cholmondeley—then Lady Rocksavage—and my host, Rock, had put me and my horses up for several weeks before my departure for Leicestershire.

My noble friend took my advice and went to London. He promised he would lend me two of the best that money could buy, to take to Melton, where he proposed shortly to follow me.

At Tattersall's there were several studs of well-known horses being sold, Jock Trotter's, Sir William Eden's, and others. Among the latter was a famous hunter which had once belonged to Peter Flower. My friend determined that he would buy it for me. Some one said to him:

"I don't advise you to buy that horse as you won't be able to ride him!"

This, of course, is the only certain way by which you can sell a horse. Another man said:

"I don't agree with you, the horse is all right; when it belonged to Flower I saw Miss Margot going like a bird on it——"

My Friend: Did Miss Tennant ride Flower's horses?

Man: Why, my dear fellow, where have you lived?

Some months after I had ridden Jack Madden and my own horses over High Leicestershire, my friend came to me and asked me to swear on my Bible oath that I would not give him away over a secret which he wanted to tell me. I swore.

My Friend: Your friend, Peter Flower, was going to be put in the bankruptcy-court and turned out of every club in London; I went to Sam Lewis and paid his debt, but I don't want him to know, and he never need unless you tell him.

Margot: Who does he owe? And who does he owe it to?

My Friend: He owes 10,000 pounds, but I'm not at liberty to tell you who it's to. He's a very good fellow, but has waited already longer than most of us would for Flower to pay him; and I think he did the right thing.

Margot: Is Peter Flower a friend of yours?

My Friend: I've never spoken to him in my life, but he's the man you are in love with and that is enough for me.

When the year was up and Peter—for all I knew—was still in India I had quite made up my mind that, come what might, I would never, under any circumstances, renew relations with him.

That winter I was staying with the Manners as usual, and being late for a near meet, I cut across country. Larking is always a stupid thing to do; horses that have never put a foot wrong generally refuse the smallest fence and rather than upset them at the bginning of the day you end by going through the gate, which you had better have done at first.

I had the finest timber jumper in Leicestershire, a mare called Molly Bawn, and, seeing the people at the meet looking at me as I approached I could not resist, out of pure swagger, jumping an enormous gate. I said to myself how disgusted Peter would have been at my vulgarity. I turned round and saw a man behind me jumping the fence at the side of my gate and there was Peter Flower. He was in tearing spirits and told me with eagerness how he never intended to get into debt again, as the most wonderful thing had happened to him that had ever happened to anyone.

"I'm under a lucky star, Margie! Bl heavens, I am! And the joy of seeing you is so great that I won't allude to the gate, or Molly Bawn, or you, or anything ugly—let us enjoy ourselves! And don't scold. Are you glad to see me? Let me look at you! Which do you love best, Molly Bawn or me? Don't answer, but listen."

My heart beat as he told me how his debts had been paid by Sam Lewis—the money-lender—through an unknown benefactor, that he had begged Lewis to tell him who it was, but that he had refused, having taken his oath not to. I then said a remarkably stupid thing:

"You'll have to pay him back, Peter."

Peter: Oh, indeed! Then perhaps you can tell me who it is.

Margot: How can I?

Peter: Do you know who it is?

Margot: I do not.

I felt the cock ought to have crowed, but I said nothing, and Peter was so busy greeting his friends that I prayed he had not observed my guilty face.

Some days after this there was a race-meeting at Leicester. Lord Lonsdale took a special and the Manners, Peter and I all went to the races. When I walked into the paddock, I saw my friend talking to the Prince of Wales. We joined them, and the Prince suggested that we should go and see Mrs. Langtry's horse, as it was a great rogue and difficult to mount.

When we arrived the crowd made way, and I found my friend next to me, and on his other side Peter Flower and then the Prince. The Langtry horse had his eyes bandaged, and one of his forelegs was being held up by a stable boy. When the jockey was up and the bandage removed, it jumped into the air and gave an extended and violent buck. I was standing so near that I felt the draft of its kick on my hair. At this my friend gave a slight scream and putting his arm round me pulled me back towards him. A miss is as good as a mile. I thanked him for his protection and chatted cheerfully with the Prince of Wales.

Editor's Note—(The fondness of the Prince of Wales for Lilian Langtry is said to have come to an end when the beautiful actress dropped a plate of ice cream down his collar. If the stories are true, Margot Asquith was in the same boat when she tapped him on the waistcoat with a fork and called him 'Tum-Tum" after he had greeted her as "Dragon Fly.")

There is nothing so tiring as racing, and we all sat in perfect silence going home in the special.

Neither at dinner nor after had I an opportunity of speaking to Peter, but I observed a singularly impassive expression on his face. The next day—being Sunday—after church I asked him to go round by stables; he refused, so I went alone. After dinner I tried to talk to him, but he would not answer and I felt distressed. He did not look angry, but he appeared profoundly sad. He told Hoppy Manners he was not going to hunt that week, as he had to be in London. My heart sank. We went to our bedrooms early and Peter remained downstairs reading. As he never read in winter I knew there was something seriously wrong, so went in my tea-gown to see him.

We were alone. He never looked up.

Margot: Peter, you've not spoken to me since the races. What has happened?

Peter: I would rather you left me.

Margot (sitting on the sofa behind him): Won't you speak to me?

Peter (putting down his book and looking at me steadily): I'd rather not speak to a liar!

Margot (getting up suddenly): How dare you say such a thing to me!

Peter: You lied to me.

Margot: When.

Peter: You know perfectly well! And you are in love! Will you deny it?

"It it this that worries you?" I said. "What would you say if I told you I was NOT"——

Peter: I would say you were lying again.

Margot: Have I ever lied to you?

Peter: How can I tell? (shrugging his shoulders) You have lied twice, so I presume since I've been away you've got into the habit of it.

Margot: Peter.

Peter: A man doesn't scream and put his arm round a woman, as D—— did at the races today, unless he is in love. Will you tell me who paid my debt, please?

Margot: No, I won't.

Peter: Was it D——?

Margot: I shan't tell you. I'm not Sam Lewis; and, since I'm such a liar, is it worth while asking me these stupid questions?

Peter: Ah, Margot, this is the worst blow of my life. I can see you are deceiving me. I know who paid now.

Margot: Then why ask me?

Peter: When I went to India I had never spoken to D—— in my life. Why should he have paid? You had much better tell me the simple truth—you're going to marry him.

Margot: Since I've got into the way of lying you might spare yourself and me these vulgar questions.

Peter (seizing my hands in anguish): Say you aren't going to marry him * * * Tell me, tell me, it's not true.

Margot: He has never asked me to.

After this the question of matrimony was bound to come up between us. The first time it was talked of I was filled with anxiety. It seemed to put a finish on the radiance of our friendship, and, worse than that, it brought me up against my father, who, although he delighted in Peter, had often said to me:

"You will never marry Flower; you must marry your superior."

Peter himself in an unexpressed and subconscious way had become aware of the situation. One evening riding home he said to me:

MRS. ASQUITH'S FIRST LOVE RUNS AFOUL OF THE ETERNAL TRIANGLE

"Margy, do you see that?"

"He pointed to the spire of the Melton church.

Magot: Yes.

Peter: That is what you are in my life. I am not worth the button on your boot!

To which I replied:

"I would not say that, but I cannot find goodness for two."

I was profoundly unhappy. To live forever with a man who was incapable of loving anyone but himself and me, who was without any kind of moral ambition, chronically indifferent eo politics and religion, was a nightmare, and caused me sleepless nights.

I said to him:

"I will marry you if you get some serious occupation, Peter, but I won't marry an idle man; you think of nothing but yourself and me."

Peter: What in the name of goodness would you have me think of? Geography?

Margot: You know exactly what I mean—your power lies in love-making, but not in loving; you don't love anyone but yourself.

At this Peter moved away as if I had struck him and said in a low, tense voice:

"I am glad I did not say that. I would not care to have said such a cat-cruel thing; I pity the man who marries you! He will think—as I did—that you are impulsive, throbbingly warm, and kind, and gentle; and he will find he has married a governess, and a prig; and a woman whose fire—of which she boasts so much—blasts his soul.

I listened to a Peter I had never heard before. His face frightened me. It indicated suffering. I put my head against his and said:

"How can I make an honest man of you, my dearest?"

I was getting quite clever about people. The Mrs. Bo episode had taught me a lot.

A short time after our conversation I observed a dark, good-looking woman—whom I knew—pursuing Peter at every ball and party. He told me when I teased him that she failed to arrest his attention, and that for the first time in my life I flattered him by my jealousy. I persisted—and said I did not know if it was jealousy, but that I was convinced she was a bad friend for him.

Peter: I've always noticed you think things bad when they don't suit you. Why should I give up my life to you? What do you give me in return? I'm the laughing stock of London. But if it is any satisfaction to you I shall tell you I don't care for the black lady, as you call her, and I never see her except at parties.

I know Peter as well as a cat knows its way in the dark, but I felt the truth of this remark; what did I give him?

The lady often asked me to go and see her, but I shrank from it.

One day I told Peter I would meet him at the Scane Collection in Lincoln's Inn Fields. To my surprise he said he had engaged himself to see his sister, who had been ill; he pointed out with a laugh that my governessing was taking root and added:

"I will give it up if you can spend the whole afternoon with me."

I told him I would not have him give up going to see his sister for the world.

Finding myself at a loose end, I thought I would pay a visit to the dark lady, as it was unworthy of me to have such a prejudice against someone I did not know. It was a hot Londay day; pale color, thin stuffs, naked throats, and large hats were strewn about the parks and streets.

The lady's bell was answered by a

There is no other place but the Wurlitzer store to buy your Easter Victrola if you want Wurlitzer Service and Wurlitzer Terms

As authorized agents we can offer you
EVERY VICTROLA MODEL
PORTABLE, STANDARD AND CABINET DESIGNS

$25.00 WORTH OF THE LATEST VICTOR RECORDS

Included in your Victrola Contract

This offer may be withdrawn any day. Act at once. Don't let lack of money hold you back. We'll take care of you. Next month is time enough to pay.

There is only one Victrola. There is only one Wurlitzer. Associate the two clearly in your mind and you won't make a mistake when you buy a Talking Machine.

Now is the time to buy. There are plenty of all the models in stock. If you wait until later you will find the popular models all gone. There will be a shortage of Victrolas again this year.

VERY EASY MONTHLY PAYMENTS

These are the most liberal terms we have ever offered. Don't put off the Easter Victrola another day. What happiness for the family! Think of buying your Victrola now and having a year's time to pay for it. Only resources of a house like Wurlitzer can make these remarkable credit terms possible.

MAKE SMALL DOWN PAYMENT NOW AND

Begin paying on contract 30 days hence

We can't hold this offer open long. It is an added inducement to act at once. Think of the surprise you can give the folks by springing a Victrola and a library of records on them Easter morning.

MRS. ASQUITH'S FIRST LOVE RUNS AFOUL OF THE ETERNAL TRIANGLE

hall boy and, hearing the piano, I told him he need not announce me. When I opened the door, I saw Peter and the brunette sharing the same seat in front of the open piano. She wore a black satin sleeveless nightgown cut low, and kept on by a coral ribbon round her waist; had stuck a white rose in her rather disheveled Carmen hair. I stood still, startled by her beauty and stunned by Peter's face.

She got up, charmed to see me and expressed her joy at the amazing luck which had brought me there that very afternoon, as she had a wonderful Spaniard coming to play to her at tea and she had often been told by Peter how musical I was, etc., etc. She hoped I was not shocked by her appearance, but she had just come from a studio and it was too hot to get into decent clothes. She was perfectly at her ease, and more than welcoming; before I could answer she rallied Peter and said she pleaded guilty of having lured him away from the path of duty that afternoon and ended by saying with a slight twinkle:

"From what I'm told, Miss Margot, you would never ha e done anything so wicked."

I felt ice in my blood and said:

"You needn't believe that! I've lured him away from the path of duty for the last eight years, haven't I, Peter?"

I looked about for a means of escape, but it took me some little time to find it.

I said good-by to them and left

—Made in St. Louis
—By St. Louis Labor
—With St. Louis Capital

Guaranteed By Scruggs-Vandervoort-Barney
all fresh new stock made within the past sixty days

Here are Six More Reasons Why You Should Buy These Tires:

First:
—Because after thorough investigation and many tests, we have proven conclusively to our own satisfaction that there is no better Tire made.

Second:
—Because the "Surety" Tire has every feature in construction to give it long wearing quality. The black tread gives it a smart appearance and will "set off" your whole car.

Third:
—Because the "Surety" Tire is a St. Louis product, made by St. Louis labor and financed by St. Louis capital.

Fourth:
—Because the "Surety" Tire is guaranteed to meet every requirement of the road. You will get greater mileage from "Surety" Tires, and because of the scientifically designed tread the danger of skidding is minimized.

Olive and Locust
from Ninth to Tenth

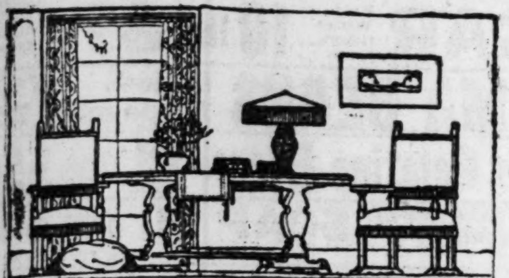
Why You Will Select Your Easter Apparel Here



We Have Greatly Increased Our Furniture Displays

Alterations which have been finished now give us nearly double our former space in which to display Furniture.

Our Living-Room Furniture now occupies a large space on the Ninth and Olive street side, Fifth Floor.

Dining-Room Furniture has larger display room on the Tenth Street Side.

Summer Furniture occupies space in the center of the building.

Gift Furniture and Office Furniture are on the Sixth Floor in the center of the Olive Street side.

Bedroom Furniture is now shown on the Tenth and Locust Street side of the building on the Fifth Floor, and in the center of the Locust Street side we have a large display of Wood and Metal Beds, Mattresses and Pillows.

You will be interested in this new display and you will be more interested when you see the low prices that are in effect for Spring 1921.

An Entire Quarter Block of Fine China

—certainly offers large enough selection from which to choose anyone's present.

Vandervoort's China Shop is known throughout this part of the country for its wonderful collection of unusual pieces of Chinaware, as well as for the complete stocks of the more staple kind.

For immediate choosing we suggest:

Lap Sets of Lenox China.

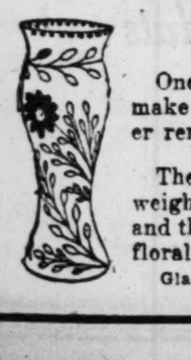
—Imported Tea Sets in English, French and Nippon China.

—Beautiful Service Plates in wide range of styles and prices.

See our new open stock Dinnerware in imported and domestic China.

China Shop—Fourth Floor.

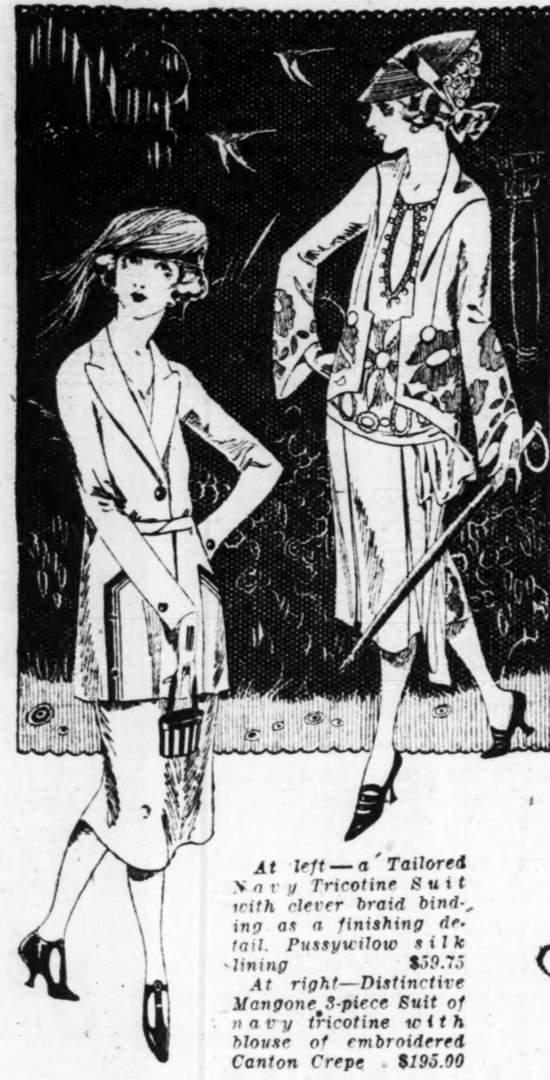
Cut Glass Vases 95c Each



One of these Vases would make a very appropriate Easter remembrance.

They are all hand-cut, light weight blanks. 10 inches high and three different shapes, with floral designs.

Glassware Shop—Fourth Floor.



At left—a Tailored Navy Tricotine Suit with clever braid binding as a finishing detail. Pussywilow silk lining $59.75
At right—Distinctive Mangone 3-piece Suit of navy tricotine with blouse of embroidered Canton Crepe $195.00

—because we have never had a larger or more complete selection of smart Suits, Frocks, Millinery, Wraps, Blouses, Skirts and Furs for women and misses than we have today—just one week before Easter.

—because Easter apparel was never more lovely than this season. The modes for 1921 are essentially youthful and slender of silhouette—decidedly becoming to all women.

—because you will find the specialized, personal service here a most gratifying aid in choosing the various articles of your wardrobe.

—because prices are much lower than in former seasons; therefore you can afford to wear better apparel with no greater expenditure.

—because you can depend upon Vandervoort's for the latest approved modes at all times, which is the reason these are known as

"The Smart Apparel Shops of St. Louis"

Clever Modeling and Tailoring Distinguish Our Smart Suits for Easter

Three-Piece Suits are the ultra-smart in Suitdom and make an elegant Easter costume. Our showing of exclusive-designed and beautifully hand-tailored Mangone models is especially attractive.

There is only one of a kind in Indian twill, twillcord and piquetine with exquisite silk crepe embroidered blouses. French knot and ribbon decoration are new features with Mandarin sleeves $125 to $250

The Two-Piece Suits range from the strictly tailored to braided, embroidered and beaded straightline or box models $39.75 to $195

Tweed Knockabout Suits, $25

A noteworthy assortment of smartly tailored new Suits, to be worn with or without belt, in gray, navy or tan.

Suit Shop—Third Floor.

Misses' Suits Take on Added Jauntiness

As Their Popularity for Easter Costumes Continue

There is quite a rivalry among the distinctive Spring Suits for misses—slender directoire tailored models are vieing for Easter fashion supremacy with the short Mandarin box affairs so gayly girdled with fringed sashes.

It really only depends upon which you prefer, for both are smart, youthful and becoming.

Tweed and Homespun Sports Suits are also much in vogue.

Prices range from $17.75 to $165.00

Misses' Shop—Third Floor.

Radiant Easter Millinery

In the Picturesque Modes of Spring

Many lovely Hats are trimmed with our own importation of French flowers.

Glycerined Ostrich Trimmed Hats are shown in the new Directoire or Empire styles.

Hats, small and wide-brimmed with large ribbon bows are another Easter fashion note.

Sports Hats to wear with the tweed suit present some very new and smartly simple modes in shades of old blue, pearl gray and modore brown.

Millinery Shop—Third Floor.

Our Own Importation—Direct From Switzerland—of Beautiful Silk Scarfs, $15.00

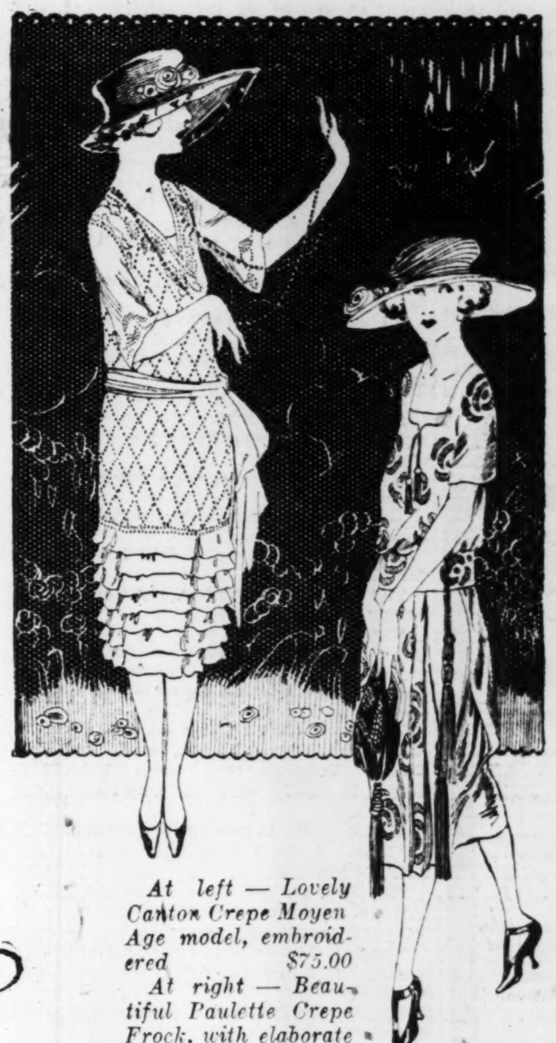
These Scarfs are exquisitely woven of pure silk and come in lovely shades of light blue, purple, gray, rose, tomato and pink, in solid effects or contrasting colored stripes of various bright shades.

They are very smart for wear with the street or sports' costume, adding a gay color note. Finished with fringe ends.

Sweater Shop—Third Floor.



At left — Lovely Canton Crepe Moyen Age model, embroidered $75.00
At right — Beautiful Paulette Crepe Frock, with elaborate bead garniture $150.00

It Will Be a Joy to Select and to Wear Such Beautiful Frocks

The Frock you wear on Easter day you want to be more than just charming; it must have new and distinguishing fashion features—it must be becoming and individual. And these are the Frocks that now greet you in the wonderful Vandervoort array.

The Directoire, Moyen Age and Spanish modes that are Fashion's whim of the moment, are delightfully expressed in Canton crepe, Paulette crepe and taffeta—enriched with artistic garnitures in embroidery, beading and combinations of materials.

Frocks at $45.00

—are particularly featured because at this reasonable price you have choice of a pleasing variety of smart new models in fashionable taffetas and crepes—in styles becoming to all figures.

Costume Salon—and Women's Dress Shop—Third Floor.

The Misses' Shop Is Enthusiastic Over Fetching Frocks

In the Easter Collection

An array of Canton Crepe and Taffeta Frocks, fascinating in their portrayal of youthful Spring modes, is awaiting the discriminating "younger set"—ready to trip gaily forth on Easter day, the envy of many other Frocks less favored in pretty modes and adornment!

No matter what your type, there is a Frock made just for you in the diverse selection, economically priced $14.75 to $185

Misses' Shop—Third Floor.

MRS. ASQUITH'S FIRST LOVE RUNS AFOUL OF THE ETERNAL TRIANGLE

the house. When I was in my bedroom I locked the door, flung myself on my bed and was blinded by tears.

"Why should I give up my life to you?"

Why, indeed!—and yet after eight years this seemed a terrible ending.

"What do you give in return?"

What, indeed! What claim had I to his fidelity? I thought I was giving gold for silver, but the dark lady would have called it copper for gold. Was she prepared to give everything for nothing? Why should I call it nothing? What did I know of Peter's love for her? She had taught him to lie—he must love her very much to do that; he had never lied to me before.

I went to the opera that night with my father and mother. Peter came into our box in a state of intense misery. I could hardly look at him and yet I had no sort of right to mind. He put his hand out under the program toward mine, and I took it. I heard him uttering something about God never having made such a sweetheart. At that moment the program girl put a note into my hand and asked me to give her an answer. I read it:

"If you want to do a very kind thing come and see me after the opera tonight. Don't say no."

It was from the dark lady. I showed it to Peter and he said, "Go." I asked him what she wanted me for, and he said she was terribly unhappy.

Margot: Oh, Peter, what have you done?

Peter: I know * * * it's quite true; but I've broken it off forever with her.

Nothing he could have said then would have lightened my heart. I scribbled, "Yes," on the same paper and gave it to the girl.

When I said good-night to my mother I told her where I was going. Peter was waiting downstairs and took me in a hansom to the lady's house, saying he would wait for me round the corner.

It was past midnight and I felt overpoweringly tired. My beautiful black rival opened the front door to me and I followed her silently up to her bedroom.

She took off my opera cloak and we sat down facing each other.

The room was large and dark but for a row of candles on the mantlepiece, and two high church lights each side of a silver pier glass. There was a table near my chair with odds and ends on it, and a general scent of flowers. I looked at her in her blue satin negligee and saw that she had been crying.

"It is kind of you to have come," she said, "and I daresay you know why I wanted to see you tonight.

Margot: No, I don't. I haven't the least idea!

The Lady (looking rather embarrassed, but after a moment's pause). I want to tell you about yourself.

I felt this to be wrong; she had sent for me to tell her about Peter Flower and not myself. Why should I tell her about either of us? I had never spoken of my love affairs excepting to my mother and my three great friends—Con Manners, Frances Horner and Etty Desborough—and people had ceased to speak to me about them, why should I sit up with a stranger and discuss myself at this time of night? I said there was nothing to tell. She answered me by saying she had met so many people who cared for me that she felt she almost knew me.

Margot: In that case, why talk about it?

The Lady: But some people care for both of us.

Margot (rather coldly): I dare say.

The Lady: Don't be hard. I want to know if you love Peter Flower. Do you intend to marry him?

The question had come then, this terrible question which my mother had never asked, and which I had always evaded!

Margot: You mean, am I engaged to be married?

The Lady: I mean what I say; are you going to marry Peter?

Margot: I have never told him I would.

The Lady: Remember, my life is bound up in your answer.

Her words seemed to burn, and I felt a kind of pity. She was leaning forward with her eyes fastened on mine and her hands clasped between her knees:

"If you don't love him enough to marry him, why don't you leave him alone? Why do you keep him bound to you? Why don't you set him free?"

Margot: He is free to love whom he likes. I don't keep him, but I won't share him.

The Lady: You don't love him, but you want to keep him; that is pure selfishness and vanity.

Margot: Not at all. I would give him up tomorrow and have told him so a thousand times if he would marry, but he is not in a position to marry anyone.

The Lady: How can you say such a thing! His debts have just been paid by God knows who!—some woman, I suppose!—and you are rich yourself. What is there to hinder you from marrying him?

Margot: That was not what I was thinking about. I don't believe you would understand even if I were to explain it to you.

The Lady: If you were in love you could not be so critical and censorious.

Margot: Oh, yes, I could! You don't know me.

The Lady: I love him in a way you would never understand. There is nothing in the world I would not do for him. No pain I would not suffer, and no sacrifice I would not make.

Margot: What could you do for him that would help him?

The Lady: I would leave my husband and my children and go right away with him.

I felt as if she had stabbed me.

"Leave your children!—and your husband!" I said. "But how can ruining them and yourself help

"Retardeau"

Makes Your Clothes Moisture-Proof—a Process Introduced by Our Cleaning Department

DID you ever have a new silk frock spotted by a few innocent drops of rain? Or perhaps you have had to send friend husband's suit to the presser because a little dampness took out the creases? Then you will welcome "Retardeau" as the greatest of inventions.

"Retardeau" is a treatment which makes the finest and sheerest materials proof against moisture. Think what this means—moisture cannot affect fabric so it loses its freshness on a foggy day—dirt does not stick in the damp sticky folds of a rain-spattered suit. Really any garment which has been "Retardeaud" will stay clean indefinitely.

We expect our Cleaning Department to do less work for each customer from now on, for the simple reason that the "Retardeau" treatment, will make clothing stay clean. But we do expect our cleaning business to be better than ever before because everyone who hears about and sees the result of "Retardeau" will come to us for the benefit of waterproof clothing.

MRS. ASQUITH'S FIRST LOVE RUNS AFOUL OF THE ETERNAL TRIANGLE

Peter? I don't believe he would ever do anything so vile."

The Lady: "You think he loves you too much to run away with me?

Margot: Perhaps I hoep he cares too much for me.

The Lady (not listening and getting up excitedly): What do you know about love? I have had a hundred lovers, but Peter Flower is the only man I have ever cared for; and my life is at an end if you will not give him up.

Margot: There is no question of my giving him up; he is free, I tell you.

The Lady: I tell you he is not! He doesn't consider himself free; he said as much to me this afternoon when he wanted to break it all off.

Margot: What do you wish me to do?

The Lady: Tell Peter you don't love him in the right way, that you don't intend to marry him, and then leave him alone.

Margot: Do you mean I am to leave him to you? Do you love him in the right way?

The Lady: Don't ask stupid questions . . . I shall kill myself if he gives me up.

I felt there was nothing more to be said, so I told her that I would go abroad with my sister Lucy to Italy —which I had been going to do—and that when I returned in two months Peter would either have broken with her or taken her away with him. I would not interpose myself between them; but I added that all my influence over him for eight years had been directed into trying to make him the right sort of man to marry, and that all hers would of necessity lie in the opposite direction, and that it was a tragedy for the three of us. Not knowing quite how to say good-by, I began to finger my clock. She said:

"One moment. . . . Sit down, will you? Are you very good, as Peter always tells me you are? It's too dark—wait a moment, I can't see your eyes. . . ."

She got up and, taking two candles off the chimney piece, placed them on the table by my side, slightly in front of my face, and knelt down on the ground. I looked at her strained, wonderful, wild eyes, and said, putting out my hands toward her:

"Nonsense, I am not the least good! Get up. I feel sorry for you when I see you kneeling."

The Lady: For God's sake, don't pity me!

I felt no qualms on leaving the dark lady as to her elopement or her suicide, but I had a new angle on Peter's character and felt a revulsion of feeling. I thought of him coldly * * * his lack of purpose, esthetic sensibility, and moral indignation; his paralyzing indifference to what was intellectual, and rigid intractability over all that was serious, had cut deep division between us; and I determined at whatever cost to say good-by to him.

A few days before going to Italy,

MOTHER-IN-LAW ACCUSED BY BRIDE OF FORCING HER TO WED

Woman, After Being Arrested on Kidnaping Charge, Says Girl Called to See Her Son.

Mrs. Mary Simeral, 1216A Chambers street, was arrested Friday on a charge of kidnaping on a warrant issued by the Circuit Attorney's office, based on a recital by George Hook, 1213 Clinton street, of the circumstances under which his daughter, Thelma, 18 years old, was married March 11 to Mrs. Simeral's son, Clarence Belew, 19, a Corporal in the army stationed at Camp Grant, Ill.

Hook declared that Mrs. Simeral compelled his daughter to go to Granite City for the marriage and that the son threatened to shoot her unless she married him.

Mrs. Simeral declared after her arrest that "the shoe was on the other foot," that the girl had been coming to her home to see her son for about a year, on one day as many as seven times, and that she had induced him to enter the army to get away from the girl.

MRS. ASQUITH'S FIRST LOVE RUNS AFOUL OF THE ETERNAL TRIANGLE

Lord Dufferin came to tea with me. He said:

"Margot, you should marry in spite of being in love, never because of it."

When I returned to England Peter had left his lady.

With passion-lit eyes and throbbing hearts we said good-by to each other and he went to South Africa.

The obvious relief of my friends at our parting suffocated me as I clung to the shelter of stranger.

Another installment of Mrs. Asquith's remarkable diary will be published next Sunday in the Post-Dispatch.

MOTHER-IN-LAW ACCUSED BY BRIDE OF FORCING HER TO WED

Woman, After Being Arrested on Kidnaping Charge, Says Girl Called to See Her Son.

Mrs. Mary Simeral, 1216A Chambers street, was arrested Friday on a charge of kidnaping on a warrant issued by the Circuit Attorney's office, based on a recital by George Hook, 1213 Clinton street, of the circumstances under which his daughter, Thelma, 18 years old, was married March 11 to Mrs. Simeral's son, Clarence Belew, 19, a Corporal in the army stationed at Camp Grant, Ill.

Hook declared that Mrs. Simeral compelled his daughter to go to Granite City for the marriage and that the son threatened to shoot her unless she married him.

Mrs. Simeral declared after her arrest that "the shoe was on the other foot," that the girl had been coming to her home to see her son for about a year, on one day as many as seven times, and that she had induced him to enter the army to get away from the girl.

MRS. ASQUITH'S FIRST LOVE RUNS AFOUL OF THE ETERNAL TRIANGLE

Lord Dufferin came to tea with me. He said:

"Margot, you should marry in spite of being in love, never because of it."

When I returned to England Peter had left his lady.

With passion-lit eyes and throbbing hearts we said good-by to each other and he went to South Africa.

The obvious relief of my friends at our parting suffocated me as I clung to the shelter of stranger.

ITALIAN EXCHANGE STRONG ON LOWER COST OF IMPORTS

Bank Reserves Increase, but Falling Prices Lead to Renewed Business Embarrassments in the Matter of Cash Requirements.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, March 19.—The Evening Post, in its copyrighted weekly review, says:

"That progress in the readjustment of world trade conditions is disappointingly slow is now generally admitted. Prices continue to fall, increased inventory losses must be faced, and the demand for goods remains at a low ebb. In our own markets, the past week has seen renewed weakness in cotton and grain and both these commodities now have fallen back close to their low levels of the [illegible]. Bank reserves increased, but falling prices lead to renewed business embarrassment in the matter of cash requirements, which again imply recourse to the money market. The result is an unsatisfactory securities market with little ability to digest the great volume of potential new offerings.

"Certain of the reasons for the sluggish nature of the readjustment are fairly apparent. With regard to two of the prime essentials, international peace and government economy, progress is exceedingly unsatisfactory. Possibly it is entirely necessary that the responsible political leaders in the various countries shall devote their energies to producing in the course of their foreign negotiations, effects upon the 'home front.' The resulting effect upon the state of world trade is, however, most unfortunate. The uncertainties and delay continue and emphasis the slump in prices and increase the losses which must be absorbed thus adding to the demoralization. Similarly, the tremendous rate of Government expenditure is laying up some very unpleasant surprises in a number of countries in the matter of balancing budgets, a circumstance which forecasts increased Government borrowing in already over-burdened money markets.

Rally in Italian Lire.

"The deplorable manner in which the railroad situation is being handled in certain countries is also a disturbing factor. Not only in this country, but in England and Canada the roads are being operated at a loss, while Government regulation or ownership interposes delays to the production of the ordinary and necessary measures of economy. Aside from the drain on the resources of the roads and the Government treasuries the delay involves a corresponding postponement of the time when certain much needed reductions in rates can be made, which in turn places in prospect a further lowering of prices on this account at some later and indeterminate date.

"That the ill wind of falling prices may blow some good is illustrated, however, by one of the explanations put forth for the recent rally in Italian lire. It is stated that the reduced price of imported raw materials has been a favorable factor, and it may be noted that in a sense this effect tends to be cummulative. Cheaper wheat makes for higher exchange, which in turn makes it possible to buy wheat cheaper. Such a state of affairs must result, however, in a falling domestic price level, which in turn tends to produce business stagnation. This emphasises the difficulties with which European business is confronted and shows the extreme desirability of achieving some measure of international economies and financial stabilization.

Slump in Ocean Rates.

"One factor which has played a part in the sharp and continued decline in the general price level is the extraordinary slump in ocean freight rates. In the space of a year the cost of carrying goods at sea has decreased in some cases by as much as 85 per cent. This naturally has a marked effect directly on the price of all imported commodities and indirectly on prices as a whole. A year ago Europe was taking large quantities of our coal and paying a price which includes a charge of about $24 a ton for the transportation alone. Now the same coal may be shipped to Europe for something like $4 a ton.

"In the case of ocean shipping we are dealing with a factor with regard to which it is possible to say that something approximating a bottom has been reached, or at least that further recessions cannot begin to compare with those which have occurred during the past year. Already a huge amount of tonnage is idle and only the most economical ships can operate with any semblance of profit. Accordingly, shipping has already produced the greatest part of its effect in the way of a lower price level. In sharp contrast is the case of land transportation where the effect so far is quite negligible."

Saturday Prices Irregular.

Fairly active trading continued on the Stock Exchange with considerable irregularity in the movement and with buying of specialties a feature. Motor stocks continued to advance and strength developed in the leather stocks as well. American Linseed Co. and American Agricultural Chemical were other strong features. Toward the close the market as a whole showed little change; the industrials were generally higher, gains in the actively bought issues amounting to from 1 to 3 points. The appearance was that of professional dealing. In the other markets, sterling advanced 1 cent to $3.81¼ and lire made another gain in selling for 4.10 cents. Marks were 1 point better at 1.60 cents, but francs were unchanged at 6.95 cents. No change was recorded in cotton. May contracts [illegible] 11.64 cents.

"The Clearing House bank statement shows that the member banks have been able to repay last week's heavy borrowings at the Reserve Bank in anticipation of war payments. The reduction amounts to [illegible] and is attended by a decrease of $31,000,000 in excess reserves which brings the total of the latter item down to $3,400,000. Deposits are less by $25,000,000 and loans greater by $33,000,000. "Government deposits, as a result of tax payments, and $145,000,000 the greater."

Foreign Exchange and Domestic Money

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, March 19.—There were many irregular movements in the foreign exchange market during the week, with special interest in the first few days of the week attached to the heavy selling of French exchange in London, on which the rate here for checks on Paris dropped to 6.88. In banking circles it was thought that the supply of French exchange reflected the necessity for accumulating funds in connection with unexpected expenditures on account of military demonstration over the German border. There was a slight rally from the low level late in the week, but the market for French exchange showed a receding tendency when other exchanges became firm to strong. The most important movement in other exchanges was the advance in Italian exchange, due to heavy buying in London and this city carrying the price of lire checks up from 3.67 to 4.04. A material change was also made in the position of Austrian exchange, crown checks advancing from .23 to .28. The movement was based wholly on the prospect that the European allies will arrange for financial aid to Austria as well as to other nations in necessity on the pledge of their assets and collateral for new loans. Exchange on London fluctuated within an unusually narrow range, but after selling at $3.89¾ early in the week, demand sterling moved up to $3.90¾. Exchange on Denmark also developed pronounced strength, crown checks advancing from 17.00, the low point early in the week to 17.26. Exchange on Stockholm moved up over 20 points and there was a gain of about the same extent in exchange on Copenhagen. The strength of Swiss exchange became more pronounced during the week, the rate on checks advancing from 16.93 to 17.35.

SATURDAY'S MARKET.

Buying of Italian exchange continued on a large scale Saturday, when lire checks moved up to 4.11, a new high for recent trading. Austrian also maintained a strong tone, crown checks selling at .32, against .19 a little over a week ago. Sterling was in scant supply and moved up ½ of $3.90¼ on a small volume of business. Denmark was also strong and made a further advance. Asiatic exchange was strong.

Wants to Buy Wisconsin & Northern.

WASHINGTON, March 19.—The Minneapolis, St. Paul & Sault Ste Marie Railway Co. asked authority of the Interstate Commerce Commission today to purchase for $3,339,500 the Wisconsin & Northern Railroad, 133½ miles long, but having no market for its shippers.

"Traffic must, therefore, move out over connecting lines and is generally subject to the sum of two local rates," the application said, adding that this was a serious handicap to financing.

VICTORY NOTES OF $97,000,000 VALUE RETIRED

WASHINGTON, March 19.—Concentrating its purchases of wartime securities upon the victory notes, the treasury in the eight months of the current fiscal year has been able to retire approximately $97,000,000 in these securities, its officials announced today. The February purchases aggregated $53,000,000.

Since the sinking fund provided for by the Liberty Loan act began to operate last July 1 the treasury policy has been to reduce the outstanding victory notes as rapidly as possible in consequence of their maturity within the next 30 months. It has been the plan to have the issue, aggregating around $4,500,000,000, reduced to the point when it matures that those bonds remaining unpaid may be converted into what is described as the floating debt and gradually paid off.

There is shown also a substantial reduction in the amount of war savings certificates which the treasury has been called upon to redeem. During the eight months ended March 1 war savings certificates aggregating $111,600,000 were presented for redemption, against $132,760,000 for the corresponding period a year ago. Officials said this reduction indicated a permanent absorption of this class of securities.

MINING SHARES CENTER OF INTEREST ON CURB

Only Moderate Activity Felt in Oil Department, but Prices Range Upward.

NEW YORK, March 19.—After irregularity in the initial dealings a firmer tone developed on the Curb Market today. The greatest interest was again shown in the mining list. South American Platinum became unusually active and rose a fraction, while the pressure against Eureka Croesus continued and forced that stock to a new level for the recent activity. Boston and Montana was less active, but held firm and a small upturn was recorded in Florence Goldfield.

There was only moderate activity in the oil department, but prices were higher. Maracaibo was in comparatively urgent demand and rose to a new high record. Skelly Oil, International Petroleum and a number of others were steady. Carib Syndicate was in good inquiry around 7, and Carib Trading rose 3 points on small buying orders, offerings being scarce on the advance. Guffy-Gillespie was easier, declining a fraction. The Standard Oils were quiet.

In the miscellaneous list, United States Steamship continued to attract attention. Durant Motors held firm, but Readings were small. Bonds were in fair demand.

BRITISH-SOVIET AGREEMENT IS CALLED FUTILE

Trade Treaty Soon to Be Followed by Court Test Case With Regard to Bolshevik Gold—Bank Rate Unchanged.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch and New York Evening Post.

LONDON, March 19.—It is difficul to refer to our agreement wit soviet Russia without a burnin sense of shame. Politically and so cially alike the compact is dishon oring and futile. The hunger o traders and of the British Govern ment for Russian gold for Britis trade contrasts forcibly with Wash ington's determination not to touch it.

The soviet's acknowledgment o the debts of the old Russian Gov ernment is of the feeblest descrip tion. Yet in 1918 on the occasio of the allies no longer paying Ru sian coupons, the Government issue a formal manifesto in the course o which it said: "The obligations o Russia continue. They are and wi continue to be binding upon the ne state, or group of states, by whic Russia is or will be represented They cannot be repudiated by tha country's authorities, whatever the may be, without the very founda tions of international law bein shaken. Otherwise there will n longer be any security in the rela tions between states."

Prestige Is Increased.

Nevertheless, at a moment whe the soviet government is manifestl nearing an end of its resources, whe there is practically nothing to off here except a parcel of tainted gol and when it is clearly shown tha the soviets are endeavoring to un dermine our authority in India, ou Government deliberately concludes trade treaty involving formal recog nition of the soviets, thereby i creasing the power and prestige the latter. Wall Street News and Comment

—SPECIAL DAILY—

By a Special Correspondent of t Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, March 19.—The cou of this week's markets has vindica the opinion, which might to ma have seemed in jeopardy a week a that the real turn for the better the general financial and commerc situation came at the beginning the new year. The decline in sto exchange in February and the fi 10 days in March was not the renew of the major downward movem which culminated toward the end December. It was simply the s ondary reaction familiar under similar circumstances of the pa First there comes the impulsive bound from a state of virtual pa —this is what was seen in the ea part of January.

Such a rebound invariably car prices up too fast and too far for vestment buyers to follow. The upon ensues a reaction which, wh it stops considerably short of rea ing the previous bottom, does br many individual stocks to new l points and produces a great deal uncertainty as to whether the downward swing has not star again. This is what happened tween the middle of January and early part of March. Misgivings this point should have been su ciently relieved by what has h pened in the market during the p week. It can now be seen how true position was distorted by bear operations which reached th climax a week ago. These op tions in their later stage brought little fresh liquidation and when short interest set about getting its contracts, recovery was v rapid.

Reviewing the business situat last week, a great deal of irregul ity had to be noted. Things w better for the textile industry, for motor trade, and for wholesale goods than they had been two mo back; they were rather worse steel and copper. Reviewing the uation at the close of the pres week this irregularity has been le ened. In the lines where impro ment was under way it has contin At the same time the reports h become a shade more cheerful c cerning the copper trade, while le ing representatives have expres the opinion the worst was over their industry and the belief grown that the price cutting in oil trade has gone as far as is essary to complete the readjustm here also.

BRITISH-SOVIET AGREEMENT IS CALLED FUTILE

Trade Treaty Soon to Be Followed by Court Test Case With Regard to Bolshevik Gold—Bank Rate Unchanged.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch and New York Evening Post.

LONDON, March 19.—It is difficult to refer to our agreement with soviet Russia without a burning sense of shame. Politically and socially alike the compact is dishonoring and futile. The hunger of traders and of the British Government for Russian gold for British trade contrasts forcibly with Washington's determination not to touch it.

The soviet's acknowledgment of the debts of the old Russian Government is of the feeblest description. Yet in 1918 on the occasion of the allies no longer paying Russian coupons, the Government issued a formal manifesto in the course of which it said: "The obligations of Russia continue. They are and will continue to be binding upon the new state, or group of states, by which Russia is or will be represented. They cannot be repudiated by that country's authorities, whatever they may be, without the very foundations of international law being shaken. Otherwise there will no longer be any security in the relations between states."

Prestige Is Increased.

Nevertheless, at a moment when the soviet government is manifestly nearing an end of its resources, when there is practically nothing to offer here except a parcel of tainted gold and when it is clearly shown that the soviets are endeavoring to undermine our authority in India, our Government deliberately concludes a trade treaty involving formal recognition of the soviets, thereby increasing the power and prestige of the latter. Such a policy must inevitably react disadvantageously to British prestige and credit.

The Times, morning Post and Mail bitterly deprecate these developments, the supporting London press being left to Lloyd George's organ, the Chronicle, the Daily News and Lord Beaverbrook's Express. The test case with regard to Bolshevik gold will probably come up in court shortly and the humorous part of the affair is that if the case goes against the soviet government and in favor of the Russian creditors, the former apparently has the right to tear up the agreement.

Bank Rate Unchanged.

Absence of a change in the bank rate confirms anticipations. Financial authorities on both sides of the Atlantic probably recognize a gradual working towards easier monetary conditions, but are determined not to be hustled by the politicians. The budget outlook improves, meanwhile, by reason of the elasticity of revenue. The prospects of an early important reduction in the floating dept, however, are small. The budget probably will include, for the first time an allowance for service on the debt to America, which is, of course, a proper precautionary measure.

The rise in gilt edged securities is accompanied by constant rumors of a big funding scheme during the next few months. These are discribed in good quarters, however, as sentiment not yet ripe.

FEDERAL RESERVE BANK

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 19.—In order to reveal more truly the position of the reserve banks, the consolidated statement of all Federal Reserve Banks has been slightly recast in form, the main change occurring in the deposit block. Instead of total gross deposits the statement shows total deposits which are made upon the following items: Government deposits, due to members-reserve account, and other deposits, including foreign Government credits. Reserve ratios have been calculated in the same manner as heretofore, except that instead of net deposits, total deposits as described above have been uesd in the calculation.

Comparisons are given with both week ago and last year.

Wall Street News and Comment

—SPECIAL DAILY—

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, March 19.—The course of this week's markets has vindicated the opinion, which might to many have seemed in jeopardy a week ago, that the real turn for the better in the general financial and commercial situation came at the beginning of the new year. The decline in stock exchange in February and the first 10 days in March was not the renewal of the major downward movement which culminated toward the end of December. It was simply the secondary reaction familiar under all similar circumstances of the past. First there comes the impulsive rebound from a state of virtual panic—this is what was seen in the early part of January.

Such a rebound invariably carries prices up too fast and too far for investment buyers to follow. Thereupon ensues a reaction which, while it stops considerably short of reaching the previous bottom, does bring many individual stocks to new low points and produces a great deal of uncertainty as to whether the real downward swing has not started again. This is what happened between the middle of January and the early part of March. Misgivings on this point should have been sufficiently relieved by what has happened in the market during the past week. It can now be seen how the true position was distorted by the bear operations which reached their climax a week ago. These operations in their later stage brought out little fresh liquidation and when the short interest set about getting in its contracts, recovery was very rapid.

Reviewing the business situation last week, a great deal of irregularity had to be noted. Things were better for the textile industry, for the motor trade, and for wholesale dry goods than they had been two months back; they were rather worse for steel and copper. Reviewing the situation at the close of the present week this irregularity has been lessened. In the lines where improvement was under way it has continued. At the same time the reports have become a shade more cheerful concerning the copper trade, while leading representatives have expressed the opinion the worst was over in their industry and the belief has grown that the price cutting in the oil trade has gone as far as is necessary to complete the readjustment here also.

Renewed confidence that the situation at large is on the mend has been the keynote of the upward movement in stocks during the week. The second factor back of the rise has been the partial relaxation of money rates and the general feeling that the money supply from now on is going to be more abundant. There has been occasion to realize the importance of the distinction between the Wall street position as it was in the first week of March and as it stood in the first week of December, namely that credit conditions were immeasurably better in the first instance than in the second. Now the credit crisis has not only passed but the bank ratio has so improved that an early reduction in Federal Reserve discount rates is looked for by some.

Foreign Exchange Market.

The various movements in the foreign exchanges during the week have been more than usually interesting. Sterling, continuing its recovery, has not only got back to where it was before the break-off of the reparations conference, but it has gone higher still. Here there is plain reflection of the steady improvement from the British standpoint in the relation of exports to imports. There has been a rather extraordinary advance in the Italian exchange, due, it is held, to a genuine betterment in the fiscal and economic position in Italy. On the other hand French exchange has not gained with the rest, but has been inclined to go the other way. One explanation for this is that certain large credits held in England and the United States against France have matured and have not been renewed. Another explanation is the prevailing uncertainty over the next developments regarding German reperations, which, of course, mean exerything for the financial future of the French. Just which of these two influences is the more important is something upon which more light is needed before judgment can be pronounced.

Foreign Trade.

As expected, the foreign trade figures for February revealed more plainly than those of previous months the effects of the decline in commodity prices. The heavy shrinkage in both exports and imports as compared with both January of this year and February of last year was much more a matter of price reduction than it was of decreased volume. The official computation that during February wholesale prices were off 5½ per cent on the average gives a reason for the entire result. The railway problem scarcely wears any different aspect from what it did a week ago. Apparently railway employes as a rule propose to fight the lower wage scale, putting it up to the Labor Board to decide. Both parties to the controversy are anxious to expedite these proceedings and it is not unlikely that a test case involving some one representative road will be brought up for decision, with an understanding that it will cover all other disputes. Naturally the position in railway stocks will remain somewhat doubtful until the wage question is disposed of. But the feeling is that pessimism on the railway outlook has been rather overdone and that a settlement eventually will be reached on the basis of a compromise which will allow the companies to substantially cut down their present costs, while at the same time giving the men enough of an advance over normal wages to meet their contention that the cost of living has not yet come down sufficiently to allow them to go back to where they were.

Saturday's Market.

The same quiet note of confidence that has characterized the stock market all week pervaded the dealings again today.

Traders clearing up as usual at the week-end found that all they had to sell was readily taken. There was no great amount of activity, but the outstanding feature was the readiness of the market to absorb offerings of stocks which came in the shape of profit-taking. The upward tendency was very general throughout the industrial list and it was strnog enough to influence some of the rails. But railway stocks as a rule were held in check by the uncertainty of the wage question and how it would be disposed of. Also the continued weakness in Pennsylvania which appears to reflect some uneasiness over the maintenance of the full dividend, was a deterring influence in the railway share market generally.

Both Chandler Motors and Studebaker made new highs for the present movement and there was unusual activity at rising prices in Pierce Arrow. American Wool, Corn Products, United States Rubber, American Sugar, Central Leather, American Linseed and Industrial Alcohol were others that were traded in the buying. There was urgent short covering in General Asphalt accompanied by the same sort of pool operations that were present on the last upward move of the stock. Resumption of the activities of speculative syndicates was, in fact, the most significant feature of the market from a practical point of view, because it demonstrated the pudgment of the shrewdest sort of operators as to what is now the main drift of things.

New York Cotton

The advance in Italian lire was once more the feature of the exchange market, carrying rates back to the highest in five months. Other exchanges were steady, but did comparatively little, evidently awaiting the outcome of tomorrow's vote in Silesia.

The Bond Market.

The only incident of note in the bond market this morning was the strength in some of the industrial issues. Liberty Bonds were slightly lower on the day. Foreign Governments were substantially unchanged. Swiss 8s at 102¾, Belgian 8s at 98¼ and Belgian 6s at 90½ were all where they had left off yetserday. Kingdom of Italy 6½s did not respond as might have been expected to the strength in Italian exchanges. They were quoted at 81⅝ as against one transaction yesterday at 81¾. Norway 8s were strong at 99¼. French 8s at 99 were up 2 points from their recent low.

Railway bonds did little one way or the other. The Pennsylvanias were not as sensitive as they previously had been to the weakness in the stock. The 10-years at 101¾ were unchanged on the day as compared with the week's low of 100. The Pennsylvania 6½s were also the same as yesterday at 98⅛. Erie first 4s eased off a bit and so did New York Central debenture 6s. Industrial bonds were evidently being helped by the strength in the industrial stocks plus the prospect of lower time money rates. A large block of Central Leather 5s changed hands at 90⅛, this coinciding with the development of greater activity in the leather stocks. Steel sinking fund 5s rose over a half point to 95⅝, which was well up to their recent high. Chile Copper 7s were down a fraction at 93⅛.

The Cotton Market.

The publication of a report claiming that the Russian Government was abandoning Bolshevism and seek was abandoning Bolshevism and seeking agreements with other nations attracted a good deal of attention in the cotton trade today and evidently had a steadying influence on prices. Confirmation of further details of the report was considered necessary to any definite opinion as to the importance of the development as a market factor, but the report combined with reports from Berlin that Germany was looking forward to renewed indemnity negotiations served to check selling.

There was scattered Southern selling presumably against the larger spot business reported yesterday, but otherwise comparatively little pressure. Except for the foreign political news, traders found little change in general conditions. If anything, week-end reviews indicated rather a better retail business in northern sections of the country, but no improvement in the South, which is still feeling the depression of its chief money crop. According to Western wholesalers, the distribution of goods continues on a fair scale.

American Sugar.

The advance in American Sugar was brought about by the hurried covering of short contracts. Sugar has been one of the stocks in which a good sized short interest has been built up in recent weeks, in fact, since the report of the company was made public. Professional traders took the stand that the report could not have been much worse and proceeded to put out their lines of short stock. They succeeded in borrowing about all the shares there were in the street and there has been a premium on the stick for several days. Sugar moved forward easily once it got started and kept pace with the rest of the market.

Experts at Odds.

Whether the public is in the market to any extent is now the main thing which is being discussed in brokerage offices. There are those who declare that the rally in the market after clearing out the shorts has been brought about by public buying. Others are of the opinion that the public is not in the market.

INDUSTRIAL CONDITIONS INFLUENCE WHEAT PRICE

Reports of Bullish Character Ignored as Longs Liquidate—Lighter Receipts Steady Corn.

The industrial situation was a prominent factor in influencing wheat prices during the past week.

Although export business in wheat broadened out at times, especially after a setback in prices, the overshadowing influence of strained industrial conditions recurred again and again as a ruling factor against the bulls. Heavy selling on the part of leading longs took place, and prices dropped rapidly, notwithstanding assertions that green bugs appeared almost certain to seriously injure Oklahoma's crop and had spread into Kansas, the best wheat-producing State in the union. Pending definite action, too, talk of an embargo against importation of farm commodities into the United States failed also to stimulate any material advance. On the other hand, announcement that Great Britain and Russia had signed a trade agreement was likewise almost ignored, the general assumption being that Russia possessed no important quantity of wheat available for export.

Corn and oats sympathized with wheat, but were steadied somewhat by falling off in receipts of corn.

The stock of lard at Chicago was shown to be larger than had been generally supposed. Export demand for lard improved, however, and tended to overcome the bearish effect on the provision market as a whole.

LIQUIDATION ON IN WHEAT; CLOSE SHARPLY LOWER

CHICAGO, March 19.—Liquidation was on today with support lacking and was responsible for a sharp break in wheat at the finish which caused other grains to descend. At the close wheat was down 2¼c to 3½c, with March $1.52 to $1.52¼, and May $1.42 to $1.42¼; corn was off ½c to 1c. Oats were down ⅝c to ¾c, while lard was higher and pork and ribs lower.

Buying against bids was the main factor in checking the decline in wheat, which started its downward trend early in the session, crop reports were generally excellent. There were traces of moisture in Oklahoma and Missouri and barometric lines indicated that the whole Southwestern wheat belt would get a wetting down over Sunday, the forecast being for unsettled conditions. The market was generally bearish, the bears covering early and encountering little difficulty in obtaining wheat. After the shorts had completed their covering, the market collapsed and finished near the low point. The world's economic conditions, however, remains the dominating influence in the market.

Corn was quiet. The feature was the buying of July on resting orders, credited to a leading elevator interest.

There was a good trade in oats. Prices, however, averaged slightly lower, because of the decline in other grains.

Strength in hogs was responsible for a firmer provisions market early, but prices eased off on selling of lard by commission houses.

SHARPLY LOWER RANGE TO LIVESTOCK VALUES

Increased Receipts and an Indifferent Demand Depressing Influences in Market.

COMPARATIVE RECEIPTS.

	Last Week.	Prev. Week.	Year Ago.
Cattle,calves	15,756	12,271	18,428
Hogs	54,258	58,504	86,827
Sheep	5,606	5,034	4,749
Horses,mules	2,904	1,976	2,551
Totals	78,524	77,785	112,555

Under pressure of increased reecipts and an indifferent demand, livestock markets closed materially lower for the week at St. Louis in virtually all departments. Dull Eastern beef markets and nervousness over the packer labor situation had a depressing effect on trade in general. As usual for the Lenten season, demand for fresh meats has been light for several weeks past.

Receipts of cattle at approximately 16,000 head were 4000 larger than for the corresponding period the previous week, though no more than normal for this time of the year. It was the narrow demand prevailing that made demand appear excessive.

On slow, draggy markets, beef steers declined 50@75c on heavy grades and from 25@50c on the lighter weights. Best steers brought $9.90 per cwt. and the bulk of all ranged from $8@8.75.

Loss in butcher cattle values amounted to 25@50c and in some cases as much as 75c. Yearlings and cows were hard hit and bulls closed materially lower. Because of the few here, canners and cutters were not materially changed. The bulk of butcher yearlings sold from $6.50@8.50; butcher cows, $5@6.75; canners and cutters, $2.50@4, and bulls, $4.75@6.50.

Veal calves started the week with a top of $11.75, though conditions were less favorable later and the market declined $1@1.50, reducing good lights Friday to $10@10.75.

Hog Prices Irregular.

Hog prices gradually worked lower the first part of the week, dropping from $11.40 on Monday to a top of $10.85 Wednesday, or 55 cents lower than the close of the preceding week. Selling conditions later were somewhat more favorable, in that receipts were lighter and there was a better order demand, and some of the early decline was won back, the top reaching $11.15 in the final session of the market. Trade was nervours and unsettled, due to some extent, no doubt, to the uncertainty of the packing house labor situation. The trade closed about a quarter lower for the week. Choice light shipping hogs and good weight pigs are quotable from $11@11.15, good light and handy-weight butchers $10.85@11, medium-weights and mixed hogs $10.40@10.75 and strong weights and heavies from $9.90@10.25. Rough sows are selling at $8 largely, with stags at $7. Receipts for the period were 54,258, as against 58,504 last week and 86,827 the corresponding week of last year.

Lamb Market Dull.

Receipts the past week were slightly increased, but fully half of the run went direct to the packers. Total supply was 5606, as against 5034 last week and 4749 a year ago. Receipts ran largely to heavy lambs, which have been selling badly for some time at other markets. Buyers simply refused to take them at the prices asked and salesmen were just as stubborn about making the large concession insisted upon, with the result that there was practically no market during most of the week. Numerous loads of heavy lambs went unsold until Thursday, when a large string of 100-pound stock went at $7.75. Choice light lambs were conspicuous by their absence. A load of just the right kind would probably sell at $10, with fair to good from $9@9.75, medium $8.50@9 and culls and heavy stuff $7@8. Sheep show little change, best light ewes selling at $5.75@6, canners $1.50@2 and choppers and bucks $3@4. Fat yearling wethers are quotable from $7@8.

Horses About Steady.

Although opening on a slow, weak basis Monday, the horse market gained additional strength succeeding days, and the average trade for the week was about steady with that of the previous session. Receipts in this department were moderate about 600 head coming in on commission. The southern and eastern outlet was good, but buyers insisted on buying stock well worth the money. The low-priced Southern material sold especially well, though this did not include green or rough-haired stuff which is hard to move at the present time.

Mules Steady to a Shade Higher.

The mule run was also moderate in volume and market was fairly active, ruling steady on the larger classes and strong to a shade higher on medium and cheap material. Green mules are not in demand at this season, and the best inquiry is for mules that have harness marks and show signs of work. About 900 head arrived for the week in this department, the bulk of which have sold at auction.

NEW YORK COFFEE

NEW YORK, March 19.—Report, that the Brazilian Government was considering measures for stabilizing coffee prices, combined with sharp advances in the primary markets, led to more active covering, trade and investment buying, in futures here today. The opening was 18 to 21 points higher and active months sold 35 to 53 points above last night's closing figures. Before the end of the morning with May touching 6.10 and September 6.85. This made an advance of approximately a cent a pound from the low records of last Wednesday, and the close was a few points off from the best under realizing, but showed a net advance of 30 to 38 points. March, 5.71; May, 5.96; July 6.35; Sept. 6.74; Oct. 6.87; Dec. 7.12; Jan. 7.24.

COTTON MARKET HIGHER AFTER IRREGULAR DAY

Traders Take More Hopeful View of European Political Conditions in Late Session.

NEW YORK, March 19.—A more optimistic view of European political prospects was reflected in the steadiness of the cotton market here this morning. It failed to create any general or aggressive demand, but week-end realizing sales were quite readily absorbed with May contracts advancing from 11.58c to 11.78c and closing at 11.72c or 26 points higher. The general market closed steady at a net advance of 3 to 22 points with March relatively firm.

The opening was irregular, March being 18 points higher on covering, while other months were 4 points lower to 7 points higher. There was a little more southern selling than [illegible], probably resulting from the increased spot business reported in southwestern markets yesterday and active positions sold off a few points right after the call or about 4 to 8 points net lower. There was Wall Street and scattering buying, however, and the market soon steadied up again, with March selling at 11.84c or 24 points net higher in the late trading, while July advanced from 12.04c to 12.21c, or 9 points net higher. The publication of reports that Russia was abandoning Bolshevism in order to establish better relations with the rest of the world attracted considerable attention and may have encouraged Wall Street buying, although most traders felt the reports should be officially confirmed before they could be regarded as a market factor. The talk of accumulating gold supplies was also mentioned in [illegible] with the buying and there was some comment on [illegible] reports that the German [illegible] was looking forward to renewed negotiations with the Allies. Local brokers [illegible] no improvement in their advices from the goods trade and the amount of cotton on shipboard awaiting clearance was estimated at only 94,473 bales, against 157,180 last year. A prominent Alabama spot firm estimates the reduction in acreage at from 30 to 35 per cent, and says both European and domestic spinners have been buying low grades of good staple.

Why People Die Too Young

Will you devote 4 minutes of your time to a plan that may add twenty years to your life?

Why is it that even though you are apparently in good health there are times when you have all sorts of aches and pains—a depressed feeling and off days?

Have you ever stopped to question—why?

It is simply a warning from nature. Perhaps you have unknowingly broken some of nature's laws.

It is possible by following certain simple little rules not only to enjoy a vigorous health but to prolong one's youthfulness 10 to 20 years and instead of dying at 60 or 70 you may live to a ripe old age of 85 or 90 years.

There Is No Sudden Death

Nature goes far in her desire to protect us. There are certain signs, which when we understand them, give us warning of serious trouble to come. By knowing what they are we can head off illness and be healthy and vigorous.

Used by Big Business Men

Among the thousands who use this simple plan are the officials of many of the country's largest institutions—such as American Tel. & Tel. Co., Armour & Co., Standard Oil Company, Sears, Roebuck and Co., William Wrigley, Jr. Co. The members of the bureau are literally insuring active, vigorous health, with the practical certainty of adding twenty years to their lives. It's all in a simple little plan that requires only four minutes of your time a year—and the cost is so small, it is within the reach of every one.

CITY REVOKES PERMITS OF THREE AVIATORS

Objection Raised to Use of Forest Park Field for Commercial Flying Purposes.

The permits of three private aviators to make airplane flights from the air mail field in Forest Park have been revoked by Park Commissioner Pape, it having been learned that the fliers have been doing a commercial business. The permits were issued last November to William B. Robertson, C. R. Wassall and H. H. Hunter, and Commissioner Pape said it was understood the aviators were not to charge for carrying passengers.

Commissioner Pape recently was informed that the aviators were taking passengers for 10-minute flights at the rate of $10 each and that they were giving instruction in flying to a class of 10 students for a charge of $400 each. This information was verified by park guards, Pape said. The original permits specified that the aviators were not to interfere in any way with the air mail service and that the city was not to be held responsible in case of accident. The Park Commissioner made the following statement yesterday:

"The revocation was not only due to the fact that Forest Park was being used for commercial purposes, but also on account of the danger to the public. The aviators had been giving exhibition flights and had been attracting large crowds to the flying field, especially on Sundays. So many people went out to see the stunts that it was difficult for the flyers to land.

"As the aviators desired to continue their flights at Bridgeton, St. Louis County, I have issued new permits allowing them to ascend in the mornings from the Forest Park field and return there at night on condition that they carry no passengers to or from the field. They will be permitted to continue to park their planes on the field over night."

FUNERAL SERVICES FOR JUDGE REYNOLDS TO BE HELD TODAY

Fifty-Two Honorary Pallbearers Named for Services at St. Paul's Church.

The funeral of Judge George D. Reynolds, presiding Judge of the St. Louis Court of Appeals, will be at 2:30 p. m. today at St. Peter's Episcopal Church, Lindell boulevard and Spring avenue. Interment will be private.

There will be 52 honorary pallbearers, mostly prominent members of the St. Louis bar. The active pallbearers will be Luther Ely Smith, W. G. McRee, Ray T. Prewitt, A. J. Lindsay, James H. Wear, Frederick Hoffmeister, David R. Francis Jr. and E. Lansing Ray.

Judge Reynolds, who was 79 years old, died Friday at his home, 4239 Lindell boulevard, after having been ill of the grip for five weeks.

The vacancy caused by his death will be filled by Gov. Hyde, who will appoint a successor to serve until the next State election in November, 1922, when a Judge will be elected for the unexpired 10-years of the 12-year term.

By Frederick Orin Bartlett

(Copyright, 1921.)

HOLLIS FENWICK, late of the A. E. F. air service, was not complaining, but he was beginning to wonder in a puzzled and good-natured sort of way just when his luck was going to change. He had been in New York just six months now and tonight had spent the last dollar of the little he had been able to save out of his army pay, leaving him as his only capital the shelter afforded by the room for which, fortunately, he had settled in advance. This, to be sure, did not solve the food problem, but it was always possible to exist a few days without food. He had proven that in France the time he had been forced to land in enemy territory with a broken wing and had crawled on an empty stomach those tedious miles back to his own lines. Some people might have seen a bit of irony in the fact that such an effort had led him in the end to nothing better than his present plight. But Fenwick by no means viewed it that way. His escape had already permitted him another six months of gorgeous fighting, a month in Paris after the armistice, and finally this last half year. As much more of life as this was worth while.

Even now, though he seemed at last to have been led into a blind alley, he was not worrying. He felt too fit, for one thing. His meager diet of the last few weeks had taken off the weight he accumulated in those first days when he had been feted as a hero, and this was on the whole beneficial. Necessity had also cut down his allowance of tobacco and forced him, in answering one advertisement after another, to indulge in considerable exercise, and this again was good for him.

He felt fit and entirely optimistic. It was late in August, but the nights were still warm enough to make Central Park as comfortable a lounging place as most clubs. He had made a practice lately of remaining here until he was sure of falling asleep as soon as he reached the rather cheerless room he occupied off Seventh avenue. It was now after midnight, but he sat on with his long legs stretched out before him, his hands thrust in his trousers pockets, his thin, intelligent face—as unmarked after two years of fighting as a child's—upturned so that his black eyes rested on the deep purple of the night sky. He liked it there. It linked him up with some of the finest experiences of his life.

It was a singular fact that Fenwick, even in the most critical moments of actual combat, had never been able to make real to himself the possibility of death. This was not because he avoided the thought. It was not because of any religious or pagan faith. It was due rather to a conviction that he was possessed of a capacity for living calling for fulfillments which he knew he had not then and had not now even approximated. He had had, to be sure, his hours, but those so far he felt to have been accidental. The big things were still to come. They were to come, he had a notion, right here in New York, because it was here, in these last few months, he had felt more keenly than ever the sting of unsatisfied desires. A dozen times he had, it seemed to him, been on the very threshold of some fresh beginning. The face of a woman glimpsed in a crowd, a doorway on some cross street off the avenue, a passing limousine, would make him stop short as though he heard a voice calling his name. He would pause as before a door about to open, only to go on again with a smile. The door never opened, and yet he remained just as sure as ever that only some unfortunate chance kept it closed. Somewhere back of this invisible curtain now shutting him off that woman and that voice and that life were awaiting the inevitable moment. This feeling tonight was stronger than usual.

Given the chance, given half a chance, and Fenwick would know with a sure instinct how to make the most of it. Somewhere in the past a Fenwick of larger means than any living Fenwick of whom he had never heard must have taught him not how to make money but how to use it. Because he knew, and always had known, how to spend. Yet he had been born with little. His father, a dreaming promoter in the West, had made fortunes for others, but had been able to keep little for himself. He had sent his son through one of the State colleges, but the latter, to eke out his small allowance, had been obliged to work during the summers in the hay fields while classmates with keener wits for money getting had earned twice his wages with half the effort. None of them, however, had received one-half the return for dollars earned that Fenwick had. Then the war broke and his hard muscles and clear eyes and steady nerves acquired in the hay fields counted for him in an unexpected way. But they did not count for much here in New York just now.

Fenwick sat on in the park until 2 in the morning. The night air was getting cool, but he hated to leave, because as soon as he shut himself up in his room he shut himself away from the intimate contact with this old city that he felt out here. He resented sleep. He resented it more than ever this evening. Never had he felt more on edge; never had he appreciated more what life had to offer could a man but grasp it. All he asked for was half a chance—just a fighting chance. He had been willing to accept anything in the way of work and actually had picked up a few dollars cleaning windows. But that job had not lasted. However, the morrow was full of possibilities. That was why he liked to keep awake. With the situation growing tense, he needed every second.

Fenwick buttoned his coat tighter. He sprinted a hundred yards down the path and back again, with the lightness of an athlete. This set his blood racing through his veins, but also sharpened his appetite, which was bad business. He felt in his pockets on the slight chance of finding a forgotten cigarette, but lost out. This time it sure looked as though he were flat up against it.

Yet, as he told himself, that was manifestly impossible. A man at 23, in sound health and with five good senses and with dreams, a thousand unfulfilled dreams, was only at the beginning, not the end. The harder he was pressed, the nearer the beginning he must be. It was with him only the matter of means—plain, sordid, material means. And all about him were thousands with more than they knew how to use. He did not envy them. He pitied them. Given the choice between his position and theirs and he would stay where he was. Unfulfilled dreams were better than no dreams at all. At least he was alive—alive to his finger tips, and they were dead in their golden caskets.

An east wind coming from the harbor finally drove Fenwick toward his room. Rounding the first turn of the graveled path he passed the dejected figure of a young man in evening clothes seated on one of the benches and leaning forward head in hands. He went on, but before passing the next corner glanced back. He could not see the fellow's face, but there was something in the shape of his head that made him search his memory, quite, however, to no purpose. He was about to continue when the young man made a move that stopped Fenwick in his tracks. The stranger, after a swift look around, reached in a hip pocket and drew out an object that brought Fenwick back with a shout. Startled, the man paused to turn, which gave Fenwick the second he needed to reach his side. The two stared at each other.

"Teele!" exclaimed Fenwick.

Teele turned his eyes to the ground at sound of the voice, but choked out a surly:

"Well?"

"What the devil"——

"I'm through," he trembled. "Is that any business of yours?"

Fenwick knew that, strictly speaking, it was not, but he had flown with this man over Flanders. He had faced death by his side. At least a dozen times Teele as his observer had helped him to fight his way home through German Fokkers. It was this same Teele now before him who had done that—Roger Teele of New York, son of Ira Teele, the man who out of his own pocket had equipped a dozen hospital units.

Fenwick stood alert. He knew from experience how quick of hand and eye this man was, and, though his arm was hanging limply by his side, he still held the weapon. But Fenwick was certain that, if watchful, he could keep the jump on him.

"Teele," he said, "you're the last man in the world I'd expect anything like this of."

"Go on and let me alone," muttered Teele.

"Not on your life!"

"Then"——

Teele made a movement and quick as lightning Fenwick pinned his hand to his side. The two men were of about the same age and size, but there was no strength in Teele's arm. The latter, without protest, dropped the automatic and kicked it into the bushes.

"If that's what's worrying you," he commented, gruffly, "forget it now and let go my arm."

Fenwick released his grip and Teele slumped back on the bench.

"What you doing here, anyway, Fenwick?" Teele demanded.

"A moment ago I didn't know," he answered. "Maybe it was for this."

"Then you've wasted your time."

"As things are going now my time isn't valuable enough to make it possible to waste it."

"Out of luck?" asked Teele, with a show of interest.

"Out of work. But you"——

"Just forget me," broke in Teele. "I'm not worth talking about."

"If you've reached that point, you are. But, man, it's getting cold out here. I've got a room on Seventh. Come on over there with me."

For a second Teele hesitated. He was not in a mood for talking to anyone, but the curious circumstance of Fenwick's appearance, as though out of the sky, at this, the most critical moment of his life, interested him, even though he still resented the interference as unwarranted. Fenwick had always interested him after a fashion from the first day he had met him in France. Of all the men over there he had not found one who succeeded in getting as much sustained fun out of the game or anyone who took it more seriously than Fenwick. The fellow was as freshly enthusiastic about every detail of it—including the stupid details—as a schoolboy. Once he had spent with him a three-day furlough in Paris and had almost been persuaded that Paris was still the old Paris, though he had been obliged to trot along and view all the points of historic interest, even to the tomb of Napoleon.

"Come on," urged Fenwick. "I'm going to hang to you until morning, so you might as well."

Teele raised his haggard face.

"You come with me," he said, finally. "I live nearer than Seventh."

Fenwick nodded and Teele led the way to Fifth avenue, and in the fifties turned off abruptly to the right, stopping before a stone house. As Fenwick paused before the closed door while Teele searched for his night key, he experienced another of those odd illusions which had haunted him off and on ever since his arrival. The house was not familiar in the sense that he had ever seen it before, yet it was familiar. This was one of those he had been waiting to see open before him. Fenwick held his breath until Teele found his key. Then, as though in a dream, he watched him fit it into the lock and finally swing the door wide. When Teele beckoned, Fenwick went up the steps two at a time.

A hall opened into a large living room, which, though dimly lighted by a single lamp left burning on a table before a dying open fire, impressed him at once with a sense of luxurious comfort and good taste. It was both warm and colorful—seeming the more so coming upon it so unexpectedly out of the dark of a night turning cold. Heavy rugs of reds and purple made his steps noiseless, while on the walls he saw vaguely portraits and landscapes in oils framed in deep gold frames. To the left a winding staircase with small white posts led upstairs. Teele beckoned him on up those and he followed with a feeling of regret at so soon leaving all this behind. But imemdiately he was ushered into a suite leading from the upper hall with quite as delightful an atmosphere as that of the room below. These were Teele's own apartments, reserved as such for him since he was a boy. Here again an open fire was burning and a lighted lamp awaiting.

Fenwick felt as though by some Arabian Nights magic he had been whisked into another world. He stared around with frank enthusiasm at the solid, substantial, royal beauty of it all. Then he turned to Teele, who, stooping over the fire, was trying to warm his thin, white hands.

"Lord, man, you weren't planning to leave all this?"

Teele rose and rested his heavy eyes on the other.

"All what?" he asked.

"The things here and all they suggest."

"I've got a roof over my head and plenty to eat, if that's what you mean," he answered, dully.

"And money—plenty of money."

"Of course," returned Teele as though the fact were too obvious to be worth mentioning.

"And five good senses. You don't look fit, Teele, but you don't look sick."

"I'm not sick."

Solving the Brooding Problem

The One Perfect Brooding Device

It is when you are breeding pedigreed birds that you realize that every chick put under the brooder must have exceptional care. Every bird will be worth big money if you can only give it the right start in life. That is when you must look into your brooding problem.

You can't afford to take any chances. You must know that your brooder is the right one in every respect. That there is no danger of losing a big hatch through some faulty brooding system. The greater the percentage raised to maturity, the greater the profits for you.

And when big breeders like Owen Farms say that one brooder is the best, that surely means something. And Mr. Delano of the Owens Farms, the World's Greatest Poultry Farms, did say that the is the best hover he ever used. And he has used them for over seven years.

Portable, warmest at the curtain, the only hover with a canvas curtain that the chicks cannot eat. Perfect ventilation for the chicks at night without any drafts. Fireproof and verminproof.

No carpenter work necessary to use the Sanitary Hover. No cutting of holes, building of boxes or platforms nor expensive brooder houses. It is the one self-contained hover. To set it up, just set it down.

And it is guaranteed to raise a higher percentage of chicks entrusted to its care than any other brooding device.

Write us for catalog that shows you why the Sanitary Hover is the "Perfect Brooding Device." It solves the brooding problem.

What a Beautiful Phonograph! And It Matches Our Furniture

How beautifully it fits into the picture. Cheney period cabinets have just that degree of quiet dignity and craftsmanship to make them a real contribution to furnishing the finest homes. They are masterpieces.

The CHENEY PHONOGRAPH

With the Violin Resonator—as Low as $125

The Cheney is a wonderful musical instrument—renowned for its tonal quality. A series of acoustic inventions make it fundamentally different from any other phonograph. Its tone is unsurpassed—needle scratch is practically eliminated, every note is as sweet and pure as the original.

You must hear The Cheney to appreciate it. Best of all, it constantly enhances in value. Like a rare old violin, "The longer you play it, the sweeter it grows." Orchestral chambers of wood, and a violin resonator carved from seasoned violin wood, mellow its tones and enrich them with age.

FRENCH TO REBUILD RHEIMS

Object to German Labor Being Used in Reconstruction.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, March 19.—The former inhabitants of Rheims, 70,000 of whom have returned to the ruins of that city, object to any plan of having German laborers rebuild the town, and have announced that they want to do the work themselves.

M. Loucheur, Minister of Devastated Regions, who recently visited Rheims, was told by the Mayor of that place that it has suffered damages from war to the extent of £74,000,000. Schools, hospitals, churches and 94 miles of streets were destroyed. Work of reconstruction will also have to include sewage, gas, water and electric lighting systems.

MANAGERS

—By—

Frederick Orin Bartlett

"Then what the devil—is it love?"

"Rot.'

"A family row?"

"I couldn't stir up a fuss with the old man if I tried."

"But you've sure messed things somehow. You meant that gun play."

"And I mean it still," trembled Teele. "You butted in a minute too soon, or it would be over now, and a good job done. Sit down, Fen. Smoke?"

He offered Fenwick a cigarette from a gold, monogrammed case. The latter accepted one automatically. Teele lighted one and sank into a chair before the fire.

"Your coming makes it seem like melodrama," he began slowly. "But I've planned the thing for a week. It was only the thought of the old man which made me hesitate. God, Fen, why couldn't I have ended it in France? I was over the lines that last day—the very last day. Three of 'em got after me and pumped the old bird full of holes, but I came down safe. I was up 5000 feet and came down safe without a scratch. With a bit of luck I might have got out of it then, with all the hero stuff thrown in."

"Out of what?" demanded Fenwick, sharply.

"Out of the bally stupidness of living. It was a great game over there while it lasted, but any man who came back made a mistake."

"You've got to scratch me off that list," interjected Fenwick.

"Because you haven't been back long enough. I've been here five months, now."

"I've been here six," grinned Fenwick.

"Then God pity you."

"Pity me?"

"The days are so long and the nights so much longer!" went on Teele. "I'm sick of it all—sick of the sight of food and the sight of booze and the sight of Broadway. I've done it over and over again since I got back. I had to. There wasn't anything else. There isn't anything else. And what's the use of that?"

"I don't know," answered Fenwick, through half-closed lids. "But I do know that if you managed right—Lord, what a chance you've got."

"For what?"

"To live! To live, man!" exclaimed Fenwick, sitting straight.

"Where?"

"Here—right in this wonderful old city. Teele, Ive been hanging around six months as a rank outsider. I've only been able to look over the wall and watch the others. But, believe me, even that little has been worth while. I wouldn't give up a day of it. I'm going to stick on just as much longer as I can keep a toe hold. And when I begin to slip I'm going to dig in with my finger nails. When I go they'll have to carry me off kicking. Yet here you are, firmly established on the right side of the wall, with every resource it's possible to have and not seeing your opportunities. It's a bit queer, isn't it, Teele?"

Fenwick rose and studied the other a second, with a whimsical smile.

"Lord," he exclaimed, "I'd like the chance to manage your life for a month."

With a flush of color, Teele glanced up. He met Fenwick's clean confident eyes.

"Just what do you mean by that?"

"I'd like to be your manager. Why not? Actors and prize fighters have 'em and this game of living is a bigger profession than either the drama or the prize ring. You've bungled things because you've been too close."

Fenwick was still smiling. But Teele was serious. He rose abruptly:

"You said you were out of work?"

Fenwick nodded.

"Then—then why don't you take me on like a bankrupt business? Come and live with me; gather up the assets, such as they are, and see what you can do with them. I'm not worth your time, Fen, but I'll turn over everything I have on your own terms."

Fenwick was startled. He had not meant to be taken as literally as this.

"It might amuse you, even if—if nothing more came of it," pleaded Teele.

The worried face had already taken on a new expression. Fenwick turned aside and swept his eyes about the room once more, as though making a swift estimate of just what the assets were with which he would have to deal. And then he chanced upon the framed photograph hanging to the left of the fireplace. He had not noticed it before, but from that moment he wondered that he had seen anything else. Like a living presence, this young woman, seated, her clasped hands holding a big chrysanthemum, met his eyes steady and direct and questioning. And when he moved nearer, drawn as though answering her voice, she did not withdraw her eyes, but seemed almost to throw back her head a trifle more in open challenge. She was one of those to whom is given the privilege of accepting admiration, not in any spirit of vanity, but as a rightful tribute. Because she was quite perfect. Below a mass of hair one exquisite line after another traced her high forehead, her straight nose, her gently firm mouth, her finely molded chin and finally the coutour of her slim, young form. And yet Fenwick was conscious of the fact that this was but the setting. Beautiful as it was, he came back to the eyes ever here in this immobile picture limited to lights and shadows gathered in the fraction of a single heart beat. But that brief period had been long enough to leave a true record, because these were eyes that hid nothing.

Fenwick turned to Teele.

"Who is that?" he asked.

"The one on the wall? That's Nance Sedgewick. We grew up together."

"She's here—in New York?"

"I had a note from her the other day. She's back for the season."

"And you haven't seen her yet?"

Teel shook his head.

"Man," said Fenwick slowly. "If you've missed that chance, I guess you do need a manager. I'll take the job, Teele."

The next day Fenwick moved his few belongings from his ugly little room on Seventh avenue to one of the luxurious guest chambers in the

"TIZ" FOR SORE, TIRED FEET—AH!

"Tiz" is grand for aching, swollen, tender, calloused feet or corns.

Ah! what relief. No more tired feet; no more burning feet; no more swollen, aching, tender, sweaty feet. No more soreness in corns, callouses, bunions.

No matter what ails your feet or what under the sun you've tried without getting relief, just use "Tiz." "Tiz" is the only remedy that draws out all the poisonous exudations which puff up the feet. "Tiz" cures your foot trouble so you'll never limp or draw up your face in pain. Your shoes won't seem tight and your feet will never, never hurt or get sore and swollen. Think of it, no more foot misery, no more agony from corns, callouses or bunions.

Get a box at any drug store or department store and get instant relief. Wear smaller shoes. Just once try "Tiz." Get a whole year's foot comfort for a few cents. Think of it.

ARMENIAN SILK WORM INDUSTRY REVIVING

People Are Resuming the Work, Interrupted by Devastations of the Turks.

NEW YORK, March 19.—For the first time since the war the silk industry in Asia Minor is flourishing. In 1915 most of the mulberry trees and the looms for weaving were destroyed by the Turks, and it was not until the Near East Relief, America's official organization for carrying on in Armenia, took up the task of repatriating the population and rebuilding their industries that the people were able to take up the work on which they had depended for their livelihood.

Melville Chater, Near East Relief worker in Armenia, writes that the people there give up their entire household to the accommodation of the little silk worms. The garden or the roof or the sidewalk may be good enough for the family, but the little "silk babies," as they are called, must have the best that is available.

First the front porch is surrendered to these precious guests. Then the parlor or library or living room, later the dining room, and finally the family moves out entirely, leaving the little green worms in full possession.

"Recently," writes Chater, "I visited an Armenian home in Brousa, the center of the industry in Asia Minor. I was having my first meal with my hosts. The dinner, though very simple as to fare, was delightfully served, and I was struck with the emaculateness of everything, in strong contrast to most that I had been seeing in the Orient. Suddenly I looked down at my plate, and gave an involuntary exclamation of disgust. Crawling leisurely around the rim of the dish was a small but exceedingly wormy worm!

"Everyone instantly sprang from the table. Amidst a terrible clamor they bore my plate away. But, to my great mystification, they carried it not to the kitchen, but up the front stairway. 'You see,' explained one of the sons as he saw my bewilderment, 'we must take our little "baby" upstairs to a safe place so he will spin his cocoon. Come along up.'

"And he led me upstairs after the rest of the family to where, in one of the best bedrooms, the floor was laid with a soft carpet of little worms, some still green, some fast turning to a soft gray or yellow, as they wove their silken blanket about them.

"'Later,' said my host, 'most of the house will be given up to them. We have, as you see, an unusually large mulberry orchard, and in order that all our little silk worms may have a comfortable place in which to make their cocoons we our ourselves will eventually have to move out. However, the weather is warm, and we do not mind. We are only too glad to have our trees when most of those in the district have been destroyed by the Turks.'"

Their real babies do not receive such tender care.

WILL WELCOME U. S. SQUADRON

Australia and New Zealand Pleased Over Projected Visit.

SYDNEY, Australia, March 19.—Great interest is evidenced here over the announcement that an American Pacific fleet squadron will cruise Australia, New Zealand and South Sea Island waters in July, August and September. The squadron will comprise eight battleships, 20 destroyers and nine supply ships and tenders.

It is declared that the officers and men will receive even a more cordial welcome than that given the American fleet in 1908.

Teele house. A few hours before he had been down to as near bedrock as it is safe for a man to go, and now he was reveling in the surroundings of a millionaire. No one could have done that little thing with a keener relish, for every one of his five senses responded. This did not, to be sure, promise anything for the future, but he was content for a space to forget the future. It was enough to be able, even for a little while, to surrender himself completely to the magic of this crisp world of immaculate cleanlines and soft color and comfort around him.

The room he occupied, large and high studded, was more simply furnished than Teele's, but it was with the simplicity of good taste and careful choice. From the heavy mahogany four-poster to the rare old highboy, from the rugs on the floor to the fine pictures on the wall, the artist who designed the room had been limited only by his sense of the beautiful. And something of this feeling of freedom of action, uncramped by money considerations, he had left behind. Fenwick caught it and it made him feel as though he had suddenly been released from chains.

But, too, Fenwick realized his obligations. He had on his hands a man-size job and took it seriously. Had he been tempted to forget this, that haunting face on the wall would have reminded him. For ever since she had called to him he had felt that his obligation was as much to her as to Teele. And an obligation to her was something that any man must respect.

Last night he had tried to get Teele to talk about her, but without much success.

'She's a good sort," Teele answered. "I've known her all my life, because her mother was an old family friend. Of late years I haven't seen as much of Nanos as before, for she's been off to college and, of course, I've been away, too. But what's your interest?"

"Nothing, only—you say she's been back in town now three days."

"I believe so."

"You ought to get in touch with her," concluded Fenwick.

What is This Wonderful
DELTOR?

HERE is the true answer about this revolutionary new invention—patented all over the world. It is not a pattern, but a new help in home sewing—an addition to the Parisian style of Butterick patterns that means the most wonderful new possibility of economizing, and securing astonishingly perfect results, that has ever come to the women of America. In one, the Deltor combines—

1 A Guide that Saves 50c to $10 on Materials
NOT one layout chart for a single size and width, but a separate chart for every size, and every width of suitable material—laid out by experts—always the right way of the weave—to use every inch of fabric, and to save you from 50c to $10 on materials alone!

2 A New "Putting-Together" Picture-Guide
EACH step in putting together that an expert would take—pictured so simply, explained so clearly, that all you have to do is to follow with your needle—and you almost magically attain the perfect fit, set and "drape" that say, without words, "Fifth Avenue" or "Paris."

3 The Finishing Touches of Paris Itself
EVERY single detail, every tiny touch that gives a garment individuality in the clever hands of the Parisian modiste—imparted to you by instructions that the least skilled of needlewomen can follow—and achieve the unmistakable effect of PARIS!

FIND out for yourself what the Deltor can mean—in sewing perfection, sewing ease—in sewing certainty and ECONOMY! Ask for "Butterick Pattern with Deltor" for the very next garment you plan to make!

GUILD PLAYERS TO PRESENT "PAOLO AND FRANCESCA"

"Paolo and Francesca," Stephen Phillips' lyric tragedy, will be given by the Artists' Guild Players at the Little Theater of the guild for one week beginning April 4, under the direction of Joseph Solari. Considered by many critics to be the finest example of English dramatic poetry since Browning, the play is one of passion and human frailty.

"Francesca" is escorted from the convent by "Paolo" to wed his brother, "Giovanni," who is old and hardened by innumerable wars. Though both try to conceal it, love comes to Paolo and Francesca, and fate rushes them on to a tragic end. They are discovered by Giovanni and put to death by his sword. A big cast will present the play with Thomas Dawson, Hazel Ewald, Florence Walter and Harland Frazer in the leading roles, and stage settings and costumes in keeping with the dramatic importance of the production. Special rates are to be made students of schools and colleges, and tickets are on sale at 1111 Olive street.

JAPANESE EXPLORER PLANS POLAR DASH

Retired Naval Officer Expects to Find Means of Developing Antarctic Coal Fields.

Correspondence of the Post-Dispatch.

TOKIO, Feb. 7.—As the United States has had its Peary and England its Scott, so Japan hopes to produce its Shirase as a great Polar explorer. Lieut. N. Shirase, a retired officer of the Japanese army, who made a trip towards the South Pole beginning November, 1910, and advanced as far as 80 degrees—5'—south latitude, is planning to make another dash into the Antarctic regions, starting in July of this year.

Finding the necessary funds remains a problem for the Japanese officer, but he hopes to get a Government subsidy. The principal object of the new expedition will be to find a means of working the coal and other precious material and to devise methods for their exportation. In Lieut. Shirase's first trip the main object was geographical, but the object of the coming expedition is to determine more definitely the localities of the natural resources in which this region is said to be very rich.

Talking about his proposed trip Shirase said he hoped to find coal in the region about Mount Erebus, which he says resembles the sacred mount, Fuji of Japan, in volcanic structure. A sensational feature of the forthcoming expedition is Shirase's proposal to fly over the ice barriers by airplane. Some of the barriers which his party encountered before were more than 300 feet high, and the party found these almost insurmountable. To conquer this difficulty an aeroplane is to be used.

The expedition will include 14 people, including an astronomer, a geographer, a physician, a moving picture operator, a journalist and also the commander's son, Capt. Tomo Shirase of the Japanese navy.

Two years are expected to be spent on the trip. The party expects to sail first to the coast of South Argentina and then round Cape Horn, to land somewhere in the neighborhood of the South Shetlands.

Lieut. Shirase's first expedition party was supported largely by Marquis Okuma and other members of the Japanese Antarctic Exploring Party. The voyagers sailed from the Gulf of Shinagawa on Nov. 29, 1910, and passing the Bonin, Mariana and Caroline Islands finally reached New Zealand. They voyaged in a small steamer called "Open South," a ship of only 200 tons displacement, and one of the smallest ever used on such an expedition. Eventually the party erected a wooden monument in the eastern part of Edward VII Land and at south latitude 80 degrees, 5'—they buried a list of names of the patrons of the party in a copper box, crying "Banzai!" as it was lowered beneath the snow. On its return the party left Hale Gulf on Feb. 4, and arrived at Yokohama on June 19, 1912, shortly before the death of the late Emperor Mutsuhito.

200 SALVATION ARMY "TROOPS" ATTACK LONDON NIGHT LIFE

Battalion Descends Upon Cabarets With Brass Band in Effort to Save Women in Street.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, March 19.—Two hundred "picked troops" of the Salvation Army, headed by a brass band, made an attack on London night life recently. The forces gathered in Regent street shortly before midnight and appeared suddenly in Piccadilly Circus, surprising the crowd in the cafes and other places of amusement.

Without warning the strains of "Shall We Gather at the River?" burst upon the ears of the revelers and the cafe devotees. Pedestrian traffic practically stopped while the marchers passed up Shaftsbury avenue into Leicester Square, thence to Charing Cross.

When the battalion reached Leicester Square, four young women in furs, silk stockings and Piccadilly complexions brought up the rear of the column.

"Things have been in a very bad way here for some time past," said Commissioner Cox, who led the attack. "An outcry has gone up that nobody is doing anything in behalf of the young women and girls who are found on the streets nightly in greater numbers.

"Why there should be so many mere children on the streets it is difficult to say, but probably the war has had a great deal to do with it. It gave them a taste, not for wickedness, but for 'life' as they understand it. They want too much dancing and pleasure, and that very often leads to sorrow."

GRAVEYARD IN HEART OF CITY

Burial Ground 115 Years Old Unearthed in Cincinnati.

By the Associated Press.

CINCINNATI, March 19.—When a steam shovel was excavating for a building in the very heart of this city, it unearthed a graveyard more than 115 years old.

The burial ground was discovered in the shadow of the skyscrapers of today. It turned out to be a cemetery of the First Presbyterian Church, which received a grant from the Government in 1804. The church still maintains an edifice a few doors east of the spot.

Dutch Prohibition Action Postponed

Correspondence of the Associated Press.

THE HAGUE, March 1.—The efforts of Dutch prohibition advocates to obtain passage of a local option law this year have met with such small success that action apparently has been postponed until a more favorable time.

Says His Prescription Has Powerful Influence Over Rheumatism

Mr. James H. Allen suffered for years with rheumatism. Many times this terrible disease left him helpless and unable to work.

He finally decided, after years of ceaseless study, that no one can be free from rheumatism until the accumulated impurities, commonly called uric acid deposits, were dissolved in the joints and muscles and expelled from the body.

With this idea in mind he consulted physicians, made experiments and finally compounded a prescription that quickly and completely banished every sign and symptom of rheumatism from his system.

He freely gave his discovery to others, who took it with what might be called marvelous success. After years of urging he decided to let sufferers everywhere know about his discovery through the newspapers. City Hall Drug Store, Enderle Drug Co. (5 stores), Johnson Bros. Drug Co., Judge & Dolph (4 stores), Weipert Drug Co., Wolff-Wilson Drug Co., East St. Louis agents; Chas. F. Merker, Broadway Pharmacy and Rex Drug Co. have been appointed agents for Allenrhu in this vicinity, with the understanding that they will freely return the purchase money on the first two bottles to all who state they received no benefit.

SWORD DUELING STILL POPULAR AT HEIDELBERG

Virtually Every Student After First Year Wears Scar on Cheek or Chin.

HEIDELBERG, Germany, March 19.—Sword dueling in the University of Heidelberg is as popular and as common today as it was more than 500 years ago, when this oldest of German schools was founded. Virtually every student who has passed the first year wears a sword scar on the left side of his chin or the left cheek, or a bandaged head which advertises that the scar is in the making.

Duels do not always arise from anger or quarrels, but out of the necessity of providing the student with the diploma of sword prowess, or to give him sword practice, which affords the students great delight. They are sometimes arranged, like a boxing bout, by fraternities which have developed certain differences of opinion. Five-round duels are popular.

Surgeons Sew Up Wounds.

"Surgeons stand by to sew up the wounds after each round, which usually last a minute," said a Heidelberg man, who wore a deep scar on his chin. "If neither student is badly damaged, the fight will go the full number of rounds decided upon, after which the stitches the surgeons have taken will be counted and the man with the fewest stitches will be declared the winner.

"Should, at any time during the encounter, a combatant dodge a sword stroke his opponent is immediately declared winner. That is the unforgivable thing in the students' dueling code—to dodge a stroke."

Except infrequent combats between older students, when heavy swords are used, dueling in Heidelberg is not dangerous. The heads and necks of the fighters, and the abdomen, are protected by leather guards.

Favorite Dueling Places.

Some of the favorite dueling places are ancient cafes and beer rooms, the floors of which are always covered with sand, the walls lined with huge mugs and hung with engravings, old pictures and trophies of the fight. These places are sacred to students and it would be a serious offense against custom of half a thousand years for a stranger to wander in and sit down in some storied chair.

The university is still a law unto itself, and the civil authorities of the town of Heidelberg never, under any pretext, interfere in student affairs. Punishment is administered to refractory students by university authorities. The university "jail" is now in the top story of the building. It is a custom for the student confined in one of these cells to leave his name and the date of his imprisonment written on the walls.

10,000 ACRES OFFERED TO STATE FOR FISH AND GAME PRESERVE

Only Stipulation Is That Owners Be Reimbursed for Taxes and Improvements Amounting to $75,000.

By the Associated Press.

JEFFERSON CITY, March 19.—The State of Missouri has been offered a tract of 10,000 acres of land in Reynolds County to be used as a fish and game preserve. The offer was made by J. L. Wilkinson and O. L. Munger, owners of the land, who declare it is valued at $500,000. The only stipulation attached to the gift is that the Legislature reimburse them in the sum of $75,000 for taxes paid on the land and improvements placed on it at the expense of the owners.

The proposal has been submitted in writing, with a blue print map of the land and a typewritten description that reads: "Ten thousand acres of land lying in a body 130 miles south of St. Louis and within two miles of Piedmont, which is a division on the main line of the Missouri Pacific Railroad. Piedmont has 14 passenger trains daily, all of which stop there.

"This land lies about equally divided by Black River and already has two large farm houses of frame construction and a large barn. There also are many small tenant houses. There are some 400 acres cleared, somewhat grown up in brush, and more than 5000 acres of this land is virgin timber, as the land is so rough it could not be removed for commercial purposes.

"There are more than 25 fine springs on this land, all of which are well distributed over the land." The tract is said to abound in small game, with plenty of wild turkey and a few deer, and Black River is declared in the prospectus to be "literally alive" with all kinds of fish, including jack salmon and game varieties.

The land is declared to be easily accessible by good roads, but is so rough itself that no road crosses it. The rough character of it is declared to be one of its most attractive features as a game preserve.

GERMANS WORK, AUSTRIANS WAIT, OBSERVER SAYS

Member of British Parliament Impressed by Efforts of German Peoples.

Correspondence of the Associated Press.

LONDON, March 2.—Sir Harry Brittain, member of the British Parliament, who has just returned from a tour in Germany, Austria and Czecho-Slovakia, was much impressed by the contrast between the two former countries.

"The Austrian," he said to an interviewer, "is waiting to be spoon-fed at every angle. The German is pulling and in many cases has pulled himself together and the great machine is getting into full swing right across the country.

"I was in villages and small towns in Eastern Prussia and Bavaria, as well as in Berlin and everywhere one could not put down the feeling that this once great and powerful nation would be great and powerful again."

ECZEMA

Also Called Tetter, Salt Rheum, Pruritus, Milk Crust, Water Poison, Weeping Skin, Etc.

For fifteen years I have been treating one disease alone, ECZEMA. I have handled over one million cases. I do not pretend to know it all, but I am convinced the disease is due to an excess of acid in the blood, and closely related to rheumatism and cancer. This acid must be removed.

Eczema is called by some people Itch, Tetter, Salt Rheum, Pruritus, Milk Crust, Weeping Skin, etc. I am fully convinced Eczema is a curable disease, and when I say it can be cured, I mean just what I say—C-U-R-E-D, and not merely patched up for a while to return worse than before. It makes no difference what other doctors have told you, or what all you have tried, all I ask is just a chance to prove to you that this vast experience has taught me a great deal that would be of help to you. If you will write me today I will send you a free trial of my mild, soothing, guaranteed treatment that will do more to convince you than I or anyone else could in a month's preaching. It's all up to you. If you suffer any more with eczema and refuse to merely write to me for free trial, just blame yourself. No matter where you live, I have treated your neighbors. Merely dropping me a postal today is likely to give you more real comfort in a week than you ever expected to enjoy again. Do it right now, your very life may be at stake.

Questions on "Nerves"

By DR. LEWIS BAKER

Question: What is IRRITABILITY?
Answer: Abnormal Sensitiveness.

Question: What causes it?
Answer: Briefly, exhausted nerve condition.

Question: Why the "condition"?
Answer: Poor nutrition—lack of nerve fluid.

Question: What is "nerve fluid"?
Answer: It is the "life" of the nerves.

Question: Why is nerve fluid necessary?
Answer: Nerve fluid supplies Nerve Force, and the latter is comparable to electricity—you cannot see it, but you know it exists—it is, in other words, Energy, Power or Vitality—living force.

To build up the nervous system, and possess glowing, vigorous health, there is nothing that can surpass Cadomene, as it is one medicine containing elements which increases Nerve fluid, which in turn generates Nerve-Force.

Build up your nervous system and there will cease to be nervous ailments.

Try Cadomene—and prove it—or get back your money from the manufacturers. Ask for Cadomene tablets.

GARDNER TO CONDUCT HIS OWN WORK TODAY

Tone-Poem, "New Russia," Feature of Symphony's Concluding Concert of Season.

It is not often that a young man of 27 has a violin concerto accepted for performance by the Boston Symphony Orchestra, and appears himself as soloist in the work. This was a success attained last November by Samuel Gardner, who will conduct his symphonic poem, "New Russia," at today's popular concert at the Odeon, which will mark the symphony orchestra's final appearance in the eventful season of 1920-21. The remainder of the program will be conducted by the acting director, Frederick Fischer.

Gardner was one of the first of the candidates to announce himself as an applicant for the post of director of the symphony orchestra, to succeed the late Max Zach.

During 1918 Gardner had the distinction of winning two coveted prizes. His "New Russia," inspired by the first phase of the Russian revolution, won the James Loeb prize of $500, while a string quartet, played by the Flonzaleys from manuscript, won the Pulitzer prize of $1500 offered by the School of Journalism at Columbia University for the best American composition of the year. He has conducted his symphonic poem with the Philadelphia, Detroit, San Francisco and Los Angeles symphony orchestras.

Gardner was born in 1893 at Yelizavetgrad, Russia, near Odessa. When he was 4 years old his parents came to America, settled at Providence, R. I., and adopted the name of Gardner. He began playing the violin at the age of 6 and made his final studies under Franz Kneisel. For a year he served as second violin of the famous Kneisel Quartet; for another season he was concert master of the Chicago Symphony Orchestra; and he has since had much success as a concert violinist, appearing both in recital and with the foremost orchestras.

Season's Last Program.

Today's program, which will begin at 3:15 p. m., is in detail as follows:

Overture to Euryanthe.......Weber
Symphonic Poem, New Russia, Op. 11 ....Gardner
Rhapsody for Orchestra, Espana ....Chabrier
Ballet Music from Feramors... ....Rubinstein
(a) Dance of the Bayaderes; (b) Candle Dance of the Brides of Cashmere; (c) Wedding Procession.
Scene and Waltz from Gretna Green ....Guiraud
Spring Song, Ride of Valkyries and Magic Fire Music, from Die Walkuere ....Wagner

On next Sunday afternoon, Michel Gusikoff, concertmaster of the orchestra, and H. Max Steindel, first 'cellist, will give a recital at the Odeon.

Jewish Aid Society to Give Play.

The Ladies' Aid of the United Hebrew Temple will give an entertainment and dance, March 27, at Moolah Temple, to help raise funds for the construction of a new temple. A playlet, "A Melting Pot," will be presented, with 120 persons taking part.

Two Giants Are Ready To Empty A Bag Of Gold At Your Feet—

Don't Complain and Grumble About "HARD TIMES;" That is the Excuse of the Pale, Thin, Watery Blooded Man

for His Every Failure; Don't be "HARD UP" but GO OUT and WIN—HOW TO DO IT

"AS A MAN THINKETH SO HE IS"—you listen to so much talk about BAD BUSINESS LACK OF EMPLOYMENT, pauperism, penury and want, that your brain becomes MENTALLY PARALYZED and you honestly "FOOL YOURSELF" into believing that there is nothing to be done.

IRON WILL POWER IRON BLOOD

There is a POWER WITHIN YOU that is MIGHTIER THAN "HARD TIMES," that will find food for you when hungry; that will turn robes of rags into clothes of cloth and silk; that will make the humble working man a capitalist. That power is composed of two mighty giants—an "IRON WILL" supported by "IRON BLOOD", not that PALE, THIN, WEAK, WATERY FLUID which courses through the veins of thousands of men, but REAL RICH, RED, IRON BLOOD—blood like our strong, sturdy "iron-willed" forefathers had when they got large quantities of iron from eating the husks of grains and the skins and peels of fruits and vegetables, which modern methods of cookery throw away, thus causing such an alarming increase, in recent years, in anaemia—IRON STARVATION of the blood.

IRON IS THE MASTER PRINCIPLE OF THE BLOOD AND BLOOD IS LIFE. It is the iron in your blood that carries oxygen to your brain. Without iron your brain gets no oxygen. Without oxygen and plenty of rich red blood your brain becomes dull and heavy; it cannot think right; YOU MAKE BAD DECISIONS; DO FOOLISH THINGS; YOUR INTELLECT IS POOR; your memory often fails—no matter how smart you may be by nature, in your weakened physical and mental condition, you are certainly no match for the strong, keen, clear headed man with plenty of iron in his blood. Although you may give two men the same firearms or swords in a battle, the strong, vigorous fellow always has a decided advantage over a weak tired-out opponent.

WITHOUT IRON YOUR BLOOD ALSO LOSES ITS POWER TO CHANGE FOOD INTO LIVING CELLS AND TISSUE and nothing you eat does you the proper amount of good—you do not get the full strength out of it.

There are 30,000,000,000,000 red blood corpuscles in your blood and each one must have iron. DON'T TRY TO "FOOL YOURSELF" into thinking you are a man of "blood and iron" when you have good reason to suspect that you are not—consider the SIZE OF YOUR BANK BALANCE—what success you have had in life—A MAN IS ONLY PART OF A MAN WHEN HIS BLOOD LACKS IRON. When, as a result of iron starvation, you get up feeling tired in the morning, when you find yourself nervous, irritable and easily upset; when you can no longer do your day's work without being all fagged out at night; or have pains across the back and your face looks pale and drawn do not wait until you go all to pieces and collapse in a state of nervous prostration or until in your weakened condition you contract some serious disease, but take some organic iron like NUXATED IRON at once to help enrich your blood. Organic Nuxated Iron often increases the bodily and mental vigor of weak, tired, worn-out nervous people, in two weeks time. It's like the iron in your blood and like the iron in spinach, lentils and apples. You can even eat it if you wish. It will not blacken or injure the teeth nor disturb the stomach. It is entirely different from ordinary metallic iron which people usually take, and which is made merely by the action of strong acids on small pieces of iron.

NUXATED IRON also contains a remarkable product brought to the attention of the French Academy of Medicine by the celebrated Dr. Robin and which represents the principal chemical constituent of activing, living nerve force, FOR FEEDING THE NERVES, so that NUXATED IRON might be said to be both a BLOOD and a NERVE FOOD.

Nuxated Iron is used by over 4,000,000 people annually. Beware of substitutes. Look for the word "Nuxated" on every package, and the letters N.I. on every tablet. Your money will be refunded by the manufacturers if you do not obtain perfectly satisfactory results. At all druggists.

PILES CURED

WITHOUT THE KNIFE

Neglect Was Vital Loss of 27 Farmers Last Season.

Many People say to patients whom I have cured: My Piles are not bothering me now, but when they do I will go to see your specialist. Now did you ever hear such a foolish, flimsy, nonsensical excuse for neglecting one's health? For heaven's sake, will some one please tell me why they want to wait for more suffering, more loss of blood, lose more time from business, and prolong the risk of developing something far more serious? Common sense ought to teach them that the very best and most favorable time to have their Piles Cured is when they are not bothering them, as it would then make my work much easier, it would require fewer treatments, and enable me to cure them in half the time; besides, they would avoid suffering, and in the conservation of time they would save money.

Last year during planting and harvesting time 27 farmers were compelled to quit work and apply to me for treatment because their Piles were bothering them; now as farm labor is scarce, and time means money, those 27 farmers lost considerable money through their combined loss of time from work; they also endured more suffering, and all on account of neglect. Remember the old adage—"a stitch in time saves nine"—then turn the mistake of those farmers into profit by having your Piles Cured Now while they are not bothering you; don't give them a chance to bother you later on, and cause you to lose valuable time. Another foolish remark frequently made is, "If he cures you, he can treat me." Now why should they wait for me to cure just one particular case to prove my ability, when I can refer them to hundreds whom I have cured in and around St. Louis, and thousands whom I have cured during my 26 years of experience? Besides, I will give them an absolute guarantee to insure them a cure of their own case. What greater proof could I give them? I emphatically and honestly assert that I NEVER HAVE AND NEVER CAN FAIL to cure a case, as my method is based largely upon a scientific principle that makes it a Panacea for Piles. My farmer friends, do you think you can go through harvesting time without interruption, have you forgotten how your Piles annoyed you last year? Better have them Cured Now, is a friendly warning.

Farmer Cured of Piles Without an Operation by Dr. Henrich's Wonderful Treatment Nine Years Ago. Still Cured.

Mascoutah, Ill., May 10, 1912.

Dr. W. P. Henrich.

Dear Sir:—I desire to say that you cured me of the Piles after suffering for 16 years.

Never felt better in my life since taking your wonderful treatment. It is worth many times more to me than it cost.

I advise every Pile sufferer to take your cure without the knife at once.

Respectfully, FRED FORCADE, R. 3.

Another Farmer Cured of Piles Over Ten Years Ago, Still Cured, by Dr. Henrich's Mild Treatment.

Belleville, Ill., April 4, 1912.

Dr. W. P. Henrich.

Dear Sir:—I want to inform you that I am well pleased with that mild treatment you gave me in January, 1911.

I know that I am entirely cured of the Piles and can highly recommend you to anyone that needs treatment.

Respectfully yours,
CHRIST J. BENDER, R. 1.

For Itching Eczema, Old Sores and Piles

"I guarantee my ointment," says Peterson of Buffalo, "to cure eczema; to stop the itching at once, and any reliable druggist will cheerfully refund your money if PETERSON'S OINTMENT doesn't do everything I say it will do."

William A. Carley of Franklin, N. Y., is surely a wise man. He writes: "I used PETERSON'S OINTMENT on a little boy suffering terribly with eczema. It did the work."

Then there is Alex. Louttel, a brave fireman of Buffalo, who is glad to write as follows: "I had an old sore on my leg for many years. The best doctors failed. PETERSON'S OINTMENT entirely healed the sore quickly." And from over in Canada comes a letter from A. Blockeby, stating: "The best thing I ever hit for itching piles is PETERSON'S OINTMENT." A big box for 60 cents. Mail orders filled by Peterson Ointment Co., Inc., Buffalo, N. Y. Judge & Dolph, E. A. Medler, Enderle Drug Co. and Wolff-Wilson Drug Co. will supply you.

OBREGON NOT RULING WITH RUTHLESS HAND

Meets Uprisings With Energetic Measures, but Without Shootings at Sunrise.

Correspondence of the Associated Press.

MEXICO CITY, March 3.—Mexicans or others who expected Presiden Obregon to use a ruthless hand in ruling the nation have been disappointed in that respect in his record for the first three months of his administration. He has met several uprisings in different parts of the republic with energetic military measures, but the shootings at sunrise which had been predicted have not been recorded.

Nevertheless, at the end of three months, he is not menaced with any apparent revolutionary element which seriously threatens his control. Disturbing factors in several of the Mexican states have been pacified and even Francisco Villa, from his ranch home at Canutillo, is sending post cards to Government officials which are described as being "intensely humorous and indicating loyalty to the present regime."

Some Measures Defeated.

Some of President Obregon's efforts to solve the economic and industrial problems with which his administration is faced have suffered defeat. His banking scheme was rejected by the Chamber of Deputies. His critics complain that he has failed to outline a definite policy in regard to the operation of the oil fields, one of the disturbing factors in Mexican affairs.

Obregon's agrarian law has been so bitterly opposed by the Catholic Church, the dominant religious sect in the republic, that the Archbishop of Mexico has called upon his parishioners to resist it to the utmost.

The problem of assisting the millions of peons is one of the chief industrial questions. These poor people must first be given work to enable them to live and then must be educated. Speaking more than 100 dialects, they form a mass of heterogeneous population that is not easily molded into a national unit.

Investigating Indian Life.

Federal commissions are now investigating Indian life, which embraces the bulk of the peon population, with a view to assisting them in fulfilling their immediate needs. Schools are to follow and the necessaries of life have been made available.

Although confronted by these tasks, President Obregon has been compelled to absent himself from the national capital at times, either on account of illness or to rest. When he has been able he has spent 16 hours a day at the palace. He arrives there without escort or guard, passing through the streets with far less ostentation than hundreds of foreigners who are here to join in the general clamor for concessions.

At night, he romps with his boys or plays billiards despite his loss of one arm. He meets on an average of 100 persons daily at the palace and in the newspapers several days ago apologized for being unable to meet more.

Unlike his predecessor Carranza, who was never known to give a direct answer, Obregon replies to all questions, but keeps to himself his plans for the future.

PARIS REAL ESTATE DECLINES

Boom Prices of War Are Now Disappearing.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, March 1.—The boom seems to have departed from Paris real estate values. It was enormous while the rise in prices of rents was on, but now there is general stagnation in that business.

During the boom, fantastic prices were paid for sites for moving-picture houses and dance halls, ten times the prices of 1914 were paid for apartment houses and suburban property was up seven times its former values. The stagnation is attributed to measures taken by the Government to curb the exactions of the landlords, to the widespread expectation in the decline in the cost of living and to opposition of capitalists to invest in real estate.

MARINE RECRUITING RESUMED

The local Marine Recruiting Station at room 215 Fullerton Building, Seventh and Pine streets, has received orders to resume recruiting at once. No men will be accepted under the age of 20 years, height not less than 65 inches, and weight not less than 130 pounds. Periods of enlistment and re-enlistment are for three or four years.

Under the new regulation marines receive in addition to their regular pay, which ranges from that of a private, $30, to Quartermaster Sergeant and Sergeant-Major, $119.50 per month, a clothing allowance of $292 for a three-year enlistment and $365 for a four-year enlistment.

Germans Abolish Military Order.

Correspondence of the Associated Press.

BERLIN, March 1.—The Prussian Ministry has abolished the military order "Pour le merit," which was bestowed upon many submarine Captains and officers and soldiers who distinguished themselves at the front. The order, which had been a military decoration for 150 years or more, still may be bestowed for distinguished service in peace pursuits, the ministry's decree says.

TUBERCULOSIS SOCIETY NEEDS MORE NURSES

Board of Estimates Will Be Asked to Make Appropriation to Increase Staff.

The necessity for more nurses to handle the tuberculosis cases in St. Louis will be urged upon the City Board of Estimates and Apportionment at a special hearing to be arranged in the next few days, it is announced by the Tuberculosis Society of St. Louis. The special committee of the Tuberculosis Society appointed recently to consider the question of municipal appropriations has made its recommendations to the board of directors of the society and is strongly urging the society to work for the increased appropriation asked by the municipal nurses of St. Louis.

Dr. S. T. Lipsitz, chairman of the special committee on municipal appropriations of the Tuberculosis Society, stated in his report to the society's directors that the municipal nurses' staff of 28 nurses now has to care for more than 3000 cases of tuberculosis as well as about 7000 baby welfare cases, and that this staff is far from adequate to the needs of the situation. The committee's report shows that there are at present about 18,000 cases of tuberculosis alone in the city, and states that the inadequate corps of nurses is only barely touching the tuberculosis problem in St. Louis.

Miss Grace L. Anderson, superintendent of municipal nurses, whose report is incorporated in the report made by Dr. Lipsitz's special committee, has announced that the $48,000 appropriation now used by the municipal nurses should be increased to at least $65,000 to meet the present needs and enlarge the corps of nurses, and that is the appropriation now asked for by the Municipal Nurses' Board.

First Nurse in 1906.

The Tuberculosis Society of St. Louis put on the first public health nurse in St. Louis in 1906 and established the first chest clinic, thus making the first demonstration in public health work. Up to 1915 there was only the one chest clinic operated by the city. Now there are 13 health centers in the city, in which 26 tuberculosis clinics are conducted every week.

In 1915 the Tuberculosis Society assisted in passing the enabling act for the city to maintain a corps of municipal nurses. Seven nurses composed the first corps, and the work was financed from an appropriation of $15,000. This sum has been gradually increased as the need for more nurses was demonstrated, until last year the city appropriated $48,000 and authorized enlarging the nurses' corps to 28. Six more nurses are needed now, Miss Anderson's report states, and to have that many additional nurses the fund for the maintenance of the corps must be increased to at least $65,000, she says.

Other Cities Advanced.

Municipal nursing in other cities as well as municipal support of other antituberculosis work is much further advanced than in St. Louis, it is stated. New York has 250 nurses, Chicago 85, Detroit 75 and Cleveland 50. Boston also has a large number, more than either Cleveland or Detroit, but the figures were not at hand when the report was made.

The Tuberculosis Society also will urge additional appropriations for all anti-tuberculosis work in St. Louis, and hopes to see a greatly enenlarged program in this work for the city this year. The advisory medical staff of the society, made up of the leading tuberculosis experts of the city and county, says that one of the vital points in the fight against tuberculosis now is the discovery of the incipient cases, thus enabling early treatment and ultimate cure. In the present inadequacy of the nursing and clinical care of tuberculosis there is not a sufficient opportunity to discover these cases. The muicipal nurses are so overwhelmed with the active cases that they have no time for investigation of unsuspected cases, and thus one of the best means of lowering the death rate from tuberculois in St. Louis is lost, these doctors say.

BENEFIT BRIDGE PARTY FOR INSTITUTE FOR THE DEAF

Funds Will Be Used to Defray Expenses of Poor Children.

A benefit bridge party for the scholarship fund of the Central Institute of the Deaf will be given Tuesday afternoon, March 29, at the Women's Club, and the proceeds will be used to educate deaf children of the city, who are unable to pay tuition. Mrs. W. W. Boyd Jr., president of the board, is directing the benefit. Table reservations may be made with Mrs. Henry Elliot Jr., 11 Kingsbury place.

The Central Institute for the Deaf, 818 South King's highway, has 158 pupils, 63 of whom are in the oral school, where deaf children are given special education to overcome these handicaps. The methods are entirely oral, speech and lip reading being used. Children as young as 4 years are admitted, Montessor methods being used for this age. Primary and high school departments are included following a graded course of instruction like the public schools.

The Central Institute for the Deaf, of which Dr. M. A. Goldstein is director, and Miss Julia M. Connery, principal, was established for the definite purpose of promoting educational methods in the interests of the deaf, to instruct deaf children by progressive oral methods, to maintain training classes for teachers, to instruct deaf adults in lip-reading, to correct lisping and other defects in speech, and to maintain an otologic bureau of information.

HOUSING SITUATION IN NORWAY IS ACUTE

St. Louis Man, Returning From Visit in Scandinavia, Says Many Are Suffering.

Housing conditions in Norway and Sweden have become so acute because of the curtailment of building during the war that the large sawmills and most of the manufacturing concerns are providing their employes with free living quarters and fuel, and the Governments, as an inducement to workingmen to erect homes, are offering free lots to all those who will build, said Nels O. Nordberg of 3501 Washington boulevard, who recently returned after spending six months in the two Scandinavian countries visiting relatives.

"Rents have increased so greatly that the wages paid Scandinavian laborers will not pay for their living quarters and fuel," Nordberg declared. "The Governments are doing everything possible to remedy the situation, and when one builds a house 500 kroner (about $100) is given the builder for each room having a fireplace. A room without a fireplace is not considered fit to live in, because of the severe cold in winter. The builder also is provided with free plans, and the banks advance loans readily, although the rate of interest is very high.

Americans Well Off.

"To learn the true meaning of hard times and high prices one must go to Europe. We in America do not realize how well off we are. What is called hard times here is nothing compared to the suffering and privations of the people in Sweden and Norway and in other European nations."

Nordberg was born in Sweden, but has lived in America for 30 years. He said that on his return from the visit to his native land when the Statue of Liberty came into view he was never more thankful of the fact that he now called the United States "home."

"Soft coal is selling in Sweden for about 280 kroner, or about $60 a ton," he continued. "Wood is used for fuel wherever possible. Even the railroad trains and coast steamers burn wood. Shoes of a very poor grade sell for about $25. Eggs are 60 cents each. There is a big supply of wood, but before the war it sold for about $2 a cord, and now it sells for $20 a cord.

"An economic movement has been started in the Scandinavian countries, and luxuries are not allowed to be imported. Automobiles have been placed in the luxury class.

"Wages have steadily increased, but are about one-third less than wages paid workers in America. When you tell a Scandinavian worker that in America workingmen can afford to live in houses with steam heat and private baths he looks at you with amazement, and no matter how much you explain he won't believe you. The average Scandinavian worker must go to public bathhouses, and steam heat is only for the very wealthy."

Have Not Saved.

Nordberg said that much of the suffering among the poorer classes was due to the fact that none of them ever saved anything from their wages. No matter what the wages of a Scandinavian workingman are he never has a bank account, he added.

The Scandinavian countries are now dependent on the United States for most of the products they must import, and the merchants there attribute high prices to the rate of exchange, Nordberg said. They do not have a kindly feeling for the American business man, he added, for they hold him largely responsible for this high rate of exchange and the sentiment seems to be to buy from any country except America where possible.

"An impression which seems to prevail among a large majority of Scandinavian people is that in America one's life or pocketbook is not any more safe than it is in Russia," he said. "Sweden and Norway have been flooded by American companies with moving picture films of the course melodrama type that would hardly pass the most rigid censorship in the United States. These films depict holdups, murders and 'wild west' scenes, and lead the people to believe that America is a nation of criminals."

Before returning to the United States Nordberg spent several weeks in England, where, he said, he saw thousands of refugees arriving from Russia. Several of the refugees told him that a pound of bread in Russia cost 2000 rubles, while laborers received only 200 rubles for a day's work, he said. Many of the refugees were without shoes, he added, and most of them did not have on enough clothing for a hot summer day in America. He also told that it was no uncommon sight in Russia to see people walking around with only a piece of cloth no larger than a bath towel wrapped around their bodies as protection from the cold.

REPORT OF VISITING NURSES

Association Cared for 420 Newborn Babies in February.

Four hundred and twenty newborn babies were cared for by the Visiting Nurses' Association in February and 7911 visits were made by the nurses during the month to 2299 patients.

Because of increase of the work, a substation has been opened at 2102 East Grand avenue, the headquarters of the nurses being in the Vanol Building. Two new nurses have been added to the staff, which now numbers 24 white and eight colored nurses. Nurses are supplied families who do not need the services of a nurse all day, and a great deal of free work is done among the poor. In order to raise funds for the annual salary of one nurse a garden bridge party will be given at one of the country clubs in May.

You can almost hear the mother singing "Sleep, little baby of mine; daddy will soon be home." And she doesn't have to "keep up her music."

The Gulbransen Adds to Life's Sweetest Moments

A mother singing to her baby—a grandmother playing the old songs she loves so well—a husband and wife in a quiet musical evening at home. These are the pictures tonight in thousands of homes where the Gulbransen is enshrined as a friend.

It meets every occasion with appealing, appropriate selections. It forestalls the alibi of "forgotten music," kills the bugaboo of practicing. For anyone can play the Gulbransen—and anyone who wants to can easily play it well.

Of all instruments the Gulbransen is the most satisfying because it brings you the double pleasure of listening and performing. Anyone can play for you or you can enjoy the fascination of personally producing music yourself.

You can entertain children of all ages with lullabies, nursery rhymes to music, or game songs. You can have jolly dancing and singing parties for grown-ups of all ages. Or you can study the masterpieces of all times.

You can enjoy the playing of famous artists—become an accomplished performer yourself—play wonderful accompaniments for other instruments or singers. All music is open to you if you have a Gulbransen.

SO—Why not call at our store tomorrow to see, hear and play the Gulbransen? No obligation to purchase, and you will become better acquainted with what real pleasure a Gulbransen will mean to you and your family.

EXAMPLE OF EGYPTIAN ART AT MUSEUM

Limestone Slab, Elaborately Carved, Is From Cemetery at Thebes and Is 3500 Years Old.

The City Art Museum purchased last week an interesting example of Egyptian art in the form of a tomb stela of the XVIII dynasty (fifteenth century B. C.), from the cemetery of Thebes. The piece is a limestone slab, 28 inches high and 18 inches wide, rounded at the top and carved on the front with three bands of figures in low relief together with incised inscriptions in Egyptian hieroglyphics. Though not an example of the highest artistic merit, the stela nevertheless illustrates well the characteristic conventions of Egyptian art, and sheds considerable light upon the elaborate burial customs of ancient Egypt. The inscriptions and figures reveal that the piece was a memorial tombstone erected to Thutmose, the justified, and his wife, the "house mistress," Ereret-enen, by their six sons and daughters. At the top are carved figures of Osiris and Anubis, Gods of Death, seated upon thrones and holding various attributes. Before the gods stand Thutmose and Ereret-enen with hands uplifted in supplication.

The inscription above them sates that "The ministrants are giving praise to Wen-Nofer (Osiris), and obeisance to the lord of Ta-Zoser in the "Place of Truth" (the Theban necropolis.") The middle band of decoration shows Thutmose and his wife seated before a table piled with food over which their son, Hui-nofer, pours a libation. A second son, Nefru-er-hetef, stands behind the latter, bearing lotus flowers and loaves of bread. The lower band shows a procession of men and women, who, according to the conventions of Egyptian art, are to be regarded as following the two sons shown above. The first four figures in the procession are sons and daughters of the deceased and the last two are servants.

The inscriptions show that Thutmose and his wife were also brother and sister, a custom prevalent in ancient Egypt. Traces of the originally brilliant polychrome decoration of the stela still remain. The flesh was originally tinted red, the lotus flowers green and the inscriptions were filled with blue pigment. It is probable that the draperies were white. The piece was purchased from F. J. Bullivant of Ferguson, Mo. It is installed in the Egyptian rooms on the lower floor of the museum.

Arrangements have been made to retain the collection of objects made by students of the St. Louis School of Fine Arts on view at the museum until March 31, instead of closing it on the fifteenth, as originally planned.

JURY FOR ART EXHIBITION CHOSEN

Judges Will Award Honors at International Exposition.

By the Associated Press.

PITTSBURG, Pa., March 19.—J. W. Beatty, director of fine arts at Carnegie Institute, has appointed the international jury of selection and awards for the annual international exhibition of paintings, which will open at the institute here April 28. William Nicholson and George Clausen, two English painters, have been selected as the foreign representatives on the jury. The American artists who were named to serve are:

C. H. Woodbury, Boston; Bruce Crane, Bronxville, N. Y.; E. W. Redfield, Centerbridge, Pa.; Leonard Ochtman, Cos Cob, Conn.; Daniel Garber, Philadelphia; G. W. Bellows, Emil Carlsen and C. W. Hawthorne, New York City. Members of the jury will meet here April 7 to select the paintings to be exhibited and award honors. Under an established rule, J. W. Beatty is president of the jury, which will award the gold medal, silver medal and bronze medal, carrying with them respective prizes of $1500, $1000 and $500. Consignments of paintings are arriving daily at the institute, including more than 200 foreign canvases from England, France, Belgium, Holland, Denmark, Italy, Spain, Switzerland and Sweden.

ART STUDENTS IN CONTEST

Washington University Class to Make Posters for George Arliss' Play.

Members of the are classes at Washington University will listen to a lecture on poster art by Edwin Olmstead, a well known local commercial artist at the university Tuesday morning. Olmstead will outline the commercial poster art business to the 75 young men and women of the class and afterwards the students will make posters to advertise the film drama, "The Devil," in which George Arliss will be the star at a local picture theater the first week in April. A cash prize has been offered for the best poster and local newspaper artists will be the judges.

Wednesday morning the students will be given a special showing of "The Devil" at the Missouri Theater.

MME. CURIE TO VISIT AMERICA

Discoverer of Radium to Receive Degrees and Medals.

NEW YORK, March 19.—Madame Marie Curie, discoverer of radium, expects to sail from Paris for New York, May 7, according to a statement issued yesterday by the Marie Curie Radium Fund Committee. She will be in this country about five weeks. Mme. Curie is coming to America to receive degrees from several universities and medals from scientific societies, and while here will be presented by American women with a gram of radium that she may continue her experimentation.

The committee is preparing an itinerary for Mme. Curie which will take her at least into the Middle West and possibly as far as the Grand Canyon of Colorado, which she has expressed a desire to see. Subscriptions to the fund are received at the committee's headquarters, 3 Macdougal street, and also at the office of the Equitable Trust Co., 37 wall street, New York.

"A Beauty Sleep"—and then "A Beauty Breakfast"

Try it for 30 days—to prove

This is what thousands do at the direction of experts to win back the healthful rose tint to pale cheeks—as told by the editor of a famous magazine which is read by half a million women. They take regular exercise, sleep regular hours, and then start breakfast with stewed raisins.

The raisins are plump, delicious fruit-meats stewed so the juice forms a luscious sauce. Note recipe printed on this page. A more alluring fruit dish never has been served in any home—nor any other food that's more effective in this way.

Read at the right what Dr. J. H. Kellogg, an authority who has made a life-time's study of foods, thinks of the raisin. You'll serve stewed raisins every morning when you know the good they do.

Luscious nuggets of food-iron

Raisins are nuggets of food-iron—and food-iron is an essential to good blood.

Get what you need of it each day, and an incomparable, natural rose tint on the cheeks is the reward—nature's irresistible attraction—the good looks of good health. No need to imitate with rouge when nature thus provides.

Youthfulness is the real beauty, as every woman knows. And good blood is the first consideration. Women of fifty often look but thirty if that natural rose tint is still there.

Stewed raisins are mildly laxative also. Those who eat them regularly are apt to have the clear, white skin that sets the color off—unmarred by blemishes or sallowness.

Great sanitariums serve stewed raisins to rheumatic patients when other fruits might disagree. So this simple but effective food is one of the most important that any woman ever used. Try daily for a month and see. Begin tomorrow morning. Look in your pantry now. Let every member of the family have stewed raisins.

Be sure to mail coupon below for "100 Raisin Recipes," a valuable free book that every woman ought to have.

Stewed Raisins

Soak raisins over night, pour water off and place in stewpan, putting in not quite enough water to cover, and cook slowly for about an hour; then sugar to taste and add a bit of vanilla. Some raisins do not require much or any sugar.

What Dr. J. H. Kellogg says (Dr. Kellogg is head of the famous Battle Creek Sanitarium):

"Raisins are served on the Battle Creek Sanitarium table every day. A pound of raisins has twice the food value, an equal amount of iron and seven times as much food lime as a pound of choicest lean steak. The sugar of raisins is much more wholesome than cane sugar, requiring no digestion and being absorbed in one-fourth the time required for ordinary sugar.

"If the American people would eat more raisins and less meat, the results would be better digestion, less rheumatism, less Bright's disease, less heart disease, greater efficiency and longer life."

SUN-MAID RAISINS

Always use Sun-Maid Raisins for your every cooking need. Made from California's tenderest, sweetest, juiciest table grapes, noted for their fragile skins.

Packed in a great sun-lighted, glass-walled plant. Sweet, clean, wholesome American raisins—the kind you know are good.

Three varieties: Sun-Maid Seeded (seeds removed); Sun-Maid Seedless (grown without seeds); Sun-Maid Clusters (on the stem). All dealers. Insist upon the Sun-Maid Brand.

LENORE ULRIC TO BE SEEN IN CHINESE ROLE

Young Belasco Star Appears in Melodrama, "The Son-Daughter," Tomorrow Night.

Miss Lenore Ulric, a popular young emotional actress, last seen here in "Tiger Rose," will begin a week's engagement tomorrow night at the American Theater in a play of unusual interest, "The Son-Daughter," by George Scarborough and David Belasco.

The story cocerns the ramifications of the Chinese Revolution in New York's Chinatown, and Miss Ulric has the part of Lien Wha, a beautiful Chinese girl, daughter of a doctor, Dong Tong. He is one of four patriots who, having no wealth themselves, are called upon to sell their daughters to wealthy Chinese merchants in order to get money for purchasing ammunition and arms.

Lien Wha is in love with Tom Lee, a student at Columbia University, who turns out to be the son of Prince Chum, the revolutionary leader. Prince Chum is killed, and his son returns to China to take command of the army. Lieu Wha auctions herself off to the highest bidder, who proves to be a gambler and leader of a band of imperialistic assassins. He is throttled with his own pigtail in the last act, thus giving an opportunity for the melodrama to have a happy ending. "The Son-Daughter" enjoyed a prolonged run in New York, and has been very successful on tour.

Beginning next Sunday night the American will present the much-talked-of melodrama, "The Storm," by Langdon McCormick; following which Helen Hayes will be seen in the sub-deb comedy, "Bab."

The Griffith film, "Way Down East," will remain at the Shubert-Jefferson another week; next Sunday night the theater will resume audible entertainment with Charlotte Greenwood in a musical comedy, "Linger Longer Letty."

Vera Gordon at Orpheum.

Vera Gordon, who had a triumph in the role of the mother in Fannie Hurst's photoplay, "Humoresque," will make her first St. Louis appearance on the speaking stage this week at the Orpheum. She heads her own company in a "playlet of heart throbs," called "Lullaby," which was written and staged by Edgar Allen Wolf. The bill will also witness the first local appearance of Marie Cavanagh, sister of Lucile, who is featured in an act called "The Dance Shop." Others programmed are: Florenz Ames and Adelaide Win-Emily Darrell in "Late for Rehearsal;" Barnes and Freeman, in "A Pressing Engagement;" Elmer Cleve, in "A Bit of Scotch," and Charles Henry's pets, in "A Canine Dream."

Roger Gray at Two Theaters.

Following tonight's performance of the third edition of Roger Gray's "Sensations of 1921," the Pershing Theater will be closed for six days, reopening Easter Sunday with the "The Firefly." During the present week, Gray will make one appearance each night at the Grand-Florissant and Shenandoah Theaters, putting on bits from the "Sensations" with the aid of Ellen Best, Edna Wakefield and several members of the chorus.

Features at Other Houses.

Features at other houses are: Columbia, James Grady and company in "The Toll Bridge," a dramatic sketch; Grand, Will Fox and Florence Kelley in "Good Bye," a comedy skit; Rialto, Madeline and Dorothy Cameron, with Edwin Weber, in "A Study in Rhythm;" Empress, Boris Fridkin and company in Russian dances and songs; and King's, "Let's Go," a musical comedy in miniature.

TO TRAVEL THROUGH BALKAN STATES IN A "MOTOR HOUSE"

Capt. John Weston of England Takes Equipment With Him When He Sails From New York.

NEW YORK, March 19.—To show the gypsies of Rumania what real gypsy life is like, and also to travel through other Balkan states, Commander John Weston of the British royal air force left last week on the Panhandle State of the United States mail steamship line, taking a motor house with him.

Capt. Weston, who has been in the Near East for several years, has been in this country for two or three months fitting up a motor truck which he took with him on the steamer. It has two rooms and a kitchenette and has on the running board a dog house for the commander's pet dog, which is now with Mrs. Weston and their two children in London. Commander Weston has charge of repairing and making roads for the British Government in the Balkan countries, and while the truck will be landed when the vessel reached Boulogne, Commander Weston will go on to London. He said he would take his family to Boulogne within a few weeks.

Another passenger was United States Senator William B. Kenyon of Iowa, who said that now that the Senate was declaring a recess he would make a short vacation trip to France and England.

TO READ PAPER ON SHAKSPEARE

Dr. Denton J. Snider will read a paper on "The Supernatural in Shakspeare," at 2:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, at Vandervoort Music Hall, under the auspices of the St. Louis Tercentenary Society.

Mrs. A. E. Meisenbach will sing settings by various composers to lyrics from Shakspeare's plays, and William M. Jenkins will play on the organ selections from Mendelssohn's incidental music to "A Midsummer Night's Dream," and a musical interpretation of the passage, "How Sweet the Moonlight Sleeps," from "The Merchant of Venice."

Why you should choose the Pathe!

The Pathe has a full, round clear tone, unmarred by scratching or mechanical sound. It plays all makes of records and plays them faultlessly. No phonograph can give you more than that.

The Pathe is beautifully designed and carefully finished to the last detail of construction. Its appearance commends it to even the most discriminating.

And in addition, the Pathe has something that no other Phonograph has—a permanent reproducing point. In the Pathe a tiny sapphire ball takes the place of the needle. This tiny ball never wears out. You don't ever have to bother with changing it. And it can't gouge or scratch your records.

Pathe prices, $50.00 to $1000. Easy payment terms, if desired.

MAYOR OF BOSTON SLEEPS INCOGNITO AMONG HOMELESS

Executive Tours Own City Like Haroun Al Raschid to Learn Existing Conditions at First Hand.

BOSTON, March 19.—It was a weary and tattered Mayor of Boston who came to the city hall last Thursday. Andrew J. Peters, seeking to learn at first-hand unemployment conditions and how the city is meeting them, spent Wednesday night incognito at Wayfarers' Lodge, where the city shelters the homeless and feeds them in the morning.

In a room with 40 unfortunates he lay on a municipal bed and slept fairly well. He was routed out at 5 o'clock and sent to the woodpile. After four hours there it was decided he had earned his breakfast and, with the oatmeal, bread and coffee eaten, he went to the city hall.

Is Stopped at Own Door.

The figure with frayed coat and faded hat was halted at the door of the Mayor's office, and it was not until his secretary saw him that he was recognized and admitted. Mussed-up raincoat, muddy boots, old brown suit and faded flannel shirt, with a faded handkerchief as a neckpiece, had effectualy disguised the former Congressman and Assistant Secretary of the Treasury.

The Mayor threw his weather-beaten hat on the glass-topped table, dropped into a restful arm chair, and remarked to his staff that it was the first really comfortable minute he had had since he entered Wayfarers' lodge last night at 10 o'clock.

What He Did and Saw.

"Chopping wood is certainly an excellent way to get up an appetite," he added. "It seemed a long time before we could stop work and go in for breakfast.

"As a whole, the Wayfarers' lodge is to be congratulated on the way it is run. The quarters are well kept and clean. The men I saw at the lodge were strong, able-bodied, able to work and I assume, willing to work.

"I saw absolutely no signs of drink or dissipation. I am most anxious to help to get employment for these men.

Superintendent Is Cold.

"I went up to the superintendent of the lodge, whom I have met there before, and wishing to make some pleasant remark, asked him if he didn't know a good many of the people who came in there. He gave me a cold eye and said, 'I don't have to know anyone I don't want to.' He was at the door when I left and I said that I would come back some time and that I hoped he would remember me."

174 FILMS CONDEMNED IN YEAR BY ALBERTA CENSORS

Chief of Board Tells of Standard by Which Moving Pictures Are Judged.

By the Associated Press.

EDMONTON, March 19. — One hundred and seventy-four moving picture films were condemned by the censor in Alberta, Canada, last year, while 112 other films suffered eliminations. These figures have been given to the Public Accounts Committee of the Legislature by Howard Douglas, chief censor. He said that 10,000 feet of "rough stuff" clipped from films and stored in his archives represented only the unclaimed portion of censored shockers.

Douglas submitted to the committee copies of the standard which the Alberta censor employs in judging films. This is the standard adopted by the four Western provinces of Canada. It puts under the ban pictures portraying "traffic in women unless a true moral lesson is conveyed, grewsome scenes, offensive drunkenness and exploitation of notorious characters."

The censorship standard disapproves of pictures dealing with the drug habit, of scenes showing the methods of criminals in murder, house-breaking, poisoning, robbery, pocket-picking, lighting and throwing of bombs, use of ether, chloroform, etc., and other methods of persons employing violence against the law. Te disapproval extends to pictures dealing with counterfeiting, with brutal treatment of children and of animals and with scenes dealing with ridicule of races, classes or social bodies, as well as irreverent and sacrilegious treatment of religious bodies or things held to be sacred.

Other things under disapproval of the censorship are bathing scenes "which pass the limit of propriety," immodest dancing, needless exhibition of women in night dresses and lingerie, and studio and other scenes in which the human form is unduly exposed. Sensual kissing scenes and lovemaking and vampire scenes also come under the censor's frown.

JOHN HALK TO GIVE RECITAL

Program April 7 Will Include Mendelssohn's Violin Concerto.

John Halk, violinist, who formerly lived in this city, will give a recital on the evening of April 7 at Sheldon Memorial Auditorium.

His program includes Mendelssohn's violin concerto, Nardini's Sonata in D Major, and miscellaneous numbers by Beethoven, Wilhelmj, Wieniawski, Sarasate, Kreisler, Massenet and Cui. He will also play a "Cradle Song," by his former teacher, Ellis Levy, a first violin in the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra.

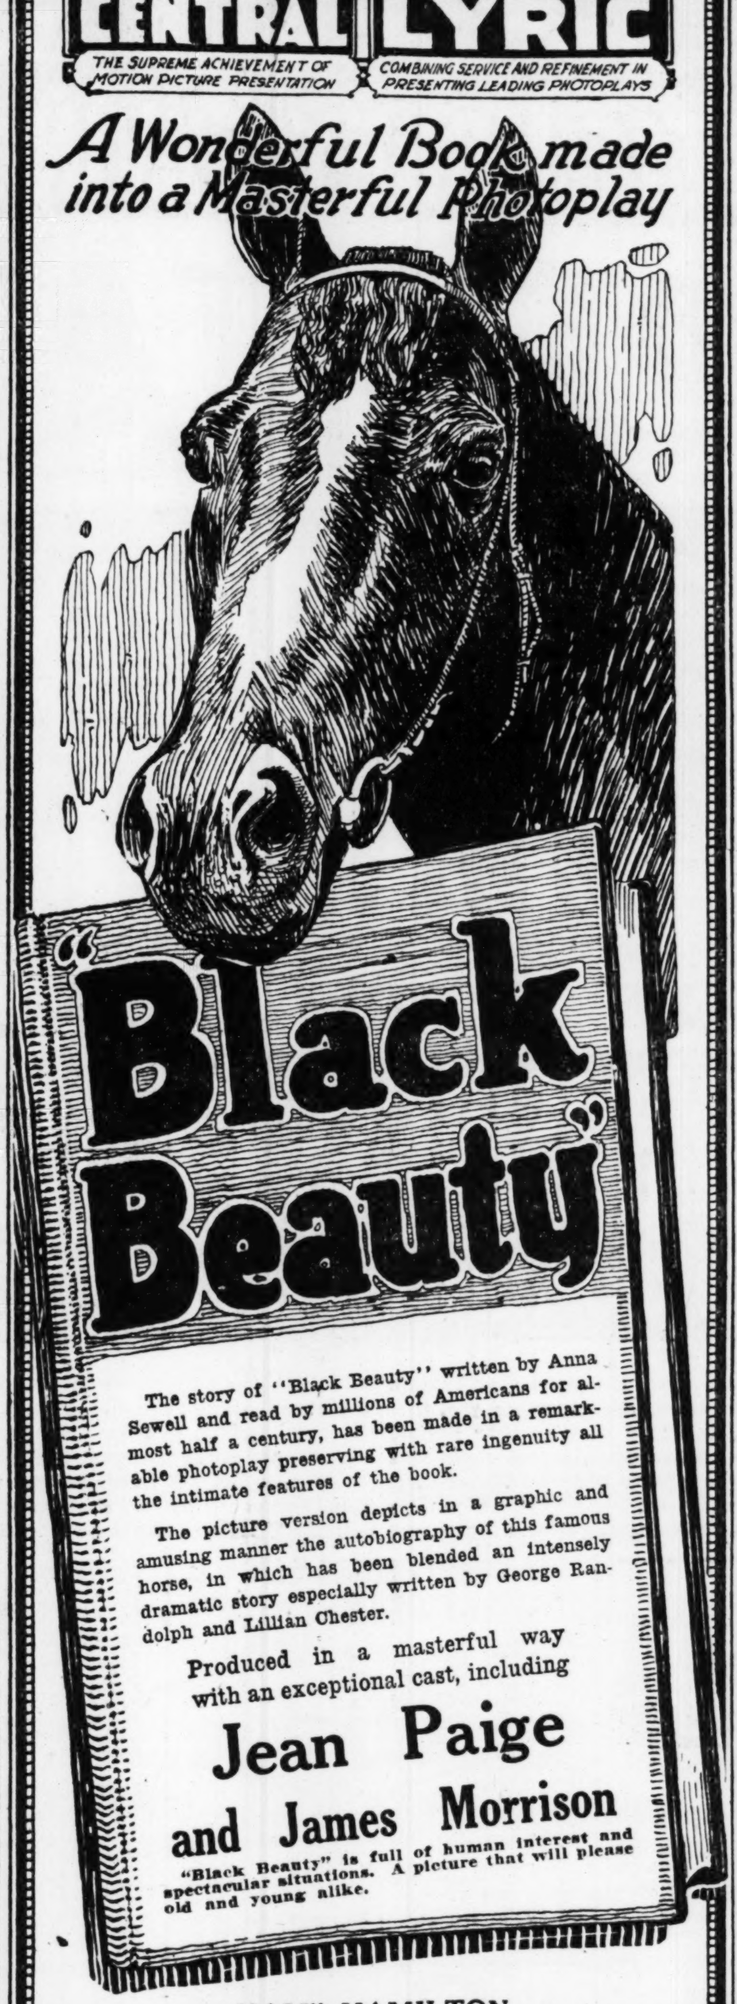
A Wonderful Book made into a Masterful Photoplay



The story of "Black Beauty" written by Anna Sewell and read by millions of Americans for almost half a century, has been made in a remarkable photoplay preserving with rare ingenuity all the intimate features of the book.

The picture version depicts in a graphic and amusing manner the autobiography of this famous horse, in which has been blended an intensely dramatic story especially written by George Randolph and Lillian Chester.

Produced in a masterful way with an exceptional cast, including Jean Paige
and James Morrison
"Black Beauty" is full of human interest and spectacular situations. A picture that will please old and young alike.

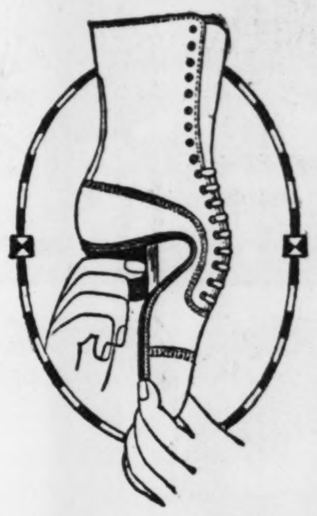
Masonic Minstrels Benefits.

The new Masonic Minstrels will give benefit performances for the proposed new Masonic Temple at the Odeon Theater Tuesday and Wednesday evenings. Dr. J. J. Kessler is director of the cast. The cast includes: Roger Gray, J. Glenn Lee, Raymond Koch, Oliver Smith, Harry Smith, Joseph Gallagher, William Rose, Judge Victor Falkenhainer, Peter Sommers and Edward Bornmueller.



Absolute Comfort and Perfect Fit

Cantilevers will prove that you "never before knew what comfort was."

They are good looking, too.

The tilt of the heel and the natural inner sole line distribute the weight properly, so that there is no strain in standing or walking, and the carriage is correct and easy. They are built to give plenty of toe room without sacrificing their trim silhouette. The smart, seasonable walking heel is comfortable as well as good looking.

The under-arch sole curves to fit the foot. Lacing the shoe pulls up this shank so that it supports the instep at every point. The small bones and muscles which constitute the arch of the foot are relieved of all strain by this under-arch support.

Cantilever Shoes have a flexible shank, which BENDS with every movement of the foot. This flexibility encourages a free, springy step, and with each step the muscles exercise and grow strong. Cantilever Shoes thus correct fallen arches.

MUSICIANS FROM FOUR STATES ENTER CONTEST

Voice, Piano and Violin Efforts to Feature Hyechka District Meeting at Hotel Statler.

A contest in which musicians from four States will endeavor to win their spurs—or the musical equivalent—is scheduled to take place at the convention of music clubs of Missouri, Oklahoma, Arkansas and Louisiana, which will be held in connection with the Hyechka District meeting at Hotel Statler, on four days beginning tomorrow.

In this musical tournament, elimination contests first will be held, and contestants to represent the various States thus chosen. Then the State champions will meet to decide the final issue. Voice, piano and violin are the mediums with which this competition of arts will be maintained. The culminating triumph for the winners will come at the close, when the successful artists will be formally presented to the convention and adorned with the laurels they have won.

The first meeting of competitors will be tomorrow when the male voice entrants of Missouri will vie for the honor of representing this State in the final contest. The piano contestants will be heard later in the evening. Violin and female voice aspirants will have their inning Tuesday afternoon. The junior music students will present their various claims on Wednesday, and, on Wednesday evening, the final meeting of the State representatives will be staged. The winners will be introduced Thursday afternoon, and will give a concert.

The public is invited to all these performances, and the entire music fest will be free. The judges who decide the winners will be screened so that they cannot see them as they perform, and will know them only by number. Strict eligibility rules govern all the contests.

MERCADANTE'S ORATORIO AT CHRIST CHURCH FRIDAY

"The Seven Last Words" to Be Given by Choir of Men and Boys.

Mercadante's great oratorio, "The Seven Last Words," will be given Friday night at Christ Church Cathedral, as is the usual Good Friday custom, by the vested choir of men and boys, under the direction of Arthur Davis, cathedral organist and master of the choristers, and the public is invited to attend. The solists will be Leslie A. Cash, who for almost 30 years has been the basso of the Cathedral choir; Leonard Wager, C. Merton and a number of boy singers.

Friday morning Bishop Tuttle will preach at the cathedral at the 10 o'clock service. Friday, from noon until 3 o'clock, the usual three-hour Good Friday service will be conducted by Dean Davis. Thursday night there will be a devotional service for business and professional women at the cathedral, conducted by the Rev. C. H. Young, rector of Howe School, Howe, Ind. The service will open at 5 and close at 9, with supper served at 6:30 at Schuyler Memorial House.

Dr. Young will speak this afternoon at 4 o'clock at the Episcopal Church of the Redeemer, Euclid and Washington avenues, at a service of intercessions, conducted by the Brotherhood of St. Andrew. He will be the speaker this week at the noonday service of the brotherhood at 411 North Seventh street, speaking at 12:05 every day on "Fellowship With God in Our Daily Life." He will preach at the Church of the Holy Communion, Twenty-eighth street and Washington avenue, Sunday, at 11 o'clock.

SECOND ANNUAL INDOOR POLICE CIRCUS NEXT MONTH

Show Includes Collection of Annual and Other Feature Acts.

The second annual indoor circus of the St. Louis Police Relief Association will be given at the Coliseum twice a day during the 11 days beginning April 7. The show will be directed by David E. Russell, manager of the Columbia Theater.

The show will be given on two platforms and in a ring and will include a company of military elephants, bareback riders, trapeze artists and several groups of trained horses and dogs.

There will be various acts of daring in midair, the most sensational of which will be that of Coriel, who slides on a cable from the dome of the building on his head. The bill also will include a number of acrobatic and balancing acts. The clown department will be headed by Art Adair, late of the Ringling Bros. and Barnum and Bailey shows.

MOTHER SEES HER THIRD SON STARTED FOR PENITENTIARY

INDIANAPOLIS, March 19.—When Merle Horton, age 18, was sentenced to the State Reformatory for one to 14 years by Judge James A. Collins in the Criminal Court last week, his mother, a gray-haired woman of refined appearance, broke down and wept as she saw the Sheriff place handcuffs on her son and lead him from the courtroom.

It was the third son within the last two weeks that Mrs. Horton had seen taken from the same courtroom to begin serving a penal sentence. Two other sons of Mrs. Horton were convicted by Judge Collins two weeks ago, one being sent to the reformatory and the other to the State Farm. Each of the three boys was charged with vehicle taking. Nicholas La Velle, age 24, indicted with Merle Horton, received a similar sentence to the reformatory.

Six more days will see the finish of the biggest Furniture sensation St. Louis has seen in decades. Only six more days remain in which you can share in this most remarkable of all Furniture-buying opportunities. Former costs—former selling prices have been utterly disregarded. Prices have been unmercifully slashed. The savings, to say the least, are gigantic; yes, in many cases, almost unbelieveable!!! The Furniture is the quality associated with this institution, which means THE VERY BEST. [illegible] of thrifty economical buyers have participated in this economy event, and they have in turn passed the good tidings to their friends, making this store constantly crowded with throngs of eager, enthusiastic buyers. Although this is the final week of our big Drastic Clean-Up Sale, assortments are unlimited, stocks are just as complete as when this remarkable economy event first started, as shipments that were late in arriving for the beginning of this sale have just been received and have been included, making the variety for selection practically unlimited. Not only have orders been coming in locally, but mail orders have been pouring in and many customers have come miles and miles to attend this savings event. This indicates in forceful manner that all were quick to grasp the extraordinary savings nature of our Big Drastic Clean-Up Sale, and profit by it. Remember, only six more days and this sale will then be history. THRIFTY! ECONOMICAL!! COME!!! We urge you to! The time is limited—the savings unlimited. If you are not ready at this particular time to have Furniture delivered, we will store your purchases in our warehouse without any charges to you, if you so desire!!!

Walter B. Stevens Writes of the Famous Old Taverns of Missouri

His Article on the Wayside Inns of the Pioneer Days and the Romance Associated With Them Features Centennial Number of the Historical Review.

TALES of early Missouri taverns, as characteristic of Missouri as is the persimmon or the pawpaw, are told in an article by Walter B. Stevens on "The Missouri Tavern," which is the feature of the State centennial number of the Missouri Historical Review, recently issued. Photographs of some of the historic wayside inns of the State, and other views of those which are not now standing, appear in connection with the article.

"Missouri, the State, was born in a tavern," the writer relates. This was the Missouri Hotel, Maj. Biddle, proprietor. There the first Legislature met, the first Governor and Lieutenant-Governor, McNair and Ashley, were inaugurated there, and the first United States Senators, Barton and Benton, were elected there.

The first Missouri tavern, run in St. Louis by Joseph Charless, also founder and editor of the Missouri Gazette, is described. "Strangers will find every accommodation but whisky," an announcement read. This may have been due to the views of Mrs. Charless, one of seven women, who, with two men, organized the first Presbyterian church in Missouri.

Tales of Van Bibber Tavern.

"To Van Bibber's tavern at Loutre Lick (now Mineola, Montgomery County) came Col. David Craig when he immigrated to Missouri in 1817. He brought with him two suits of black clothes. On Sunday morning, not long after his arrival, he put on the good clothes, after the Virginia custom of Sabbath observance, and went in to breakfast. The women folks crowded around and with much feminine curiosity examined the store clothes. One of the girls touched the clothes and exclaimed admiringly, 'Oh! Ain't he nice!' The tavern-keeper, who either didn't favor so much style or wished to check further enthusiasm by his family, said, 'Nice! He looks like a blacksnake that had just shed its skin.'"

First Missouri Health Resort.

Van Bibber's wife was a granddaughter of Daniel Boone. Business grew under his management, and Loutre Lick became the first Missouri health resort, praised unreservedly by Thomas H. Benton, and visited by Washington Irving and by travelers from Europe.

Regarding Mann's Tavern, in Bowling Green, it is related that, in the '20s, two squads of travelers appeared there, who said nothing about their errand, but who kept apart from each other until, under the mellowing atmosphere of the barroom, they began to drink together. Presently, the matter which had kept them apart, and which was no less than an impending duel, had been settled happily, and the next day, instead of proceeding to the selected field of combat, on an island in the Mississippi, the two parties returned, one to Boonville and one to Lexington.

Slept With Governor.

"In the First General Assembly of Missouri there was a man who called himself 'Ringtail Painter.' His name was Palmer and his cabin home was in the Grand River valley. While the first legislature was holding its sessions in the Missouri hotel, Palmer insisted on occupying the same bed with Gov. McNair for one night so that, as he said, he could go back and tell his friends

It's 10 years ahead

YOU would not use candles when you can have electric lights, or a one lung motor car when you can drive a six or a twin six, nor wear clothes ten years behind the style.

Be just as particular in your choice of a phonograph—it costs no more to buy the phonograph that is ten years ahead!

It is just as easy to own the only phonograph which sustains the direct comparison test. The New Edison has completely proved that there is no difference between its RE-CREATION of music and the living artist's original performance.

THE OVERLAND is a good car of moderate price. So light and efficient that it runs on a surprisingly small amount of fuel.

So comfortable in its riding qualities, even on rough roads, that owners of high priced cars have declared it excels their most agreeable past experience.

So convenient and safe in handling that women drive with ease and enthusiasm.

Dependable to the last degree. Just drive it and see.

WALTER B. STEVENS WRITES OF FAMOUS MISSOURI TAVERNS

that he had 'slept with the Governor of Missouri.'

"In this meeting of the legislature, during a sitting of the Senate, Duff Green and Andrew McGirk became involved in a hot argument. McGirk threw a pewter inkstand at Green. The two men started a fist fight. Gov. McNair came forward to interfere. He caught hold of Green and was pulling him away when Palmer grabbed the Governor and shouted: 'Stand back, Governor; you are no more in a fight than any other man. I know that much law. I am at home in this business. Give it to him, Duff. Give it to him.'

Benton Elected by One Vote.

"Thomas H. Benton owed his first election to the Senate to tavern environment. His friends had been able to muster only a tie vote against the opposition. And one of Benton's votes was that of Daniel Ralls who lay in the last stages of fatal illness. Benton's friends won over one vote from the opposition, giving the necessary majority if the dying man could be kept alive and brought in when the ligsilature met on Monday. The fact that the legislature was meeting in the hotel and that the dying man was in a room upstairs made the plans of Benton's friends practicable though desperate. The sick man was carried downstairs by four stout negro servants and voted for Benton. He died shortly after being taken back to his room.

"In 1835 the Missouri was still famous. Isaac Walker obtained possession of it and installed a tavern keeper in whom he had confidence. The result was so disappointing that Walker said publicly this man 'was not fit to keep tavern; that his butter was so strong he could hang his hat on it.' The tavern keeper sued Walker for slander and employed Uriel Wright, the foremost orator at the Missouri bar in those days, to push the case. The old Missouri hotel stood until 1873, and then gave way to a business structure.

Board at $2.50 a Week.

"When St. Charles became the temporary capital of the new State of Missouri, the tavern keepers made good their reputation for square dealing by furnishing the members of the General Assembly board at $2.50 a week. At that time pork was a cent and a half a pound; venison hams, 25 cents each; eggs, five cents a dozen; honey, five cents a gallon; but coffee cost a dollar a pound.

"Morgan B. White was sent by Callaway County to the Legislature in the thirties. He found lodgings in the house of a widow, who assigned him a bed with four high posts and heavy damask curtains. When it came time to go to bed, Uncle Morgan said he could not imagine how he was to get in. He had never seen that kind of a bed and he didn't want to ask questions. So he pulled a table and chair to the side of the bed, climbed over the top of the curtains. Instead of stopping when he reached the feathers, he went through and struck the floor.

First European Plan Tavern.

"William G. Rice, who kept tavern on the Boone's Lick road in Montgomery County, had a scale of prices. Perhaps it might be said that he kept the first Missouri tavern on the European plan. His guests were informed that the price for dinner consisting of corn bread and 'common fixins'' was 25 cents. For wheat bread and 'chicken fixins'' the charge was 37½ cents, or three bits, according to the vernacular of that day. If the traveler wanted both kinds of 'fixins,' he paid 62½ cents, or five bits.

"When Lafayette was entertained in St. Louis, he was astonished to see approaching him an old man in the full uniform worn by the French at the surrender of Yorktown. He was delighted when the old soldier saluted stiffly but correctly. He was moved deeply when Alexander Bellissime identified himself as a native of Toulon who had come over with Lafayette's forces to fight for American independence. After the War of the Revolution, Bellissime had settled in St. Louis and was conducting a tavern which was the popular resort of the river men. He was known to everybody as "Old Alexie.' His tavern was on Second street near Myrtle, in the French section. After Lafayette's departure, the veteran, who had been embraced publicly by his old commander, was in higher esteem than ever. He lived to be 87. On the red letter days of St. Louis 'Old Alexie' did not fail to appear in that well preserved uniform and the three-cornered cockaded hat. When 'Old Alexie' died, Capt. Easton turned out the crack military company, the St. Louis Grays, and gave the veteran what would have been his heart's desire—a military funeral.

Impressed With Food Abundance.

"Audubon, the world-famed naturalist, in his travels about Missouri in the early forties, was impressed with the abundance of natural food supplies, and with the cheapness of things eatable. He wrote to James Hall:

"'The markets here abound in all the good things of the land and of nature's creation. To give you an idea of this, read the following items: Grouse, two for a York shilling; three chickens for the same; turkeys, wild or tame, 25 cents; flour, $2 a barrel; butter, 6 pence for the best; fresh and really good beef, 3 to 4 cents; veal, the same; pork, 2 cents; venison hams, large and dried, 15 cents each; potatoes, 10 cents a bushel; ducks, 3 for a shilling; wild geese, 10 cents each: canvasback ducks, a shilling a pair; vegetables for the asking, as it were.'

$9 a Week at Hotel Too High.

"In a land of such plenty, Audubon felt that the tavern rates were altogether too high. He complained:

"'And only think, in the midst of this abundance and cheapness, we are paying $9 a week at our hotel, the Glasgow; and at the Planters we were asked $10. We are at the

A REFRIGERATOR BARGAIN THAT WILL STIR ALL ST. LOUIS

SENSATIONAL INTRODUCTORY SALE of

Randall Vacuum Principle ALL WHITE REFRIGERATORS

To Introduce These Marvelous Ice Saving Refrigerators in St. Louis We Offer One Carload, Only, at About ½ Price. The Manufacturer Stands the Loss.

The Union Furniture Company scores a great triumph. We were appointed exclusive distributors in this district for the celebrated all-white Randall vacuum principle Refrigerators. This is a mighty scoop for this live, progressive store. It means that you can come to the Union and secure a Refrigerator that revolutionizes the manufacture of Refrigerators and guarantees a saving of 30 per cent in ice over any other Refrigerator in the world. To introduc them to the St. Louis public, the manufacturer has made a tremendous price concession, which enables us to offer these Refrigerators, while a carload lasts, at about one-half price, $39.75. The regular price after this introductory quantity is gone will be $75.00.

The principle upon which this Refrigerator is built is that a confined wall of circulating air, and an inner wall of dead air, is the best insolation known to science. That is why the Randall is built of highest quality refined lumber which is water-proofed in the making and also in the board form. This refined wood fibre is not porous like wood. Air cannot pass through it. It has no grain, therefore it will not crack, warp, and because it water-proofed will never become soggy or rot, and will not absorb or give off odors.

Built Like a Vacuum Bottle

The Randall has a seamless enameled interior. This enamel is a hard nonabsorbent proof surface, absolutely sanitary, no cracks or crevices to hold the dirt. The exterior of the Refrigerator is all-white enamel, and is guaranteed not to chip, crack or peel under any conditions. By octual test, boiling hot water was poured over the exterior and interior finish. After it was dry it was found that the enamel was in just as good condition as before the test. It is the finest Refrigerator in the world today, and is offered at less than the priec you would have to pay for a smaller inferior oak finish Refrigerator.

TURN HAIR DARK WITH SAGE TEA

If Mixed with Sulphur It Darkens So Naturally Nobody Can Tell.

The old-time mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur for darkening gray, streaked and faded hair is grandmother's recipe, and folks are again using it to keep their hair a good, even color, which is quite sensible, as we are living in an age when a youthful appearance is of the greatest advantage.

Nowadays, though, we don't have the troublesome task of gathering the sage and the mussy mixing at home. All drug stores sell the ready-to-use product, improved by the addition of other ingredients, called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." It is very popular because nobody can discover it has been applied. Simply moisten your comb or a soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also produces that soft lustre and appearance of abundance which is so attractive.

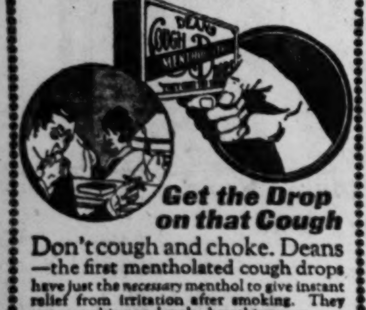
INGROWN TOE NAILS

Nail Turns Out Itself if you Toughen Skin Underneath

A few drops of "Outgro" upon the skin surrounding the ingrowing nail reduces inflammation and pain and so toughens the tender, sensitive skin underneath the toe nail, that it can not penetrate the flesh, and the nail turns naturally outward almost over night.

"Outgro" is a harmless, antiseptic manufactured for chiropodists. However, anyone can buy from the drug store a tiny bottle containg directions.



Get the Drop on that Cough

Don't cough and choke. Deans—the first mentholated cough drops have just the necessary menthol to give instant relief from irritation after smoking. They stop coughing and make breathing easy.

Harmless, sure and very pleasant. Menthol is recognized by nose and throat specialists as an excellent healing agent. Deans are as carefully compounded as a prescription

Glasgow Hotel, and will leave the day after tomorrow, as it is too good for our purses.'

"John Graves kept the first tavern in Chillicothe. One day a commercial traveler grumbled about the cooking. Graves caught the critic by the collar, jerked him out of his chair at the table, and kicked him out the front door.

"'The blamed skunk,' he said, 'insulted my boarders, and I won't stand for it. My boarders eat my fare and like it; and when a man makes fun of my grub, it is the same as saying they haven't sense enough to know good grub from bad. I am bound to protect my boarders.'

Swore and Asked Blessing.

"Stagestand keepers, the tavern men were called where the stages made their regular stops. Hampton Ball said that Kenner of Paudingville was one of the most famous. He could play a fiddle that would almost make the trees dance. He was jovial and generous and one of the most profane men I ever knew. He did not mean to be profane, but he swore almost as readily as some people whistle. Although he ran a public house there was never any meal served at his table on which he did not ask the blessing. The great pioneer Methodist, the Rev. Andrew Monroe, stopped at Kenner's house. The stage coach driver suggested that Kenner ask Parson Monroe to say the blessing.

"'No,' said Kenner, 'I ask my own blessings at my own table.' And he did. On another occasion, in a single breath, Kenner concluded the blessing thus, 'And for all these blessings we thank Thee O Lord, amen; kick that blamed dog out from under the table.'

"Tavern keeping was honorable and tavern keepers were honest in Missouri, as a rule. The exceptions were so notable as to be long remembered. On the old Boone's Lick road where it ran through the northern part of Callaway, a man named Watson kept tavern. He made a great deal of money for a few years. Travelers could not understand why their horses seemed to fail in appetite when they put up at that tavern. After a long time it was discovered that the tavern keeper rubbed grease in between the rows of kernels on the corn cobs to such an extent that the horses left much of the corn untouched.

Couldn't Fool Him.

"Weed Marshall furnished 'entertainment' at Mayview for 29 years. Marshall was courteous, but it did not do to presume upon his good nature. A young traveling man left a call for three o'clock in the morning, and in a rather unpleasant manner impressed the importance of it. Marshall had no night clerk, and sat up to make sure that the guest did not miss the train. At three o'clock to the minute he pounded on the door. A grunt was the response.

"'Get up;' shouted Marshall. 'It's three o'clock.'

"'I've changed my mind,' growled the traveling man. 'I'm going to stay and take a later train.'

"'No, you're not,' said Marshall. 'Confound you. You get up and get out this minute. You can't fool me.' And the young man left on his early train.

Tavern Keepers Esteemed.

"In Northeast Missouri, at Bloomington, Squire Absalom Lewis kept tavern in what was the first house in that part of the State, with the chimneys inside of the walls. Squire Lewis came honestly by his judicial title. For years he entertained the Judge and the lawyers and the clients during court sessions. A rule of the tavern during this periodical congestion of patronage was that only the Judge could have a bed by himself. From years of close association with his guests, Lewis came to have such familiarity with law and practice that he was prompted to run for Justice of the Peace. When a tavern keeper went out for office he was generally successful, such was the esteem in which the vocation was held by Missouri constituencies. Squire Lewis was elected and proceeded to administer justice according to his previous observations. In one of his earlier cases he was called upon to pass upon many objections raised by opposing counsel. With strict impartiality, the squire ruled in favor of the lawyers alternately. But at the end of the trial, two consecutive rulings were made in favor of the plaintiff.

"'Look here!' said the lawyer for the defense, 'Squire, you decided for the other side last time, and this was our time to get the decision.'

"'I know how I done,' said the squire, with dignity. 'In order to be fair to you fellows, I give half the pints to the plaintiff and half to the defedant, and never put one single pint for myself till the close of the case. And then you kick! Seems to me you don't appreciate fair treatment.'

Whipped Lawyer for Contempt.

"Squire Lewis believed in upholding the dignity of his court. On one occasion he left the bench and whipped a lawyer for contempt.

"What happened at the old Glenn house in Paris furnished the ground for a church trial which agitated a large section of Missouri when the church was divided on the question of dancing. David Peavy, known from the Mississippi to the Missouri, was the first landlord, the tavern then consisting of a combination log and frame structure. His sign announced the usual 'Entertainment for Man and Beast.'

"There was the bell on the post in front of the tavern. When a traveler rode up on a horse Uncle Davy went out to greet him, and rang the bell as if to call a stable boy. After the guest had gone inside the landlord took the horse to the stable and attended to it. The ringing of the bell for a mythical stable boy was a harmless bluff.

"After Peavy, the tavern was kept by Anderson Woods, a Baptist

Why Burden Yourself With Fat?

Prominent, repulsive fat that comes and stays where it is not needed is a burden: a hindrance to activity, a curb upon pleasure a thief of all that is pretty and graceful and sweet in womankind. Why don't you take off the fat where it shows? You can do so easily, safely and without the slightest fear of harm or bad after effects by just taking after each meal and at bedtime a pleasant little Marmola Prescription Tablet. These little tablets are as effective and harmless as the famous prescription from which they take their name. Buy and try a case today. Your druggist sells them at $1., or if you prefer you may write direct to the Marmola Co., 4612 Woodward Av., Detroit, Mich. You can thus say good-bye to dieting, exercise and fat and get back the graceful figure and poise you desire.

WALTER B. STEVENS WRITES OF FAMOUS MISSOURI TAVERNS

preacher, and his wife Betsy. The dining room back of the hotel had been for years used for dancing parties. Preacher Woods suspended these parties. Aunt Betsy did not have the same scruples as her husband. When Mr. Woods went away to fill a preaching appointment Aunt Betsy readily yielded to the pleas of the young people and gave permission for a dance. The preacher found a creek too high to cross. He came back when the fun was fast and furious, stood for a few moments looking in at the door and said: 'I can see no harm in that.' But the church authorities disagreed with him, preferred charges and brought him to trial. For some years after that there was no more dancing in the tavern dining room. During more than 60 years the Glenn house was the social center of Monroe County.

History on Hotel Register.

"On the register of the City Hotel at Boonville, guests wrote their names, homes, destinations, and information about themselves. The landlord, Edward B. McPherson, was an ardent politician and a frequent contributor to the comments on his register. On Sunday he would enter, 'Let us all go to church.' After one name the landlord wrote, 'Left without paying his bill.'

Benton Wouldn't Double Up.

"The signature of Thomas H. Benton appears a number of times on this register, which might seem rather remarkable in view of his antagonism to the outspoken politics of the Whig Landlord, but when the magisterial, as Benton was sometimes called, was questioned about the propriety of stopping with a Whig landlord, he replied: 'Sir, do you think Benton takes his politics into his belly?' When it was suggested that guests double up in time of congestion at a tavern, Benton's reply was, 'Benton sleeps in the same bed with no other man.'

"There were taverns in communities so strongly Whig that Benton would not put up at them. It is a tradition well preserved in Columbia that Benton rode through the university town and went out three miles to a small tavern in the country to pass the night, rather than accept better accommodations where the opposition was so strong.

All Sorts of People.

"At the village of Auburn, Judge Fagg relates, Benton, during his losing campaign of 1849, found the tavern of his former friend, Daniel Draper. He was met by the old landlord, and said, referring to himself as usual in the third person, 'You will have Col. Benton with you tonight.' The old man replied, 'Yes, I reckon so; all sorts of people stop here.' Another version of the incident is that Draper, a stalwart Whig, was accosted by Benton as he was chopping wood, and replied, without looking up, 'Get down and hitch your horse. We are not particular about whom we entertain.'

"A Missouri tavern keeper got the bettr of George G. Vest in a match of wits. The occasion was in old

Reed, Fiber and Collapsible Baby Carriages

PLAYTIME is all the time with baby. For hours each day his buggy is his playground. Roominess and comfort are paramount—in the Sidway Gondola. The full-box mattress is three-piece, one piece having a solid back which can be adjusted to full reclining position. There are ample side pads running full length and the ends are upholstered. Then too the oscillating action of the front axle prevents pitching baby sidewise when going over rough ground, and long resilient springs further aid in making the smoothest kind of sailing. The extra large hood with its rear storm curtain gives thorough protection. Baby's welfare first! But the beauty of this carriage is also striking. The hand woven reed, the corduroy upholstering and the general finish show the highest taste.

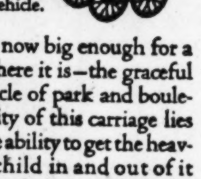
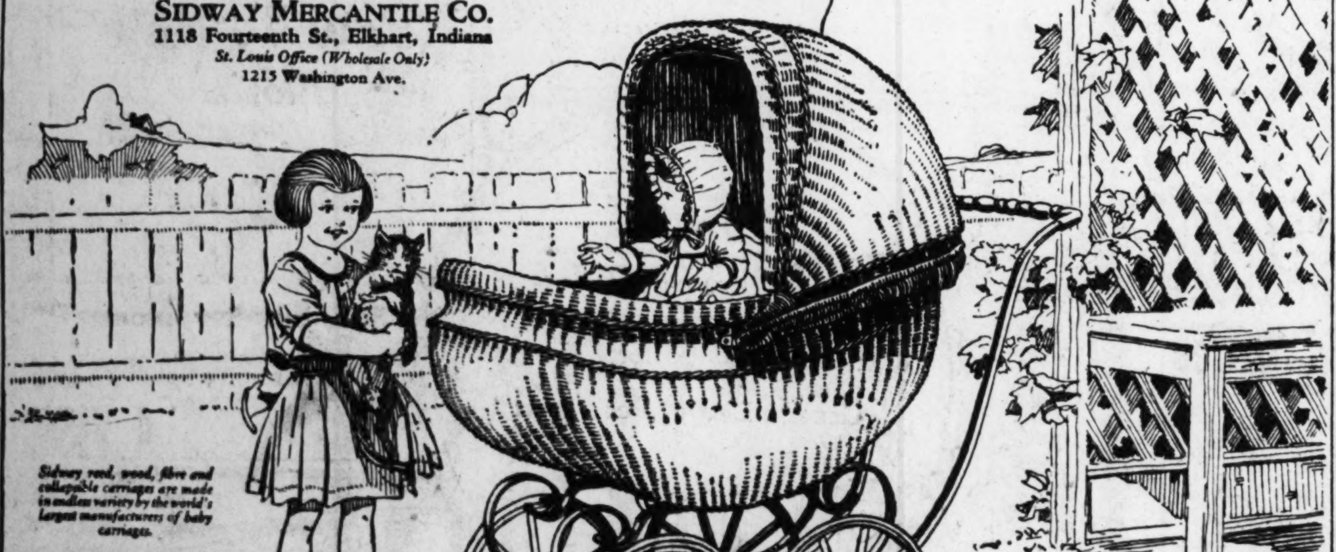
Rivalling the Sidway Gondola is the Sidweave Pullman Sleeper. The main difference between the two is in the weave. Sidweave is a fibre of extra fine texture woven with a regularity which rivals a fine dress fabric. This carriage has a 3-fold pillow mattress, fixtures for sliding the hood to the desired position, and the body is reversible. An exceedingly practical and attractive vehicle.



Perhaps your baby is now big enough for a Park Wagon. Then here it is—the graceful Sidweave—show-vehicle of park and boulevard. The practicability of this carriage lies in the ability to get the heavier child in and out of it easily. It is very light in weight, too, and easy to handle. It has the famous fine-texture Sidweave fibre. Upholstered in corduroy.



Sidway reed, wood, fibre and collapsible carriages are made in endless variety by the world's largest manufacturers of baby carriages.

THE cleanest and at the same time most inexpensive way to keep perishable foods wholesomely good is by means of McClellan iceless refrigeration.

McClellan refrigeration is accomplished with the McClellan refrigerating machine, which when hooked up to any ice box produces a constant, uninterrupted circulation of clean, dry-cold air through the provision chambers, at one-third the cost of ice.

There are more McClellan refrigerating machines in successful use all over the country than those of all other makes combined.

McClellan refrigerating machines are usually operated by a small electric motor, using but a very small amount of electricity. They are automatic in operation and in the control of the temperature inside the storage box. There are five sizes of McClellan refrigerating machines—a size for every cooling requirement of the Home, Market, Hotel, Hospital or other public institution.

McClellan Guarantee and Service

The McClellan Guarantee is behind every machine sold. McClellan Service Stations are located in all leading centers and insure the owner a full measure of service.

McClellan Refrigeration for the Home

No pans to overflow; no waste pipes to get clogged and permit dirty, waste ice-water to back up into the provision chambers. No spoiled foods or soured milk or cream because the ice ran low. You can freeze ices, and many other frozen dainties, quickly, easily and economically.

You, as a householder, can buy with confidence from marketmen whom you know preserve the foods you buy from them with a McClellan refrigerating machine.

McClellan Refrigeration for Meat Markets

Keep your stock in better, more salable condition and reduce the cost of refrigeration 2/3 with a McClellan refrigerating machine. Hook it up to your present storage box. Go home Saturday nights in the hot weather and be assured that the temperature in your storage box will be even and dry-cold 'till Monday morning. Send in the coupon below and find out more about how to save money and keep your stock in better condition.

McClellan Refrigeration for Restaurants, Hotels, Cafes, Etc., Etc.

A McClellan refrigerating machine will save enough on ice bills and in the wholesome preservation of perishable foods to pay for itself in a very short time. Several storage boxes may be served from one machine. Do not depend upon the uncertainties of ice refrigeration any longer. Send in the coupon below, today, and find out all about the McClellan way of refrigerating.

McClellan Refrigeration for the Florist

Changing temperatures, inevitable with ice refrigeration, affect the dollars and cents value of your stock tremendously. McClellan refrigeration will keep your stock fresh and in good, salable condition at all times. Sending in the coupon does not obligate you in any way. Do it today.

BIG EATERS GET KIDNEY TROUBLE

Take Salts at first sign of Bladder irritation or Backache.

The American men and women must guard constantly against Kidney trouble, because we eat too much and all our food is rich. Our blood is filled with uric acid which the kidneys strive to filter out, they weaken from overwork, become sluggish; the eliminative tissues clog and the result is kidney trouble, bladder weakness and a general decline in health.

When your kidneys feel like lumps of lead or your back hurts; if you suffer with sick headache or dizzy, nervous spells, acid stomach, or you have rheumatism when the weather is bad, get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. The famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate clogged kidneys; to neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure, makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water beverage, and belongs in every home, because nobody can make a mistake by having a good kidney flushing any time.

MAKES A FAMILY SUPPLY OF COUGH REMEDY

Really better than ready-made cough syrups and saves about $2. Easily and quickly prepared.

If you combined the curative properties of every known "ready-made" cough remedy, you probably could not get as much real curative power as there is in this simple home-made cough syrup, which is easily prepared in a few minutes.

Get from any druggist 2½ ounces of Pinex, pour it into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with syrup, using either plain granulated sugar syrup, clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, as desired. The result is a full pint of really better cough syrup than you could buy ready-made for three times the money. Tastes pleasant and never spoils.

This Pinex and Syrup preparation gets right at the cause of a cough and gives almost immediate relief. It loosens the phlegm, stops the nasty throat tickle and heals the sore, irritated membranes so gently and easily that it is really astonishing.

A day's use will usually overcome the ordinary cough and for bronchitis, croup, hoarseness and bronchial asthma, there is nothing better.

Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, and has been used for generations to break severe coughs.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with full directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

BIG EATERS GET KIDNEY TROUBLE

Take Salts at first sign of Bladder irritation or Backache.

The American men and women must guard constantly against Kidney trouble, because we eat too much and all our food is rich. Our blood is filled with uric acid which the kidneys strive to filter out, they weaken from overwork, become sluggish; the eliminative tissues clog and the result is kidney trouble, bladder weakness and a general decline in health.

When your kidneys feel like lumps of lead or your back hurts; if you suffer with sick headache or dizzy, nervous spells, acid stomach, or you have rheumatism when the weather is bad, get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. The famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate clogged kidneys; to neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure, makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water beverage, and belongs in every home, because nobody can make a mistake by having a good kidney flushing any time.

MAKES A FAMILY SUPPLY OF COUGH REMEDY

Really better than ready-made cough syrups and saves about $2. Easily and quickly prepared.

If you combined the curative properties of every known "ready-made" cough remedy, you probably could not get as much real curative power as there is in this simple home-made cough syrup, which is easily prepared in a few minutes.

Get from any druggist 2½ ounces of Pinex, pour it into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with syrup, using either plain granulated sugar syrup, clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, as desired. The result is a full pint of really better cough syrup than you could buy ready-made for three times the money. Tastes pleasant and never spoils.

This Pinex and Syrup preparation gets right at the cause of a cough and gives almost immediate relief. It loosens the phlegm, stops the nasty throat tickle and heals the sore, irritated membranes so gently and easily that it is really astonishing.

A day's use will usually overcome the ordinary cough and for bronchitis, croup, hoarseness and bronchial asthma, there is nothing better.

Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, and has been used for generations to break severe coughs.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with full directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

PRIZES ARE AWARDED IN COMPOSERS' CONTEST

Two New York Contestants Share Grand Prize of $5000 for Oratorio "Apocalypse."

By the Associated Press.

COLUMBUS, O., March 19.—All but one of the prizes in the seventh biennial prize competition for American composers of the National Federation of Music Clubs, have been awarded, it was announced here today by Mrs. Ella May Smith of this city, chairman of the American Music Section o fthe national committee, who made known for the first time the names of prizewinners.

The grand prize of $5000 was won by Pauline Arnoux McArthur of New York and Henri Pierre Roche, New York, for a setting of the "Apocalypse," an oratorio. The prize was offered by the National Federation of Music Clubs.

Cello Prize to Michigan.

Cello solo prize of $100 was won by Lloyd Loar of Kalamazoo, Mich. The title of his work is "Nocturne." The prize was offered by the St. Cecelia Society of Grand Rapids, Mich., as a memorial to Mrs. Charles B. Kelsey, a former president of the national federation and of the St. Cecelia Society.

Violin solo prize was won by Irene Berge of New York, with a composition entitled "Romantic Andante." The Musicians' Club of Women of Chicago gave the award. Alexander McFadden of Milwaukee, Wis., was given honorable mention.

William Middelschulte of Evanston, Ill., was awarded first honors in the organ solo class, with a work entitled "Chromatic Fantasie, and Fugue." Honorable mention was accorded "Ecstasy" by William Webbe of Summit, New Jersey. The St. Cecilia Society of Grand Rapids offered this prize also.

Mrs. Bessie M. Whiteley of Brooklyn, N. Y., won first honor in the competition for a song with "The Shadders," a poem by Frank R. Stanton. This prize was offered by Mrs. J. R. Custer of Chicago, in perpetuity, the conditions being that the composition must be written by a woman and also a member of the National Federation.

Honorable Mention.

Honorable mention was accorded Mrs. Gladys Petit Bumstead of Columbus for her song, "Such a Starved Bank of Moss," a poem by Robert Browning.

Each of the prizes was $100.

No award was made in the "chorus for untrained childrens' voices" competition, for which a prize of $100 had been offered by Mrs. Frances Elliott Clark of Philadelphia, who will continue the prize for the next competition in 1922.

The competition opened October, 1920, and no manuscripts were accepted after December of that year. Since that time the judges have been going over the offerings.

$1000 OFFERED FOR BEST ESSAY ON JEWISH WORK IN HYGIENE

Competition Open to Members of Faculties and Students of Universities and Colleges.

A prize of $1000 for the best essay on "Contributions of Jews to Hygiene" is being offered by the Jewish Publication Society of America of Philadelphia. The prize is from a trust fund established by Jesse W. Gitterman of Boston and Joseph L. Gitterman of New York City in memory of their parents, Henry and Diana L. Gitterman. Similar prizes will be offered from time to time for essays on the history of the Jews or their contribution to modern civilization.

The competition is open to members of the faculties and students of the Jewish Theological Seminary of America, of the Hebrew Union College, of the Dropsie College for Hebrew and Cognate Learning and members of faculties and graduate students of universities in the United States. Professional schools and institutions of research, including hospital, municipal, State and Federal laboratories, are considered as graduate schools of universities.

The essay must be an original work and not one printed or published heretofore; thorough, popular in presentation and expressed in good English. It should not be less than 40,000 words in length or more than 60,000 words. The manuscript must be legibly written or typewritten, on one side of quarto size paper and with ample margins. The manuscript should be addressed to the office of the society at 1201 North Broad street, Philadelphia, Pa., and marked "For the Prize Competition Department." It should contain a sealed envelope giving the assumed name and the real name and address of the competitor. The society will publish the winning essay and will acquire all rights to the essay under the terms of the award. Manuscripts must be in by Nov. 1, 1922.

Galloway Organ Recital.

The program for Charles Galloway's free organ recital at 3 o'clock this afternoon at Graham Memorial Chapel, Washington University, consists of Guilmant's Fugue in D, Schumann's Canon in B Minor, Mailling's "Gethsemane," "Rogers' Suite, No. 1; Kinder's "In Springtime," Hollins' "Benediction Nuptiale," and Mailly's "Marche Solonelle."

Georgetown, once the county seat of Pettis, where Vest, a young bachelor, lived at the tavern while he devoted his time to hunting and fishing and practicing law. Judge Henry Lamm tells the story.

"In 1854, Vest went back to Kentucky and married, bringing his wife to Georgetown. It is said that Vest had nettled his landlord a little by intimating it was unsafe to eat his pies without first pounding on the crust with a knife handle to scare out the cockroaches. Be that as it may, the said landlord, Capt. Kidd, felt no occasion to be otherwise than frank, and, when Vest brought his bride to the house and took him to her for an introduction and proudly asked what he thought of her, Kidd replied: 'By Gum! George! You must have cotched her in a pinch for a husband.'"

Arrow Rock Tavern Survives.

"One Missouri tavern has not only survived Missouri's first century of statehood, but, with the marking of historic trails and the promise of good roads to encourage leisurely motor travel, has entered on a new era of popularity. The fame of the tavern at Arrow Rock is growing rapidly with the tourist. Built of brick burned by slaves long before the Civil War, with wide fire places, with solid walnut wood finish, with antlers of Missouri elk, Arrow Rock tavern charms the visitor today. Patriotic women have added relics and draperies. What has been done at Arrow Rock with such popular approval, suggests the possibilities of the renaissance of the Missouri tavern to accommodate the travel by motor certain to develop with paved highways."

PLUTO WATER
America's Physic

AN AVIATOR'S life is filled with hazards. Yet his risk is not one bit greater than yours when your system is undermined by dangerous constipation. When constipation holds you in its grip, sickness and disease are invited momentarily. You cannot too quickly rid your body of this dread enemy.

You take a physic—yes—but how soon will it act? Time is vital. Germs multiply by millions in a clogged intestinal tract. Old-fashioned, slow-acting laxatives endanger your health. For sure, quick results—take only a water laxative, which will really flush the system.

Physicians everywhere recommend Pluto Water, because it acts promptly. The minerals in Pluto are never-failing. The water helps gently to flush away all impurities. Relief is pleasant, certain, complete.

Pluto Water is beneficial in treatment of kidney, liver and stomach troubles, rheumatism and nervous disorders. Bottled at French Lick Springs, Ind.

The Doctor's Advice

by Dr. Lewis Baker

"Bad Nerves" writes: "Is it possible to find a medicine which by its tonic or nutritive powers will bring the glow of health and ambition back to a man who has everything in the world but health and happiness? I am dull, forgetful, despondent, weak, trembling, short of breath and suffer more or less with pain in spine and back of head."

Answer: Your condition indicates the need of a strong, harmless tonic nutritive to restore nerve equilibrium, which in turn fortifies and strengthens the organs of nutrition, thus vitalizing the blood and promoting new cell and tissue to take care of the waste forces. Cadomene tablets, packed in sealed tubes with full directions, are recommended in all such cases.

Mrs. L. O. writes: "My husband is surely afflicted with some kidney disease. He has become weak and suffers with headache and pains in his back and groins. Pains are like rheumatism. His ankles swell and his feet seem to be tired all the time. Some days he has chills and no appetite. Please prescribe."

Answer: His symptoms indicate derangement of kidneys and should not be neglected. I would advise Balmwort tablets, a compound well suited to such cases. Obtain in sealed tubes with directions for home use.

Adele writes: "My hair is combing out, my scalp itches and dandruff is much annoying, and I want something to cure these conditions."

Answer: For hair and scalp troubles I have never found anything to equal the beneficial results of a thorough treatment of plain yellow Minyol. It is cooling, cleansing and invigorating, and thousands now use it regularly as a hair and scalp tonic.

S. E. writes: "Two years ago I used your great prescription for kidney trouble, and it wholly overcame the trouble. I want medicine now for constipation and impure blood, for I am a sight with pimples that make big lumpy sores."

Answer: I would advise the taking of Sulpherb tablets (not sulphur) for several months to purify the system.

"Once More" asks: "I seem to have indigestion and bad blood, that has brought on very painful rheumatism. Can you help me?"

Answer: If your condition is of long standing, I advise elixir Chin-Cea compound, an especially good preparation, that promotes healthful changes of the blood. Leading druggists have it.

R. K. writes: "Can a sufferer from bronchial trouble be relieved? Doctors do not seem to help me. What would you suggest?"

Answer: To relieve chronic cold, sore throat, bronchitis, I would advise the use of concentrated essence Mentho-Laxene. Purchase this at any drug store in 2½-oz. packages and mix according to directions given on bottle and you will very shortly be relieved. This will not only relieve, but will correct, and is very pleasant to take.

"Myrtle" writes: "Owing to my extreme thinness I am frequently embarrassed by slighting remarks of young people. Can you prescribe a safe remedy to increase my weight?"

Answer: I have so many gratifying reports from the users of three-grain Hypo-Nuclane Tablets that I have become to regard these valuable little tablets as a specific and prescribe them to all who are anemic, thin, wasting, nervous and debilitated.

FEWER PRISONERS IN 16 STATES THAN IN 1914

Decrease Not Uniform, However, Some Showing Increase, Others Same Number.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, March 19.—Prison population of the middle and southwestern United States has decreased 12.4 per cent in the last six years, according to reports collected by the Associated Press from State penitentiaries in 16 states.

The decrease amounted to 2729 prisoners. The total penitentiary population of the 16 states in 1914 was 21,947, in 1920 19,218. Date of the comparative figures was for the most part Dec. 1 of each year.

Falling off in the prison population of the section is equivalent to more than the combined prisoners of Iowa, Kansas, Wisconsin and North and South Dakota in 1914.

Decrease Not Uniform.

Decrease, however, was shown to be not uniform throughout the territory. Six states had the reverse to show, reporting an increase, while one presented exactly the same figures. The decrease came from nine states.

The advance in the six states amounted to 834 prisoners, while the decrease in the nine states aggregated 3563 prisoners. This gave the total net decrease of 2729.

States whose penitentiaries reported fewer convicts than six years age were Arkansas, Indiana, Iowa, Kentucky, Minnesota, Missouri, North Dakota, Texas and Wisconsin. States that had the contrary story to tell were Illinois, Kansas, Michigan, Nebraska, Ohio and Oklahoma. South Dakota was the State whose prison population on Dec. 1 of the two years was identical.

The largest decrease in any State was shown by Kentucky, its penitentiary inmates falling off 818, or 37 per cent. In this State 1914 figures were not obtainable, and the nearest date was Dec. 1, 1916, when the State Penitentiary held 2182 convicts, as against 1364 on Dec. 1 of last year.

The largest increase was noted in Ohio, where convicts at the State Penitentiary increased 291, or 17 per cent, in the six-year period, specifically from 1702 to 1993.

Decrease in 1920.

In the last year alone, from Dec. 1, 1919, to Dec. 1, 1920, the total prison population of the 16 states fell off 702 prisoners, or 3½ per cent.

Figures from the states follow:

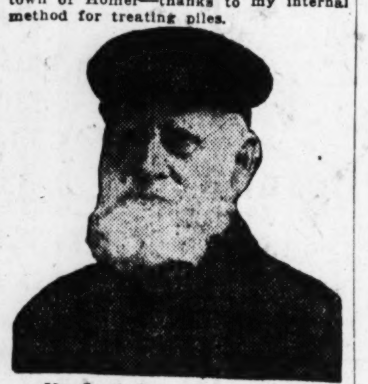
Cured His Piles

Now 88 Years Old But works At Trade of Blacksmith and Feels Younger Since Piles Are Gone.

The oldest active blacksmith in Michigan is still pounding his anvil in the town of Homer—thanks to my internal method for treating piles.



Mr. Jacob Lyon, Homer, Mich.

I wish that you could hear him tell of his many experiences with ointments, salves, dilators, etc., before he tried my method. Here is a letter just received from him:

Mr. E. R. Page, Marshall, Mich.

Dear Sir: I want you to know what your treatment has done for me. I had suffered with piles for many years and used suppositories and all kinds of treatments, but never got relief until I tried yours. Am now completely cured. Although I am 88 years old, and the oldest active blacksmith in Michigan, I feel years younger since the piles have left me. I will surely recommend it to all I know who suffer this way. You can use my letter any way you wish and I hope it will lead others to try this wonderful remedy.

Yours truly,
J. L. LYON.

There are thousands of afflicted people suffering with piles who have never yet tried the one sensible way of treating them.

Don't be cut. Don't waste money on foolish salves, ointments, dilators, etc., but send today for a Free Trial of my internal method for the healing of Piles.

No matter whether your case is of long standing or recent development—whether it is occasional or permanent—you should send for this free trial treatment.

No matter where you live—no matter what your age or occupation—if you are troubled with piles, my method will relieve you promptly.

COMPOSER EXPLAINS THEATRICAL VENTURE

Says Co-operaton of Theater Workers Will Bring Better Understanding of Art.

Correspondence of the Associated Press.

ROME, March 1.—Pietro Mascagni, the operatic composer, is enthusiastic about the new organization, the Neapolitan Artsitic Co-operative between Theater Workers which he recently helped to form at Naples and believes it soon will be in a financial position to take over the management of the San Carlo Theater. This is one of the largest theaters in Europe and was founded by Charles III in 1737.

"The moment this is possible," he said, on his return from Naples to Rome, "the profits going to theater workers will be such that they will be spurred to produce their best ability. We shall be helped by the fact that the San Carlo Theater is municipal property.

Must Interest Workers.

"The great problem which we have to solve today in Italy as elsewhere is that of changing the status of the laboring classes and give them a deep interest in the success of the enterprises in which they are engaged.

"That is what I tried and succeeded in doing at Leghorn (Mascagni's native city), when the men occupied the works there. I was accused of being a bolshevist because I put myself at their head, remembering that I am myself the son of a workingman and that I have risen to my present position only through work. I preached the sacred duty of labor which alone can regenerate humanity and those men performed miracles."

Purpose of Co-operative.

In defining the purpose of the Co-operative in his address to artists and theater workers, Mascagni said: "We desire to teach these generous people (the Italians) every day and hour more of the cult of beauty, by the institution of a true theater of the people with great spectacles, both lyrical and dramatic and great orchestral concerts. We desire to transform the old popular theaters and reconstruct them according to economic and artistic ideals, to combine the beauty of the surroundings with possibility for all purses. We desire to take over communal theaters in order that in them the citizens may have the right to enjoy the highest artistic manifestations of the day; nor shall access to the great spectacles be monopolized by few privileged by fortune but it shall be the unlimited right, of every good and simple soul who loves art.

"When this program is carried out, the artist will be no more the eternal legendary gypsy, nor will he need to drown in the disorder of an irregular life, his ancient, implacable poverty."

Mascagni looks as young as ever, although his hair begins to be marked with silver threads. He receives his visitors in grass-green pajamas with red revers and buttons.

MIRAGE OF BEAUTIFUL CITY SEEN ON LAKE AT CHICAGO

It Appeared Late in Afternoon and Was Visible to All on Lake Front.

CHICAGO, March 19.—Out on the lake, to the southeast of the city, Chicagoans saw a beautiful city, one day this week. It was there for more than an hour, visible first about 4:30 in the afternoon. Many rubbed their eyes dubiously and wondered if they were dreaming.

James Chamberlin, a professor in the geography department of the University of Chicago, explained that it was a mirage.

"When a layer of cold air is directly above a layer of warm air and the rays of light are penetrating both layers, a mirage will be caused, as the rays which are carrying the reflection of the city break at the point of the abrupt break in temperature. This elevates the reflection normally on the lake above its natural level. The same effect can be had by putting a pencil in a glass of water. The pencil seems broken. The mirage at this time may be due to the extraordinary warm weather we have had conflicting with the usual cold layer above."

The mirage, which was unusually clear, was noticed and admired by all who walked along the lake.

MUSIC CLUB TO RAISE MONEY

Will Give Part of $5000 Prize for Best Oratorio.

At last week's meeting of the University Musical Research Club, Mrs. J. A. Goodwin, who is a member of the Board of the State Federation, presented the plan of the National Federation of Music Clubs to raise a large sum of money with which to carry on the work of the organization and to award a national prize of $5000 for the best American oratorio, the "Apocalypse." The plan to be followed by every federated music club in the country is that every club member be responsible for collecting at least one foot of dimes, which equals $1.70.

DETROIT ORCHESTRA ON APRIL 1

First Symphony of Brahms to Feature Program at Odeon.

The Detroit Symphony Orchestra, directed by Ossip Gabrilowitsch, which will pay its first St. Louis visit with a concert to be given at the Odeon on the evening of April 1, is to present as its chief offering the First Symphony of Brahms, it is announced.

Other numbers said to be settled on are Debussy's "L'Apres-midi d'une Faune" and the overture to Weber's Oberon. Rimsky-Korsakoff's "Capriccio Espagnol" is being considered for the program.

Five Thousand St. Louis District Folks Who Are Not Buying Fur Coats for Ponzis and Wallingfords

Our neighbor, The Star, reporting recently that St. Louis men and women had been swindled out of $10,000,000 last year in fake "investments," advised its readers to be "satisfied with less than 8 per cent on your money and you won't buy fur coats and limousines for the Ponzis and Wallingfords."

Union Electric's 5000 St. Louis district preferred stock owners didn't lose any of that $10,000,000. They drew cash dividends of $7 a year on each $100 share, payable $1.75 every three months. Their shares are worth exactly what they paid for them—full par value—and are always salable at that value.

Financing its constant growth in large part by selling preferred shares direct to investors here at home, Union Electric will give other thousands of St. Louis men and women an opportunity to share its seven per cent cash dividends. Of $8,000,000 authorized, Union Electric is now selling the fourth million, with the State's approval, for the public service.

The price is $100 a share for cash; $102 on a ten-payment plan, under which buyers pay $10.20 a month for ten months on each share, draw 5% interest on installment payments, and can withdraw all payments, WITH INTEREST, any time before the last is due.

Telephone or mail us your address and let us send a salesman, or a circular, as you prefer, to explain this offer in detail.

Old Sores—Ulcers!

Chin-Cea Blood

Avoid the use of mercury and potash if your tainted, vitiated or scrofulous blood is due to a perverted process of elimination.

Overcome your trouble safe and surely by treating the blood with nature's medicines of roots, herbs, bark and leaves, made into a palatable, concentrated form, widely used as elixir Chin Cea. It gradually brings about healthful changes in the blood and tissues of flesh, so that chronic Old Sores, Ulcers, Running Abscesses, Blotched Skin, Eczema are gradually healed as the poisons are driven out of the blood.

Rheumatism and other blood and skin disorders yield to this alterative medicine, as it is safe to take indefinitely, being purely vegetable and non-injurious to the stomach, bowels, etc.

Dr. Lewis Baker has prescribed elixir Chin Cea for many years, with astonishing success, in a wide class of blood ailments.

After Colds and Grippe Comes Kidney and Bladder Ailments, Which Balmwort Soothingly Corrects

A tragic train of suffering follows quickly, whenever the kidneys fail, even slightly, in acting to filter the waste and poison from the system. Be ever on your guard, for neglect of this function sometimes proves fatal. Just the simple, soothing, balmy effect, that comes from using will soon banish backache, headache, restlessness, hot flashes and chills, with pains and pressure in bladder region, pains in groin, swelling of feet and ankles, rheumatism twinges, lassitude and a tried, "all-in" feeling that indicates perhaps a "kidney-poisoned" system.

Mr. John Shore, 1151 South A Street, Fort Smith, Ark., writes: "I have been taking your Balmwort Tablets for a very bad case of kidney trouble, and am glad to say they have done me a great amount of good. I had to get up six or seven times a night, but since taking them I can sleep peacefully all night and do not have any more trouble. Thanking you, etc."

Alice Trobough, 5627 South Twenty-fourth St., Omaha, Neb., writes: "I have used one tube of your Balmwort Tablets and find that they are the best I have ever used for kidney and bladder trouble."

Women's Clubs' Endowment Fund.

By the Associated Press.

BENTON, Ill., March 19.—The Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs has practically completed raising of a $25,000 endowment fund, a task it has been engaged in for several months. Mrs. Mary Ward Hart, the federation's president, announced here today. Thousands of new members have been enrolled, until the federation has county and local organizations in all but four counties of the State, Mrs. Hart reported.

PROVISIONS OF COUNTY UNIT SCHOOL MEASURE

Bill, Now Awaiting Governor's Signature, Had Stormy Passage in Legislature.

By the Associated Press.

JEFFERSON CITY, March 18.—The county unit school bill, which has been passed by both branches of the Legislature, and now is awaiting the signature of the Governor, had one of the stormiest passages through the General Assembly of any law that ever survived. Repeated attempts were made to kill the measure, to nullify parts of it, and finally to insert a provision for county option in the matter of putting it into effect.

As finally enacted, the bill provides for a central board of education for each county in the State to have jurisdiction over all schools in the county except the first-class high schools. Present school boards are not to be abolished entirely, but will be known as local school boards. The county board is to consist of six members, three from each county judicial district, and not more than one from each township.

Powers Entrusted to Board.

The chief powers entrusted to the county boards are:

To elect county superintendents for a term of four years and fix the salary for the office.

To contract with teachers elected by local school boards and to fix their salaries.

To elect the assistants and attendance officer in the office of the county superintendent.

To change boundary lines of local districts and to combine local districts.

To establish and maintain high schools.

To prepare expense budgets for schools of county districts.

To levy a tax of 40 cents on the $100 valuation and to submit to the voters proposals for levies of higher rates within the limits of the Constitution.

To issue bonds as provided in section 11127, R. S. Mo., 1919.

Special State Aid.

Special State aid is provided for districts that vote 65 cents levy on the $100 valuation, and then do not have sufficient funds to operate their schools properly.

The powers and duties of local boards under the provisions of the new law include:

To prepare budgets showing needs for teachers' wages, janitors' wages, building repairs, etc.

To select teacher or teachers from list of eligibles furnished by County Superintendent.

To select janitors and other employes.

To have the care and custody of school buildings and property, purchase supplies and perform such other duties as are not specifically delegated to the county board.

The bill provides for eight months of school for every school in the State.

The slogan of the sponsors of the bill has been from the beginning, "Equal Educational Opportunity for Every Child in the State." Gov. Hyde accepted the measure as part of his administration program because it was the result of a conference of the leading educators of the State held here early in January at his invitation.

CAMPAIGN FOR MEMBERSHIP OF 17,750 PLANNED BY LEGION

Officers and Chairmen of Committees After Meeting Say Membermership Here Is Small.

Tentative plans for a drive for 17,750 members for the American Legion posts here were approved yesterday at a meeting of officers and chairmen of special committees of the legion. William S. Bedal, chairman of the City Executive Committee, said that there were about 7500 members in the city. This membership, he said, was not in proportion to the membership in other large cities.

"The American Legion stands for law and order and 100 per cent Americanism," he explained. "The organization is non-political, nonsectarian and non-partisan. We want all men who wore the uniform with honor during the world war to join us in our work."

There are 30 American Legion posts in St. Louis. A general headquarters is maintained at 403 Security Building. During the past year more than 200 ex-service men were assisted in getting work.

BRAHMIN TO SPEAK ON INDIA

Dr. D. C. Mukerji to Appear at Shel-and America, will give two lectures at Sheldon Memorial tomorrow and Tuesday, on "The India of Tagore and Kipling" and "The Inner Life of the Hindus."

Mukerji is a Brahmin, who, since he left his native land, where he was a student at the University of Calcutta, has studied at Tokio and at Leland Stanford University, of which he is a graduate. He has a perfect command of English and has written three volumes in that language. The lectures will be under the auspices of the Ethical Society.

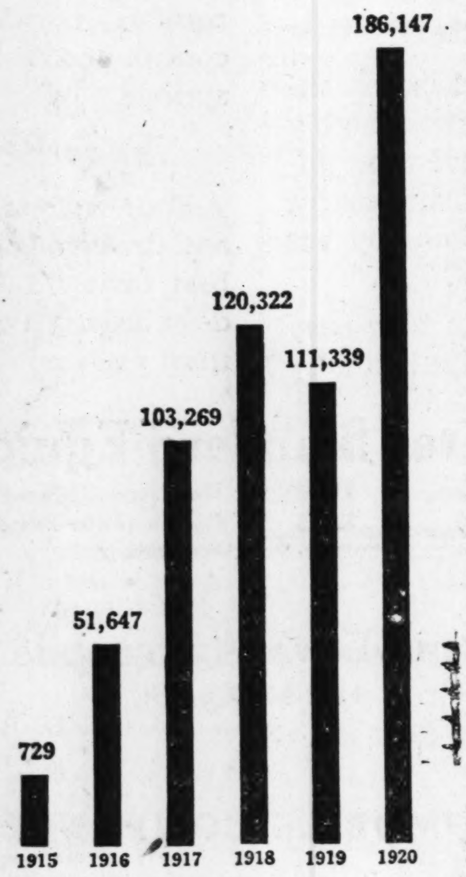
50,000 CHEVROLET "Four-Nineties"

CHEVROLET



Chevrolet Sales Record

THE production schedule of Chevrolet "Four-Ninety" Models for the seven months from January 1st to July 31st, 1921, is fifty thousand cars.

To each retail purchaser of a new Model "Four-Ninety" car at present list prices, we will make the following cash payments,—"Four-Ninety" Touring $70; "Four-Ninety" Roadster $70; "Four-Ninety" Light Delivery Wagon $70; "Four-Ninety" Chassis $70; "Four-Ninety" Coupe $100; "Four-Ninety" Sedan $100; provided the Chevrolet Motor Companies manufacture and sell fifty thousand new Chevrolet Model "Four-Ninety" cars between January 1st, 1921, and July 31st, 1921. This offer to be subject to the terms as set forth in full in the refund certificate which will be delivered to each purchaser.

This refund represents savings in material prices under present readjusted conditions, which savings can be made provided Chevrolet factories continue to operate on the estimated average quantity production basis.

It is in keeping with the Chevrolet policy to make the price of its product as low as quality manufacture on a large scale will permit. It is in keeping with the Chevrolet purpose of providing quick, convenient, economical transportation at a cost within reach of those who want an automobile.

Fifty thousand cars is the minimum which Chevrolet engineers estimate will secure substantial savings in cost in manufacture. These savings will be passed on to the purchasers of these fifty thousand cars.

Each purchaser of a Model "Four-Ninety" will receive a certificate from his dealer, or from the Chevrolet retail store manager. This certificate will be redeemed as indicated on its face.

The entire plan is a straightforward business proposition presented in a straightforward way. Whether you are in the market for a new car or not, you must not fail to learn the details of this unique and simple plan. It offers to every man of sound business judgment an opportunity to take advantage of the best automobile value obtainable.

Retail purchasers of Model "Four-Ninety" cars since October 1st, 1920, will receive their certificates through their local dealers or retail stores on application to them.

Production results will be announced not later than August 10th, 1921. Certificates will be subject to payment according to their terms, thereafter, up to September 15th, 1921.

MEETING OF REO DEALERS IN ST. LOUIS

"Reasons for Reo" was the title of a five-reel picture shown by the Kardell Motor Car Co. to more than 40 Reo dealers, who came to St. Louis to attend a special dealers convention last Friday at the Statler. The meeting in St. Louis was one of a series being held all over the country by the Reo factory to discuss sales plans for the coming season.

P. L. Emerson, assistant general sales manager of the Reo factory came to St. Louis for the occasion and addressed the dealers, telling them of the plans of the factory for the future.

The film is a complete review of the various steps in the manufacturing of Reo passenger cars and "speed wagons." It shows the various departments in full operation and emphasizes the care taken in final inspection. In regard to the executive department it brings out the fact that every director of the company is active in factory management.

AUTO NEWS and GOSSIP

CHEVROLET MAKES NEW PRICE POLICY

The Chevrolet Motor Co. in a recent announcement deals with the present price problem in a most sensible and logical way.

It seems that a part of the company's program is based on the production of 50,000 model "four-ninety" cars. This model is well known and there are about 500,000 in use. The company proposes to build the 50,000 before August 1, 1921, and if it reaches this number, and it has every reason to believe that it is going to be successful, each purchaser of an open car of the "four-ninety" type will receive a refund of $70, and those who buy a closed car will receive a refund of $100.

A certificate setting forth the terms of the plan will be given to each retail purchaser and the total number of model "four-nineties" produced by Chevrolet factories during the period which governs the proposed plan, will be published not later than Aug. 19, 1921.

Those who purchased model "four-ninety" Chevrolets under the Chevrolet Motor Co.'s price guarantee of last October benefit by the refund plan.

During the period of readjustment, the Chevrolet Motor Co. refrained from making any price change. They knew that a drastic cut, based on a guess as to future conditions, could have only one effect—the destruction of the nation's buying power.

But today conditions have changed. Raw material prices have found new low levels. Inventories have been readjusted to the bottom of the market and it is therefore possible for the company to make a definite proposition based on quantity production.

REX MOTOR CO. TO SELL JACKSON LINE

The franchise for the Jackson Six for Southern Illinois and Eastern Missouri has been taken over by the Rex Motor Car Company, according to an announcement made last week by Theodore L. Bonroe, the manager of the local company.

The Jackson line is not new to St. Louis, many of them now being driven by St. Louisans. All of the models in the 1921 line are strikingly original. Special attention has been given to the coach work and finishing, all bodies being built in factory's own shops. The most pronounced innovation is the adoption of the keystone shaped radiator.

The Jackson line for 1921 offers a wide range of body types. Two closed cars are made, a four-passenger coupe and a five-passenger sedan, each of which have four doors. A four-door passenger sportster and a five-passenger California special are built with the permanent top of the style often called the California top. Two other five passenger open models are included.

The first shipment of new models has already been received and are on display at the Rex salesroom.

LEXINGTON TO MAKE SPECIAL ROADSTER

The Lexington Motor Co. have announced a new roadster model, a custom-built, two-passenger car of new and striking lines. C. C. Conrad of the Superior Motor Car Co., local Lexington distributers, reports great interest in the new car where ever it has been shown.

This roadster is one of the really new and striking models to be brought out this year. The body was designed by Hays & Miller of New York, builders of custom coach work for Lancia, Renault, and other foreign cars.

It has the long, racy lines that mark the true roadster with a specially designed and copyrighted Ansted radiator; special windshield, both glass panels of which are removable or adjustable to any angle, and crowned fenders, the various units blending into a remarkably harmonious whole.

The roadster is equipped with the Ansted engine, with which the Lexington specials that won first and second at Pike's Peak were powered. The wheelbase is 128 inches, the chassis being the same as used in other Series "T" Lexington models.

ACCESSORY MEN INDORSE BETTER BUSINESS PLAN

William King, manager of the Automobile Club of St. Louis was the principal speaker at the meeting of the Motor Accessory Trade Association at the Claridge Hotel, Tuesday night. King's topic was "The Strategy of Salesmanship."

E. J. Brennan, manager of the Better Business Bureau of St. Louis, explained its purposes and its plans toward the automobile and tire business, and the unanimous indorsement of the association was given to the Better Business Bureau.

Four new members were elected, Koochook Co., A. W. Rosen & Co. Madden & Morrison File Co. and Houer Sales Co.

Apperson to Have Branch.

The Apperson automobile is shortly to be represented in St. Louis by a factory branch. This branch is to be known as the Apperson-St. Louis Motor Co. T. E. Jarrard of the Apperson Co., which is located at Kokomo, Ind., is expected in St. Louis within the next six or seven days, when he will select a location for the company and employ a local manager.

How to Use the Clutch.

Always let the clutch in gradually. Never release it suddenly, because this will jerk the whole driving mechanism, and set up unnecessary strains, is the advice given by Motor Life.

Converting Carriage Factories.

One of the specialties of the Dort Motor Car Co. appears to be converting carriage factories into automobile plants. The company followed the Durant-Dort Co., and last year absorbed the Lull Carriage Co. of Kalamazoo, that factory now being the body-building division. Meanwhile the Gray-Dort Co. of Chatham, Ontario, has taken over the William Gray's Sons-Campbell Co., one of the old vehicle concerns of the Dominion.

"Klimbing Kate" holds the world's altitude record for automobiles. Counting no summit less than 4000 feet high, the driver of this Dort touring car piled up a record of 150,000 feet, almost 30 miles, last summer.

FEDERAL
Double Cable Base Tires

Good Wear Brings "Good Will"

Where there is will there is wear.

And where there is good wear there is always "good will."

As unvarying as a rule in arithmetic is the quality of Federal Tires.

Fine materials, plus skillful workmanship, make good the purpose which protects your every Federal purchase.

It soon becomes evident to every Federal tire user that Federal Tires are profitable in mileage.

Once motorists learn this they seldom if ever use any other tire. They realize that the only way to get Federal advantages is to use Federal tires.

And the only way to enjoy the Federal fair dealing policy is to deal with Federal Dealers.

CLEVELAND SIX
Thousands Know It As "The Better Car"

Wins Distinction By Its Unusual Qualities

THE Cleveland has been in the motor market less than two years but in that time it has established genuine popularity from coast to coast. For in that time it has been called upon to do all the things expected of an automobile, and it has done them with honor. Today the Cleveland has satisfied owners in every part of the country.

It Makes Its Friends By Its Character

Featuring the Cleveland is the exclusive Cleveland motor, most highly refined of the overhead valve type, pliant and powerful. Its unusual degree of acceleration and fuel economy are subjects of much comment.

You will be interested in how easy the Cleveland is to handle, the instantly positive action of its brakes, and the comfort in riding which is so much contributed to by its long underslung springs.

Four Beautiful Bodies

Four splendidly built, upholstered and finished bodies, are pleasing to the best taste. Let us suggest that you defer buying any other light six or four until you know the Cleveland.

PENING SALE OF AUTO ACCESSORIES

Presents Value-Giving of an Exceptional Character—Sale Begins Monday

MORE than six months ago we began preparing for this Opening Sale of Auto Accessories to acquaint you with our new and enlarged department. The result is we have assembled the most comprehensive collection of Auto Accessories offered in several years at such extremely low prices. We cannot emphasize too strongly the importance of attending this sale, as the many unusual features will be of great interest to every autoist. Among them the introductory offering of Superior Cord Tires and the special factory demonstrations, in which the makers of various accessories have sent us expert representatives to demonstrate and explain their devices. Of course, all special prices are subject to stock on hand.

Superior Cord Tires

In an Introductory Sale at Prices That Are Very Special

WE are the exclusive distributors for these tires in the City of St. Louis, and to demonstrate their worth to you we offer a limited quantity of them in this sale at prices less than they are ordinarily sold to dealers. Superior Cord Tires are built by cord tire specialists — the factory making nothing but extra heavy quality cord casings which carry a guarantee of 8000 miles. These Tires are very flexible — their flexibility eliminates stone bruising, and they make your car ride easier. The thick, durable tread has perfect non-skid features, insuring safety. A factory representative will explain how these wonderful tires are made.

Dealers are familiar with the market prices on high-grade Cord Tires, and will at once recognize that the prices we are asking for Superior Cord Tires are very special. Owners of delivery wagons and garage men will find it profitable to buy their Tires in this sale.

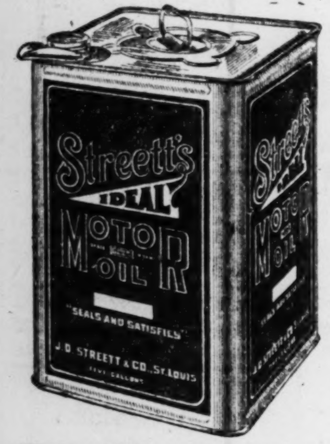
BEWARE of the "penny saved" on Motor Oil. Streett's Ideal proves its rock-bottom economy and satisfaction in the long run, by the things it will do that cheap Oil won't, and the things it won't do that cheap Oil will.



It will give you more power on less gas and oil.

It will prevent compression loss by making a complete seal between piston and cylinder walls.

It will give you a sweeter, smoother running engine — more speed, more pep.

It won't break down at high "cylinder temperature."

It won't heap carbon on your piston heads or foul your spark plugs.

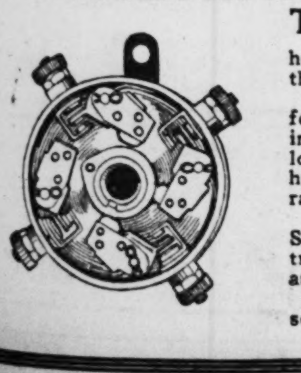
Gladiator High Tension Timer, $4.75

Give Your Ford More Speed—More Power



TO develop power and speed from any motor, each cylinder must receive a hot spark the instant the piston reaches the proper point.

If fired a second later the maximum force of the explosion is wasted—resulting in loss of power, loss of speed and loss of gasoline. For this reason all high-priced motors have a very elaborate electrical system.

The Gladiator High Tension Time Saver for Ford cars, trucks and Fordson tractors, is based on the same principle as that used in the most expensive cars.

Guaranteed for 50,000 miles of service. (Fourth Floor.)

"Leader" Pure Gum Guaranteed Inner Tubes

THE Inner Tube is the most vital part of the tire, and the average car owner has learned from experience that it is not economy to buy an inferior grade Tube. Doing so simply leads to expense, trouble and annoyance.

The "Leader" Inner Tubes are the best it is possible to produce at any price, because they are made with a greater degree of strength, heat and wear resistance than any other tube. Note the sizes and unusually low prices.

SITES BOUGHT FOR 2 MOVIE THEATERS TO COST $145,000

Plans Disclosed for One at Wellston and the Other at Tower Grove and Manchester Avenues.

Plans were announced yesterday for two moving picture theaters, one to be erected at Wellston and the other at Manchester and Tower Grove avenues.

The Wellston Theater Co., recently incorporated by Fred Robinson, William, John and Robert Smith, has purchased, through Elmore Cave & Co., 67 feet frontage on the south side of Easton avenue, in Wellston, opposite the City Hall, for a moving picture theater to cost $65,000. The price paid for the site was $25,000.

Specifications provide for a modern building to embrace, besides the theater, stores on the ground floor and offices above. Construction of the proposed building will be started as soon as the site can be made available. Work of tearing down the building now occupying the site will begin at once.

$80,000 Movie House Planned.

A site 150x150 feet at Tower Grove and Manchester avenues, formerly used for a tent show and airdome, has been purchased by M. J. Walsh, together with merchants in that vicinity, for a modern moving picture theater to cost $80,000. The site was owned by George P. Zeller. Construction is to be started at once.

Purchases of apartment buildings for both investment and speculation are of increased volume, competition for holdings of this character being decidedly keen, according to Henry R. Weisels, vice president of the Weisels-Gerhart Real Estate Co.

This company reports having effected the sale of the Irving apartments at 5595 Waterman avenue, to William P. Hawkins, for $25,000, for the Drannek Realty Co., and of the Claire apartments, at 5532 Waterman avenue, to S. M. Lederer, for $27,500, for Annie L. Nute of New York.

The Weisels-Gerhart company also sold the building at 5609-11 Delmar boulevard for $30,000, to Adolph Rosenfeld. The building has two stores and two apartments of five rooms, and yields an annual rental of $3600. The lot is 50x160 feet. The sale was for Mrs. Harriet D. Walker.

Competition Decidedly Keen.

As showing the competition characterizing the demand for investments of this character, Lederer was offered a profit of $1000 10 minutes after he had received his earnest money contract, while Hawkins was offered a profit of $500.

The apartments are of three-family capacity, each containing seven rooms, two baths, sun parlor, sleeping porches and brick garages; lot 40x180 feet, and each building yielding an annual income of $4500. Both buildings were sold within 15 minutes after they were inspected. They will be managed by the Weisels-Gerhart company.

The Bush-Burns company has sold the southeast corner of Cook and Newstead avenues, consisting of 10 flats of three rooms each, to O. P. Duncan of Arlington, Mo., for $20,000. This company also sold 6918 Columbia avenue, a six-room bungalow, to E. Porter Peers, represented by James Campbell and Le Grand Jones.

BATTERY CORPORATION LEASES ADVERTISING BUILDING SPACE

The Seventeenth Street Realty Co., owners of the Advertising Building, Locust and Seventeenth streets, has leased to the St. Louis Battery Sales and Service Co. the ground floor of that structure, comprising 7000 square feet, occupancy to begin April 1.

The lesee is a new corporation formed to handle batteries made by the Westinghouse Battery Co. and will be distributor for Southern and Eastern Missouri. Gus Blair, president, and T. B. Outhouse, secretary of the company, are business men of Murphysboro, Ill. In addition to a wholesale business, the company will conduct a service department with branches throughout the city.

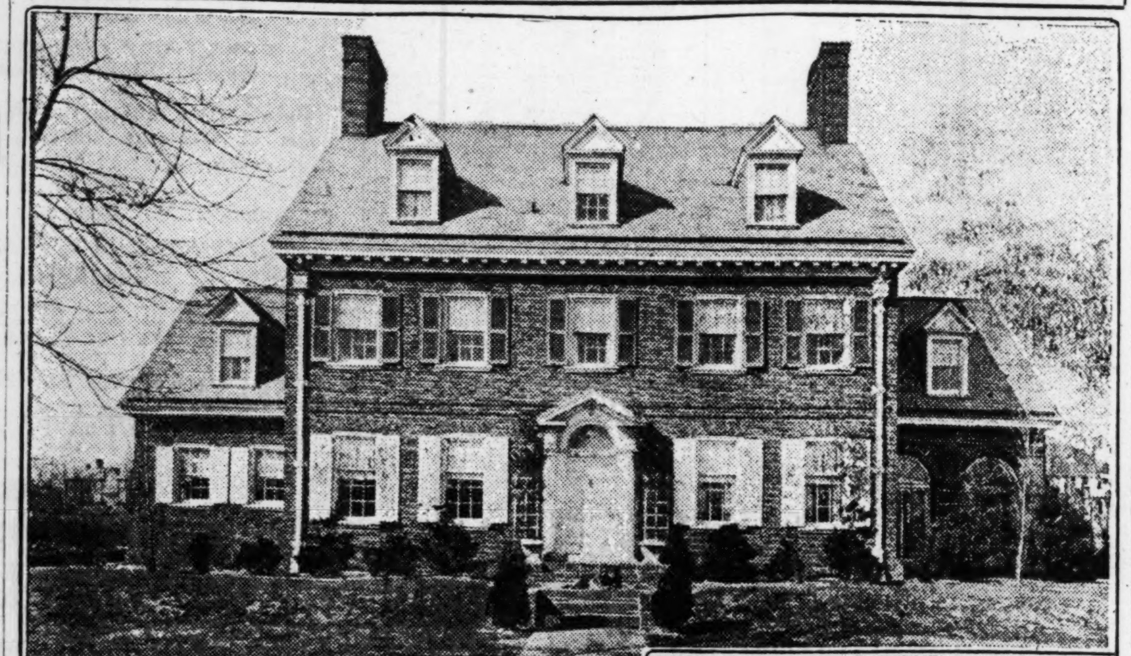
11 LOTS AND FIVE HOMES SOLD BY WEBSTER GROVES TRUST CO.

The Webster Groves Trust Co. reports an active week, with an unusual number of lots being sold, indicating great building activity in taht attractive suburb. The company reports having sold 11 building lots and five attractive homes.

Locust Street Building Leased.

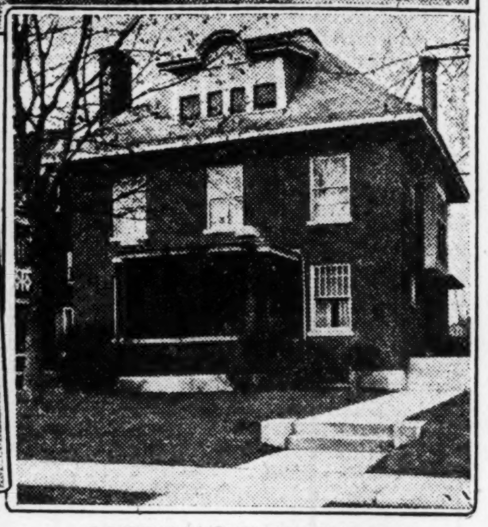
The Martin-Breitt Real Estate Co. has leased the first floor and basement at 515 Locust street to the McCoy-Weber Jewelry Co., now at Sixth and Locust streets. The new quarters contain about six times the floor area it now has. The lessor is Byron Moser. The Martin-Breitt Co. also leased the second and third floors of the same building to the King's Credit Clothing Co., a new concern.

Some of Sales Which Emphasize Spring Demand for Realty



6409 WYDOWN BLD..

100 ARMDEL



6235 WASHINGTON AVE.

With the arrival of spring on schedule time renewed demand is reported for residences.

A feature of the week was the purchase by George H. Shields Jr., vice president of the Streett Oil Co., of the home of Robert Wallace, 6409 Wydown boulevard, St. Louis County, through Albert T. Terry & Co. The price paid, it is understood, was around $45,000.

The house is of red brick and white mortar. It has 12 rooms, exclusive of sun room and sleeping porch, all finished with hardwood floors. The equipment includes a hot-water heating plant, while there is a large garage with a side drive. The dimensions of the lot are 100x200 feet.

Hillcrest Home Sold.

Another notable purchase was that by Milton Kahn of the house of Theodore Lucks, 100 Arundel place, in Hillcrest. The price paid was $30,000, the transaction having been effected by William P. Little of the Edward L. Bakewell office.

The house embodies many of the newer ideas of a home, and is conceded by architects to be one of the most artistic and attractive residences in St. Louis, according to Bakewell.

The home of Dr. H. S. Hughes, at 6235 Washington avenue, in Parkview, has been purchased by Walter C. Hecker of the Curtis Manufacturing Co. The reported price was $25,000. The Hewson Realty Co. made the sale.

The house has 12 rooms and is modern in every respect.

APARTMENTS SOLD TO INVESTOR FOR $37,000

Henry Flach Holding at Spring and McDonald Avenues Bought by A. Dindorf and Wife.

The Christian Brinkop Real Estate Co. announces the sale of the Springview and Fanning Apartments at the southeast corner of Spring and McDonald avenues, owned by Henry Flach, to Adam Dindorf and wife, for $37,000.

The Springview Apartments have a frontage on Spring avenue of 75 feet, and the Fanning Apartments a frontage on McDonald avenue of 50 feet. These apartments have suites, each of five rooms and sun parlor, and have hardwood floors. The Fanning Apartments have four suites, each of four rooms and sun parlor, hardwood floors and steam heat. There is a large garage in the rear. The annual rental is $7000.

EPSTEIN SALES WITHIN 30 DAYS REPORTED MORE THAN $275,000

J. I. Epstein reports having made sales during the past 30 days in excess of $275,000, including the following: A double flat at 4631 Evans avenue; 1334 Semple avenue, single flat; 4450-54 Easton avenue, store and six-family flat; 6843 Pershing avenue, 6627 Waterman avenue, 5129 Garfield avenue and 1252 Goodfellow avenue; five three-family apartments at Page and Semple avenues; six-family apartment at 1315 Semple avenue, at 1315 Semple avenue; Louisiana Building at Vandeventer and Cook avenues; two lots on South King's highway and five lots on the Olive street road.

SEVEN FLATS ON NORTH SIDE SOLD BY GREULICH FOR $40,000

The John C. Greulich Realty & Investment Co. has sold five double and two single flats and a large hall at Fourteenth and Wright streets, for Charles Boehne to Joseph Hoepffner. The consideration was $40,000. Greulich states that contracts have been signed for the sale of two large residences and a tract of subdivision acreage, details of which are withheld.

$52,250 TOTAL OF WEEK'S SALES REPORTED BY SCHAEFFER AGENCY

The Schaeffer Realty Co., composed of Julius and Walter Schaeffer, with offices in the Wainwright building, report sales for the week aggregating $52,250, and a $10,000 loan. Albert Grosch Jr. and Charles Grosch have been added to the sales staff of the Schaeffer agency, one of the most active in real estate circles.

DYAS-SHELP AGENCY SALES TOTAL $70,000

Investment Purchases of Apartments and Flats Feature Week's Realty Market.

Investment purchases through the Dyas-Shelp Real Estate Co. were features of the week's realty market, including those of several apartment building as well as flats.

Mrs. Minnie Housam purchased, through this agency, 6036 Waterman avenue, for $32,500. The property consists of a six-family apartment building, each containing four rooms and sun parlor, which brings an annual rental of $6000. This is the ninth apartment building that Mrs. Housam purchased the past year from the Dyas-Shelp agency. The property was sold for F. D. Peebles, represented by the Williams & Bland Real Estate Co.

The same company sold 6300 Cates avenue to Mrs. Martha Bucklew, for Marshall C. Crouch. This building contains four apartment, each of five rooms, breakfast room and sleeping porch, and brings an annual rental of $3600. The price was $20,000.

This agency also sold a single flat at 5220 Page boulevard to Dr. Fannie Thompson, for Charles Schultz, for $8500, and 5920 Wells avenue, a single flat, to Joseph Smith for Mrs. Josephine L. Leonhardt, for $9000.

FIVE FLATS AND ONE HOUSE AMONG SALES BY DICKMANN

W. Gutke to Louis Matthaei; single flat at 3514 Juniata street, for W. G. Topping to August Krauckauer; single flat at 3543 Flora avenue, for Chas. O'Heim to E. Wilder, and the seven-room house at 2753 Armand place, for Wm. Stoltz to R. H. Stewart & Bro.

BROWNHURST, 35-ACRE TRACT BOUGHT BY BUILDING COMPANY

The Federer-Arendes Realty Co. sold 35 acres in St. Louis County to the Trade Realty and Building Co. This property, known as Brownhurst, is one of the most beautiful spots in the vicinity of St. Louis.

This company also reports the sale of an entire block in the Cleveland subdivision, fronting both sides of Dewey avenue, to Fred A. Darr, who is planning to improve it with bungalows.

HECKMANN AND PRYOR-STEPHENS REALTY COMPANIES COMBINE

Wm. L. Heckmann & Co., with offices in the Wainwright Buidling, have consolidated with the Pryor-Stephens Realty Co., at Seventh and Chestnut streets. The two companies show combined sales since Jan. 1 last, exceeding $1,000,000, with a proportionate amount of loans.

The new company will be known as Wm. L. Heckmann & Co., both offices being maintained, and the personnel of both will remain intact, including Heckmann, M. A. Bolstein, R. A. Stephenson, Chas. B. Pryor, M. W. Stoeppelmann, Edw. Lieth, M. W. Barada, Jos. L. Haenny, S. Taylor, Wm. Guerdemann and Jack Cass.

Sales of the organization will be handled by Stephenson, and Bolstein will handle listings and publicity work. Pryor will take care of leases and the financing; insurance and rental branches will be in charge of Stoeppelmann.

With the formal opening tomorrow of the office at Seventh and Chestnut streets, which is being newly outfitted, Heckmann feels that his organization will be in a position to serve properly present and future clients.

CITY REAL ESTATE FOR SALE

For Sale Two Wonderful
Maryland Terrace Homes
Reasonable Terms; Also Some Wonderful Homesites at Special Prices

Maryland Terrace adjoins Washington University campus, with the University car direct to its door. It is located on the due east and west boulevards and is the very HEART of St. Louis' educational and social center. Without doubt, it's one of the most carefully developed residence parks in the U. S. today.

PLEASE INVESTIGATE THIS STATEMENT

To you who are contemplating building, carefully consider Maryland Terrace.

It is the only large, deep-lot residence park in St. Louis. Its boulevards are wide, extending east and west for nearly a mile.

Its homes are individual; no two alike. Both the stucco and brick have been used, creating a beautiful picture.

Its homes set back 62 feet from wide drives—affording wonderful perspective.

It is due west, where values are assured as long as Washington University remains its front door.

SPECIAL PRICES STILL PREVAIL

Or take advantage of our special prices and secure a real homesite in Maryland Terrace on which you can build later. More Maryland Terrace property (both improved and for homes) has been sold the past 30 days than in the past eight months. Good homesites are becoming alarmingly scarce. If St. Louis is to be your home, then buy a home in Maryland Terrace or secure a good site on which you can build when ready.

Let us tell you who your neighbors are in Maryland Terrace and give you the names of those who are now buying and who will soon join us.

Drive to Pennsylvania av. (west boundary of campus). Maryland Terrace extends west on both Maryland and Westmoreland drives.

Everything That Happens Makes Money for the Holder of Land

The $20,000,000 industrial district in Northwestern St. Louis; the scores of other new factories in all other parts of the St. Louis area, including a single plant to cost $25,000,000 and employ 6000 men; the establishment of a Government barge line on the Mississippi River; the rapid growth of the coke, steel and automobile industries here; the advertising of St. Louis nationally through a large fund contributed by the business men of the city—

These and dozens of other things are steadily putting money into the pockets of the lucky owner of St. Louis real estate.

KENWOOD-HOMESITES is so situated as to receive the general benefits of all St. Louis development, and the particular benefits of proximity to the Northwestern Industrial District, of the proposed extension of car lines, of the widening of Natural Bridge road to be a great thoroughfare from the county to the heart of the city, and of the millions to be spent in the county for good roads.

KENWOOD-HOMESITES is a beautiful natural park, 165 acres in extent, which will be one of the finest residence areas in suburban St. Louis. You are invited to visit the property and inspect it for yourself, and investigate its investment possibilities. Come out today and be our guests at a picnic at the Kehlor mansion. There will be music and other entertainment and lunch will be served free all day.

To reach the property by trolley, take a north-bound Kirkwood-Ferguson car to Oak Ridge station, about two minutes' ride beyond Natural Bridge road. By automobile, turn north from Natural Bridge road at Sylvan place, Kenwood Springs, and drive to car line. Turn to left there and follow road along car line to Kehlor grounds, and rock road through grounds.

You Can't Help Liking It

It is purely Dutch Colonial. It has the sunshine colors—white and cream stucco, with red roof, in setting of shade and fruit trees. There is an attractive pergola and garage, wren houses and a chicken house that the boy of the house says has a seating capacity of 35 hens.

The diamond light doors, the bookcases, the red fireplace, the ivory and gray of the color scheme, the rich, dull gloss of the floors, give to the living and dining rooms an air distinctly colonial.

The owner's room is large and has three exposures and two roomlike closets. Both the other bedrooms open upon a large sleeping porch.

The bath sets down to the floor pedestal lavatory and shower.

There are all the accessories, such as shades and screens.

By auto to Bompart and Lockwood avs., north on Bompart to Fairview, east to 719 Fairview av.

POLICE ITEMS

FLORENCE WAGNER OF 3510 FRANKLIN avenue reported to the police yesterday she had been stopped by a young woman who represented herself as a detective in a 5 and 10 cent store at Broadway and Washington avenue and had been robbed of a purse and $5, taken from the pocket of her coat, by the woman. Mrs. Linda Wagner of 1025 Morrison avenue reported having her cloak pocket picked of a purse containing $12 near the same store.

EGG PRICES TO SHIPPERS NOW 21.5 CENTS, LOWEST SINCE 1916

The price of eggs yesterday was 21.5 cents a dozen to shippers, down 3.5 cents from Friday, and 7.5 cents from Monday. The wholesale price was 25 cents and the retail price was 30 to 35 cents.

This was the lowest egg price since March, 1916, when the shippers' price was 18 cents a dozen. This is attributed to the general price decline and to increasing production. Eggs were 43 cents a dozen last March.

CHARGED WITH ASSAULT TO KILL

Manufacturer Named in Information on Wife's Complaint.

John C. Waters, 32 years old, of 5696 Kingsbury boulevard, vice president of the Waters and Waters Manufacturing Co., was charged with assault to kill in an information issued yesterday by Assistant Circuit Attorney Schweitzer on complaint of Waters' wife, Mrs. Ruth Moore Waters, 25.

Mrs. Waters alleged that on the night of Feb. 24, which was the first anniversary of their wedding, her husband beat her severely. On March 1, she said, he left her after having the telephone service in their apartment disconnected and inserting newspaper advertisements that he would no longer be responsible for her debts. She said that he had gone to Pittsburg, and that she would defray the expense of having him returned here for trial.

Waters, during the war, was an army Captain at Camp Funston. Mrs. Waters was a resident of Cleveland, O., prior to her marriage.

KANSAS CITY CLERK AND $30,0 IN NOTES FOR FIRM HERE GO

Youth Disappears on Trip to Postoffice With Securities—Father Will Aid in Bringing Him Back.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., March 19.—What may be an embezzlement of $30,000 in negotiable bonds from the W. A. Pickering Lumber Co. was reported to the police today by W. R. McKee, auditor. The notes were supposed to have been sent Tuesday by registered mail to the George H. Burr Brokerage Co. of St. Louis.

Thomas Murtha, 18-year-old clerk for the company, disappeared on the same day. Murtha was sent to the postoffice to mail the notes. Young Murtha, according to his father, telegraphed home late today from Chicago and asked for money to pay his fare to Toronto, Canada.

Steps will be taken to bring Murtha back to Kansas City. The father says he will go the limit in bringing his boy here to meet the situation squarely.

Howard M. Warfield of Kirkwood, cashier of the George H. Burr Co. here, said last night that the notes would be difficult to negotiate. Several weeks ago the company received six notes of the Pickering Co. for $5000 each, payable in St. Louis. The notes were sold to the Chicago offices of the Burr Co. and Chicago payment was requested.

The missing notes apparently are the Chicago notes, which are duplicates of the notes in the possession of the Burr Co. They are due in September and it would be difficult even to discount them with payment so far away, Warfield said.

HUSBAND ADMITS OBJECTIONS TO ROUGE IN DIVORCE SU

Rudolph T. Winterman Mentions Wife's Use of Cosmetics, but Denies Giving Spurious Gem.

Rudolph T. Winterman, 3011 Hawthorne boulevard, yesterday filed a crossbill to the divorce petition of his wife, Bessie Jean Winterman, in which he avers that she made herself conspicuous by the use of rouge, face powder and other cosmetics. He objected to this, he says. They were married Feb. 17, 1920, and separated seven months later.

In her petition Mrs. Winterman says that immediately after the marriage her husband began to indicate he felt he had made a mistake in getting married. She was taken to live at the home of his mother, who according to the petition, carried on conversations with her son from which the bride was eliminated.

Another allegation is that Winterman represented that the engagement ring he gave his wife was a $700 diamond. She avers that she later learned it was a "glass diamond" and he attempted to correct this by buying another "glass diamond" for her. Winterman denies his wife's charges and asserts that she was extravagant in her tastes.

He says she wanted him to buy an automobile, diamond rings, platinum jewelry, furs and other luxuries and when he did not do so she took a position as a stenographer to earn money to buy them herself.

BRIDE OF TWO MONTHS SEEKS DIVORCE AND THE FURNITU

Replevin Suit Mingled With Mrs. Joseph M. McWhorter's Request for Separation.

Mrs. Joseph M. McWhorter, daughter of Mrs. Anna Barry of 4718 McPherson avenue, is suing to divorce her husband of two months and also is suing to replevin furniture which was in their flat at 4136 Flad avenue. She alleges general indignities. The McWhorters were married at St. Francis Xavier's Church Jan. 15 and separated Feb. 4. Three days later Mrs. McWhorter and her mother called at the Flad avenue flat with a moving van and obtained possession of some of the furniture and wedding presents.

The replevin suit is set for trial before Justice of the Peace Moore next Friday. McWhorter's father, J. C. McWhorter of the University Apartments, has filed a third party claim for some of the property.

At the time the furniture was seized, young McWhorter objected and was arrested on a charge of disturbing the peace of his mother-in-law. Judge Ittner dismissed the charge.

BUILDING CRAFTS ACCEPT CU

Four Denver Unions Agree to 20 Per Cent Wage Reductions.

By the Associated Press.

DENVER, Colo., March 19.—Four building crafts, members of the Denver Building Trades Council, today accepted wage reductions of 20 per cent, announced recently by the Master Builders' Association, following a conference with officials of the Colorado Industrial Commission.

Effective April 1, bridge and structural iron workers, the hoisting engineers and the cement finishers will work at reduced wages. The iron workers accepted a cut from $9.25 to $8 a day, the hoisting engineers from $9.50 and $9 to $8.50 and $8, and cement finishers from $9 to $8 a day. Electrical workers accepted a cut from $8.20 to $7.20 a day.

THEATER OFFICIAL MARRI

Paul Beisman, treasurer of the American Theater, and Miss [illegible] Kieffer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. I. Kieffer of 4238½ Evans avenue, were married Thursday afternoon by Justice of the Peace [illegible] at University City. Mrs. Beisman has been associated with her husband at the American Theater for about a year.

Beisman, for many years a theatrical publicity agent, has been in theatrical work in St. Louis for [illegible] years. In addition to his duties as treasurer, he has been in charge of the publicity department of the American. The couple will reside at the Georgian Apartments, [illegible] Kingsbury boulevard.

The FRANKLIN

The mileage a Franklin Car covers without replacements or repairs always impresses a new owner.

That is durability—the kind Franklin light weight and flexible construction give. These principles mean protection to both car and owner.

The following owner results are the evidence of correct performance:

20 miles to the gallon of gasoline
12,500 miles to the set of tires
50% slower yearly depreciation

Consider Its Price

Compare It With Others When You Measure Their Quality With Essex

Men no longer accept the doctrine that higher priced cars mean correspondingly finer cars.

Of special interest is a price to price measurement of the Essex against cars you have always judged in its quality class. Its advantage shows surprising margins when viewed thus.

Will you find any car of comparable quality and ability within hundreds of dollars of the Essex class?

And doesn't its low cost with such quality, appeal to judicious buyers, whether they are considering a car slightly less in cost or have been seeking Essex quality in some much costlier car?

ANSWERS TO QUERIES

As we have no information bureau, it is impossible to answer queries by mail or telephone. Query for Sunday must be mailed a week beforehand.

A.—Inlaid linoleum may be varnished with either light or dark varnish, without injury to the linoleum.

ARGUMENT.—The new moon is the light of the moon and the full moon is the beginning of the dark moon. If you want the eggs to be hatched in April, by the light moon, set the hen so as to have the eggs hatched about April 10.

ME.—Union, Mo., is 54 miles southwest of St. Louis. You might find such a position there. Write the Republican Tribune in regard to your question. The U. S. Navy requires that a man be 5 feet 4 inches in height in order to enlist.

LITTLE ALMA.—Missouri is larger than Illinois, having an area of 69,420 square miles, while Illinois has an area of 56,665 square miles. The electoral votes for the Republican candidate for President in 1920, were 404, while the electoral votes for the Democratic candidate were 127. Mr. Harding received 16,138,915 popular votes, Mr. Cox 9,142,438 and Mr. Debs 915,302.

THANK YOU.—Edwin Herbert Lewis, educator, was born at Westerly, R. I., Nov. 28, 1866. He was educated at Alfred University, Syracuse University and the University of Chicago. He married Elizabeth Loxley Taylor of Plainfield, N. J., June 30, 1890. He was senior teacher and vice principal of Plainfield High School, spent the year of 1888-90 in Italy, professor of Latin at Alfred University (N. Y.), instructor of English at the University of Chicago and Lewis Institute, professor of English, dean of college students, dean of faculty at Lewis Institute, Chicago. He is the author of: "A First Book in Writing English;" "A First Manual of Composition;" "An Introduction to the Study of Literature;" "A Second Manual of Composition;" "Specimens of the Forms of Discourse;" "Applied English Grammar;" "Almost Fairy Children;" "Business English;" "Those About Trench." His home is at Oak Park, Ill. Address him at Lewis Institute, Station D, Chicago.

"PERPLEXED."—You are not so ignorant as are those who laugh at you for maintaining that angleworms and frogs are not "rained from the sky." They are not. Superficially there is something of a puzzle in their numbers, at times, after a rain, but a little familiarity with fact touching them easily solves it. Angleworms and frogs are more numerous than is generally supposed. The former are found almost everywhere where there is soil. They also largely infest old houses, getting in and on decayed boards in the roof and elsewhere, and from these they are washed by rain to the ground. Frogs also are far from rare. Naturally preferring a moist and cool place, they are not noticed, because out of sight, on a warm and dry day. After a rain, if the sun does not shine too strongly, they just as naturally come to the surface. The presence of angleworms, frogs or tadpoles in a tub following a rain means that they were simply carried there by rain sweeping an old house or tree, or that there was something about the old tub that had attracted them to it prior to the rain. You would never find them in a new tub into which there had been no dripping of the nature stated.

LEGAL INFORMATION.

(Prepared by a Member of the St. Louis Bar Association.)

M. O.—People living in the District of Columbia are not allowed to vote.

THE QUESTION MARK.—Consult the Prosecuting Attorney in regard to your case.

G. S.—It is not unlawful to assist the public in making out their income tax returns and to charge them for your services.

E. D.—There is no fixed per cent to be paid to a lawyer out of an estate, the court will allow what it considers reasonable.

TELEGRAPH R.—You may see the building laws of St. Louis at the office of the Building Commissioner. We do not have space to publish them in this column.

A CONSTANT READER.—In applying for a marriage license the widow will be asked the usual questions, the same that she was asked the first time.

PEGGY.—You should either sue for separate maintenance or for divorce. Your husband should support you without you having to spend your own money.

DONKEY.—Obstructing traffic should not be more serious than a fine, but if the fine is not paid, then the man may be sent to jail. A should not be responsible for costs incurred in suing B.

DISGUSTED.—It would be difficult to advise you without knowing all the circumstances, whether you had been permanently injured by the operation, etc. We think a lawyer might best advise you.

MARISSA.—If the property was owned by you as joint tenants it goes to the survivor on the death of one tenant. It would require an examination of the deed to ascertain if you were really joint tenants with right of survivorship.

MEDICAL QUESTIONS.

(Answers prepared by a physician of authority. Health and sanitation questions of public interest only will be considered. Diagnoses or treatment of individual cases will not be given. Questions that cannot be publicly discussed, if showing evidences of sincerity, will be answered when accompanied by stamped envelope.)

MRS. B. C.—The description of your brother's case, indicates a disturbance in the spine. We would suggest that a Wasserman test be made.

H. M. L.—We think the first thing necessary for you is to regulate the diet to simple, easily digested food, milk only perhaps for the first 24 or 26 hours. Stomach washing is very beneficial. Aids to digestion such as essence of pepsin, taken with food, is often serviceable. Constipation should be thoroughly corrected. The other symptoms, no doubt, are the result of the indigestion. Three to five grains of salol three times a day may be taken with advantage. Most of these conditions are the result of over eating and constipation.

VINCENT O.—Cod liver oil is best taken after meals in a dose of a teaspoonful, large doses are not needed. The very best grade of oil obtainable should be used, the bottle should be kept cool, and the neck of the bottle and cork carefully wiped free of remaining oil at each taking, as a hanging drop becoming rancid may contaminate the entire contents. Fats, sugars and starchy foods are conducive to gain in weight.

DAILY READER.—The treatment for an oily skin should be both constitutional and local. Any derangement of the general health should be corrected. This is important. Locally ointments are preferable and should be applied after washing the face in hot water and soap, rinsing well in hot water and then bathing in cold water and drying. Steaming the face is even preferable to the use of hot water. The following ointment will be found useful: ½ to 1 dram precipitated sulphur; ½ dram pulverized zinc oxide; 1 ounce rose water ointment. Apply very thin night and morning.

In loving memory of our dear husband, son and brother, Salem S. de Long, who departed this life two years ago, March 22, 1919.

In a lonely grave he's sleeping,
As the shadows onward fall,
And our lonely hearts are weeping,
No more his presence can we call.
Do not ask us if we miss him,
Oh, there is such a vacant place;
Oft we think we hear his footsteps
Or see his smiling face.

Sadly missed by
WIFE, PARENTS, SISTER AND BROTHER

In loving remembrance of Charles Sambrowitz, who departed this life March 20, 1919.

Sleep on, beloved, sleep on,
And take thy rest;
Lay down thy head
Upon thy Savior's breast.
We loved thee, oh, so well,
But Jesus loved thee best.

Sadly missed by HIS WIFE.

In loving memory of my dear mother, Minnie Altenheim (nee Thomas), who departed this life one year ago, March 22, 1920.

A rose that is sweetest and fairest
In the end is killed by the frost,
And the flower that is sweetest and rarest
Is the loving mother that I have lost.

Sadly missed by
HER DAUGHTER, ERMA ALTENHEIM.

In loving memory of our son, George Kranz Jr., who died four years ago, March 18, 1917.

It is four years since you left us,
And we miss you more and more.
Our hearts are filled with sadness
For the smile we see no more.
You are gone but not forgotten;
Nor shall you ever be.
As long as life and memory lasts,
We shall remember thee.

MOTHER AND FATHER.

In loving memory of my beloved daughter and our dear sister, Agnes E. Winters, who departed this life four years ago today, March 20, 1917.

March 20 again is here,
To us the saddest day of the year
Because it took from us away
Our darling Agnes just four years ago today.
Today recalls sad memories
Of a loved one gone to rest;
And those who think of her today
Are the ones who loved her best.

Sadly missed by
MOTHER, SISTER AND BROTHERS.

In loving memory of my dear wife, Anna Schutz, who departed four years ago, March 22, 1917.

Oh, how sad; oh, how sudden was the call;
Dear, how we miss you since from us you have passed away.
Sad our hearts, but sweet our memory,
As we think of you each day,
But rest in peace; thy work is done.
You are gone but not forgotten,
From those who love you dear,
Soon are coming, one by one.

HUSBAND, STEPHEN SCHUTZ; DAUGHTER, SOPHIA, AND SON, STEPHEN SCHUTZ JR.

In loving memory of our dear mother, mother-in-law, grandmother, Elizabeth Sippel Allen, who departed this life one year ago, March 19, 1920:

The evening shades are falling and we are sitting all alone;
To our hearts there comes a longing if our dear mother could come home.
God called her home, it was His will, but in our hearts she lingers still.
For all of us she did her best, may God grant her eternal rest.

Sadly missed by
DAUGHTERS AND SONS.

In loving memory of our dear wife, mother and grandmother, Mrs. F. J. Zimmerman, who died March 20, 1918:

In the graveyard softly sleeping,
Where the flowers gently wave,
Lies the one we loved so dearly
In her silent, lonely grave.
Peaceful be your sleep, dear mother;
It is sweet to breathe your name.
As you lived we loved you dearly,
In death we do the same.
God called you home three years ago,
Your place is vacant still.
How we miss you, mother, dear,
None but God can tell.

Sadly missed by
HUSBAND, CHILDREN AND GRANDCHILDREN.

In loving remembrance of our dear daughter, Gertrude Stamm, who departed this life one year ago March 23, 1920:

Earth has lost its looks of gladness,
A shadow on our life is cast;
For life without dear Gertrude
Is not the same as in the past.
You have gone, our darling, out on the lone trail,
And left father and mother heartbroken like a reed in a gale.
It's hard to think it's for the best;
Your young life's gone and you're at rest.
We are always thinking of the day
We shall be with you there to stay,
No more partings, daughter dear; no more death, no more tears.

Sadly missed by
FATHER AND MOTHER.

In loving memory of my darling daughter, Marguerite Butler, who departed this life one year ago, March 18, 1920.

In the graveyard softly sleeping,
Where the flowers gently wave,
Lies the one we love so dearly,
In her silent, lonely grave.
Peaceful be your sleep, dear daughter;
It is sweet to breathe your name.
In life we loved you dearly,
In death we do the same.
Just one year ago you left us;
How we miss you, daughter dear,
And remember all your kindness,
As we drop a silent tear.
Never from our memory forgotten,
Loving hearts will always linger
Round the grave where you are laid.

A FREE sample "Clean Gloss" piano polish. Address 3945 Taylor av., St. Louis. (8)

THE "wise fish" never gets caught, so long as he keeps his "mouth shut." For 10 years we have "kept our mouth shut." But "oh, boys," we sure are never going to "close our mouths" telling you of our big value in clothes. "We are going to blow our own horn now." Gabardine raincoats, $29.98. We can save you 40 to 60 per cent here; $15, $18, $20 and $25 will buy you a spring suit here. "We are with you" for 10 years; have led the way fighting for low prices, assisting thousands to "help keep up that prosperous appearance," which "means everything today." We have saved thousands of dollars for the clothes-buying public. "We're out of the high-rent district." "What the Drummers' Sample Clothes Shop means to you." These fine garments are made by the manufacturers for display or modeling purposes for traveling salesmen; they are made much better than the regular goods; after they show them off we buy them at a big discount; we give you the benefit of our immense buying capacity; this policy enables us to save you money. All we ask you is to "go shopping around" first and come here last, and we will certainly get your "dough." "Buy more, pay less." Vandeventer, Market, Sarah, Manchester, Chouteau and all other lines transfer to our door. We again announce our "Trade-In Sale" Department. We will make you a liberal allowance on your old clothes for new ones. "Abrams." "The Place to Buy Clothes." 926 S. Vandeventer av., near Chouteau av. (c)

WATER HEATER—Ruud No. 4 automatic; bargain. 4368 Delmar. Lindell 3651.

REMARKS

We have the goods. Just received 15 van loads of almost new goods. Our place is crowded with bargains in up-to-date goods. Our men earn the same pay they did a year ago and they get it. Further, we will not cut them. Furniture prices have hit the bottom. Look around at home, then give us a call. Dealers, we are better prepared to load cars and serve you than ever before. Idle money reaps no harvest. Our motto, A call will convince.

HUPMOBILE touring cars have long been known as "The Car of the American Family." Once a Hupp owner, always a Hupp owner. The following touring cars were taken in on Hupp trades because their owners wanted the later models. All are in first-class running order, newly painted, worn tires replaced, tuned up so that they will give the service that is necessary to keep up the Hupmobile reputation:

1920 model, touring..........	$1350
1919 model, touring..........	1200
1918 model, touring..........	1150
1917 model, touring..........	945
1916 model, touring..........	825
1915 model, touring..........	545
1916 model, touring, 7-pass....	900

Demonstrations on any of the above cars cheerfully given. Terms allowed if desired.

WARNING TO MOTOR CAR BUYERS

Do not buy any so-called 1921 models of Buick cars until you are sure about the factory serial number. This should be on a plate in plain sight on the frame

If, for any reason, this number is not available, insist on having the motor number and if you are in doubt at all, telephone us for verification as we have complete records of every Buick Car.

If the number is covered up, blurred or marred in any way, you will be safer in not purchasing.

AUTOMOBILES—MISCELLANEOUS

GIDDAP, SADIE

I'm in a hurry to see the wickedest looking Flivver in the U. S. or Missouri; five new rubbers, alligator top and curtains, alligator upholstering, plate glass door-opening curtains; the keenest, sneakiest looking Lizzie on the streets; body alone cost over $1200; it would kill Henry if he saw this one; can be seen in a glass case at 13th and Locust. SOUTHERN, of course. Open evenings and Sunday.

SPECIAL SIX STUDEBAKER

It is very seldom we get a chance to offer one of these cars at a "used car price," but one of our owners wanted a 7-passenger car and left this wide-open opportunity for you. This is the same model car which has put the "Smile of Sasisfaction" on so many motorists' faces. WEBER MOTOR CAR CO., 1817 Locust st. (c)

Maximum Value Minimum Risk

These four words completely cover our Reconditioned Car Policy. Every car is priced to give you the maximum dollar for dollar value in service.

And we are truly reducing your risk to the very minimum in two essential particulars:

1. Every car is reconditioned—placed in condition to render you proper and efficient service, at a price that will interest you.
2. You can take every statement that we make regarding a Reconditioned car at its full face value. We would rather tell you all about the car before you buy it than to make explanations later.

Don't forget that a Reconditioned automobile is a better value than many of the cheaper cars.

A cash payment and the balance in ten monthly installments will buy any of our Reconditioned automobiles.

Used Cars PLUS Responsibility AND WHY We Carry On

Our Exchanged Car Department is but a stepping stone to our New Car Department. To every purchaser of our Exchanged Motor Cars we fully expect to sell a New Car at some future time. How foolish, then, it would be for us to make representations that would later reflect and react upon us, when the Used Car buyer enters the New Car market.

SOCIETY WARDROBE EXCHANGE,
3109 S. Grand. (c7)

IN "looking back" over 10 years of "doing business" with "you all" we "shake hands" with ourselves, knowing we certainly have done "some good for humanity." We have "the honor" of knowing we have assisted "thousands" to "make good." What we mean "make good," we have led the way" to that prosperous appearance. At "all times" we have driven "home" that "saving and prosperous looking habit" to thousands of people, "dressing them up" at little or no cost to them. Buy our uncalled-for clothes; "start anew;" we are "calling you." What you save when you spend your dough is your profit. Install the "Abrams System" of clothes buying and save. We have in "store" for you high-class suits; you can afford to wear two or three suits a season for the price of the customary one by purchasing our uncalled-for garments from our cleaning department; garments are tailor-made and from the best manufacturers; $10 to $20. Can you wear 34, 36, 40, 46 to 50 sizes? Also English and plain models. Vests, 50c; pants, $2 to $3.95; coats, $5 to $10; uncalled-for Stetson hats, 95c to $1.50. Open Sundays till 12:30. RAILROAD LABOR BOARD DENIES PULLMAN CONDUCTORS MORE PAY

Also Finds Working Conditions Are Just—Monthly Rental on Section Houses Upheld.

CHICAGO, Ill., March 19.—The United States Railroad Labor Board in a decision today held that the present rates of pay are just and reasonable and refused a request for an increase in pay and change in working conditions.

The conductors are at present paid from $155 to $190 a month.

Employes of the Missouri, Kansas and Texas Railway today lost their fight before the board for the abolishment of a rental of $5 a month charged by the company to occupants of its section houses. The employes contended that this charge was a violation of the national agreement by the board.

KILL LICE & MITES THIS WAY

THE DRINKING WATER DOES IT!

The Reliance Lice Killer is a chemical preparation that, given in the drinking water, breaks up in the blood and kills all blood-sucking parasites. It may be hard for you to believe, but it does the work. In no way affects flesh or egg. It is well known that nux vomica, given to chickens, will not affect the fowls, but will kill hawks eating them. We do not use nux vomica, but employ the same principle. Makes a clean sweep of lice, mites and blue bugs. Does away with other troublesome methods. Solves the lice and mite problem absolutely. Six years' sales without a dissatisfied customer. Sold by us or your dealer on money-back guarantee if not satisfied. Sent postpaid on receipt of price; 50c and $1 sizes. Circular on request. Reliance Mfg. and Chemical Co., 2612-D Gravois, St. Louis.

TEXT OF SOCIALIST MUNICIPAL PLATFORM

Calls for City Ownership of Street Railways and Other Public Utilities.

The text of the municipal platform of the Socialist party of St. Louis, which was adopted Friday night at a meeting at 940 Chouteau avenue, attended by William M. Brandt, the Socialist nominee for Mayor, follows:

"The Socialist party of St. Louis, in convention assembled, reiterates its allegiance to the Socialist party of the United States and indorses the State and National Socialist platforms.

"Conscious of the historic mission of the working class in its struggle for emancipation, we adhere to our class conscious and uncompromising attitude on the political field. We declare that the political side of the class struggle, to result in victory for the workers, must be fought by an independent working class political organization, such as the Socialist party.

"Many years of experience with mushroom reform movements conclusively demonstrates that such movements are abortive, due to the conflicting class interests represented in them. The Socialist party does not pretend to serve two masters. It represents the working class and its interests alone. Because of this fact Socialists in office truly serve the common people.

"The time has come when the working class of St. Louis must play a leading and directing role in the management of the public affairs of the city. Powerful capitalist interests are scheming and organizing for the purpose of retaining control of our municipal administration in order that they may continue plundering the people and robbing the city. These capitalist interests would fill the city hall with their political tools and hired men, making it a clearing house for their private business interests.

Others Serve Capital.

"The Republican and Democratic parties are merely political machines serving the interests of the capitalist class. Their platforms are put before the people more for the purpose of deceiving voters than as principles and pledges to be faithfully carried out. Both old parties pledged themselves in 1915 as favoring a municipal electric plant and against contract work. Nothing has been accomplished in either direction.

"The trifling wage increases granted the workers were immediately consumed by the ever rising cost of living. Speculators and stock gamblers have made millions. Thousands of new millionaires have sprung up like mushrooms in our country since the beginning of the world war. Profiteering has run rampant. Millions of American workers are now out of work. The Republican and Democratic parties offer nothing. The capitalists control both of those parties. Wage reductions and smashing of the unions is now the slogan of the capitalists; and they will use both the Republican and Democratic parties as an agency for this work.

"Taxation is rapidly increasing, but no intelligent, sincere effort is made to acquire, for the city, revenue-producing utilities and industries, so that the increasing needs of the city can be properly met.

"Special tax bills are confiscating the homes of workingmen, but the Republican and Democratic parties cling to the contract system in making city improvements, thereby forcing the home owner to pay from 25 to 30 per cent more than the improvements are worth, to satisfy the demands of the bankers and contractors. The Socialist party insists that the city shall do its own work direct, thus eliminating the graft and corruption inseparably connected with the contract system.

Appeal to Working Class.

"We appeal to the working class of St. Louis and all those in sympathy with the objects of the Socialist movement to consider well the Socialist program and to realize the fact that the 'emancipation of the working class must be achieved by the workers themselves.'

"For immediate relief and improvement, the Socialist party proposes the following measures and pledges its candidates to do all in their power to put them into effect:

"CHEAP FOOD FOR THE PEOPLE.—To reduce the present unparalleled high cost of food and household supplies, the Socialist party advocates the establishment of municipal warehouses and cold storage plants, so that the city can purchase and store food when cheap and plentiful and sell same to the people for reasonable prices as needed. In addition, the city shall develop a distribution system, so that the number of middlemen between the producer and consumer be reduced to a minimum as rapidly as possible. Large savings can be effected in this way, and both the farmer and the consumer benefited.

"MUNICIPAL ELECTRIC AND GAS PLANTS.—Expansion of the present municipal electric lighting plant so as to supply light, heat and power for all city purposes and to private consumers; acquirement by the city of the present gas monopoly. These measures would greatly reduce the cost of lighting by either method and bring both within the means of every household. English cities are making money supplying gas at 40 cents per thousand feet, and the present price of electric current can be cut in half.

Street Railways.

"MUNICIPAL STREET CARS.—We hold that the continuance of a privately-owned street car system, as demonstrated by the United Railways octopus, is a menace and detriment to the people of this city. The United Railways is capitalized for three times its value. The result is: It pays low wages, its service is inadequate, its cars are packed to indecency, are dirty, poorly ventilated and poorly heated, and it is a corrupting factor in city government. In addition, we hold that the profits of passenger transportation should go to the city for the benefit of the people. Let the city own the street car system! Oust the private monopoly!

"STOP CONTRACT WORK.—Due to the greed of bankers and private contractors, many small home owners find that the special tax bills for improvement virtually confiscate their property. This is inevitable under the contract system. When the city performs such work itself the cost will be approximately 25 per cent less, and the property owner will get good work and material for his money. The Socialist candidates promise the voters to abolish contract work as rapidly as possible, and to do the city work direct under an eight-hour day and union conditions.

"WIPE OUT THE SLUMS.—For the purpose of securing decent, well-built homes for the workers and raising the standard of morals and health of the community, the Socialists demand that the city authorities shall at once proceed to condemn and tear down the filthy, disease-breeding, insanity and unsafe houses in the slum districts, and erect suitable sanitary dwellings and flats, to be rented at reasonable rates.

"PLAYGROUNDS AND SWIMMING POOLS.—In connection with this plan, we propose that both north and south there be created public playgrounds, swimming pools and recreation grounds. Such public playgrounds, swimming pools and recreation grounds are of most vital necessity for the health and safety, not only of the children, but of the entire population in these much-neglected districts of the city. We also demand additional playgrounds, swimming pools and recreation grounds in the outlying wards. Grounds for these purposes to be purchased at an early date, and while there is sufficient vacant ground to be had.

Additional Planks.

"Additional demands follow:

"Municipal ice plant, coal and wood yards and slaughter houses.

"Public markets, to facilitate the sale of farm products direct to the consumers.

"Municipal bakery and dairy, to supply all city institutions and the public.

"Street sprinkling and ash hauling shall be done by the city direct.

"A free midday luncheon for all public school pupils and free medical service for all school children.

"Public toilet and comfort stations in all parts of the city.

"No building permits shall be issued unless adequate provision is made for modern bath and toilet facilities.

"All railroads to be compelled to use electric motive power within the city limits in place of coal-burning engines, so as to reduce the smoke nuisance. Grade crossings to be abolished at the expense of the railroads.

"The city shall grant no franchises; where the operation of a public utility by private persons is unavoidable, it shall be by permit rather than a long-term franchise.

"A municipal loan office; a municipal drug store.

"A public defender, who shall serve the defense just as the public prosecutor now serves the plaintiff of the State.

"Sufficient food and clothing shall be supplied to inmates of the municipal lodging house to enable them to work when opportunity offers.

"City officials to plan work for the winter season, so as to relieve unemployment."

WOMEN PLAN SCHOOL BOARD CAMPAIGN

Committee to Be Organized at Meeting at Washington Hotel Tomorrow Night.

The organization of a committee of 100 men and women to plan a campaign of support for the five School Board candidates of the Woman Citizens' Committee, will be effected at a meeting at 8 o'clock tomorrow night at Washington Hotel. A permanent chairman, a secretary and other officers will be elected, and the chairman of nine committees, appointed Thursday night at a preliminary meeting, will report on the plan of campaign.

Officers of the 95 organizations comprising the Woman Citizens' Committee are expected to attend in a body and the meeting will be open for participation in the discussions to officers of other organizations and individuals interested in the improvement of public education.

The organization will support Mrs. B. F. Bush, Mrs. Elias Michael, W. Palmer Clarkson, Christopher W. Johnson and H. A. Rosskopf for the five vacancies on the Board of Education to be filled at the election next month. These candidates have the indorsement of the Woman Citizens' Committee, and of 20 of the clubs of the Eighth District Federated Clubs—representing in round numbers 40,000 women voters, and the purpose of the Committee of One Hundred will be to have every civic and commercial organization and their indorsements and to set up a working organization to get out the largest vote ever polled in St. Louis.

Warren M. Chandler, vice president of the National Bank of Commerce, is chairman of the Finance Committee and will direct that end of the campaign, and Mrs. Fred L. English and Mrs. Louis Brooks will have charge of the speakers' bureau.

Downtown headquarters will be established at once, according to the plans already made, and a motor corps of women will be created to distribute campaign literature and help get out the vote on election day.

BRANDT SUBMITS REPLY TO LETTER OF WOMEN

Socialist Candidate for Mayor Tells League He Would Safeguard Workers' Interests.

William M. Brandt, Socialist candidate for Mayor, has sent to the League of Women Voters, in reply to a letter of inquiry, a communication regarding himself and his candidacy. He says he is 52 years old, a cigarmaker, and for the last years secretary of the Socialist party, and a member of the National Executive Committee of the party. He has been a member of the Socialist party for 24 years, and a member of the Cigarmakers' Union for 33 years. He has lived in St. Louis 27 years. In his letter he says:

"As one who believes that the organized co-operation of the employing class can be effectively met by the organized co-operation of the working class, I shall oppose with all official influence and power every effort to destroy the constructive efforts of organized labor. I do not believe in the "open shop," and am convinced that its advocates are guilty of duplicity when they prate about the right to labor, cloaking under this term the helpless dependence of individual bargaining as distinguished from collective bargaining.

"The fact that thousands of our citizens are today in enforced unemployment convinces me that the right of the worker to work is not considered as an inalienable right by the employing class when their profits are affected. I believe that under all just government this right to work is the right to life, and should be sacred and inalienable and as a public official I shall do everything in my power to preserve this right through public initiative when private action fails, believing that the employment of the working class and their welfare is of more importance than profits or dividends.

"With regard to the expenditure of public funds, I shall favor the greatest economy and efficiency without cutting or sacrificing the best living wage to the workers. If economies are to be effected, I would make them by eliminating costly commissions and overhead charges rather than by the reduction of wages, believing that the wage earner is entitled to as good a living as the salaried men or financier.

"I shall, if elected, use all my official power to safeguard the interest of the worker by opposing every form of profiteering, especially the rent and food profiteers.

"Believing in construction rather than destruction, I shall oppose every effort to divert any activities of the city toward the building up of military organizations, with the waste and loss of real productive effort that inevitably grow out of militarism."

RAILROAD SUPERINTENDENT DIES SUDDENLY OF HEART DISEASE

Henry Berry Collapses on Street in East St. Louis, After Alighting From Train.

Henry H. Berry, 49 years old, of 1315 Baugh avenue, East St. Louis, Illinois division superintendent of the Missouri Pacific Railroad, with headquarters at Illmo, Mo., died suddenly of heart disease yesterday noon at Thirteenth street and the Louisville & Nashville Railroad tracks, East St. Louis, a few minutes after he had alighted from a Missouri Pacific train.

Berry was in the employment of the company as division superintendent for seven years. His custom was to spend Sunday at home with his wife and two sons, and he was on his way home when stricken.

Berry got off the train when it stopped at the Thirteenth street crossing and walked about 100 feet to the sidewalk. He sat on the curb and while friends were hurrying to him to ascertain what was wrong he collapsed.

He was carried to his home, and an ambulance conveyed him to St. Mary's Hospital, where he was pronounced dead. The body will be taken to Washington, Ind., for burial.

FINE UNDER HEAT ORDINANCE IS SUSTAINED IN APPEAL

Judge Rochdoerfer Affirms $25 Penalty Against W. J. Zeller in Tenant's Suit.

A fine of $25, assessed in Police Court against William J. Zeller of 5109 Washington boulevard, for violating the city ordinance which requires landlords to maintain a temperature of not less than 70 degrees in apartments between 7 a. m. and 10:30 p. m., in winter months, was sustained yesterday in the Court of Criminal Correction, where the case had been taken on appeal.

Three other cases against Zeller and a fifth case, in which he and his wife are co-defendants, are still pending on appeal in the Court of Criminal Correction. Judge Rochdoerfer said he would continue the remaining cases until April 18 in the event that they desired to carry the case, in which the fine was sustained, to the State Supreme Court. The attorneys accepted the continuance but made no announcement as to whether the case would be taken to the Supreme Court.

The complaining witness against Zeller was Miss Thusnelda Ashelm of 4703A McPherson avenue. Zeller said that the temperature required by ordinance could have been maintained if Miss Ashelm had manipulated a regulating device properly.

"The Baby" Double Action Hammerless Revolver
A Handsome and Most Effective Weapon. Measures But 4½ Inches Long. Takes Regular .22 Calibre Cartridges $5.00
The New Baby Double Action Hammerless Revolver has been produced to meet the ever increasing demand for a revolver that would combine small size and light weight with the essential features of Efficiency and Practicability. It is small in size, yet is just as effective and serviceable as the most expensive weapon you can buy. Everyone should have a revolver and should know how to use it, and there is no safer or better one made than this. A great feature is its safety action that guards against accidental discharge, making it quite safe for young men and ladies. The illustration gives an idea of its appearance, but it must be seen and used to be thoroughly appreciated. The ammunition used is the standard 22-calibre cartridge obtainable anywhere. The operation of the charging mechanism is extremely rapid and absolutely reliable; six well aimed shots can be fired in as many seconds. The revolver is very well constructed, with the finest nickel-plated fluted barrel of cylinder, and it weighs only 4½ ounces. The price of the Baby Revolver is only $5.00, sent by mail p. pd. to any address.

There is constant danger in an oily skin
If your skin has the habit of continually getting oily and shiny—you cannot begin too soon to correct this condition.
A certain amount of oil in your skin is necessary to keep it smooth and supple.
But too much oil not only spoils the attractiveness of any skin by giving it an embarrassing shininess—it actually tends to promote an unhealthy condition of the skin itself. A skin that is too oily is constantly liable to infection from dust and dirt, and thus encourages the formation of blackheads, etc.
You can correct an oily skin by using each night the following simple treatment:
With warm water work up a heavy lather of Woodbury's Facial Soap in your hands.
Apply it to your face and rub it into the pores thoroughly—always with an upward and outward motion.
Rinse first with warm water, then with cold—the colder the better.
If possible, rub your face for thirty seconds with a piece of ice.
Get a cake of Woodbury's today, at any drug store or toilet goods counter—give your skin its first treatment tonight. A 25-cent cake of Woodbury's will last for a month or six weeks of this treatment, and for general cleansing use. The Andrew Jergens Co., Cincinnati, New York and Perth, Ontario.

Easily rinsed out in tepid water—no bluing, boiling nor bleaching.

You require fewer underthings when they are of glove-silk, for your laundry never accumulates.

The Colonel's lady and Judy O'Grady —sisters next to the skin

Why silk underwear is no longer considered a luxury, but may economically be worn by all

IT hasn't been a difference in taste which has kept silk underwear for the few—it has been the mistaken idea that it was a costly luxury.

Could anything be further from the fact? Consider the strength of silk underwear. At first thought, it may astonish you to know that silk is stronger than cotton or wool, and has even a greater tensile strength than steel. Yet it has been proved.

And, because it is also more elastic than cotton or woolen fabrics, it yields to each movement of the body and suffers less strain.

But one of its foremost economies lies in the laundry expense and laundry wear-and-tear which silk underwear saves. Cotton and lisle underthings must be sent where they can be boiled, blued and bleached, while glove-silk may be rinsed out in the bathroom basin. It dries so soft and smooth that no pressing is required

And Now, WHICH Glove-Silk Underwear?

Just as in shoes and corsets, there is a vast difference in silk underwear. The difference between Vanity Fair and the ordinary glove-silk underwear has been widely recognized, but there are many points about Vanity Fair which you might overlook if you had never worn it.

The Vanity Fair knicker has a double back; the vest four extra inches in length. The sure-lap closing is a feature of the Union-suit, while the step-in envelope chemise has neither snaps nor buttons.

Then there's the sports bloomer, just right for today's skirt length, the Pettibocker combining frilliness with comfort and the Vanties which are as trim as the knicker but as cool as the step-in.

These are a few reasons why so many women insist upon Vanity Fair in glove-silk underwear—you'll doubtless discover other reasons by looking it over in the better shops.

A Baking Secret that will interest every cook

ONE of the most difficult things in baking is to get a cake that has a real delicate flavor, and yet sufficiently pronounced to satisfy. This problem has now been solved.

Karo gives just the delicate flavor to a cake that appeals to refined women everywhere. Many chefs in leading hotels use Karo exclusively for sweetening cakes, pies, and French pastries.

Yet Karo is much more than a delicious food dainty. It is one of the greatest of all energy-producing foods, made in a way that brings out every bit of its goodness and wholesomeness.

Do you know what Dextrose is?

Millions of Karo users everywhere will be interested to know that Karo is practically a predigested food. For Karo is largely what bread and cake and potatoes and all starch and sugar have to become before they can be absorbed and utilized as energy-producing foods.

This statement, from the highest medical and food authorities, must convince you more than ever that Karo is one of the best and most wholesome foods you could possibly give the family.

It helps make strong, sturdy boys and girls, with energy and endurance for study and play.

Your Protection

Do not be deceived by cans containing syrup that might look like Karo. The name "Karo" is on every can of original Karo—look for it and be assured of full weight cans and highest quality.

FREE A booklet every parent should read. Tells all about the wonderful food value of Karo; explains the meaning of Dextrose and why children thrive on it. Sent free with the beautifully illustrated Cook Book of 64 pages. Write Corn Products Refining Co., Argo, Illinois.

BLUE Karo
The standard table syrup. Also for cooking, baking and candy-making. Light brown color, delicious flavor—a heavy-bodied syrup.

RED Karo
The ideal Syrup for every use—for cooking, baking, candy-making and preserving. Because of its honey-like appearance many prefer it as a spread for cakes, biscuits, breads.

GREEN Karo
Flavored with highest grade real maple sugar. Very moderate in price—absolutely pure. The makers of Karo are the world's largest users of the highest grade maple sugar—over a thousand tons used annually.

For want of one vital element your body begins to "burn itself up"

New knowledge of an important lack in many of our everyday foods

SCIENCE has made the startling discovery that if we do not get a proper supply of energy from our food, the body begins to feed on itself—to burn itself up. We now know that the lack of one vital element in food, called vitamine, keeps us from getting this needed energy.

Which of our common everyday foods have it? Which lack it?

Around this tremendously interesting subject hundreds of actual feeding experiments were made. Scientists eagerly watched the seeming magic change from an almost dying condition to one of health and vigor as one animal after another was given the precious vitamine. When the vitamine was taken away they lost appetite and became actually starved.

In many of these experiments yeast was used as the richest known source of this life-giving vitamine. A number of foods, notably leafy vegetables, contain this vitamine. But we are profoundly affected by the knowledge that many of our everyday modern foods lack it.

That is why thousands of men and women today are adding Fleischmann's Yeast to their regular meals. They find it gives them a vigor and energy they never had before.

Yeast is assimilated like any other food. It is an aid to all the digestive processes. Eat Fleischmann's Yeast at any time—from 1 to 3 cakes a day. If troubled with gas dissolve yeast first in boiling water. Place a standing order with your grocer for Fleischmann's Yeast, and get it fresh daily. Write for the valuable free booklet, "The New Importance of Yeast in Diet." THE FLEISCHMANN COMPANY, Dept. 126-D, 701 Washington St., New York, N. Y.

FLEISCHMANN'S YEAST

A food with health-building properties

In scientific tests of the therapeutic value of Fleischmann's Yeast in treating pimples, boils and constipation the doctors say that in many of the cases the yeast treatment caused an improvement in the general health of the patient quite aside from helping the particular ailment.

To build up and maintain health, keeping the body resistant to disease, eat 1 to 3 cakes of Fleischmann's Yeast a day—a part of your regular diet.

Perplexities at a Puzzlers' League Convention

Men whose business is the creation of cryptic phrases, acrostics, rebuses and other perplexities wherewith readers while away their time, meet in unusual assembly at Hotel McAlpin, New York, to discuss their strange profession and the cultural worth of puzzles :: ::

By PROSPER BURANELLI.

ON NEW YEAR'S DAY the shadows of arcanum and all the mysteries gathered in a meeting room at the Hotel McAlpin, New York. The National Puzzlers' League held its 1921 convention. The sons of the Sphinx assembled for enigmatic conclave.

Thirty men, well dressed, prosperous looking, and coming from all over the count , sat and talked the cryptic language of the puzzle adept: flat, form, alternate, reversed rhomboid, acrostic, rebus.

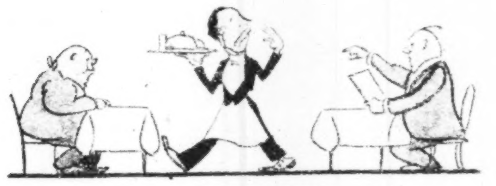
One would remind the other of a famous anagram the other had made:

"A cent tip!" which is a rearrangement of the letters of "pittance!"

"Egad, I rant!—Tragedian!"

They addressed each other by strange apocryphal names, not as Mr. King and Mr. Lear nor as Tom and Jerry, but as Nypho, Tantrums, Willie Wildwave, El Don, Arty Ess and "Q."

They were no haggard recluses, these subtle brothers of enigma, giving midnights to strange unraveling, nor crochety fellows with nothing more to do than invent a riddle. They were men such as are ordinarily seen, and a curiously large proportion of them citizens of importance.



"A Cent Tip" (Pittance.)

The President of the National Puzzlers' League was Tunste, or Paul M. Bryan, motion picture executive and cousin of the notable William Jennings Bryan, whom he resembles somewhat in feature. He is one of America's leading puzzlers.

Somebody told me that Tunste has a great ambition, which he will surely achieve. The nine-letter word square is the largest ever constructed. Tunste is working on a 10-letter square. As an example of his powers, here is a nine-letter square built by him, which is rated by puzzle experts as an edifying marvel. It was fashioned without a single reference—it is the custom of word square constructors to consult strange volumes to find words that will fit their needs.

The secretary was C. Saw, or Lewis Trent, an instructor in the Washington Irving High School. He is an anagrammatist:

"Tests of firm service, Dr!—First come, first served!"

The editor of the league's monthly journal, the Enigma, was Nanki-Poo, or William D. Flagg, formerly editor of the Harvard Lampoon, of the Cleveland Press and of the Cleveland World. He is a prolific composer of puzzle poems, also of anagrams:

"Pals, matey!—Playmates!"

Perhaps the most prominent member of the Puzzlers' League is Goggles, or James M. Beck, formerly Attorney-General of Pennsylvania and now spoken of for Assistant Secretary of State.

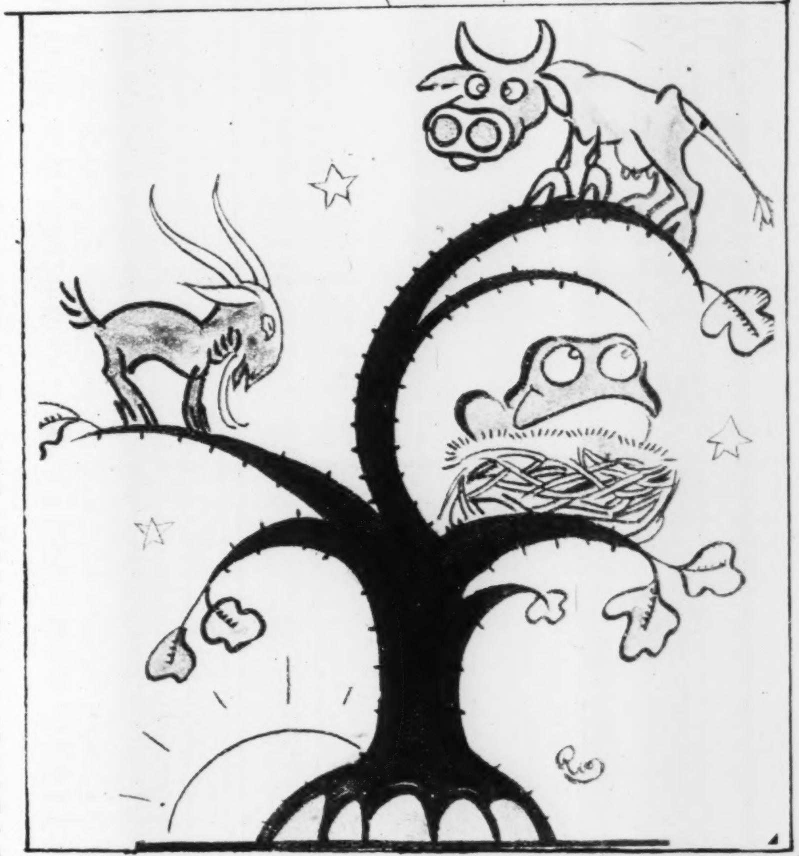
Another is Sesom, or Judge Grossman of the New York State bench. Everybody expected that the new president would be the notable puzzler, Anonym, or William Grossman, brother of Judge Grossman and member of the legal firm of Hause, Grossman & Vorhous. Anonym was the author of the anagram which I heard extolled as the final perfection of anagrams:

"They see!—The eyes!"

Anonym declined the office and Bryan was re-elected president, which did not fail to bring jokes.

There was much talk of the cultural worth of puzzles. They drive people to the dictionary who have never been there before. One member told me that puzzle-making was a great force in purifying the language, since it required as much justness of word usage as the best writing.

Puzzle fancying as a large phenomenon dates back 30 years, though the puzzle is an enormously ancient diversion. The modern English language puzzle tradition dates back to the eighties and nineties. In those decades there was a wide renaissance of the perplexing art. Many ingenuities magazines were published. Many societies were formed. The rules of the game, as played today, were laid down. The vogue waned in succeeding years. There are now about 300 first-rank experts in the United States. Most of them are veterans of the nineties. But a renaissance of puzzling is under way.



Illustrating the cryptic anagram of "As a Dry Tub" (Absurdity.)

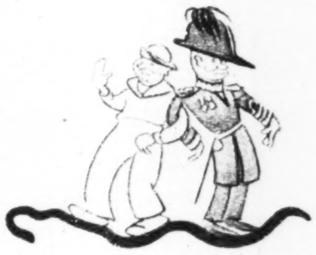
How do people become puzzlers? Through the crossword puzzle. Children are attracted to the graded simplicities of the crossword square and advance to the more thorny forms.

Puzzle adeptdom confines itself entirely to word puzzles. Disdain is heaped upon match arrangement problems, piecing together tricks, line perplexities, etc. Number puzzles receive scant attention. Chess problems engage a different world.

The word puzzles are divided into two general groups: flats and forms. The flats are the various types of puzzle poems:

Transposal—by L. Kin Spark.

If you cross the x x x x x blue;
Do not try it in a x x x x x x.



"Pals, Matey" (Playmates.)

Transpose the letters of the first missing word and you get the second. The couplet was cited as a neat transposal. The missing words are: ocean and canoe.

A duel was fought between two notable puzzlers, Kee Pon and Dan D. Lyon. The latter struck a mighty blow with an eight-letter transposal:

The sacrifices of olden days
May seem quite x x x x x x x x in many ways;
The priests wield x x x x x x x x with graceful ease;
I'd rather die of some disease.

This is a poser. The transposals are adorable and dolabrae.

Charade—by Terry Bull.

It never seemed quite ONE to me
Why in almost every case
Where a question's raised about a TWO
The TOTAL wins the case.

The answer of this small legality is plaintiff.

Mutation.

Here is an anagram with verses that give a clue to the word of which the cryptogram is a rearrangement:

As a Dry Tub.

'Tis midnight and the setting sun
Is rising in the far, far West;
The rapid rivers slowly run,
The frog is in his downy nest;
The pensive goat and sportive cow
Hilarious hop from bough to bough.

Absurdity is the rearrangement of As a Dry Tub.

A form is a construction of words, such as a word square or word diamond. Here are several handed about for admiration of the puzzlers:

Square—by "Jack."

Lateo, an expert on forms, remarked that the word qui vive was an ancient enemy of formists. No square had ever been built upon it. The word square constructor sets down a word and builds upward.

Recently a puzzler had submitted to him a square based on qui vive:

M A G E S C Q
A G O N E A U
G O B A T S I
E N A C T I V
S E T T I M I
C A S I M O V
Q U I V I V E

The misfortune was that while all the words were to be found in dictionaries, atlases or glossaries, the name Casimov is properly spelled with a K. So qui vive remains unconquered.

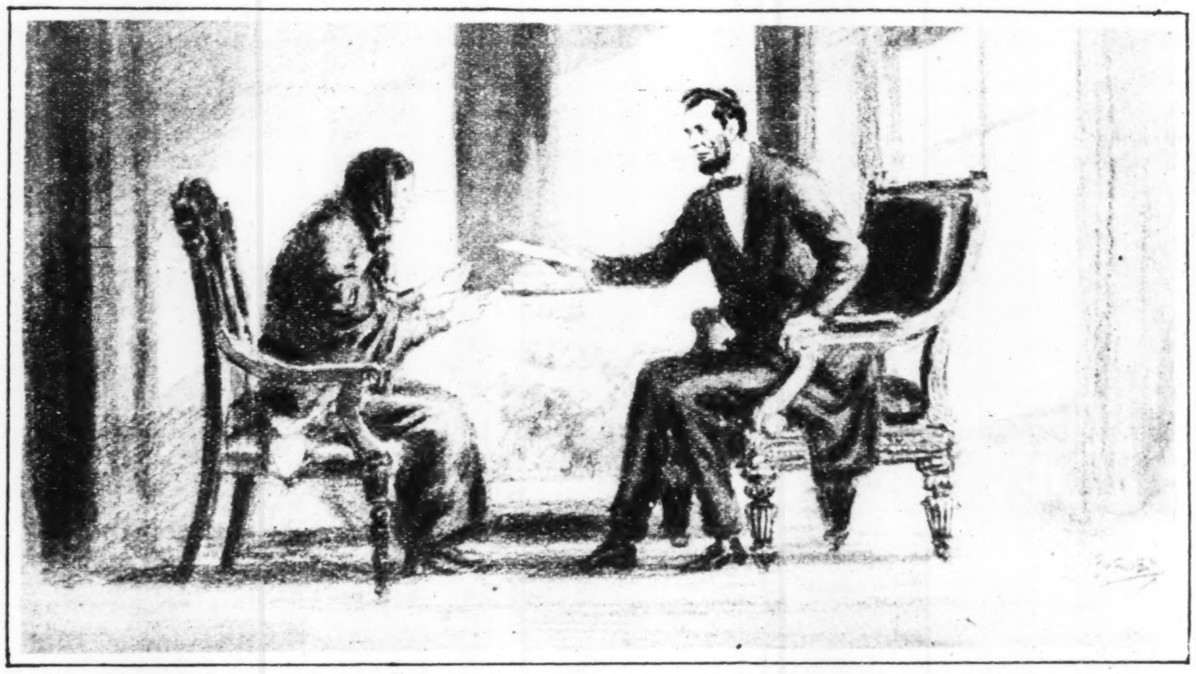
- Another Instance of Lincoln's Humanity - Now Made Public After More Than Fifty Years

Joel T. Davis, veteran resident of Noble County, Ohio, relates how, during the Civil War, a mother walked 600 miles to Washington to plead with the President for her convicted son and received an immediate pardon for the youth :: ::



He handed her an envelope and told her to take it to the warden of the penitentiary in Ohio.

HOW Abraham Lincoln, despite the pressure of duties during the trying days of the presidency, once stopped the routine of his office long enough to listen to the plea of a mother who had walked 600 miles to secure a pardon for her son, then a prisoner in the Ohio penitentiary, and how the President instantly granted her request, was told in public for the first time last week by Joel T. Davis of Noble County, Ohio, who was a contemporary of Lincoln and who knew the woman securing the pardon.

Although the matter was well known to the country folk of the neighborhood at the time, it was overlooked in the vastly more important news of the war period. The event was frequently recalled in later years by others than Davis, but lately, when the old man was asked to furnish an account of the episode to the press, he related an anecdote that can well be added to stories of other deeds by the great Emancipator.

Davis still lives where he resided during the Civil War, near Sarahsville, in Noble County. Sixty years ago this region was thinly settled and the farmhouses included many of the log type. Pioneer settlers still had their scanty holdings and their original buildings and the bad state of the roads cut off the region from much outside travel.

Davis is well acquainted in the county, and now that the twilight of life has already gathered around him, he is fond of recalling his experiences. The episode occurred when he was a young man.

"I was living near Sarahsville when the war broke out," he said, "and one of my neighbors was a Mrs. Shatto, a widow who had an only son and who lived in a little tumbledown log cabin not far from my father's place.

"Although Ohio was one of the important states of the Middle West at the time, some regions were thinly settled. Our own neighborhood would not be recognized by any dweller of that period. Of course, we had nothing but mud roads, and these were impassable after heavy rains.

"Mrs. Shatto had inherited the old Jonas Ball farm and the shack in which she and her son lived. This son was a shiftless sort of lad and his mother seemed to do all the work about the place. They had one horse and a single cow, I remember, and the ducks and chickens on the place, that used to gather about the back door when it drew near feeding time, often flocked straight through the house if doors were left standing open.

"The mail service in those days was primitive. Wheeled vehicles could not be used on the roads around the place for a good part of the year and the mails had to be transported on horseback. Naturally, in regions where only a few letters were sent each year and where there was no flood of newspapers and advertising matter, as there is today, the postal receipts did not amount to much.

"It was almost a certainty that some letters would be sent by bankers, and even in those days robbery of the mails was quite frequent. Of course, there was little hope of plunder in a district like ours. So only a trifling sum was paid to any person who carried mail over the route from Campbell Station, in Lore County, to Sarahsville, Caldwell and Sharon.

"Young Shatto secured the job as mail rider and did well for a time. Then, on one of his trips, it was discovered that the side of the mail sack had been cut open and some letters extracted. They may have been letters of value, sent by some bank, or they may have been Government mail. Whichever it was, young Shatto was promptly placed under arrest, pending an investigation.

"He was tried and found guilty. Probably it was the fact that he had been known as a sort of idle boy that made the case go against him, for his honesty had never been assailed. But what was more likely may have been the fact that the Government itself may have pushed the case.

"However that may be, young Shatto was sent to the Columbus penitentiary, which was a crude enough building in those days. The arrest and conviction of her only son almost broke the widow's heart. She insisted that he was not guilty and neighbors and travelers were continually told about the injustice that had been done to the lad. Finally, some person, not thinking she could possibly follow his advice, suggested that she go to Washington and tell the President about it.

"Now, Mrs. Shatto had no money, and it is doubtful if it would have done her any good, in the crowded condition of the railroads at that time. It was possible to go up the Ohio by boat nearly as far as Pittsburg in those days, but this meant considerable expense, too.

"To add to Mrs. Shatto's distress, she lost her horse about this time. This may not have been so great a handicap as it seemed, however, as she had no money to provide for the beast along the road and it would have almost certainly been stolen. So she just asked the neighbors to look after her remaining livestock and set out on foot for Washington.

"I can remember, as a boy, that the neighbors did not think it anything extraordinary that she should not lock her door while on this trip. She did not have any lock on the cabin in the first place. And in the second, there wasn't anything in it worth stealing. So she just closed the door and set out on foot.

"It is 600 miles from Sarahsville to Washington, in a fairly direct line. But she had no road maps, had to make detours on account of bad weather closing certain roads, and only those who were living at the time can appreciate the difficulties that woman must have overcome to reach the Capitol. That she finally reached there was proof that the dwellers along the roads were charitable enough to feed her—a thing all the more praiseworthy when the high price of provisions is considered.

"I imagine Mrs. Shatto was dilapidated looking enough when she reached Washington. She carried her shoes, I believe, and walked barefooted, so that she would have decent footgear when she arrived. And the merit of the homespun cloth of that time was that it lasted well and showed dust but little.

"I can recall her description of how she finally reached Washington and, after learning that the President had left the Capitol, trudged wearily to the White House. That is not an especially short walk, even in these days, and I imagine it seemed much longer in that period, when Pennsylvania avenue was a dusty expanse and when sidewalks ceased at the Treasury building.

"She found the White House guarded by soldiers. I did not see that place until years later, so do not know whether it was then surrounded, as it is now, by a high iron fence. She was stopped by the Corporal of the guard, who heard her story and told her to sit down while he passed the word on to the Sergeant.

"Evidently it got to the officer of the day, and, somewhat to her own surprise, she was asked to go in. When she arrived in Washington she had been greatly awed by the appearance of the buildings which then lined the streets, crude as they seem to us in old photographs that were taken by Matthew Brady. The impression made on her by the Capitol and the White House was so great that she admitted when she finally neared the White House she thought all her journey would surely be in vain.

"She was dumbfounded when she was finally told to step within and was ushered into the presence of Lincoln. I can remember her words.

"'He was writing at a table,' she said, 'and his face was weary, but, oh, so kind. He asked me what I wanted, and I broke down completely and sobbed out about my boy. He seemed greatly touched and sat thinking for a few moments. Then he wrote out a slip of paper, folded it and sealed it, as they did in the days before envelopes were so generally used, and handed it to me. He told me to take it to the warden of the penitentiary at Columbus.'"

Davis recalls the tired mother's description of the long, weary trudge back to Ohio and then the trip through unaccustomed regions to Columbus. Here she was admitted to the penitentiary and gave the letter to the warden.

"The warden opened the letter and then sent for young Shatto, without informing the mother what was in the paper," continued Davis, "and she waited there, torn with doubt, until her son was brought in. Then the warden informed them both that a full pardon had been granted him and that the President had ordered him set free.

"You can imagine what this meant to the mother who had done so much. The boy was outfitted with one of the cheap suits they gave discharged prisoners at the institution—I suppose it seemed like gorgeous raiment to both mother and son—and was then allowed to depart. The warden gave him a fatherly talking to and told him never to come back again.

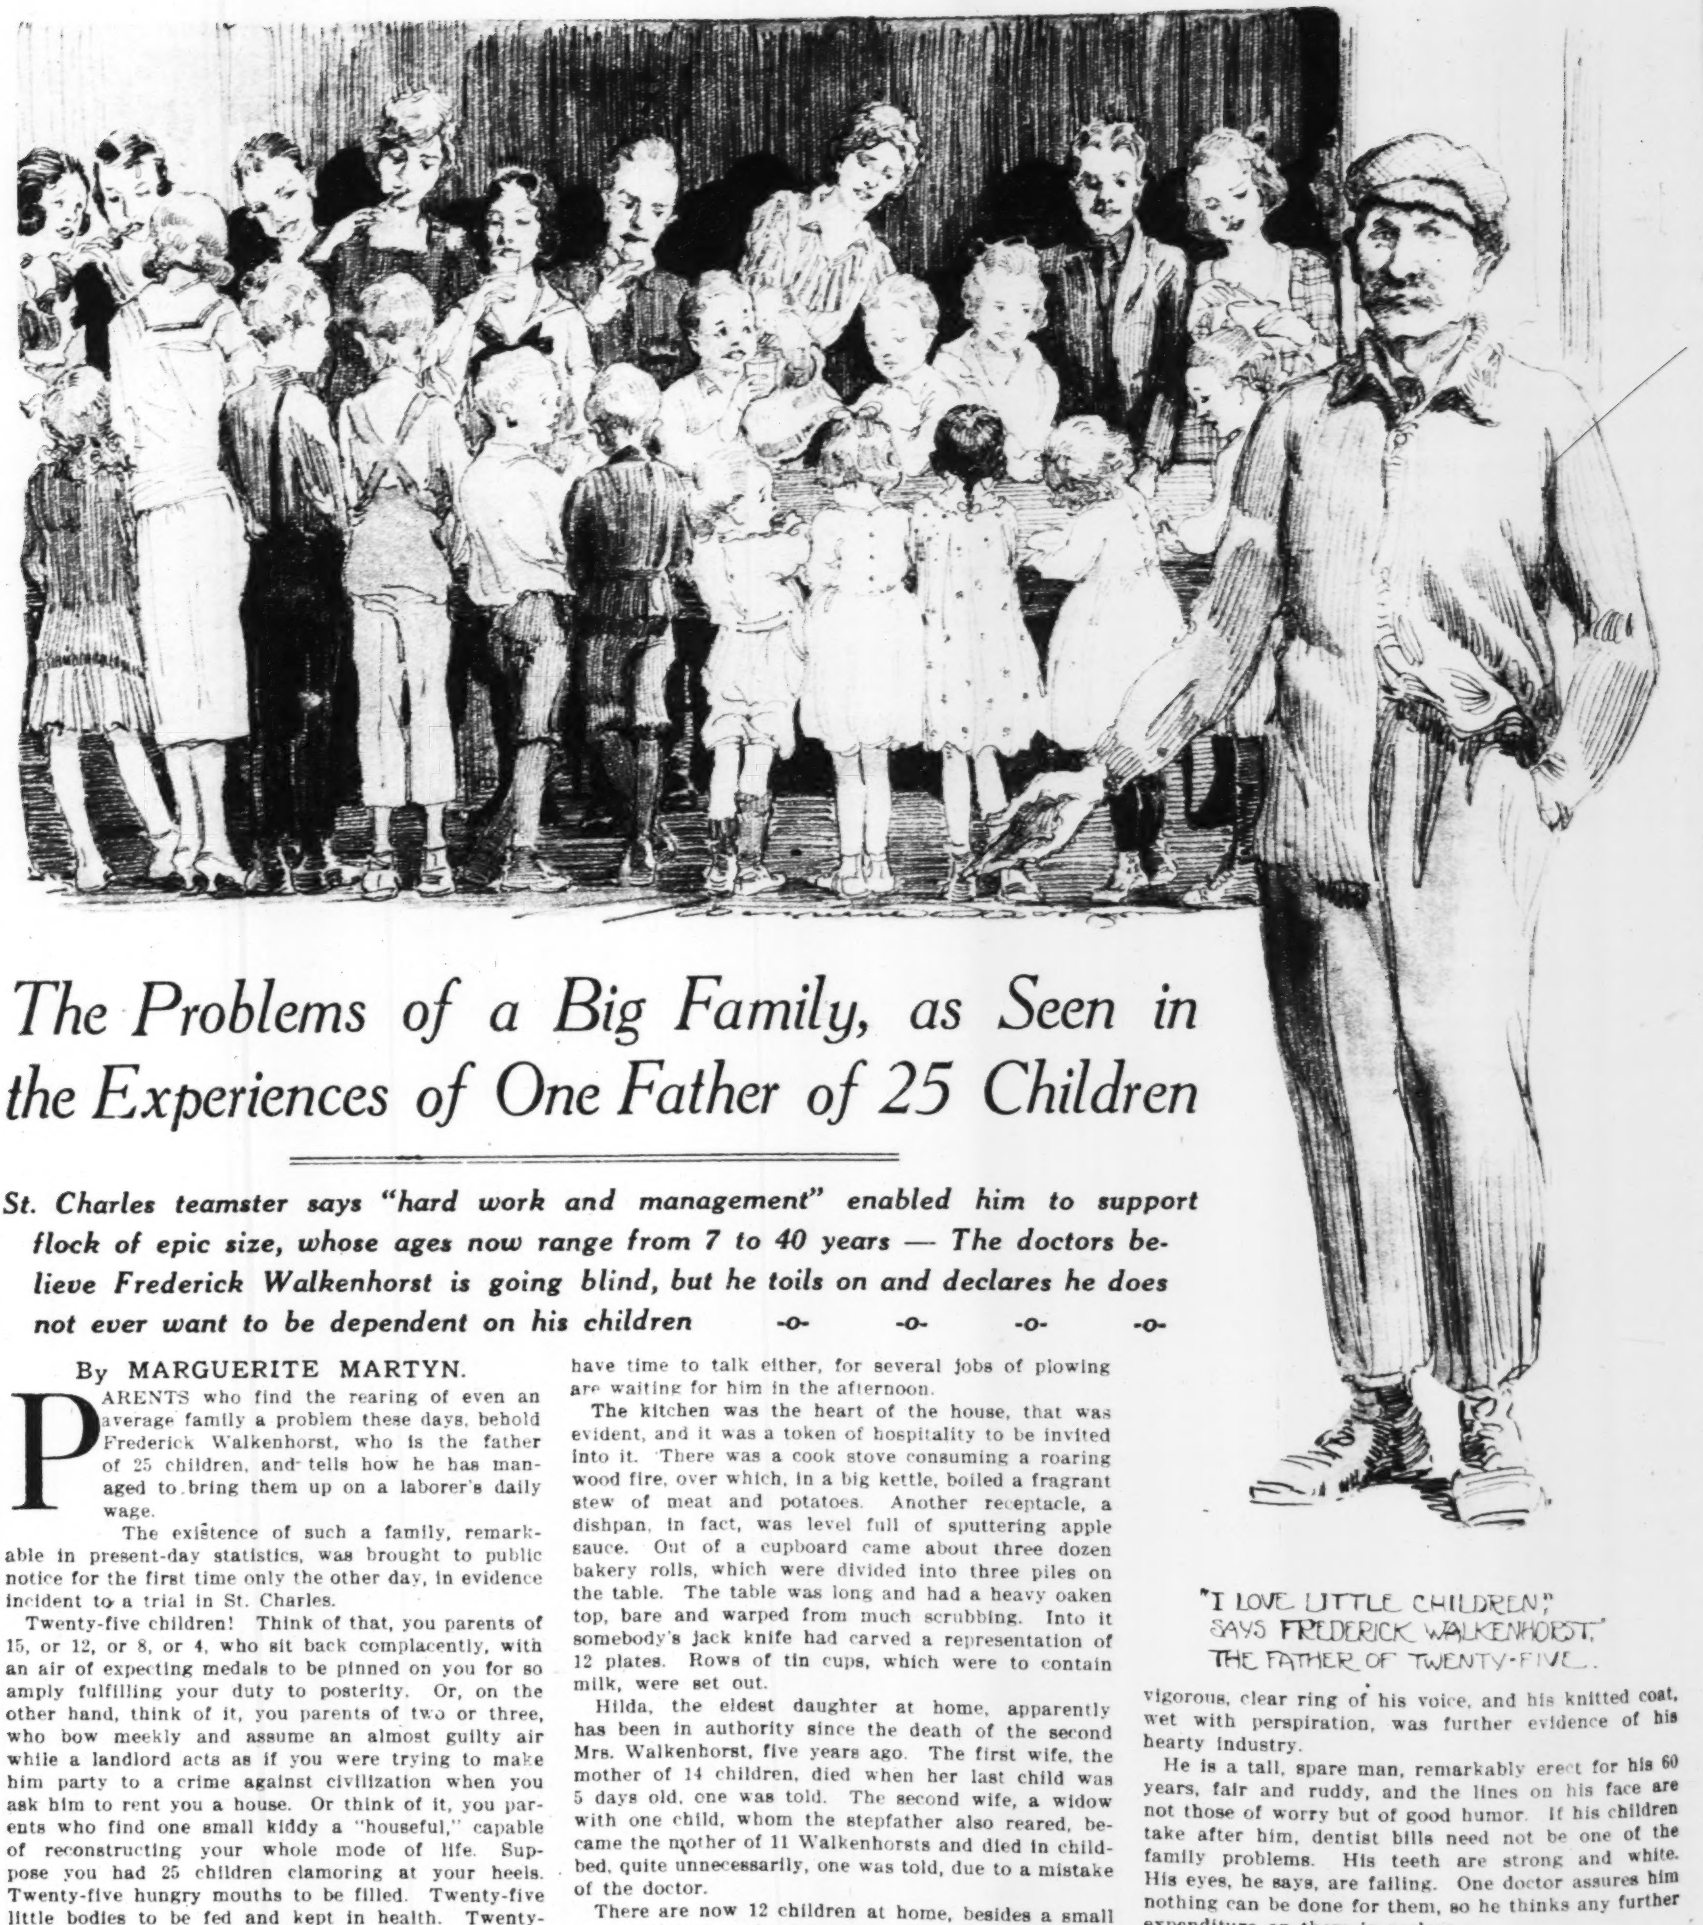
"The mother and son walked all the way from Columbus back to Sarahsville.

'So far as I know, this anecdote has never appeared in print. Many of the old residents about here knew of the facts and it was so commonly known that it was not thought worth while to refer to it afterwards in the local papers. Moreover, no one wanted to drag up this painful episode in the life of the Shattos. So what might have been handed down as one of the most typical instances of Lincoln's kindness of heart has passed unknown to most of the residents of the country.

"I have often wondered whether there are not many more of these homely stories about Lincoln that the world will never know, for the same cause. We all know of the letter he wrote to the mother who had lost her sons in service and there is an oft-quoted story of how he once pardoned a soldier who had been found guilty of that most serious military offense—sleeping on his post.

"But I have often believed that the true nature of the man is better revealed in some of these minor cases than it is in those that have been handed down to us. I can vouch for the truth of this story, because I was a youth when it happened and was well known to all the people in this neighborhood, who were also acquainted with the Shattos.

"It seems strange to us today to read of Lincoln's accessibility in time of war, but conditions were different in those days. Altogether, I am glad to have had this particular knowledge of such a deed come into my own life. I believe it gives me a better idea of the man who stands for all that makes the idea of true democracy and freedom so glorious."



"I LOVE LITTLE CHILDREN," SAYS FREDERICK WALKENHORST, THE FATHER OF TWENTY-FIVE.

The Problems of a Big Family, as Seen in the Experiences of One Father of 25 Children

St. Charles teamster says "hard work and management" enabled him to support flock of epic size, whose ages now range from 7 to 40 years — The doctors believe Frederick Walkenhorst is going blind, but he toils on and declares he does not ever want to be dependent on his children -o- -o- -o- -o-

By MARGUERITE MARTYN.

PARENTS who find the rearing of even an average family a problem these days, behold Frederick Walkenhorst, who is the father of 25 children, and tells how he has managed to bring them up on a laborer's daily wage.

The existence of such a family, remarkable in present-day statistics, was brought to public notice for the first time only the other day, in evidence incident to a trial in St. Charles.

Twenty-five children! Think of that, you parents of 15, or 12, or 8, or 4, who sit back complacently, with an air of expecting medals to be pinned on you for so amply fulfilling your duty to posterity. Or, on the other hand, think of it, you parents of two or three, who bow meekly and assume an almost guilty air while a landlord acts as if you were trying to make him party to a crime against civilization when you ask him to rent you a house. Or think of it, you parents who find one small kiddy a "houseful," capable of reconstructing your whole mode of life. Suppose you had 25 children clamoring at your heels. Twenty-five hungry mouths to be filled. Twenty-five little bodies to be fed and kept in health. Twenty-five little pairs of feet to be shod, to say nothing of trained in the direction they should go.

A great many people will have to shed for a moment a lot of notions with which the complexities of modern civilization have hedged them about and get down mentally to the bare fundamentals of what constitutes the necessities of existence, to appreciate this that Frederick Walkenhorst has accomplished.

The house in which he lives is one index to his methods. It is a cottage of perhaps five rooms, at 2205 North Fifth street, the very last house on the street leading out of St. Charles. Back of the house is a barn and in the barnyard a cow and a flock of chickens.

There is a best room furnished neatly but scantily, the superfluities consisting mostly of home-made handicraft, shelf covers, chair tidies, etc., of white linen crochet. The visitor is permitted to tarry here for a moment, but almost immediately is invited into the kitchen beyond, where three daughters busily scrubbing floors or preparing the midday meal cannot spare time to sit idle as they talk. Indeed, one is told that father will be in presently for his dinner, but he won't have time to talk either, for several jobs of plowing are waiting for him in the afternoon.

The kitchen was the heart of the house, that was evident, and it was a token of hospitality to be invited into it. There was a cook stove consuming a roaring wood fire, over which, in a big kettle, boiled a fragrant stew of meat and potatoes. Another receptacle, a dishpan, in fact, was level full of sputtering apple sauce. Out of a cupboard came about three dozen bakery rolls, which were divided into three piles on the table. The table was long and had a heavy oaken top, bare and warped from much scrubbing. Into it somebody's jack knife had carved a representation of 12 plates. Rows of tin cups, which were to contain milk, were set out.

Hilda, the eldest daughter at home, apparently has been in authority since the death of the second Mrs. Walkenhorst, five years ago. The first wife, the mother of 14 children, died when her last child was 5 days old, one was told. The second wife, a widow with one child, whom the stepfather also reared, became the mother of 11 Walkenhorsts and died in childbed, quite unnecessarily, one was told, due to a mistake of the doctor.

There are now 12 children at home, besides a small son of Hilda's, so the carved place markers on the table must have been done some years ago. Moreover, there were not enough chairs anywhere visible to seat all the family at table at once. But chairs are to be classified as luxuries that may be dispensed with, one observed later, when six bright, rosy-cheeked, blond youngsters came trooping in from school and took places, standing, all attention, with spoons poised, ready to begin on the soup almost before Hilda had measured it into their plates.

The ages of the Walkenhorst progeny range from 40 down to 7 years. Besides the 12 children now at home, five have died at various ages, and the others, being older, have married and gone to homes of their own. There are eight grandchildren. Three of those who reside under the parental roof are working in factories in the town.

"How have I managed to take care of 25 children?" Frederick Walkenhorst echoed after my question, after he had fed his horses out in the barn and stood rolling up his sleeves at the kitchen sink. "By working hard every day of their lives." The hands he spread to view were testimony more eloquent even than the vigorous, clear ring of his voice, and his knitted coat, wet with perspiration, was further evidence of his hearty industry.

He is a tall, spare man, remarkably erect for his 60 years, fair and ruddy, and the lines on his face are not those of worry but of good humor. If his children take after him, dentist bills need not be one of the family problems. His teeth are strong and white. His eyes, he says, are failing. One doctor assures him nothing can be done for them, so he thinks any further expenditure on them is useless.

"By working and by managing," he amended. "It takes thought as well as toil, and I had to learn to think. For 22 years I was a molder, at $5 or $6 a day. In those days I used to live high and spend everything I made. I used to drink. It seems as though a molder has got to be a drinker. I used to gather with the boys and we'd begin on 5-cent whisky. Pretty soon we'd feel we had to have 15-cent whisky. Then, later in the evening, I guess we were paying 15 cents for 5-cent whisky.

"One day in 1908—that will be 12 years ago—about the time the twins were born, I took occasion to sit down and take stock of myself. I found I didn't have a cent and no prospects of ever having anything, the way I was going. I quit drinking that day, all in one day, and I've never touched a drop since. People tell me that's pretty hard to do," he added, with a whimsical, quizzical glance out of the corner of his eye. "I also quit smoking and chewing a little later, on account of the expense. Then I decided to make another break. Some men I know cannot work without a boss. Others do better when they are their own

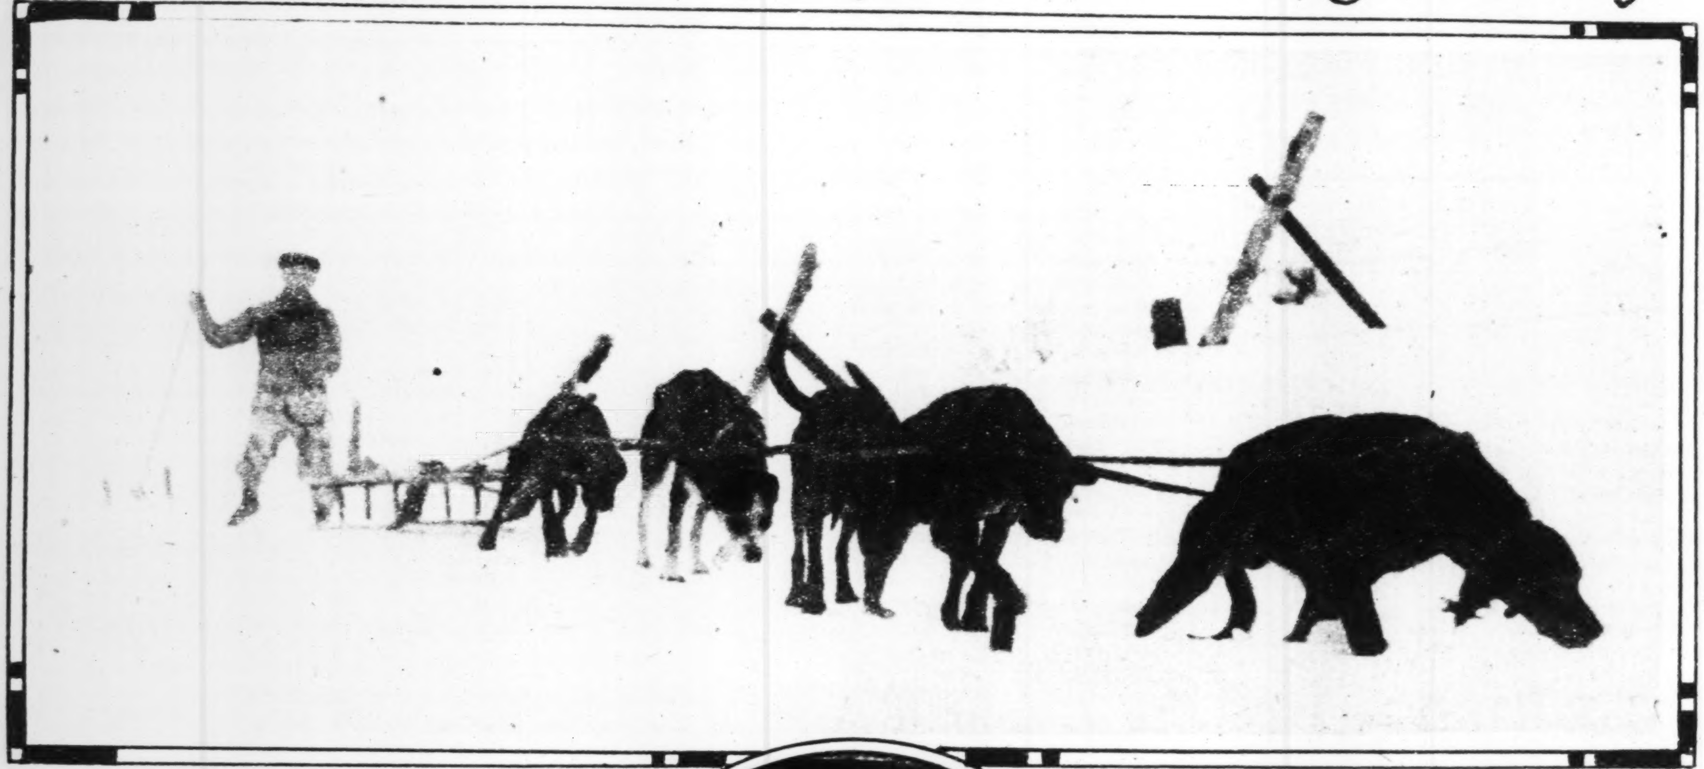
Laughs, Thrills and Sport at "Dog Derby"



Snapped out on the course of the American Dog Derby at Ashton, Idaho. John Reber and his team of cross-bred hounds and airedales. Below in center, "Husky," the individual canine star of the classic American Dog Derby.

Sledge teams speed along snowy Idaho course watched by picturesque assemblage of tourists, trappers and ranchers — "Smoky" Gaston and his five dogs were only 14 minutes behind the winner and his seven dogs, in finishing the 25-mile distance—Usually there is a fight, when one team passes another.

By EYRE POWELL.

THE start of the American dog derby, recently held at Ashton, Idaho, found the main street of the little town packed from walk to walk with a milling crowd. Ranchers from the Jackson's Hole country touched elbows with parties from private cars parked on the railroad sidetrack. Mackinaw-clad trappers from the country up Yellowstone Park way brushed against smartly overcoated brokers from New York and tourists from Boston, Philadelphia and Pittsburg.

All were pushing toward a tall pole set in the center of the ice-covered street. There a space was held clear with stout ropes, and from it a long narrow lane led through the crowd, past the edge of town and toward the open country, where a line of low, blue hills relieved the glare of the deeply drifted snow.

The first team drew into the open space, seven magnificent animals, six of them hitched to the sledge two abreast, the leader running alone at the front.

"One minute!" called the starter. "Thirty seconds! Five! Three! One! Go!"

The classic race was on, and in a minute or so the speeding sledge was out of sight across the snow.

The second team, one of six dogs, was similarly started, and the crowd parted to admit the third. This was "Smoky" Gaston of Henry's Lake, Idaho, who had "mushed" in nearly a hundred miles overland to enter the race. Gaston is the kind of young Westerner that fiction writers love to describe. Clean-cut, straight-eyed, wiry, a real out-of-doors man, he first led his dogs to the line and saw them all straightened out in their harness for the start, before he looked up and flashed a smile at the crowd.

As he did so, an old fellow in the mackinaw, shoepacks and coonskin cap of the trapper hopped nimbly into the open space beside the waiting team.

"Bet my pile on Smoky Gaston," he piped, glaring challengingly around, and executing a kind of comical war dance in his excitement.

"I wouldn't," remonstrated Gaston, and pointed to his team. There were but five dogs in the line. "The sixth got laid out in practice yesterday," he explained.

"Two minutes!" warned the starter, and as both team and crowd tensed for the final word, a girl pushed through those against the rope, ducked under it and ran to the waiting driver. She was fashionably dressed, fur-coated, and apparently the product of some Eastern city's "400."

"You're going to win, Smoky?" she queried. In answer the boy pointed to his depleted team.

"You're going to win—for me!" the maid repeated. She dropped to the side of "Zip," Gaston's lead dog, whispered in his ear, gave him a quick hug, grasped "Smoky's" hand, and disappeared back into the crowd.

"Thirty seconds!" called the starter, and again the old trapper burst out.

"Now, I'll bet my pile on Smoky," he challenged, but he couldn't find a taker.

"Go!" yelled the timer, and Gaston was off in a dash that drew yells of encouragement from the crowd.

It all sounds like a movie, but it happened in real life up at the start of the famous contest, and "Smoky" Gaston, while he didn't win, drove a race that brought him in but 14 minutes behind the leader, both teams breaking all records.

It was a race against heavy odds, five dogs against the winner's seven, and his game performance brought Gaston the real honors of the classic.

"It was 'Zip' and the other dogs that did it," he explained, but his friends wouldn't have it that way.

"It was 'Smoky's' own nerve and skill," they insisted.

But perhaps the old trapper had the real answer when he shook his grizzled head and muttered his own equivalent for "Cherchez la femme." And "Smoky," with real Western reticence, wouldn't explain her at all.

To the uninitiated the American dog derby brings to mind its northern prototypes, the all-Alaska sweepstakes and the big Canadian dog race. The use of dog teams naturally would seem to indicate a frozen North, wilderness and frontier, and yet the Idaho region where the American race is held is really nothing of the sort. Instead of a "Far North," or wilderness, it is, in fact, one of the most fertile dry-farming regions of the world.

Comparatively few persons know that right here in the United States, in this country bordering the Tetons and Jackson's Hole on the west, the dog sledges are widely used for transportation, hauling hay, carrying the kiddies to school, bringing in the United States mail and for other practical purposes. As the very snow that makes the dogs useful in the back districts where roads are unbroken is worth millions to the ranchers in crops, they like it, pray for more, and hold the classic dog-team contest in celebration.

Unlike the big northern events, which, over long courses, resolve themselves into endurance contests, the American

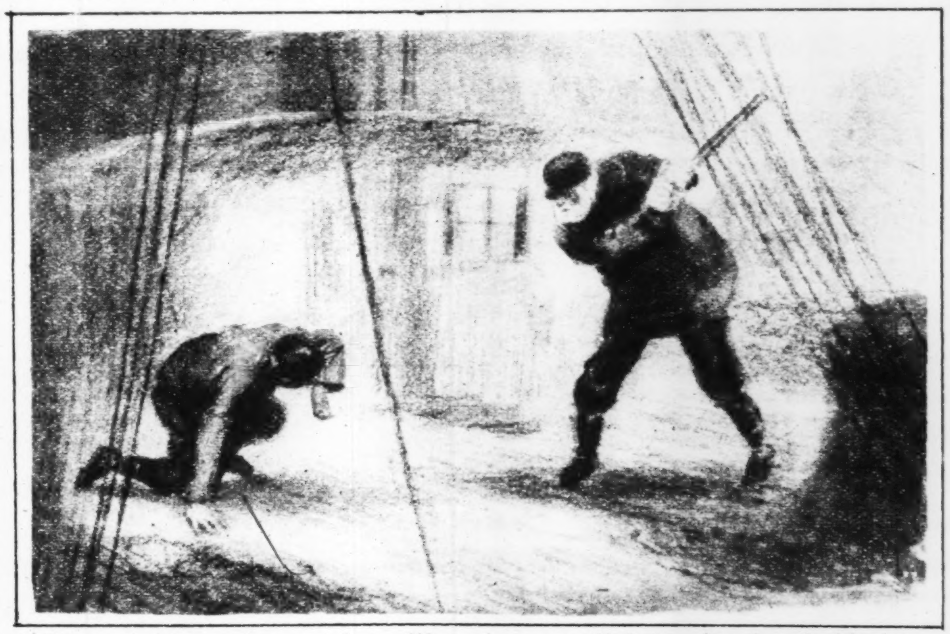
THE TRADER OF APAVAK

By HENRY C. ROWLAND

"GEE, doc," said Jimmy MacCann, leaning forward and looking at me with a grin on his mirthful mouth, and the violet-blue eyes he got from his Sligo mother sparkling between their double fringe of black lashes, "maybe I didn't wish then that I'd listened to Father Duffy's advice and given meself up instead of beatin' it f'r the Banks on that codfish crate. But I'd been fishin' out o' Boston before, and liked it good enough, and it looked like the best way to give meself the hook and get out o' the spotlight until things blew over like. But I hadn't counted on a run to Rickyick an' the coast o' Greenland, nor on goin' overside in a snowstorm with a bloke that throwed fits once'n so often. Well, he throwed her right across the plate this time. I didn't dast grab him with that sea runnin'.



"'The only thing that saved my life was my readin' the signal and side-steppin' of the track.'"

"So here was me alone in the dory somewhere between Cape Race and Cape Farewell, which, as you know, is a pimple on the cold nose o' Greenland; me and me half dozen cod, outward bound for Ireland; rollin' home acrost the ocean to the land o' me forefathers.

"'Jimmy, me lad,' says I, 'here y'are, cut off in the first flush o' your yout', and all for lack o' bein' thorough. If, however, it sh'u'd turn out that hell can wait a little longer for ye, let this be a lesson the next time ye have need to hand a wop a wallop to smear him that hard that he cannot cry out'—

"And as I was lettin' this soak in along with the sleet and spray, somethin' lep' at me out o' the muck, spearin' the swill which filled the air, and I looked up and saw 'twas the jib boom of a vessel feelin' her way cautious through the fog. Same time the front end of her fell on me, but I grabbed the bobstay and swarmed up out of the sea and took a squint over the bows of her. The first thing I saw plain was the lookout, and him so close we could ha' kissed each other. He had heard the dory splinterin' and shoved his bushy muzzle over the bullarks just as I ra'red up, me raven locks lyin' in rich profusion of brine acrost a face as drab as the belly of a dead fish, and the sight must have struck him as uncalled for and unsettin'.

"'Hoots,' says he, like an ould owl, and went back over the windlass, a flutter o' flyin' shins. But he was up with marvelous agility for one of his age, as the storybooks say, and wit' a capstan brake fitted nicely in his hand, and there he stood, starin' at me wit's spread nostrils.

"'Come aboard, sir,' says I, salutin'.

"'What are ye? Man or de'il?' he croaks, and the lovelight in his eyes made me wish I was back behind the bar o' Pop's place servin' out suds to the rah-rah boys, and listenin' to their intellecshool conversation. 'Please, Mister MacIntosh,' says I, 'put down that crool weapon and succor a poor Harvard stoodent who has just done a getaway with the name plate o' Davy Jones' locker.'

"'Swish,' says the flatiron bar, and the only thing that saved my life was my readin' the signal before she came through, and side-steppin' off the track. It spun him round, and, knowing what I might expect when he came back, I did not wait, but jumped in and sent him one behind the ear by quick delivery. The lessons learned in my early life were well applied, and he did not call for the po-lice. Down he splashed headfirst against the windlass, and this time there was no flutter. He bided where put, as they would say on that hell hooker. Lookin' down at him, I could see that the cussedness was let out for good and all; not from my poke on the mastoid, but 'count of his buttin the windless on one of its hard corners.

"Then I looked aft. Nobody in sight. The fog hid her abaft the mainmast, and it was getting dark, too. I knew what she was, right off, though I'd never seen one like her before. But I got her number by her stack and rig and the boats and gear and the small, square stumpiness of her. She was one of those auxiliary Dundee whalers that fish up in the Arctic, and I wondered what she was doin' way over our side the pond and headin' for Davis Strait, accordin' to my reckonin'. Her sails were loosely furled and she was steamin' slow, like she wanted to save coal or was afraid of drift ice and small bergs, 'growlers,' as they call them sizable chunks broke off the big he-ones.

"'Now, what for did ould Mister MacIntosh try to slaughter me?' I asks meself. 'Was it fright at seein' me come over the bow like I done? No, or he would ha' broke and run aft. Besides, he must have heard the dory when she was stove, and anyhow, he had plenty of time to recover from panic. Was it, then, to see if I was real, or some sort of a sea devil? No, be reason of that same splinterin' crunch of material matter, also an iron windlass brake bein' maybe a good test of devils, but a poor one for flesh 'n' blood. 'Twould be like testin' the valley o' pearls wit' a trip hammer. Why, then, did he endeavor to rejuice me to me original mollycules?' The answer was easy. Crazy, doc? No. The trut' of the matter was this: I was not wanted on that ship.

"For a second I wished meself back in the dory wit' me water breaker, biscuits and lousy cod. But, as you say in your stories, there was no time for vain regrets. From below somewhere, the ingine room, perhaps, come the sound of a small ship's clock strikin' eight bells. 'Now, the wheel and lookout will be relieved,' thinks I, 'when the new bloke will discover the late lamented Mr. MacIntosh.' And I cocked a lug to hear a stern, commandin' voice beller fr'm the quarterdeck: 'Well, what d'ye say, you in the eyes?' Divil a sound, though, and I was makin' up me mind to sneak aft, lift a boat cover and slip into one of the boats, when a vague shape come loomin' forrard, its whiskers flecked wit' snow.

"Then here comes hist'ry chasin its tail. 'Who are ye, and what do ye here?' says a voice. The sight o' that guy put the heart back into me—the cornered-rat kind. 'Will that be your warrk?' says he, and jerks his shaggy red head at the diseased Mr. MacIntosh. I seen the murder in his eyes, and it nerves me up. No superstitious dread about thim pealin' accents of a steam riveter. A whale of a lot he knew where I come from, and a whale of a lot he cared. His mind was on where I was goin', and I seen his eyes twinklin' that way, which was back, the way I come. Nothin' to do but manoever for position, him blockin' the way to a more lingerin' death, so I looks at him and says, soft and low: 'I fear Archie has left us, Donald. He does not seem to breathe,' and I leaned over like I wanted to pipe the cold clay, then whipped up with the windlass brake whirlin' over my head.

"Same minute he jumped—right into it. The big bloke acted like he wanted it bad, so he must ha' died happy. Even then he was that tough he didn't die straight off, but lay there with his big hands grabbin', and that gave me an idea. I slewed Archie round so's his throat came handy to Donald's grip, and just like he still had some lingerin' desire to choke some guy, he hauled taut and held his slack. Then I put the iron brake in Archie's stiffenin' fingers, and closed 'em on it. Them two sure looked like they'd had a fallin-out.

"A thick, heavy voice hollers out from aft. "Come along—come along. What's keepin' ye?' and I sneaked for the starboard whalin' skiff, yanked up the cover and slipped into her. 'Hi—forrard there—Clegg—Magnus—are ye both dead?' I give a sort o' shiverin' snicker. 'Guessed right first time, cappy,' says I, and begun to sort o' sob like a kid. And me a growed man. But, then, I was wet and freezin' cold, and hadn't et f'r a good many hours, not havin' the heart to after seein' poor Jim gyratin' out the dory.

"There was more hollerin' fr'm aft, and then the same voice says. 'Come up here and tyke 'er, one o' ye.' And a minute later her come somebody brushin' past the boat where I was hid. Soon's he'd passed, I histed the cover and see the back of a short man built sorta like a safe. 'Gee!' I says to meself, 'it's lucky for that bloke I didn't lose no time gittin' under cover, or maybe I'd had to bust his combination. And all the time I was tryin' to throttle my snufflin'. Say, doc, don't think I was weepin' over them illstarred helanders. They brought it on theirselves. My troubles was worry over the choice of a career.

"Well, this safe party, that I guessed right to be the skipper, give one look at them two fellers, and let out a roar like he was stricken to the heart. Then he begun to declaim, but 'twas not a supplication for mercy on their sinful souls. His stentorian voice reaches the nethermost part of the packet, and her rats come a-runnin'. 'Now, what'd I say?' bawls the skipper. "Didn't I predict them two would be a-flyin' at each other's throats afore ever we sighted the land? Wot bally good to put 'em in separate watches, with natures such as theirs? And now, after bickerin' the entire way, they go and bash in each other's bloomin' 'eads, and leave us short-'anded when we've all our work to do, the blighters!' And, with a partin' benediction, away he goes aft, grumblin' and growlin' and snappin' his fingers in disgust.

"The funeral ceremonies was brief and the deseased took little with them to their watery tomb, and when they had slid over, all but the lookout went aft. I could not see them well, but from their talk, which was none to easy to understand, I gathered that the vessel was already undermanned for the business she had afoot, and that this was not the catchin' of whales. I knew already that she had done no business with whales, or any other o' the finny tribe, and I wondered what was her sinful errand, for that it was such, I had no doubt. Most o' the vain regrets I had overheard from the hands over Archibald and Donny were for their fightin' qualities.

"'Jimmy, me lad,' says I to meself, 'ye been thorough this time, but lackin' in strategy. 'Tis a fine broth o' sea scalawags ye have tumbled into, and you cannot hope to appeal to their higher natures. Had ye stood your ground, the brake in your fist, and said boudly to the skipper, 'Them two ould corby crows assailed me, and I was forced to lay them out,' he would have pardoned the misdemeanor and made ye chief bucko of the bilin'. But now if ye come whimperin' out like a frightened cur—and come out soon ye must, or perish of hunger and cold—he will take ye be the scruff o' the neck, and toss ye into the wake.'

"But it was then too late, so I lay there shiverin' and wishin' I was back in Pop's place, servin' suds to the undergraduate body of sincere soaks of ould John Harvard, and pickin' up scraps o' their eddyfyin' figures o' speech like I'd done the last two years since quittin' the sea as a source of livelyhood. It looked now like the boundless main was fixin' to be a source o' sudden death, unless I could manage to convince the leader o' the gang that I could teach the big boys some bad new words before he judged me by appearances.

"'Jimmy, lad,' says I, 'ye got to harden your heart and stiffen your spine agin' v'lence. Do it now, me lad. Take time by the forestay and remember, 'tis a long worm that has no turning. Since ye failed to strike when the iron was hot, ye must swipe twice as hard, now that it is cold.' So, with these partin' words

o' good advice, I said good-by to meself and slid out the boat onto the deck and into the blackness o' the night. That dark it was that she might ha' made use of a lump of coal for a masthead light.

"For one tense instant I stood there, lookin' at nothin', then slowly and cautiously begun to make me way nowhere, f'r all I could see. But after havin' traversed some few inches, I saw a glimmer of light, which come from the binnacle, and struck upward in a sickly glare on the whiskers o' the mug that was ogling it. But I passed him by, give the hatch of the companionway a shove, and went below.

"There was four men sittin' around the cabin table, and a brown jug sittin' on it. They welcomed me wit' surprise, but the skipper, rememberin' his duty as host, quickly recovered his sang frawd enough to inquire as to my sorry plight.

"''Oo the bloomin' blazes are you, and 'ow the bloomin' blazes did you get 'ere?' says he, starin' at me with a shocked and startled face.

"'I'm a bloomin' smuggler,' I answered, wit' self-confidence, 'and I drifted under your bloomin' bows on what was left of a bloomin' boat. Here's glad to see meself aboard,' and I reached for the jug and tilted ont a slosh of auld peat rick, which I loaded in bulk. They was too paralyzed to prevent.

"'Well, you're a cool 'and, I must s'y,' says the skipper. ''Ow did you git aboard?'

"'I clum over the bows of her,' I answered. 'There was two old guys tried to stop me, so I had to stretch 'em. Hope they ain't hurted much.'

"A swarthy flush appeared upon the brutal face of the skipper—gee, doc, I can't help it, I'm that fond of readin'—and I thought the bloke'd bust. 'Mind your eye, Jimmy, lad,' says I to meself; 'remember, these are wicked men,' and I hung onto the jug. 'Everything comes to him who waits,' says I, 'so don't wait, but get in the first lick.' Gee, doc, but for an instant there was every indication of an ugly situation,' as you writin' fellers puts it. Then says the skipper: 'So, 'twas you bashed in their 'eads, me lad?'

"'Sure,' I answered. 'What d'ye t'inks? When a cove's stood to make a couple o' thousand in a few hours' run, then sees his vessel shut up like a 'cordion agin' a growler, and a vallyble cargo gone glimmerin''——

"He interrupts: 'And what was your cargo?'

"'Chinamen,' I answered. bould as brass. 'Two hundred and fifty-three yaller-bellied chinks at $50 the head. My share as mate'd been a couple o' thou. 'Stead o' that, here's the vessel lost—fishin' schooner she was, with a motor into her, and the chinks drowned, and me on the beach ag'in. Worst of it was we had do their business for a couple o' coast guards gittin' out the bay. I wouldn't tell you this, on'y I c'n see you're in the business yourselves. But, say, can you blame me fer bein' put out when them two old whistle-breeches forrard tried to chuck me back?'

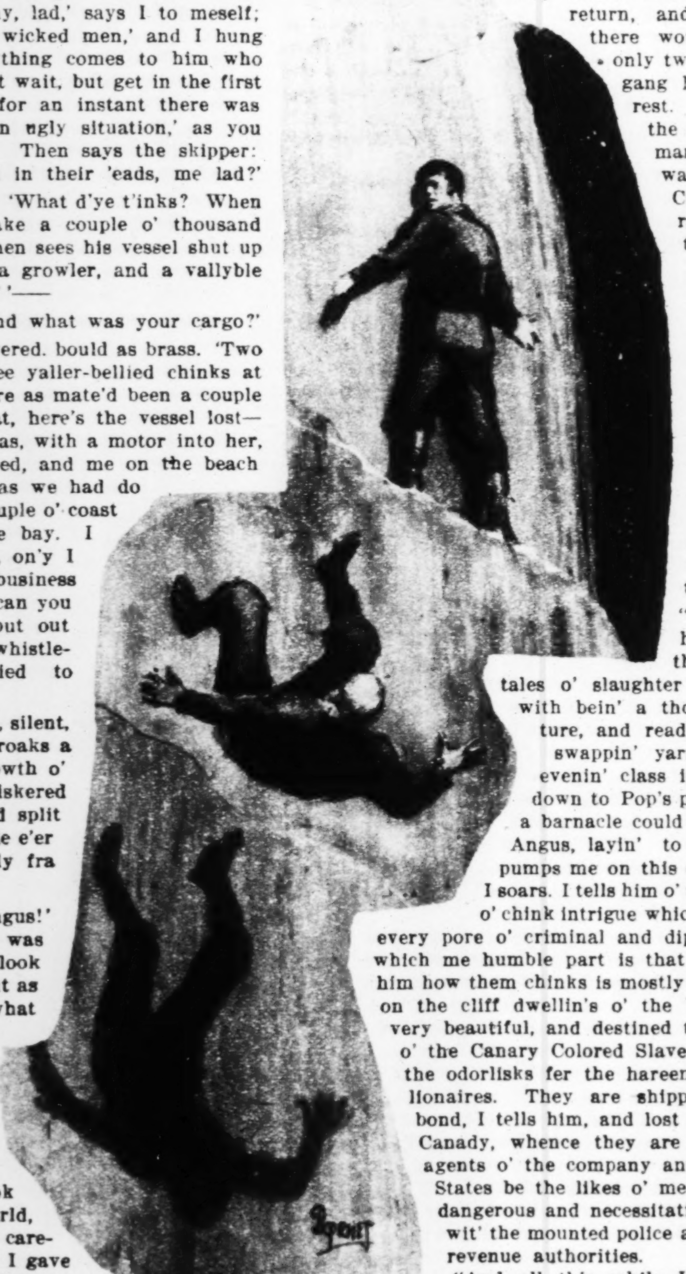
"They goggled at me, silent, for a minute. Then croaks a mutt with a thick growth o' weed—they was all whiskered—and a face you c'u'd split kindlers wit': 'No gude e'er cam' fra savin' a body fra the sea.'

"'How you talk, Angus!' says I. 'Maybe they was kin o' your'n. You look like you might be about as useful in a scrap as what they was. Who knows, maybe if you sling your jaw tackle so blithe and free, you might come to die o' senile decay, just like they done. Y'are not a man has the look o' one long fer this world, unless he is very, very careful of his health. And I gave him a stare that's bluffed more than one roughneck that's tried to give a coarse tenner to the cultured conversation of me friends and patrons f'rm the campus. Then I looked at the skipper. 'What do you care, cap?' says I. 'It's men that's needed in this business, where ye might have to throw a hook into a coast guard any minute. Ye want men, and men that ain't in danger of gettin' concussion o' the brain when they set down hard. I'm open to an offer. Sign me on if ye happen to be short-handed through my unfort'nit carelessness.' I'm always rough when riled. Ye want to remember that, Angus—and don't count too much on that evil eye o' yourn.' One of his eyes paid off to port.

"Gee, doc—did I have that skipper hypnotized? And Angus inwardly disturbed? And them other two admirin' me barroom eloquence? I did. But, best of all, me self-confidence was gradually and swiftly returnin', thanks to a combination of fright, peat rick and the growin' conviction that I had to do with a bunch of murderin' mudheads. And it was not long before it all came out, and I learned that they had jogged over, not to fish for little whales in Davis' Strait, but to plunder a Hudson Bay fur trader at a place called Apavak.

"Commercially speakin', the scheme was not unsound. A lonesome post this, and visited only be the company's ship, and wanderin' native trappers. One of the crew, a Finn, knew the place well, and at this time the trader should be well stocked in pelts of value, to say nothing of money and trade stuff in his store. The post was at the head of the long and twistin' inlet, and the plan was to run in at night and, lyin' in the black shadows of the store, to send a landin' party, which should loot the post, killin' any or all who opposed them. Then, up-stick and away to sea and the takin' of whales, and no man the wiser.

"'Now,' 'ere's a charnce to tyke a little off the top, lad,' says the skipper, and him half drunk. Divvle a show of discipline on this one, the hands bunkin' promiscuous where the notion took them, and little work done but to steer and shovel coal, and not much o' that, she sailin' the best o' the time. Whales they would have to take before their return, and then 'twas likely there would be trouble, the only two real whalers in the gang havin' gone to their rest. These others were the scum o' the stews o' many ports. And here was me, Jimmy MacCann, one o' them pirates, and talkin' like there wasn't any better sport than to slit some poor, lonesome guy of a trader under the gills, gut his store set her ablaze and then, if things looked all right, move on to the next post along the shore, for this here Apavak trader was not the only one them vampires had their eyes on.



"'One scream he gave, then slipped his foothold, and the black shadows took him.'"

"Gee, doc, ye sh'u'd ha' seen me fillin' them hyenas with tales o' slaughter and rapine. What with bein' a thoughtful liar by nature, and readin' your stories and swappin' yarns wit' me elective evenin' class in contem'rary crime down to Pop's place, I w'u'd ha' been a barnacle could I not of awed them. Angus, layin' to one side his wrath, pumps me on this coolie smugglin', and I soars. I tells him o' the vast secret system o' chink intrigue which has its tentacles in every pore o' criminal and diplomatic life, and of which me humble part is that of a pawn. I tells him how them chinks is mostly women took in raids on the cliff dwellin's o' the Yankety Kiang, and very beautiful, and destined to enrich the coffers o' the Canary Colored Slave Co., which supplies the odorlisks fer the hareems of American millionaires. They are shipped from Seattle in bond, I tells him, and lost in the wilderness of Canady, whence they are rounded up be the agents o' the company and smuggled into the States be the likes o' me. A good graft, but dangerous and necessitatin' frequent conflicts wit' the mounted police and the United States revenue authorities.

"And all this while I was delightin' the lugs o' me listeners, I was millin' about in me mind some way to warn this trader, a Frinch canuk be name Pear Gillyneck, or so it seemed. 'Twas not only Pear to cause me worry, but I learned from this scut of a scullion off the Pelican, what had visited the post, that Pear had a granddaughter, who, though but a slip of a child, was as pretty as a silver-fox pelt. 'A nice place for her, this tub o' blood,' says I to meself, and plans to jump ship the minute the jumpin's good. There was not long to wait. A hard nor'easter takes a runnin' lep off the snow fields of Greenland, and wafts us up to Baffin Land, where we slips into a windin' bight, and comes quietly to anchor, the little barky's spars almost shakin' hands wit' the pine trees. The post is at the head of the inlet around the promontory, and some three or four miles higher up, and the simple procedure is to man a couple o' the boats, pull up under the shadow of the shore, which is black as pitch, and, leavin' the boats a bit below to pot the trader when he sticks out his head to see what is ailin' the dogs. Sh'u'd there happen to be others about, Indians or half-breed trappers and the like, they are to share the same fate. Then load the boats and off aboard and out to sea to visit a post across the strait. Of the granddaughter no word was said. But take her along they would not dare, nor leave her alive no more, so that even a movin' picture secret-service agent c'u'd have made a near guess at the fate awaitin' her.

"'Twas just after dark we entered, driftin' in wit' a fair wind under royal and fore topsail, and hid be the wooded promontory. 'And how the divvle am I to warn me friend Pear?' says I to myself, for no time was bein' lost, the anchor hangin' from a manila cable that there be no clankin' o' chain, and the boat towin' alongside, armed and ready, the oars parceled wit rags where they took the rowlocks. From hopin' agin' hope that there might be some delay that would give me time to warn the trader, it soon got under me top hammer that in the present case opportunity was not to be taken, but made. And how? Here was all as ready for immejit action as a wolf to snap, and once the anchor gone, we would be away.

"There was but a single chance, and that distasteful. I had seen by the chart that the post was around the promontory and up at the head of the bight, on the other side of the neck of land we was approachin' Could I only manage to get ashore, the distance to the post as the bird flies would not be a quarter of that to be covered by the boats. But there was two drawbacks. In the first place, I was not ashore, and, in the second, I was not a bird. There was a fringe of pines along back o' the water's edge, and behind them the cliffs rose sheer and higher than our truck, and dark and forbidden'. As for gettin' ashore, there was too many movin' about the decks to slip over the side and swim for it, and also the moonlight was on the water, and the ripples were sure to be seen. Should this happen, one did not need a palmist to tell the immejit future. A boat cast off, a few strokes, then biff! wit' the butt of an oar, and bubbles.

"So I held meself in hand, sittin' on the rail pipe, while the sails was clewed by some o' the yachtin' party, and she lost her way, and the hook was gently lowered and bit the ground. We fetched up almost in the foliage, and had I been a flyin' squirrel, I might ha' risked it, but a wingless and logy biped, I stood pat. Me reputation as a fightin' man had got me the place of honor, and I was to have the proud privilege o' stoppin' the first o' the loose lead, and as a special honor, the cuttin' o' Pear's throat. Me share o' the loot was to be that o' the others.

"'Tumble in, now!' growls the skipper. 'Look alive, lads, and don't make no n'yse abaht it. 'Andle yer oars now,' says he, talking thick and fast and steady, 'count o' the drink he'd had, but with a sort of whine that showed he was nervous, and none too stuck on the job. It hadn't needed no trained artistic eye to get his color from the minute I'd piped him down. Quarantine was his hue.

"My billet was bow oar, and I was just shovin' off, when the idee struck me. The beach was may be a cable's length distant and just as the skipper was about to give the order f'r us to give way, I says, sharp and sudden:

"'Sh-h-h—listen!'

"All hands was still as death for a second or two. Then the skipper asks me what I thought I heard.

"'The beat of a ship's engines,' I answered, 'but maybe I was wrong. Me ears is like the ears of an owl from me smugglin' habits, and trained to such sounds. But one cannot be always sure.'

"'Listen ag'in, says he. ''Old your lug close to the watter.'

"I done so, then straightened up and shook me head. 'It is bafflin , says I. 'It comes and goes. Let us pull ahead a bit and I will listen once more. 'Twould be no joke to find ourselves bottled up in the bight. There is always the chance of the company's ship bein' ahead of her schedule time.'

"So we dipped our oars and pulled perhaps 500 yards, this takin' us closer under the beach. Presently I raised me hand.

"'Oars!' says I. 'Now hold your breat', the lot of ye.' And I leaned over the gunnel, me ear close to the water's edge. For a moment I listened, then begun to cuss. 'There she is!' says I. 'Anybody who is not deef can hear now. Listen, all hands.'

"Gee, doc, but wasn' they the real Orinoco ivory nuts? Over the side they rubbered, skipper and all, their gills almost awash, and my weight acrost the opposite gun-

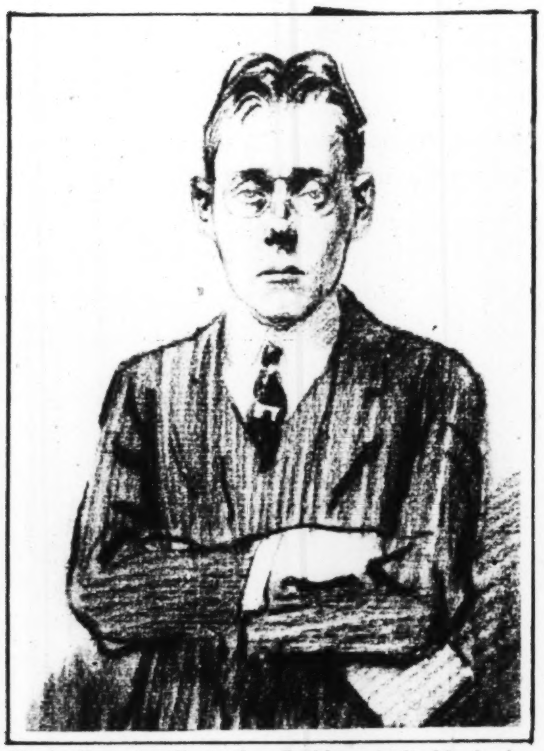
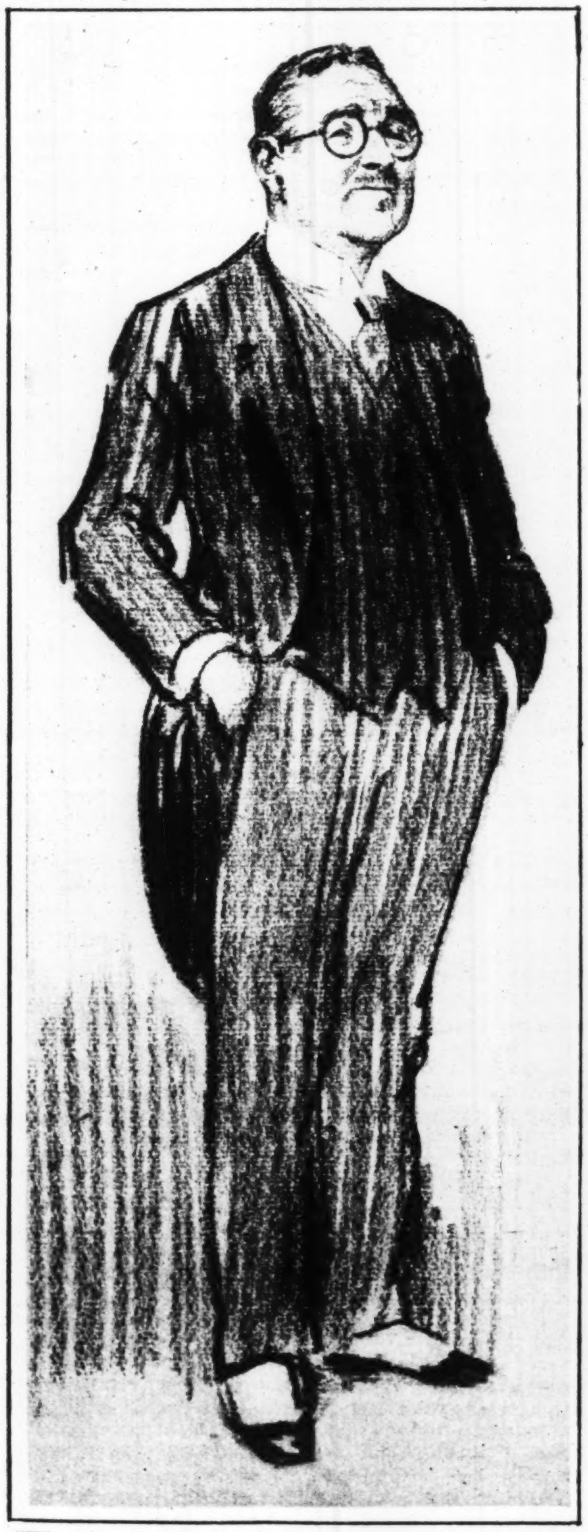
THE INTELLECTUALS

CHARACTER SKETCHES BY W. E. HILL

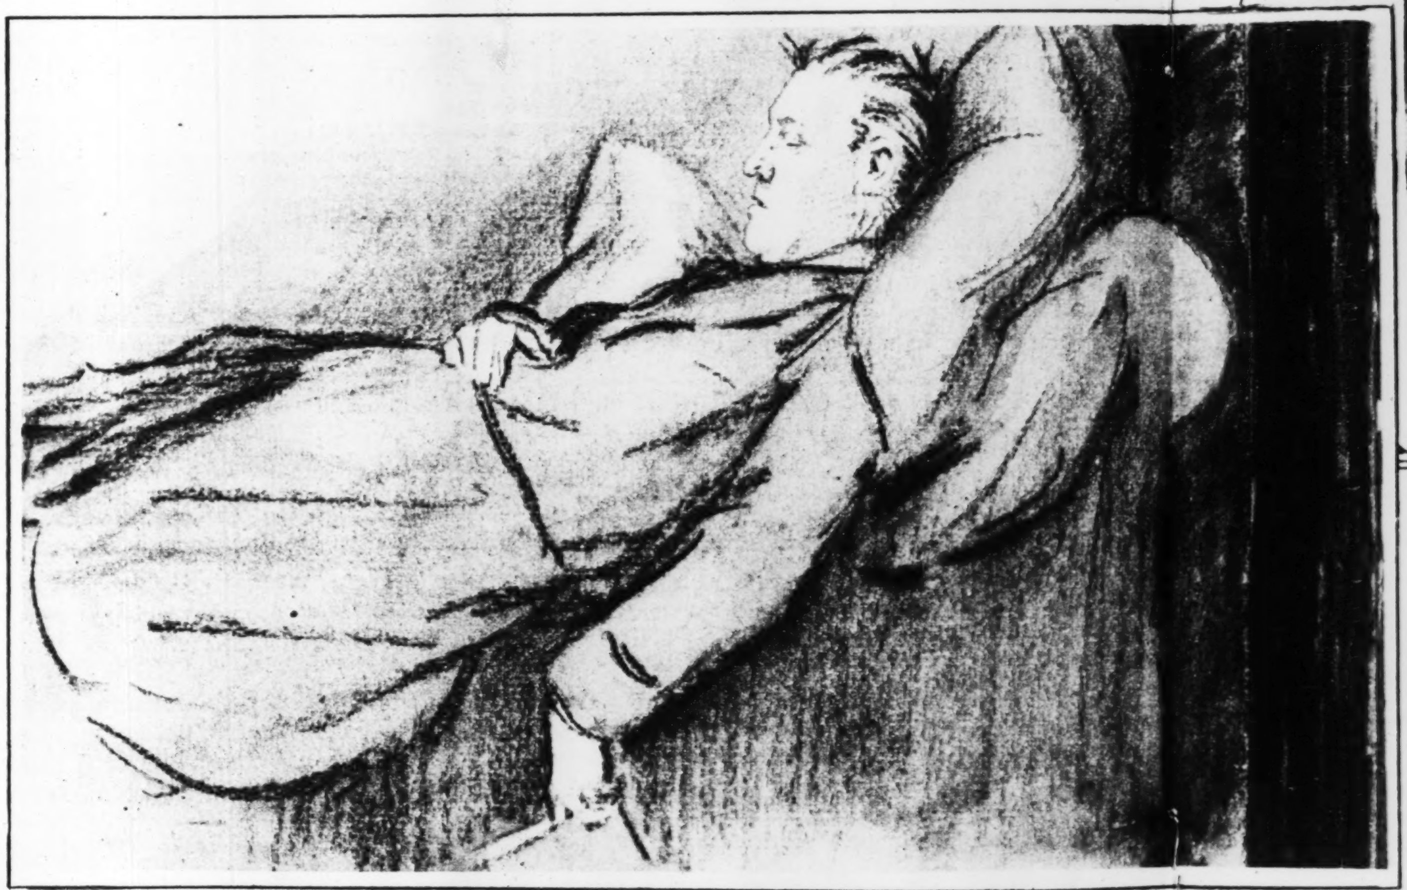


The college intellectual. Cuthbert is in his junior year and there's nothing he can't tell you. Can talk for hours on the failure of religion and civilization. Likes Schopenhauer and the automaton theory.

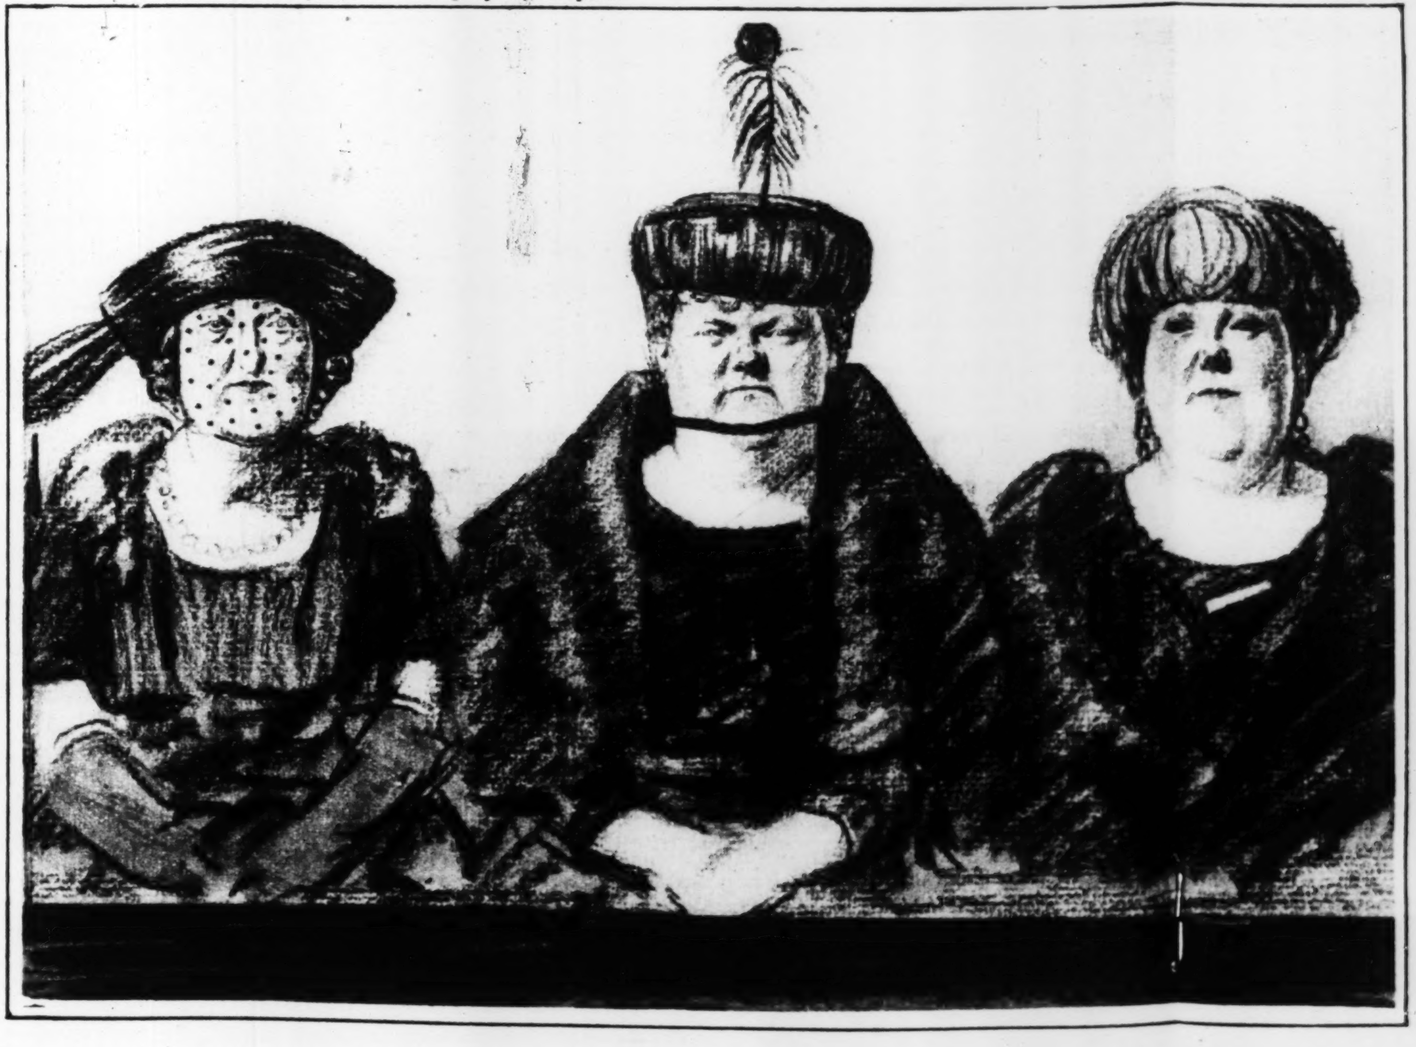


"What do you think of Tagore—pretty good? No?" The man who always plays safe on opinions. When enough people agree that such and such or so and so is good stuff or bad, he will do likewise. Without the preface to go by he would be all at sea on the average book.

Mary, the débutante, is having a terrible time. Her newest suitor is a Nietzsche fan and Mary is reading up on Mr. Nietzsche. Mary has about decided that the quarry is not worth the chase.



The toy philosopher. Arthur is great on philosophy—Plato, Kant, Spinoza, and Bergson—though he never gets very far. After a few pages it always seems to be time for Arthur to go somewhere, or else he falls asleep. However, as Arthur will tell you, "It's a mighty big subject."



Three ladies, who have decided that money isn't everything, attending a snappy lecture on the Einstein theory.

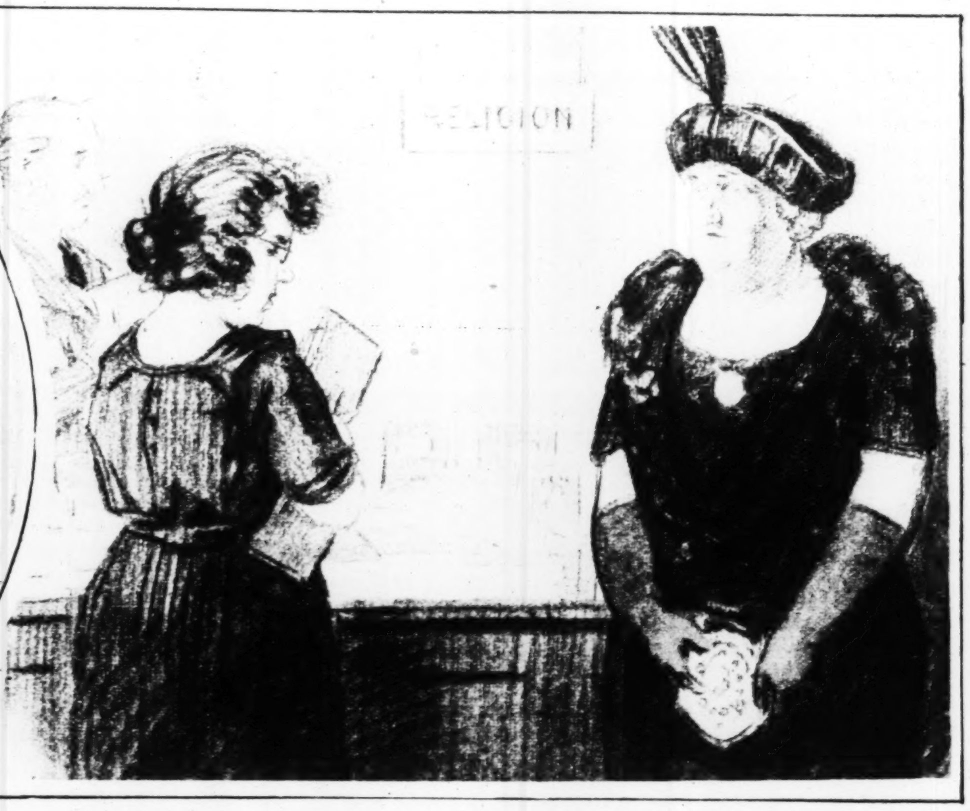
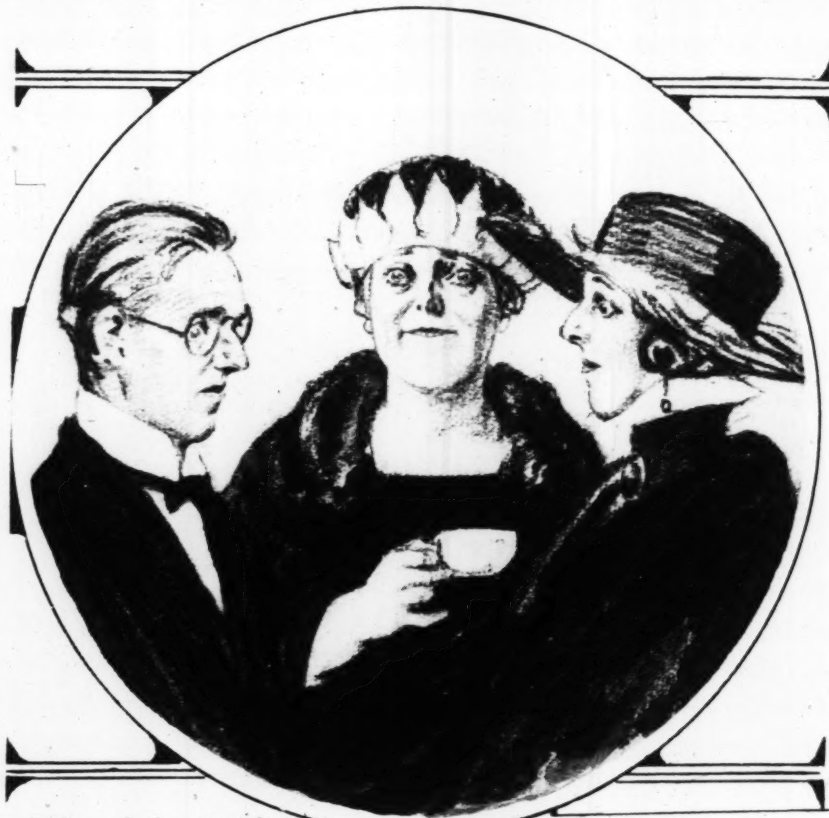
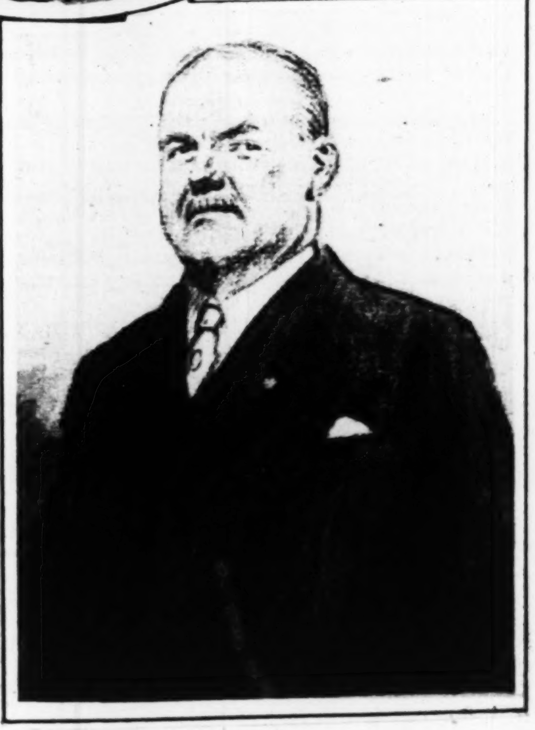
The very modern lady with the homemade Dutch cut, who is always a little in advance of the literary game. About five laps ahead of Mr. Einstein and the fourth dimension just at present.



Mrs. Mock is always just a little behind the times in her literary struggles. Mrs. Mock never can seem to catch up within a year of what everybody is reading. Mr. Purse and Miss Muncie are trying to find what Mrs. Mock thinks is the "Transfiguration of Mr. Somebody Adams." Both Mr. Purse and Miss Muncie are positive that Mrs. Mock means either a life of John Quincy Adams or a book by Franklin P. Adams. Mrs. Mock, to quote her very words, is completely nonplused!



Ladies of the recently intellectual set love to meet authors and writers. It's a much simpler method of getting the intellectual slant than having to wade through a lot of stupid reading matter. Observe Harrington Meow, with his back to the wall, being vamped at a celebrity tea by two charming ladies, who want to know just how, when and where he happened to write his wonderful volume on "Feminine Sex Impulses."



Humphrey P. Scharp is the latest addition to the recently intellectual class. One of those big, virile, red-blooded men with absolutey no use for a lot of sissy poets and arty people—no, siree! But Humphrey P. has fallen for the intellectual gang and now supports three little theater movements and boasts proudly of a bowing acquaintance with a writer of free verse and a book reviewer.

OVERLOOK HOUSE

By WILL PAYNE

THIRTEENTH INSTALLMENT.

JUDGE CRANE led the way into his study on the second floor, closing the door behind himself and his son, and when they were seated he surveyed the son for a moment, his own face settled in a grim mask, the corners of the mouth pulled down.

"Dan, you and I have gone along together a good while," he began, with deliberation. "I thought we were good friends."

"I hope we are, father," Danforth replied, with an inward wince.

"You don't act like it," the Judge went on, without visible heat. "You've been to McKeon asking questions about that girl—the maid."

Danforth then understood what his father wished to talk to him about, and answered: "Yes, I did go to McKeon."

The Judge pressed deliberately on, in the manner of a professional cross-examiner: "You must have known it was my affair. You must have known that McKeon wouldn't have taken a hand in it except for me."

"Why, no; I didn't know that, father," said Danforth. "I went to McKeon to find that out."

"You suspected it, then."

"Well, it seemed probable that he had acted for you. I wanted to find that out," Danforth replied.

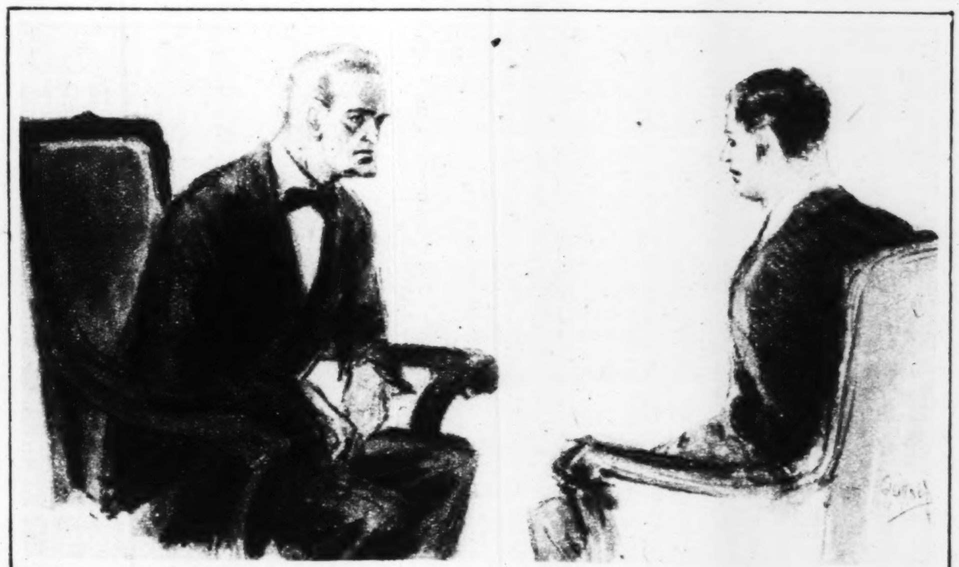
"If you even suspected that it was my affair, why didn't you come to me—if you had to go to anybody at all? I don't interfere in your affairs, do I?"

"No," Danforth admitted.

"Whatever happened," the Judge went on, "happened in my house—with my doctor. I should say that on the face of it, it was my affair. But you didn't come to me. You went behind my back. That's why I am talking to you, Dan. It looks to me as though you were trying to get something on me. Naturally, I want to know where I stand. If you're shooting at me from behind the hedge, what's up? What are you after? I thought I'd played fair with you—given you your share or a little better—let you have your head as much as you pleased and backed you the best I knew how. What's up?"

Stated in that way the son's action did look mean and the son couldn't deny that the statement was a fair one.

"Why, it was my affair, too," he said, and paused. . . . How to explain rationally the various steps by which he came into the affair? He deliberated over it a moment, then looked his father squarely in the face and cut through at a stroke to the heart of the matter: "I love Peggy Loughman, father."



"If you're shooting at me from behind the hedge, what's up?"

Such a confession might well be made by a son 15 years younger than this one, to a mother in one of those intimate moments which run back to the time when the son sat on the mother's knee. Passing between these two adult males, toughened by many a tussle with the world—the confessor being 36 and ponderous, with a name of power—it had a rather electrical effect.

"Of course, I've known her since she was a baby," Danforth went on. "She used to sit on my knee. . . . The little witch always got close to my heart. It didn't occur to either of us that I would ever be anything more than a big brother." He was looking steadily at the Judge, but dreaming back to it.

"About two years ago, when she was 18, it changed in a month. I wanted to marry her. I felt that she was too young then—it would hardly be decent. I think I could have married her if Ted Pennell hadn't come along. It seemed all up with me then. All the same, she wouldn't let me sleep." . . . Looking at the Judge and dreaming back, Danforth gave a little sigh.

"Probably you've forgotten about it, father; or maybe you never felt it. When a man as old and hard as I am gets hit that way there's plenty of fuel to burn. It's true, I never paid much attention to women. I've played around with some of 'em and been fond of some of 'em; but it never counted for much more than amusement. She's got me all over. I've never begun to want anything else as much as I want her. I don't care a damn for Ted Pennell. He don't deserve one of her old shoes. If he's fool enough and puppy enough to queer his own game over a little doll of a housemaid and so throw Peggy away, I'm entitled to that advantage. Let him get out. I'll be mighty good to Peggy if she marries me."

Judge Crane, in a very considerable astonishment, struck his fingers through his stubborn hair and muttered: "I hadn't thought of this."

"Well, naturally you wouldn't," Danforth replied. "I'm telling you because I want you to know that it was my affair. You see, Peggy herself got anxious about that business of the missing maid. Some things came to her notice that disturbed her a lot. She came to me with her trouble. She does come to me, father. There's no reason why she shouldn't come to stay when this business is settled. I undertook to find out what had happened because she asked me to. I found out about a girl being buried on the strength of a death certificate issued by Dr. McKeon and I went to him."

Danforth knew well enough that this was not an exactly candid statement, yet who could point out just where it deviated from exact truth?

"It was my affair because Peggy herself asked me to find out. I thought it likely enough that you were shielding Pennell on mamma's account. But when shielding him meant handing Peggy over to him and he had no right to her and I loved her myself, I thought I was justified in what I did."

More quickly than he had spoken before, and frowning, the Judge asked: "How much does she know about it, Dan? Peggy? What does she know about it?"

Danforth reflected a moment and replied: "She knows that Benjamin says Katey telephoned about 3 o'clock that she wasn't coming back and that she was seen lying insensible in the laundry about 5 o'clock, and next morning Dr. McKeon bought a coffin, saying it was for a maid in his house—although he never had a maid of the name he gave—and that he signed a death certificate for this fictitious maid of his and she was buried at Stony Cove that afternoon. Peggy doesn't know positively that the girl who was buried up there is Katey, but she knows that it looks mightily that way. I could have told her positively that the girl was Katey, but she went away, you know—down to the Cotters."

Judge Crane's face puckered; he struck his hand through his hair again, and said, with anxiety: "Dan, I'm afraid we've spilled the beans—both of us. I'm afraid something rotten has happened. . . . I like that Peggy girl mighty well myself. She's sort of my girl. When Ben Loughman died I proposed to do just as well, according to the different circumstances, by his wife and little girl as he could have done himself if he'd lived. I liked Ben Loughman better than any man I ever met in my life. I liked Judy and the girl, too. You see, she's sort of been my girl. I warned her as well as I could about Ted Pennell." . . .

The Judge stared very gravely at his son a moment and lowered his voice a bit:

"Ted killed that girl Katey in his bedroom—shot her."

There was no surprise in that statement to Danforth, yet hearing his father affirm it gave it finality. Having affirmed that, the Judge took up his problem again, frowning over it.

"From start to finish there's been just one thing in my mind about this business—one big thing that everything else has got to give way to—and that's my wife. You know mamma ain't been very well lately, even for her. I know McKeon don't like the situation, and I don't like it. . . . I've had a job to do ever since she cracked her heart lugging that damned box, son. You say I don't know how you feel about Peggy, and probably I don't, for I'm a lot older than you are. But I know mighty well that if anybody on two legs lifts a finger against mamma he's going to find a pretty lively old man on his back. She was what I thought of the first thing. Of course, she loves Ted Pennell just like he was her own son. A great hullabaloo and racket—Ted taken up for murder and all that—I believed that it would kill her and I believe so now. She ain't going to be killed in any such way if I can help it.

"All I thought about, really, was to keep it still and cover it up and save her. Of course, I've been pretty good to McKeon. Guess he knows I'll be better to him. I sent for him and put it up to him that he'd got to save his patient's life—got to! He knew I'd stand behind him to the limit, and it didn't look very difficult. Katey had no relatives in this country so far's we knew. Didn't seem that anybody would be inquiring particularly about a Polish maid or questioning anything Bradford McKeon did. He agreed to undertake it and got the girl buried, as you know, and there it stands."

"I thought it was about that," Danforth commented; "and as I look at it, Ted Pennell is counted out. He threw away his chance. I don't see that he's entitled to any consideration."

"He ain't," the Judge replied; "not a bit. But I don't like the looks of it, Dan; not at all." In doubt and exasperation the Judge struck his hand across his hair again.

"You see, he wanted me to give him a job—send him away somewhere—a long way for a long time, he said. Naturally, I wanted him to go a long way off for a long time myself. Ferguson is going to start for Russia next week, you know. I thought of that. It would be just about the job for him. But I wanted him out of the way meanwhile—not having much more confidence in his good sense than in anything else about him. So I asked him if he knew some place where he could go and keep still until I sent him word and he mentioned a place down in New Jersey. That seemed all right, temporarily, and he promised me, honor bright, that he'd stay right there and never take a step away until he heard from me.

"But even after he'd gone I was sort of worried about Peggy. Naturally I hadn't much confidence in Ted. I don't doubt he's in love with Peggy—in his way. And I don't doubt she's in love with him. With a girl in love you never can tell what fool thing may happen. So I gave Peggy a good, broad warning—the best I could under the circumstances—and I thought, coming from me, she'd pay attention to it. I told her if she was my girl she shouldn't commit herself to Ted Pennell. You see, I was afraid he'd slip up here after her or get her to come to him. I thought very likely if he got away where he couldn't see her, and thought he was going off a good way—separated from her for a long time—he might begin to cry for his cake. So I gave her the best warning I could."

He was scowling and loath over the thought in his mind. "It wasn't until yesterday afternoon that I heard Peggy had left here. You know Judy. If she lost a leg, somebody would have to remind her of it. She said Peggy'd gone down to see the Cotter girls, near Quincy—unconcerned as you please. Not having any confidence in Judy, either, I just came back here and called up the Cotters—not giving my own name, but asking for Peggy. The answer was that she hadn't been there. Then I called up Ted's place in New Jersey, and the answer was that he'd left there—taken the train for New York. . . . So there that stands, Dan. I don't like the looks of it."

Danforth's face was impassive and he attempted no reply; it struck him like a blow from a sledge hammer. In a moment he muttered: "I hadn't thought of that."

"No," said the Judge. . . . "Well, what's anybody to do? I don't know. If you start a hullabaloo you're a mighty sight more apt to do harm than good. Peggy may have gone somewhere else than the Cotters'. Ted may have just run up to New York. But I don't like the looks of it. I've been on nettles ever since yesterday afternoon for fear a message might come that they were married somewhere or other." He frowned harder over that a moment, and added, with exasperation: "But that doesn't seem like Peggy either; doesn't seem as though she'd do that. Seems like she had too much sense—and character. Maybe she's just gone somewhere else. Maybe she's just let him persuade her to meet him somewhere and talk it over. But—a girl in love—it does make me damned nervous," he concluded, thrusting his fingers through his hair. "I'll feel a mighty sight better when I know there's nothing happened. . . . Of course, if she's run off and married him there's nothing to do but make the best of it."

It would be a poor best for Danforth—youth triumphant in the end, in spite of its enormous follies, and himself forever defeated. Probably it was only in this moment that he realized how mightily he had built on his hope of Peggy. He had to swallow, and his voice was husky as he said: "I suppose there's nothing to do but wait and see."

"Why, I don't see what else we can do, Dan," the Judge replied. "If nothing has happened I wouldn't want to be the one to start any disturbance—about Peggy in that way. And if they're married there's nothing more to be said. . . . At least we can wait a day. Some word is bound to come soon, I should think." In a moment he looked up at his son, adding: "And so, you see, it may be up to us to keep the thing dark for Peggy's sake, too. If she's married him we don't want her dragged into this mess—publicly."

"That's true," Danforth assented, and with this new light on the affair he added: "But it's known already. Hilton knows about it."

"Hilton?" the Judge exclaimed sharply. "How?"

"I don't know how," Danforth replied. "But I know he knows about it. He came to me with it this morning. Seems he's been stealing some of your Alpha Oil debentures. He proposes to use this Katey business to square the account—blackmail, of course. I think you'd best see him now; or we might see him together."

Being no putter-off, Judge Crane immediately reached over and pushed a button on the table, at the same time asking Danforth: "What does he know?"

"Well, he knows about somebody being buried up there near Stony Cove on the strength of a death certificate signed by Dr. McKeon," Danforth replied. "Whether or not he knows positively that that girl up there is Katey, I don't know. I didn't cross-examine him, but told him to see you. At any rate, he seems to know enough so he might demand an official order to exhume the body and have it identified."

The Judge pondered that for some time and remarked: "Guess I ain't as smart as I thought I was."

Benjamin appeared in the doorway and the Judge said to him: "See if you can find Mr. Hilton and ask him to come up here right away."

The butler happened to know where Mr. Hilton was, or where he had been only a few minutes before, so he went there to find him, and having found him, delivered the message. Three or four minutes later Hilton knocked on the door of the Judge's study, then at once opened the door and stepped in. There was a slight, disagreeable smile on his lips—in the nature of a swagger—and his face was flushed. He had hardly reached the table near which Judge Crane and Danforth sat before both of them perceived that he had been drinking recklessly—not exactly drunk, perhaps, by the common definition of that word, for he walked in a straight line; but certainly a long way from sober.

"You want to see me?" he asked, smiling, with that little swagger in his tone, as he helped himself to a chair.

"Yes," the Judge replied—himself very sober indeed. "Danforth tells me you've been to him with a story about a maid named Katey who left my house last week."

"Did he tell you the story, Judge?" said Hilton, impudently.

"No; tell it to me now," the Judge answered.

"Oh, very well," Hilton replied, the last drink that he had swallowed before coming upstairs reddening his mind. "Katey was killed here in your house. Her body was carried down to the laundry and taken to Dr. Bradford McKeon's that night. Next day McKeon bought a coffin in Windham—Furness is the undertaker's name. He issued a death certificate and Katey was buried near Stony Cove. The body has been positively identified."

"How do you know?" the Judge demanded.

Hilton looked over at him, as one scorning the crucial point in a game and replied: "Cordwainer."

The name struck Danforth with a disagreeable surprise, and his thought at once turned vengefully to Mr. Eastman. "Has Cordwainer been here?" he asked.

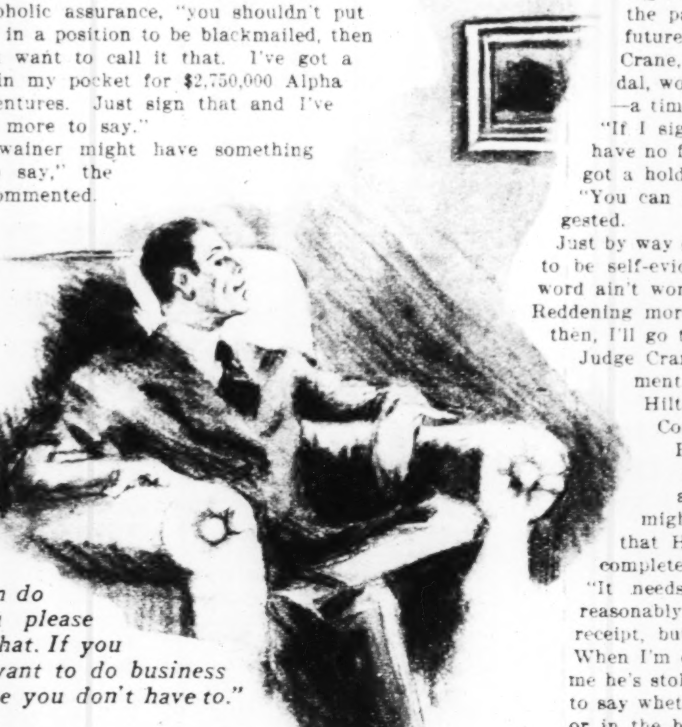
"No," Hilton replied, with assurance, "but one of his operatives named Miss Jenny George has been here. The body has been positively identified. And don't forget," he added, warningly, "that it can be identified again—today, if necessary." In his alcoholic assurance he had determined to press the affair to settlement that day.

The Judge pondered that for a moment and Hilton went on, confidentially, "not that I particularly want to stir up a mess, you know. I'm ready enough to let it rest. It's simply this: We all make our mistakes. I've made mine; you've made yours. I'm ready to wipe the slate and call it quits if you are.

"I don't much like being blackmailed," Judge Crane remarked, after a moment.

"Well, Judge," said Hilton, with impudent and alcoholic assurance, "you shouldn't put yourself in a position to be blackmailed, then—if you want to call it that. I've got a receipt in my pocket for $2,750,000 Alpha Oil debentures. Just sign that and I've nothing more to say."

"Cordwainer might have something more to say," the Judge commented.



"Why, you can do as you please about that. If you don't want to do business with me you don't have to."

"You know Cordwainer as well as I do, or better," Hilton replied. "He has his reputation. I never heard him accused of blackmail. You know he couldn't afford it. His business is mostly in Wall street. A quiet word spread around by you would queer him forever. You oughtn't to have anything to fear from him."

All of which was quite true, as Judge Crane acknowledged to himself.

"Besides," Hilton added, significantly, "in a month or two there'll be nothing to dig up that anybody could recognize. The secret will bury itself for keeps in a few weeks. Nobody could raise a finger then—unless McKeon goes back on you, and I guess you've no fear of that."

That also was true enough. All the logic was in Hilton's favor; by the mathematical rules, he won the game. But Judge Crane couldn't let him win that way; something besides the logic wasn't in his favor. So the tall, rugged old man looked over the handsome, dapper young man—now obviously rather drunk—and remarked:

"I'm not losing any sleep over $2,750,000 these days, Hilton. If you'd come to me like a white man and confessed, I'd have let you off anyway. I'd have done it for your wife's sake and for the sake of the firm, if not for yours. I couldn't very well ruin my brother-in-law. If you hadn't been a crook yourself you'd have known that I play a different kind of game. I'd have let you off anyway."

Even through the alcoholic conflagration that shot went home. For a moment Hilton knew it was true and he had been a dog gratuitously. But the smoke of the conflagration prevented him from seeing clearly for more than a moment.

"Well, what are you grumbling about, then?" he jeered. "If you're ready to wipe the slate, go ahead and do it and there's nothing more to be said. I'm satisfied if you are. Here's the receipt. Just sign it and the thing's all over with."

He took a blank envelope from his breast pocket and from it extracted a folded slip of paper, which he tossed across the table, repeating: "Just sign it and the thing's all over with."

Judge Crane unfolded the slip and at a glance saw it was a formal receipt to Pennell, Hilton & Co., for $2,750,000 of Alpha Oil debentures. "And what then?" he asked.

"What do you mean?" Hilton replied.

"I sign this receipt," said the Judge. "That squares the debenture account. What do you expect to do then? Do you expect me to go ahead doing business with you the same as before?"

That was a question that Hilton had wished to keep in the background. But since the Judge ruthlessly dragged it out, he could only answer:

"Why, you can do as you please about that. If you don't want to do business with me you don't have to."

He was much more than half drunk, with all the optimism which usually accompanies that condition, yet this line of conversation made him uneasy.

"But you might want me to do business with you," Judge Crane persisted. "After blackmailing me into signing this receipt, you might decide to blackmail me again."

In his inebriate optimism Hilton had, in fact, been looking beyond the mere signing of the receipt. That act would cancel the past and leave him nothing for the future. He had supposed that Judge Crane, in his anxiety to hush up the scandal, would let the future take care of itself—a timid man misjudging a bold one.

"If I sign this receipt," the Judge said, "I have no further hold on you, but you've still got a hold on me. I don't like it that way."

"You can take my word for it," Hilton suggested.

Just by way of coolly stating a fact which ought to be self-evident, Judge Crane replied: "Your word ain't worth a damn with me, Hilton."

Reddening more, Hilton flared back: "All right, then, I'll go to the Coroner—right now!"

Judge Crane coolly measured him for a moment. He would not have been afraid of Hilton sober, because going to the Coroner meant ruin to Hilton, too. But it was not so easy to tell what an unstable, ill-balanced man, who already was more than half drunk, might do. He thought it rather likely that Hilton, if left to himself, would be completely drunk by dinner time.

"It needs some thinking over," he said, reasonably. "I'm ready enough to sign the receipt, but I want to know where I stand. When I'm dealing with a gentleman who tells me he's stolen $2,750,000, I ought to be entitled to say whether I'll take the wallop in the neck or in the belly. You spoke of Cordwainer. I don't remember the woman's name. What was it?"

"Her name is Jenny George," said Hilton, with his truculent air, not catching the relevance of the question.

"Make a note of that, Dan," said the Judge to his son. Then to Hilton: "She must know the story, too. Not much use my paying you a couple of million dollars for it if she may bob up tomorrow and demand a million from me. I want to know where I stand in that regard. You say she's working for Cordwainer, but I'd like some corroborative evidence of it. I know Cordwainer and have some confidence in him. If he says this woman is working for him and he'll vouch for her, that's one thing. I want to call him up and hear what he has to say on that point. That's reasonable enough, ain't it?"

It was so reasonable that Hilton could only retort: "Go ahead, call him up!"

"It will take a little time," the Judge reminded him; "maybe an hour or two on Saturday afternoon, when he's apt to be away from the office. Then I want to know what security I can take from you so's to be reasonably sure that when I sign this receipt that will end it. A little time will do your case no hurt. I'm ready enough to sign your receipt, Hilton; but I want to know where I stand. I'll call up Cordwainer and talk it over with Dan, and then I'll send for you or come and find you. You can make yourself comfortable around the house somewhere."

As it was the master of the house who was speaking, Hilton knew not how to refuse that request to leave the room for the present. Scowling, he muttered:

"Very well; if that suits you better. I will be waiting for you," and so took himself from the room.

He was angry about it, with an exasperated feeling that, whereas he had meant to dictate, these insolent Cranes had somehow taken the direction of affairs out of his hands and were coolly shunting him off to one side while they deliberated. He hadn't meant that there should be anything left for them to deliberate upon. And the moment he was out of their masterful presence, he reacted to the rebuff by flaming up defiantly. He resolved that he would give them just one hour and then bring them to book; just one hour! He drew out his watch and marked time, frowning fiercely. Just one hour! So, hotly resolving, he made his way to the sideboard in the dining room.

Meanwhile, as soon as the door closed on Hilton, Judge Crane took up the affair with his son, asking:

"How did you come to know about this, Dan—the nel all that kept her from rollin' down, for she was not like our whaleboats, but more the type o' the Norwegian fishin' skiff, with flare a-plenty, and high freeboard like a dory. And then, when she was nicely balanced, I flung meself suddenly down, and over she went on her beam ends. She did not capsize, not bein' the build, but before them lumps hangin' overside could right themselves she was flooded and awash. And as she settled I slipped under.

"When I broke water at the end of a dozen strokes, the peaceful night was hijus wit' blasphemy. Had the water been less cold, I might ha' laughed, but as it was, I lacked breath. Then I looked back, and the need o' laughter left me. Here, plowin' in me wake not 10 feet astern, come a felly that left a bow wave like a launch, and as the cold moonlight struck down on the mass o' weed he was draggin' fr'm his face, I seen that it was Angus. He had discovered me clever ruse for shore leave without permission, and was figurin' on bustin' up the party.

"Needless to say, I had no wish to wrangle wit' Angus there, so I shoved her up another notch. Them other bathers was hollerin' to the steward to fetch 'em soap, or kickin' at the coldness of the water, but I did not give them heed. 'Twas me or Angus now, so I gripped the brine wit' hand and heel and hove meself ahead. There was a knife on me hip, and once I was tempted to dive and turn and strike him in the bilge. But I feared he was likewise armed, and, strong swimmer as he showed himself, might spike me as I passed beneath. So I held on, and, bein' handier through lack of heavy clothin', I grounded a dozen yards ahead.

"Mind ye, now, I had no wish to quarrel with Angus at that moment, as so doin' might prove fatal to me plans, to say nothin' of meself. So once wit' a foothold, I squattered up and over them kelp-covered rocks like a sea otter, and took a runnin' dive into the fringe o' scrub pines at the foot o' the cliffs. But Angus was hotfooted on me trail, and I could hear the square bulk of him collidin' wit' the scenery, as I started to swarm up what looked to be a fissure in the rock. But it proved to be a fissure that fished out the higher up I went, and presently, at the giddy altitude of a hundred feet or more it flattened to the disappearin' point, leavin' me clingin' to a ledge that might fade likewise at any minute, and Angus directly under me, workin' my way like the patient man o' method hell molded him.

"Gee, doc! All the evil deeds o' me life flashed before me eyes like a movin' play projector on the loose. So fast I could not see them. And then, as I feared, me ledge went back on me, and I turned to see Angus advancin' wit' cautious eagerness, and the moonlight glint on the long, curved knife he held in his fangs. Close to me, almost in strikin' distince, he stopped, flattened out agin' the face o' the cliff like a monstrous spider, tuk the knife from his teet', and laughed. and why should he not? There was I, spread-eagled, belly to the cliff, and clingin' like a tree toad be the suckers o' both paws, the left side o' me to Angus, four inches o' rock tremblin' under me toes, and a hundred feet o' sheer drop into the blackness beneath. Almost in reach o' me was Angus, standin' like a shammy, wit' feet tucked under him on a rounded knob, houldin' to a crevice overhead be his left hand, while his right was weavin' figures wit' the flenchin' knife.

"Chin on shoulder, I examined the strategic features of us both, and was forced to admit that 'twould not be easy to float a big war loan on the strength o' me prospects for a final vict'ry. 'Twas mere social instinct and not wishin' to make a long journey all alone that led me to pinch the stone tighter wit' me left hand, and, loosin' hold wit' the right, to draw me knife wit' caution and hould it in the flat o' me stiffened palm, the point agin' the finger tips. I looked at Angus.

" 'Nae doot ye'd be likin' to say a bit prayer afore ye taste the skene dhu?' says he.

" 'I would,' I answered. 'May God ha' mercy on your sinful soul.' And wit' that I raised me right hand high, as if in benediction, the back to him and the blade held agin' the palm wit' me thumb. Then downward and backward I swung it wit' a snap, and bringin' full strength of arm into play wit' no risk of losin' balance. Ye have but to face the wall and try yourself to see. But ye're apt to throw inward, as I did. The heavy knife clinked agin' the face o' the cliff, glanced out like a flick o' white flame, and I heard it chug into the thick body of him. One scream he gave, then slipped his foothold, and the black shadows tuk him. The crash that came up from beneath was like that of a fallin' tree.

"But all was not yet well, and the goose hangin' high, for be now them blasphemous bathers was bein' rescued. Scarce had Angus' dyin' yelp faded than there was a bilin' for the beach. They did not shoot, dislikin', maybe to profane the peace o' the perfect night. 'Twas catch him alive, O, and toast him to a turn. So back I wriggled, me heart in me mout', searchin' for the scuttle stairs. They was roarin' through the pines when I struck a spot where the rock was rougher and less steep, and up this I swarmed, expectin' every foot to be me last. None but a man wit' death prickin' him on c'u'd ha' done that climb.

"On top was a sort o' broken plateau, which got lower and more broken as I drew near the inlet on the other side, finally crumblin' down to a stairway o' shapeless ledges. And there, on the edge o' the pines, was the post, a long, low cabin, and some outbuildings and a jetty to which was lyin' a small fishin' boat. I started for the place, and while still some distance down the beach, the dogs winded me and began to roar. Then the door of the cabin opened, there was a yelp or two, and I let out a holler. A man lookin' 10 feet high, and the top of him white as driven snow, steps out into the moonlight, rifle in hand, and I thought how easy 'twould ha' been for them murderin' mutts on the whaler.

"There was no fear in the felly, and he tould me to step up and state me errand in the tone of one who has in his time been used to the givin' of orders and seein' them promptly obeyed. And had I tould him that neighbors were comin' in wit' cakes and beer to cilibrate his hundredth annivers'ry, he c'u'd not have been more politely bored. 'Sapristi!' says he, real petulant. 'Why must men be so stupid? Now, it is probable that I shall be obliged to kill a few of these animals and wound others. It is most unfortunate.' And he looked at me like it was me own careless fault. 'Come,' says he; 'put on some dry clothes, and we shall see what is to be done.'

"So into the cabin he led me, and I was struck wit' the fineness of the furnishin's and the air of unostentatious luxury to be felt throughout, as the felly says. He would not listen to me plea for urgent haste, and, examinin' him be the light of the big lamp, I did not argue. There was somethin' about him which made ye feel like not speakin' till spoken to. And him the broth o' politeness, too. So I stepped into the room he showed me, and shed me filthy rags, and climbed into the new, heavy corduroys and woolen blouse, which is wore outside the breeches like the Frinch fishermen from Paimpol and St. Malo you find on the Iceland banks, wit' a thick, blue, sailor cap to match, and here I was, warm and dry and Frinchified. Then out into the livin' room, where I was struck aback at sight of a lovely child wit' great dark eyes, and long, heavy braids, standin' be the hearth, warmin' her little hands at the blaze. She was dressed like an Indian Princess, or so she looked to me, and at sight of her clear, colorless skin, and the grace of her as she moved, I had no doubt of her havin' the right to wear it. The ould gentleman, for 'twas such I thought of this trader of Apavak, was not to be seen.

" 'Grandfather does not seem to be unquiet about these bad men who are going to attack us,' says she, 'so there is no need to be ill at ease. Grandfather always knows precisely what to do,' says she.

" 'True for you, lady,' I answered. ' 'Tis the ould gentleman in command here, and far be it from me to show lack of faith in his tactics. But I hope ye will pardon me for sayin' that while, of course, he knows just what to do, there seems no evidence so far of his doin' it. So, if ye will kindly permit me, I will just step outside and sniff the air a bit.'

"She gives a little nod, so out I went and walked down to the jetty, where, for a minute or two, I stud listenin'. At first I did not hear a sound. The inlet was like black ice in the glare o' the moon, and the shore by which thim cutthroats would come a band of ink agin' the light sky, wit' the tall fir tops gashin' it like teeth. I walked to the end o' the jetty, then down on the landin' stage, and there, lyin' on me chest, I held an ear close to the water's edge.

"And then I got it plain—the low grunt of muffled oars, slow and regular, and not far away. 'Twas all I needed, so I sa'ntered back acrost the moonlit space and into the cabin, if you c'u'd call it such, bein' as it was really a solid one-story house of logs and cement, wit' maybe half a dozen rooms. The ould gentleman was toastin' his shins before the blaze, and as he looked up wit' the ruddy glow upon his fine, strong face, I said that I had never seen a handsomer man.

" 'Poor, misguided ruffians,' says he, 'their fate will be a hard one, I fear,' and, reachin' for a box of Havanas, he offers one to me, who takes it in a trance, then fires up himself. I noticed he had shifted from his long dressing gown into a costume like me own, but shirt and coat instead o' blouse. He looks acrost at me and smiles.

" 'I am to be shot in effigy directly,' says he. 'It is not the first time this has happened—though the circumstances are rather different. Come, we might as well arrange the dummy.' And he steps into his room, comin' out a minute later wit' a figure stuffed and padded, as one could see, to represent himself. There was even a painted face and snowy hair of cotton waste. This dummy he hangs from a pulley, which runs on a wire over the door, and so attaches it to the latch that it will be drawn upon the threshold as the door opens.

"I watched him in wonder. 'Ye must ha' been expectin' somethin' o' the sort, sir,' says I, regardin' him wit' open gawp.

" 'I have,' he answered, smilin pleasantly.

" 'But when it is riddled, and the rush comes?' I asked.

"He raised his hand for silence. 'Listen!' says he. 'What is that?'

" 'Sounded like a hoot owl, sir,' says I, wonderin' if me back hair was standin' up like it felt. Me, that not an hour before had hung from a high ledge by both eyewinkers, and socked a knife between the ribs of a red-headed giant of a helander.

" 'Quite so,' says Pear, 'a hoot owl,' and he turns to the Princess. 'You had better step into your room, my dear,' says he, and then to me: 'Keep back from the door, MacCann, and avoid the windows, though I think the blinds are bullet proof,' says he.

" 'And our weapons, sir?' I asked.

" 'We shall not need them,' says he, then steps to the smokin' table, takes a fresh cigar, and lights it, smokin' slow and thoughtful, and puffin' his smooth-shaven lips before lettin' the blue eddies out between them. Not a word did he say, nor me, neither, though nervous as a bridegroom, and eatin' the end of my cigar. But not for worlds would I ha' thought o' mixin' into his meditations. Somehow his silence seemed fittin' and proper.

"How many minutes passed like this I could not say, but I was gettin' swimmy in the head from watchin' the flickerin' flames when there comes a hail from outside. It was hoarse and blurred with a sort o' break in it, but in spite o' that I recognized the skipper's voice.

" ' 'Ullo, the 'ouse!' he hollers, and from some place the dogs began to bark, dim and muffled, like they was underground.

" 'Stand back, my young friend,' says Pear, and laid hand on the latch.

" 'Hold on, sir,' says I. 'What if they make a rush?'

" 'It is not probable,' says he, 'but even so, we have nothing to fear. Stand back.'

"Back I was already standin', divvle a fear. Pear swings wide the door, and as it opens the dummy moves to the middle o' the sill, where it stands hard and clear agin' the light within. But only for an instant, when, crash! comes a volley with the rush o' flyin' lead before our faces, and the dummy falls, riddled through and through, and Pear swings the door and bars it.

" 'Ample evidence of piracy,' says he, and pushes at the dummy with his foot. At the same minute there is ructions from outside. First an officer's whistle, loud and shrill. 'Hands up, ye scoundrels!' roars a melojous voice in accents mild as the Bull o' Bashan. Profane swearin' follows his words, and then a rifle shot, which is drowned in a cracklin' volley. There is some cries; not many, and them weak. They stop and somebody is rappin' at the door. 'All over, Gillyneck,' says a crisp voice. 'Brought it on themselves, the blackguards,' says he.

"And the how and why of it all? 'Tis this: Them scalawags had hatched the murderin' scheme in Dundee docks, and this scullion scut I have mentioned confides the same when in his cups to his light o' love, a strappin' lass that works in the jute factories. But with him a week at sea she gets consolation from a young po-liceman, whom, wishin' to help in the matter o' pay and stripes, she tells about the plot. So the Canadian police are notified, and have no trouble in locatin' Pear as the lonesome guy elected to wear a crown. Consequently, they are on the lookout, and the trap is laid. There were a dozen rifles that do not miss coverin' me as I stud talkin' to me friend Pear in the moonlight, and had I raised me hand to push back me hair, the chances are 'twould never have got shoulder high. A fine corpse they make, them mounted police.

"Of the pirates, there was 100 per cent fatalities, and no wounded; a savin' of expinse for the Government. 'Twas that one rifle shot when ordered to surrender that done the business. But for that, no doubt an accident due to nerves, they might ha' been merely hanged.

"And Pear? His name? Pe-e-r G-u-i-l-l-e-n-e-c, pronounced Pear Gillyneck. Some say he is a French political exile and some that he is r'yalty. Sure he treated me r'yal, though me service was useless to him. But 'twas not useless to meself."

One Pound of Air Quite a Big Thing

TEXTBOOKS tell us that a pound of pure carbon (the preponderating element in coal) requires the oxygen contained in 11.6 pounds of air to complete its combustion. Few of us have any idea of what 11.6 pounds of air mean. The Popular Science Monthly brings it home to us as follows:

"Imagine a column of air one inch square extending 40 miles into the sky and you will have a good idea of the amount of air required to burn a single pound of coal. A pound of coal would occupy a column one inch square and only three feet high."

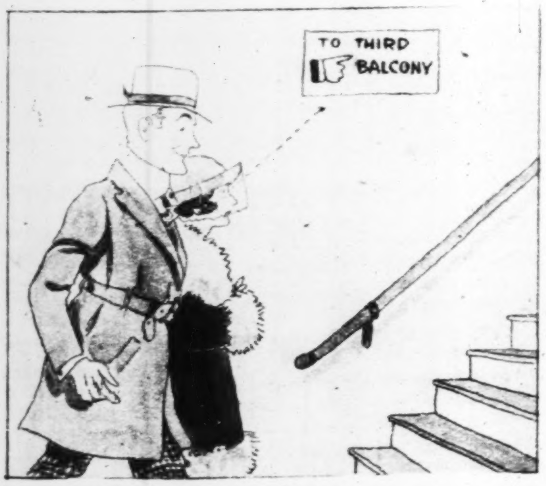
TO THE EDITOR:

The ides of March is at hand, which the soothsayer once told Caesar to beware of them on acct. of it being the date when you half to give the infernal revenue collector the 1st hundred thousand and pretty nearly every place I been lately people was disgusting their income tax though as near as I could make out nobody enjoyed the conversation, but the worst crabs of all is the fathers of a family that seems to think the govt. hasn't gave them a square deal in regards to personal exemption for same.

Well they's some cheap skates that is always finding fault with the govt. for one thing another and the best way to do with them would be to load them in a mud skow and send them to Russia partial post, but I want to take this occasion to say to some of my more reasonable fellow parents that the govt. has been more than generous in regards to personal exemptions provided the father of the family is a business man and runs his household on a budget system of some kind.

The rules of the tax is that for every wife you got living with you, you can take $1000 off of your taxable income and $200 apiece for all the dependents you got under 18 yrs. of old, or if they are mentally defective it don't make no differents in regard to their age.

Well in the 1st. place let us say you have got a normal son 17 yrs. old which nothing is the matter with him. Well a boy this age should ought to be in school so he has got to have clothes to go in. Well here is a list of what he needs per annum and the cost of same, if you know where to buy:



He can give his girl a theater party provided she don't mind climbing a few flights.

1 pr. shoes	$ 10.00
1 suit of clothes	25.00
1 overcoat	25.00
1 pr. socks	.50
1 suit underwear	1.50
1 hat	2.00
1 shirt	2.50
1 tie	.50
1 collar	.25
1 nightgown	1.50
Total	$68.75

Add $10.00 per annum for school books and you have got a total of $78.75 which you subtract away from $200 and it leaves $121.25 per annum to feed him with, or about $.33 per day which is more than ample as a boy that age ain't generally very hungry. Still and all its the custom to give them 3 meals per day so I have made out the following menu:

BREAKFAST.

1-2 egg, toast, cereal............. .06

LUNCHEON.

1 bowl soup, bread and butter, 1 glass water..................... .06

DINNER.

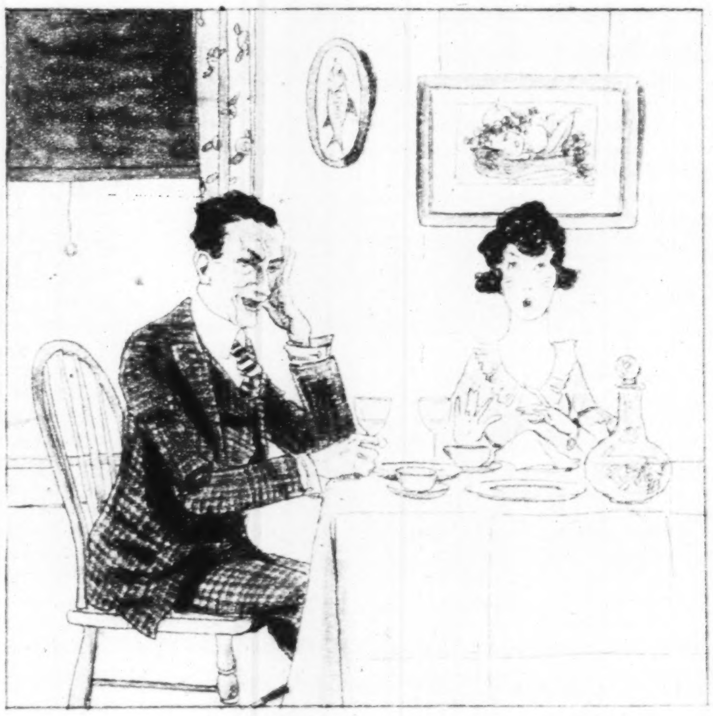
Meat, potatoes, vegetable, dessert, .20

This amounts up to only $.32 a day and leaves the young man $.01 per day for spending money, but if he is a chip off the old block he will save this up for a yr., when he will have $3.65 in one lump and can give his girl a theater party provided she don't mind climbing a few flights.

In order for the kid to get along on one complete outfit of wearing apparel like listed above, it may be nessary for him to spend one day per wk. in the hay while the old lady is creasing his pants and dusting off his shirt, collar, underclothes and etc. If the mother is a church goer she won't have time to do this on the Sabbath, so it looks like the best day for the boy to not get up would be Saturday when they's generally always no school and besides, a boy that is allowed outdoors Saturday is libel to get into mischief.

If the 17 yr. old dependent is a gal of the opp. sex the expense of her clothes will be about $3 less per annum because she can probably get a dress suitable for all the yr, around for $18 where the boy's suit costs $25 but on the other hand the gal's hat will set you back a 5 spot and the things you don't see on her costs say $1 more than the boy's unmentionables, as undershirt and drawers are sometimes so aptly called. But while a gal's attire may be cheaper the $.01 per day allowance for spending money won't hardly keep her in tobacco of all kinds and the wise father will bring her home any 2d. hand cigarettes and etc. he picks up dureing the day.

Of course if the dependent is mentally defective you won't need no $200 or nowheres near such an amt. to keep him going. Take a old piece of leather and cut it up into different shapes to make it look like different kinds of meat.



Every once in a wile call her fatty in a jokeing way.

Then when you serve one of the pieces to him at a meal, say, "The mutton ain't done tonight," or "This steak is tough."

5 different pieces of leather will last him a yr. and he will think they's plenty of variety if you call it enough different names, and if he hollers for fish once in a wile, why stick a few pins in a piece of old sole leather and tell him to look out for bones.

As far as his clothes is concerned, rap him up in a piece of cheese cloth and tell him he's Cleopatra.

Next to a mental defective the easiest kind of a dependent to support is a man or woman under 2 yrs. of old. Their milk bill will run up to $70 per annum and baby carriage costs $45, but it's cheaper than hireing a taxi every time the kid wants to go any place. This leaves $115 a yr. or $.23 per day to raise h—ll with and most of the kids I know can do it for nothing.

A man won't have no difficulty keeping a wife on $1000 per yr. unlest he allows her to run a charge acct. somewhere's. When a woman can tell them to charge it, she will buy all the junk in the store but if you give a gal cash money and say, "This is your own," she will hold onto it like it was a library book.

The madam's feed bag is what costs the most and the only way to keep her from eating up 5 or $600 per annum is to every once in a wile call her fatty in a jokeing way.

Laughs, Thrills and Sport at "Dog Derby"

dog race is one of speed, the course being but 25 miles long, shaped like a figure 8, with the town of Ashton at the center.

Seven crack teams started at intervals of 12 minutes, and while thousands lined the Ashton street to view the start, the return dash through the town in crossing from one loop of the 8 to the other and the finish, the more hardy ones donned skis and watched the action from far out on the course, where the thrills were even more frequent.

When one team would pass another, the action was always brisk. In fact, for the pursuing team to get by at all without precipitating a free-for-all between the opposing dogs is rare, for the sinewy outdoor canines hate to be distanced as badly as do humans. The lead dogs would usually start the melee as one would come abreast of the other, and as though at the signal, each other dog would pick himself an opponent and go to it in the most enthusiastic manner.

Gaston, in passing Causey, another contestant, got by without the customary mixup between the teams, however receiving some delay, as his dogs showed a keen desire to go back and finish up the racing defeat with a real clean-up. After all, these outdoor dogs, who serve and live with men, have many human characteristics.

Causey provided a spectacular spill later, his sledge skidding down a crusted snowbank on a curve and turning over. However, the driver, only dragging a few feet, flopped his sledge back upright, with himself on top, without losing headway.

In Ashton, too, the action and interest were lively. When Warren Cordingly drew up to the starting line, his team was accompanied by a tiny maid, 10-year-old Clara Colwell, owner and trainer of the team. Too young to drive in the strenuous dash over the snows in competition with the men, she did the next best thing and came to the line to give her driver and dogs the best possible sendoff. Cordingly, who is one of the best drivers in the region, received a last word from little Miss Colwell, who went down the line of dogs, giving each an encouraging word and a quick hug.

Two 13-year-old boys, Olcott Zarn and Frank Smuin, who pooled their dogs and trained a team, started last, both of them riding the sledge to make up the required weight. Their team was well trained and finished strong, although not in the purse.

"Beaten fair," one of them remarked, "but watch us next year."

Every kiddie up in the Idaho country has his or her sled dog, and many fine leaders for the big teams are trained and developed by the youngsters. Before the start of the derby the kids had their innings, and the mad dash of boys, sleds, dogs, all starting in a bunch, furnished almost as much real excitement as the start of the big race.

That was where the real dog fights occurred. No dog would be passed without a challenge, and sometimes several of them would mix in a glorious free-for-all, which occasionally infected their owners with like proclivities. The finishes of kiddies' contests were always neck-and-neck affairs, no small skill being shown in urging the last atom of speed from their dogs. These contests, as in the case of the two plucky boys who entered their composite team in the derby, often develop drivers who will, in a few years, be competing in the nationally known derby against teams and drivers from every place where dogs are used.

Finally, a yell passing down the crowd from the edge of town announced that the first dog team was nearing the finish, and "Tud" Kent, with his seven bird dogs, made his final dash around the pole, finishing the derby course in 2 hours 1 minute. Gaston was next, but 14 minutes slower, with his dogs, the same team that carries the United States mail from La e, Idaho, to Minoda, Mont., still strong and yelping for another 10 miles in which to catch their rivals. George Edgington drew in third in point of time, and one by one the contestants finished, all trying right up to the last gasp to increase speed, and some of the last-minute spurts were thrilling.

The individual canine star of the derby was "Husky," a young malamute hailing from Alaska, and a member of Charles Causey's team. "Husky" was probably the freshest dog in the race at the finish, and as he rounded the last turn and drew into the home stretch he was dragging his tired teammates along in as fine an example of animal grit as could be found. And then he stood and grinned in a blase manner at the adulation showered on him, as though to say:

"Well, now, what's all this about?"

As the heated teams reached the finish line, they were rushed to shelter and attention, for no pampered show dog of the East ever drew more attentive care than these friends of the outdoor man.

And then back home, the drivers with the spirit of true sportsmanship shown, spectators and drivers alike with lessons learned in the training and teaming of their dogs, and the dogs back to their jobs.

Practical, educational and replete with thrills, sportsmanship and a little romance—that was the American —real American—dog derby of 1921.

THE PROBLEMS OF A BIG FAMILY

boss. I decided to see which kind I was. I gave up my regular job. I got an appointment as sexton at the city cemetery and rented a piece of ground and went in debt for a cow. Gradually I accumulated 33 cows. Went in debt for each one of them, but owned every one when I sold out. I would still be in the dairy business but for an unfortunate setback. I lost $2200 worth of hay and all my sheds in a few minutes by fire.

"Well, I couldn't see my way clear to rebuild, so I sold my cattle, came to town where the children could get work or go to school, invested in this place and a couple of acres down in the bottom which I farm, kept my horses and work them now, teamstering at 80 cents or a dollar an hour. I am able to make $7 or $8 a day and in the last two and a half years I have cleared between $800 and $900.

"Pretty good, eh, for a man who wasn't worth 5 cents 12 years ago?" he queried, with the same whimsical twinkle in his eye.

"I never have to look for work," he said. "I never come home to dinner that somebody don't call up on the phone wanting me to work for him."

Presently such a call did come, and Theodora was dispatched in haste to bring a neighbor who had been wanting a job. The neighbor was a young, big, strapping, well-fed looking man, who said he hadn't made but $8 the past month.

"Six or seven dollars a day is by no means equivalent to $5 or $6 twelve years ago," Walkenhorst said. "The high wages are fine for the man with small family, but a man in my situation can do better on normal wages with prices lower. But look at the little ones. Do they look starved?"

Indeed they did not. Never a brighter, merrier, rosier, healthier looking lot of children ever gathered about a millionaire's board. Their heavy shoes made a lot of noise on the bare floors, but otherwise in an orderly line about the table, speechless in the presence of the strange visitor, their silent but radiant smiles reflected their father's pride in them.

"I love little children," the father said, with a fond look in their direction. "Little children never bothered me. It is only as they grow older I realize I ought to have paid more attention to their training instead of leaving it all to their mothers. Both my wives were very strict. One of their rules was that everybody must be at home by dark. I try to mix with my boys and girls now and teach them, but I am not sure I am successful in keeping them contented at home. Of course, they are influenced by what they see other boys and girls having. They have to dress in style, they think, or people will laugh at them. The other day they came to me with a proposition that they should buy a graphophone on the installment plan. I asked what would be the price if they paid cash, and they told me it was 20 per cent less than on time payments. I told them I would lend them the money and they could pay me back. There is nothing to this installment plan of buying things. I see the agents coming to my neighbors' houses every week, then I see my neighbors running to the Red Cross when trouble comes. When my first wife died a committee came from the shop to offer to raise a subscription in case I needed money. I did need it, but said 'No.' If I accepted charity, the first time one of my boys got a new suit people would be able to remark how they helped pay his mother's funeral expenses."

An evidence that modern influences and tendencies of thought do invade this home in spite of the stalwart primitive virtues of the head of the house, was some remarks of one of the girls before her father came in.

"It is a disgrace, this big family," she declared. "There are too many children in the world as it is. That is why we have to have wars, to kill them off when there are too many of them. We ought to have birth control." I noticed she dropped this attitude, though, as her father told his story, deferring to him and contributing a helpful fact or two to prompt his memory.

Somewhere recently this writer came upon statistics to the effect that at the age of 65 no less than 54 per cent of parents in this country are dependent upon their children for charity. Walkenhorst's next remark revealed another remarkable contrast in his attitude toward parenthood. He had spoken of his dimming eyes. "I figure at the rate they are going my eyes are good for about five years more," he said. "I expect to work every day until I am blind. By that time, Helen, the baby, will be old enough to do something for herself. Then I shall be through. I shall have served my purpose, and I don't want to live to depend upon any of my children."

burial up there at Stony Cove and so on?"

It was naturally a rather embarrassing question.

"As I told you, father," he replied, "I acted for Peggy. She'd heard something about the disappearance of this maid, Katey. It seems a relative of the furnace man, named Sam Thorp, pooked in and saw her lying in the laundry. He thought she'd been drinking or had been drugged. Peggy came to me with her trouble. My idea was that Ted had taken the girl somewhere. Peggy proposed to find out what had become of her. She came to me—asked me to help her. I told her she'd better let it alone, but as she insisted, I telephoned to Cordwainer."

"Cordwainer!" the Judge repeated, with surprise. "Not this same woman—what's her name?"

"No," Danforth replied. "Cordwainer sent me a man on whom he said I could depend." He smiled a little, grimly, adding: "Seems Hilton must have gone to Cordwainer and Cordwainer sent him a woman—all fish for Cordwainer's net."

"I see," the Judge commented. "Well, I have considerable faith in Cordwainer. He can't afford to blackmail. . . . This man of yours—is he around here now?"

"Yes," Danforth replied.

The Judge pondered it, rubbing his chin, and observed: "It's a situation where we've got to trust somebody and I suppose we may as well take a chance on Cordwainer's man as on anybody else. You see, I wasn't as smart as I thought I was, Dan. You know and Hilton knows and these two Cordwainer people know, and Lord knows how many besides. It's getting out. It's getting out." . . .

He pondered a moment more, and went on in a somewhat lower key, looking over at his son:

"It won't do, Dan. We're getting in too deep water. You see, as Hilton said, the whole thing hinges on that body up at Stony Cove. If anybody gets that, we're busted. I'm going to have that body removed. I want it done tonight. They can tow it out to sea and sink it."

That suggestion struck Danforth disagreeably; but he made no comment.

"The body's got to be put out of the way," Judge Crane repeated. "It's too dangerous now. I've found out that when danger stares you in the face the best tactics is to hit it on the nose. There's no trusting that fool Hilton. He's drunk now and he's apt to be drunk again tomorrow. Even if he meant to keep his mouth shut there's no telling when he might blab. I've got to protect my wife. I've got to protect Bradford McKeon. I've got to protect myself, too." With a faint grin, he added: "I'm pretty good at that."

He frowned over it a moment and went on, with some exasperation: "You see, I found myself in a devil of a hole all of a sudden—with the body of a girl dumped on my hands. As I told you before, the first thing I thought of was my wife. I was going to save her from it or know why."

"We've got to trust somebody," the Judge continued, thinking it over and meaning that he and Danforth could hardly manage it themselves. "We may as well take a chance on your Cordwainer man. Can you get hold of him now? I'd want to do it tonight. He struck you as a man to be trusted, did he?"

"Yes—fairly," Danforth replied. "I'd as leave take a chance on him as on anybody else. We can pay him so well that he can afford to forget it."

"Well, let's get hold of him and see what he has to say," said the Judge.

But the Cordwainer man had already suggested to Danforth that the body might be removed and he had vetoed that suggestion for a cogent reason. He still had the same reason for opposing it.

"You'd be protecting somebody else, too, father," he suggested. "I mean Ted Pennell. He has no right to protection."

"Well, no—so far as he alone is concerned," the Judge assented.

"He put himself out of the game," Danforth went on. "I have a right to see that he keeps out."

"Maybe you have, son," said the Judge, "but he's all tied up with these other people. I don't know how I can protect them without protecting him, too." A somewhat harsher energy showed in his voice, and for a moment he avoided looking at his son—feeling that a contest was rising between them.

Danforth also for the moment avoided looking at his father, but he said, conclusively: "He's got to keep out of it. The body's my hold on him. I don't want it moved tonight."

So the issue was joined between them.

"But maybe he's got Peggy already, Dan," the Judge reminded him. "I'm afraid it's too late already."

Danforth threw a thick hand over his forehead and replied, more slowly than usual:

"Well, if it's too late, it's too late. If she's married him, that settles it. I'll stand by her the best I know how and be her friend, as I've always been her friend all my life." In saying it his voice trailed down to a lower key. "If I've got to swallow that medicine, I'll swallow it and make no faces in public." A little sigh escaped him, for Peggy's image was in his mind.

"But it may not be too late. They may not be married. If they're not, I don't propose that they shall be. He has no right to her. . . . She was in love with him. I suppose he think's he's in love with her. He has youth in his favor, father. He has selfishness in his favor, too. If he comes back here now and there's no evidence against him and he tells her a good lie and looks woebegone and whistles the tune, she may go to him. Peggy's only a girl yet. That's not going to happen. I can have her now; I feel sure of it. It's only by one chance in a hundred—and his idiocy—that I could have won her. The one chance has come to me. It shan't go out of my hands. I'll fight like all hell for it. I think I have a right to, father."

The Price I Paid for One Little Mistake

EVEN before I met Ted Farrel, I felt strangely attracted to him. Whenever anyone mentioned his name, a thrill of inexpressible happiness surged through me. And once, when the newspapers wrote up the story of how he had saved a youngster from drowning, I clipped out his picture and pasted it in my scrapbook. Oh, how I cherished that picture, and dreamed over it, and wondered, and hoped.

If I could only meet him—if I could only see him, and talk to him, and tell him how much I admired him. I felt, somehow, as though I had known him all my life. I just knew that to meet him would be to kindle an immediate friendliness, a responsive feeling.

Then, one day, came a glorious surprise. An old school chum of mine, from whom I had not heard in a long time, invited me to a little informal dinner at her home. "Ted Farrel will be here," she wrote in her letter, "and I know you will be glad to meet him." Glad! It seemed to me that I had nothing left to wish for in all the world!

I Begin My Happy Preparations

Exulting with joyous anticipations, I began to plan and prepare for that wonderful day when I would meet Ted. Of course, there was nothing in my wardrobe that would do justice to the importance of the occasion. I paid a visit to my dressmaker and confided in her, impressing her with the utter necessity of the new gown being the prettiest one she ever made.

"I'm going to meet Ted Farrel," I laughed jestingly—but I'm quite sure that she noticed how elated I was.

Well, at last the day of the dinner arrived. My new dress was extremely becoming. My hair seemed to fall in particularly charming waves. Happiness had brought a warm glow to my cheeks, a keen brilliance to my eyes. I felt, as I surveyed myself in the mirror, that I had never looked so pretty before, never felt so well poised—and confident.

I wanted to run wildly from the room, to hide from the amused glances of the guests.

All My Joy Is Shattered!

Helen was delighted to see me. "Come," she cried gayly, "let me introduce you to my guests."

As I entered the big drawing room I felt unaccountably restless. I knew Ted immediately. He was standing near the window talking with Helen's mother. In a frenzy of impulsive eagerness, I did something which I did not know was incorrect, but which caused the others to laugh at me.

It was over in a moment. Before I realized what had happened, I had committed an awful blunder, an unforgivable breach of etiquette! All my happiness, my weeks of planning, my anticipations vanished in a maze of miserable humiliation. I wanted to run wildly from the room, to hide from the amused glances of the guests. And most of all I wanted to cry.

In my confusion I failed dismally in acknowledging the introductions that followed. Helen acted just the least bit disappointed—although she tried hard to be kind to me, to put me at ease. I noticed that several of the guests glanced at each other. And I began to wish fervently that I had never come—or that I had at least prepared myself by reading up somewhere about introductions and how to avoid impulsive blunders in etiquette.

Then, vaguely, I realized that I was being introduced to Ted—actually being introduced to Ted Farrel! But all the pretty phrases, the pleasing sentiments I had plainned to say were forgotten. Instead, I mumbled something about being "glad" and "happy." But I hurried away so that he could not see how miserable I really was.

I Spend a Miserable Evening

Oh, how unhappy I was when I realized what a mess I had made of the meeting that was to have been a triumph! Here I was in the very same room with Ted—just as I had always hoped and dreamed of being—and yet, I dreaded to look at him! I had planned to tell him all about my strange attraction for him and about the newspaper writeup, and the clipping. But how could I speak to him after that ridiculous blunder? Oh, if it had only not happened!

Later, at the table, I felt uncomfortable and ill at ease whenever anyone looked at me or spoke to me. I was frankly wretched. I began to wonder how soon it would be permissible to leave without appearing rude. And instead of conversing happily with Ted, as I had hoped to, I avoided his every glance.

I was glad when the time came to leave. I wanted to be alone to drown my mortification in a good long cry. When I saw Ted approach me smiling, I wondered, in panic, whether it were proper for me to offer him my hand or just say "Goodnight." I hesitated a moment and then with a stiff little nod hastened away.

That evening I cried as though my heart would break. I knew that I could never face Ted Farrel again after the miserable blunders I had made. And bitterly I reproached myself for not knowing better. "I will get a book of etiquette the first thing tomorrow morning," I promised myself grimly. "And I'll make sure that a thing like this never happens again."

I Buy the "Encyclopedia of Etiquette"

The very next day I sent for the famous "Encyclopedia of Etiquette." I determined to find out just what was the correct thing to do and say at all times, under all conditions, so that I would never again suffer such a mortifying evening.

I had always prided myself upon being cultured and well-bred. I had always believed that I knew just how to act—that I followed the conventions of society to the highest letter of its law, but, oh, the serious breaches of etiquette I was making almost every day!

Why, the first chapter I read proved that I knew pitifully little about dinner etiquette. I didn't know the proper way to remove fruit stones from my mouth, the cultured way to use a finger-bowl, the correct way to use napkins, and many other similar points of etiquette. If I had only had the book before.

Etiquette at the Dance

I glanced over the chapter called "Etiquette at the Dance." In a few moments, I discovered that I had been making some very bad blunders indeed. I had never known whether it were proper for a woman to ask for a dance; whether she could refuse a dance without reason; whether it was proper to wander away from the ballroom with a fiance. I had never known how many times a young girl may dance with the same partner without breaking the rules of etiquette.

And when I read the chapter on introductions, the very mistake I had made was pointed out! If I had only read this chapter before, I would never have made that awful blunder. Instead, I would have been able to establish an immediate and friendly understanding between Ted and me.

I found that I actually did not know how to introduce two people correctly! I didn't know whether to say: "Mrs. Brown, meet Miss Smith," or "Miss Smith, meet Mrs. Brown." I didn't know whether to say: "Bobby, this is Mr. Blank," or "Mr. Blank, this is Bobby." I didn't know whether it were proper for me to shake hands with a gentleman upon being introduced to him, and whether it were proper for me to stand up or remain seated. Every day people judge us by the way we make and acknowledge introductions. The "Encyclopedia of Etiquette" made it all so clear to me that I can never make a mistake again.

To the Young Man and Woman—

I would like to give you a bit of advice. The world is a harsh judge. It will not tolerate the illiterate in the art of etiquette. To be admitted to society, to enjoy the company of brilliant minds, and to win admiration and respect for one's self, it is essential for the woman to cultivate charm, and for the man to be polished, impressive. And only by adhering to the laws of etiquette is it possible for the woman to be charming and the man to be what the world loves to call a gentleman.

I never will forget the miserable evening I spent—and the many other miserable evenings that followed because of the memory of it. I can never face Ted Farrel again—Ted Farrel whom I had always longed to meet and talk to—and impress. I am glad to write my story here—glad to help other happy young people from shattering their hopes and gladness by blundering in the important art of etiquette. My advice to men and women who desire to be cultured rather than coarse, who desire to impress by their delicacy of taste and finesse of breeding, is—send for the splendid two-volume set of the "Encyclopedia of Etiquette."

The Secret of Earning Big Money

How It Brought This Man $1000 in Thirty Days!

WARREN HARTLE

"MY earnings during the past thirty days were more than $1000," writes Warren Hartle of 4425 N. Robey Street, Chicago, whose picture you see on this page.

Yet previous to this he had worked for ten years in the railway mail service at salaries ranging from $900 to $1600 a year. What was the secret of his sudden rise from small pay to such magnificent earnings?

It was the same secret that has brought hundreds of others success, independence and money beyond their fondest dreams.

The stories of these men's amazing jumps to the big pay class read like fiction; but they are matters of record and can be verified by any one on request. Here are just a few examples, as told in the words of the men themselves:

"I had never earned more than $60 a month. Last week I cleared $306 and this week $218. You have done wonders for me." Geo. W. Kearns, 107 W. Park Place, Oklahoma City, Okla.

"My earnings for the past thirty days are $1562 and I won Second Prize in March although I only worked two weeks during that month." C. W. Campbell, Greensburg, Pa.

"My earnings for March were over $1000 and over $1800 for the last six weeks, while last week my earnings were $356." L. P. Overstreet, Dallas, Texas.

And there are more—hundreds more. So quickly did these transformations from small pay to big money take place that they appear almost incredible. Almost over night these men left behind them the drudgery of low pay routine jobs for fascinating work, independence and rich financial rewards. It seems as if nothing short of the magic of Aladdin's lamp could bring such sudden good fortune.

Perhaps you will say that these men represent those rare exceptions who seem destined to success—those favorites of fortune who every so often come to startle the average run of men with their whirlwind rise to the top.

But now comes the most amazing part of it all! What these men have done, hundreds of others have done, hundreds are doing today, and hundreds will do tomorrow. You may be one of them, for now the same opportunity that put these men into the big money class is open to you! You are going to read here and now, just as they read at one time the secret of earning big money.

Then in the next five minutes you can take the same first step that brought to them such extraordinary success.

The Secret Disclosed

What is the secret of this amazing quick success? What is the mysterious force that can lift men out of the rut and place them in the ranks of the big money-makers?

There is really no mystery about it. It is simply a matter of cold business fact. The "secret" is that the big money is in the Selling end of business. And any man of normal intelligence and ambition can quickly become a Star Salesman.

You may think, as many do, that the highly-paid Stars in Salesmanship are "born" to their calling—that the ability to sell is a natural gift. Then you will be surprised to learn that the men whose earnings have been quoted had no special qualifications for Salesmanship. In fact, hundreds of cases could be cited of men who had never had a day's experience in Selling; they came from all walks of life, from all fields of work—they had been clerks, bookkeepers, mechanics, farmhands, etc., and today they are Star Salesmen, earning greater incomes than they had ever hoped to attain.

What Makes a $10,000 a Year Star Salesman?

If you had told these men that such brilliant success awaited them in the field of Selling they would have laughed at you—they would have told you that it was absurd to think of their becoming Salesmen, for they had never sold a dime's worth of goods in their lives!

Then what was it that suddenly transformed them into Star Salesmen? Ask them, and they will answer "the N. S. T. A." It was the N. S. T. A. that made them Master Salesmen and placed them in good selling positions through its Free Employment Service.

The National Salesmen's Training Association is an organization of top-notch Salesmen and Sales Managers that has fitted hundreds of men for big Selling positions—has taken them from obscure places in the world and made Star Salesmen of them—has made it amazingly easy for them to earn bigger money than they had ever dreamed possible. How?

Listen, you men who Sell, and you men who never had a day's Selling experience: There are Secrets of Selling that only Master Salesmen know; there are certain fundamental rules and principles of Selling that every Master Salesman uses. There is a way of doing everything that makes success easy and certain. There is a Science of Salesmanship.

Into the Big Pay Class in One Jump!

Earned $524 in Two Weeks

I have never earned more than $60 a month. Last week I cleared $306 and this week $218. You have done wonders for me.—Geo. W. Kearns, 107 W. Park Place, Oklahoma City, Okla.

I Now Earn as High as $100 a Day

I took your course two years ago. Was earning $15 a week clerking. Am now selling many of the largest firms in the U. S. I have earned more than $100 in a day. You secured me my position. Our Sales Manager is a graduate of yours.—J. L. De Bonis, 4615 Warwick Av., Chicago, Ill.

Earns $1562 in Thirty Days

My earnings for the past thirty days are $1,562.00 and I won Second Prize in March, although I only worked two weeks during that month.—C. W. Campbell, Greensburg, Pa.

Earned $1800 in Six Weeks

As soon as I received a letter from you and your literature, I knew that I was on the right track, and very soon after I applied for a position as a Salesman to one of the firms whom you informed me were in need of a Salesman and to whom you had recommended me. As soon as they received my application, which was by mail, they wired me to come for an appointment, which I did, with the result being that I sold my services to them in about thirty minutes, took a territory in Illinois and Wisconsin and made a success of it from the very first week.

From that time on I have been what might be termed as a "high pressure" Salesman selling lines where nine out of ten Order Takers would fail. I have sold goods in a highly successful manner in nine or ten states, both North and South. My earnings for March were over $1000 and over $1800 for the last six weeks, while last week my earnings were $356.00. I travel eleven months out of the year, working five days each week.

The N. S. T. A. dug me out of a rut where I was earning less than $1000 a year and showed me how to make a success.—J. P. Overstreet, Dallas, Texas.

Once you know these fundamental rules and principles you are qualified to take your place in the ranks of the Master Salesmen. And you can learn the Secrets of Selling in your spare time at home—in the odd moments that you now pass fruitlessly. If you are earning less than $10,000 a year, then read the following carefully.

The Turning Point in Their Lives

The success of the men quoted above—and the success of hundreds of others like them—dates from the day they mailed a coupon—a coupon just like the one shown at the bottom of this page. This coupon brought them, just as it will bring to you, an amazing story of the way to quick success in Salesmanship. It brought them complete and irrefutable proof that they, too, no matter what they were doing or what their past experience had been, could quickly become Star Salesmen. It brought them full particulars of the wonderful system of Salesmanship Training and Free Employment Service of the National Salesmen's Training Association.

Surely you owe to yourself to at least examine the evidence. All that is required is to mail the coupon without delay. It will bring you, entirely free of cost, a fascinating Book on Salesmanship and the remarkable stories of the quick success of others, told in their own words. It will bring you convincing PROOF that you can become a Star Salesman, in your spare time at home, regardless of your past experience or what you are doing now. And you will see just how the Free Employment Service of the N. S. T. A. has helped others to splendid Selling positions and how it will do the same for you just as soon as you are qualified and ready.

In short, the simple act of mailing the coupon or writing may mean the turning point in your life as it has been in the lives of so many others. It is the first step toward the amazingly quick success that awaits you as a Master Salesman. Take it NOW. Address

JEFF, I SEE BY THE PAPER THAT PARIS IS THE SAME OLD 'GAY PAREE' THIS WINTER FOR THE FIRST TIME SINCE 1914!
SPEAKING OF PARIS REMINDS ME! DID I EVER TELL YOU OF THE ADVENTURE I HAD IN PARIS?
THE FIGHT
WHY, NO!
WHILE STROLLING ON THE BOULEVARD ONE DAY I PASSED A BEAUTIFUL LADY —! LISTEN, MUTT, THE NEIGHBOR NEXT DOOR MAY HEAR ME IF I TELL IT HERE! LET'S GO IN MY DEN!
THE FIGHT
NOW TO CONTINUE! I PASSED THIS LADY DAILY FOR A WEEK AND I TRIED EVERY WAY POSSIBLE TO GET AN INTRODUCTION! I WAS MADLY IN LOVE WITH HER!
I SEE! GO ON!
I'M ASHAMED TO ADMIT IT BUT I TRIED TO FLIRT WITH HER - BUT LITTLE GOOD IT DID ME! BUT ONE DAY AS SHE PASSED SHE DROPPED A NOTE AT MY FEET! I OPENED IT FEVERISHLY, BUT ALAS, IT WAS WRITTEN IN FRENCH!
DID YOU GET IT TRANSLATED?
I WENT TO THE HOTEL AND ASKED A FRENCHMAN WHOM I KNEW TO READ IT FOR ME! - - - MY WORD! AFTER HE OPENED IT HE TURNED ON ME LIKE THIS, AND SAID: "YOU DOG, YOU INFINITESIMAL SPECIMEN OF BACTERIA, LEAVE FRANCE AT ONCE! SEE THAT YOU TAKE THE FIRST TRAIN AND STEAMER FOR LONDON!"
DID YOU?
YOU BET I DID! AT THE SAVOY IN LONDON I RAN ACROSS SIR SIDNEY, AND I WAS HAPPY BECAUSE I KNOW SIR SID. CAN READ FRENCH! I ASKED HIM TO READ ME THE NOTE AND HE SAID HE WOULD!
WHAT DID IT SAY? I'M CRAZY TO FIND OUT!
HE OPENED IT AND HIS EYES POPPED OUT AND HE TURNED ON ME AND SAID LIKE THIS: "YOU DOG, YOU INFINITESIMAL SPECIMEN OF BACTERIA, LEAVE ENGLAND AT ONCE! OUT OF MY SIGHT, AND SEE THAT YOU TAKE THE FIRST BLOOMING BOAT FOR NEW YORK"
I WONDER WHAT IN THE WORLD WAS IN THE NOTE! DID YOU LEAVE FOR NEW YORK?
YOU BET YOUR SWEET LIFE I DID! I WAS WORRIED, AND I WAS VERY ANXIOUS TO FIND OUT WHAT IT WAS THAT MADE THE FRENCHMAN AND SIR SID FLY INTO SUCH A RAGE AT ME AS SOON AS THEY OPENED THE NOTE! WELL, ON THE STEAMER I HAD A FRENCH STEWARD!
THIS IS INDEED INTERESTING! PROCEED!
I LAVISHED THIS FRENCH STEWARD WITH TIPS. I GOT VERY FRIENDLY WITH HIM, AND THEN WHEN WE WERE ONE DAY OUT OF NEW YORK I ASKED HIM IF HE WOULD DO ME A GREAT FAVOR! I WAS CRAZY TO FIND OUT WHAT WAS IN THAT NOTE! HE SAID HE WOULD DO ANYTHING FOR ME! AT LAST LUCK WAS WITH ME!
HURRY! TELL ME WHAT WAS IN THE NOTE
FIRST I WAS CAREFUL THAT WE WERE ALL ALONE! THEN I HANDED HIM THE NOTE! HE OPENED IT AND JUST AS HE STARTED TO READ IT TO ME —
YES, YES! WHAT HAPPENED?
I WOKE UP! I DREAMED ALL OF THAT LAST NIGHT, MUTT!
MUTT, FOR THE LOVE OF MIKE, LISTEN TO REASON!
YOU DOG, YOU INFINITESIMAL SPECIMEN OF BACTERIA, YOU SAP!!

16 DEFENDANTS ACQUITTED IN WEST VIRGINIA MURDER CASE

Jury, Which Retired Satur- day, Returns Verdict Soon After Resuming Delibera- tions—Trial, Lasting 46 Days, Grew Out of Fight Following Miners' Evic- tions.

DEFENDANTS UNDER OTHER INDICTMENTS

Those Accused Included Chief of Police of Mate- wan, Where Mayor, Seven Private Detectives and Two Others Were Slain Last May.

By the Associated Press.

WILLIAMSON, W. Va., March 21, —The 16 mountaineers, tried on a murder charge in connection with the death of Albert C. Felts of the Baldwin-Felts private detective agency, in the fight at Matewan last May growing out of eviction of coal miners' families from their homes, were found not guilty today by the jury which has considered the case since Saturday. Ten men, including seven private detectives and Mayo Testerman of Matewan, were kille in the Matewan fight, which serve to make the struggle between th miners' union and coal operators i West Virginia one of nation-wide interest.

The jury received the case shortl after 5 p. m. Saturday after a tria which lasted 46 days. Judge Baile at 9 p. m., when told there was n chance of a verdict Saturday nigh adjourned court to 8 a. m. today and when court convened the jur resumed its deliberations.

Men Face Other Charges.

The defendants were formally dis charged by Judge Bailey, but wer remanded to jail pending bond ar rangements on six other indictment charging the men with having bee implicated in the death of six othe private detectives killed with Felts.

News of the acquittal was shoute to a large group of miners standin at a window outside the courtroom and the announcement was receive with enthusiasm.

Wives and relatives of the Mate wanians stood on the porch of th county jail and received their ki with open arms.

Williamson residents received th verdict quietly and there were n demonstration aside from an ou burst of cheers from the miners wh had stood vigil since early mornin

Fight Result of Evictions.

A coal miners' strike has been progress in Mingo County coal fiel since July, 1919. Organizers of th United Mine Workers Union soug to unionize the districts, both Mingo County and in Pike Coun on the Kentucky side of the borde Nearly a year later the Stone Mou tain Coal Corporation engaged th Baldwin Felts Detective Agency evict striking miners' families fro the company houses in which th were living. On May 19, 1920, party of private detectives, heade by Albert C. Felts, carried out th evictions. After a day fraught wi argument between the operativ and city officials, the party finishe its work and prepared to depa from Matewan on an early evenin train.

Upon leaving their hotel Albe Felts and his men stopped in fro of a hardware store. The leader a Mayor C. C. Testerman engaged in conversation and while they sto close to each other talking a sh was fired. In an instant rifles a pistols were fired from all directio and before the shooting ended Fel Testerman, six other members of t Baldwin-Felts party and two oth residents fell mortally wounded the main street of the village.

Twenty-three men of Matewa were indicted by a grand jury Williamson in connection with th death of Felts. Six of the defen ants were dismissed and another w acquitted at the court's order duri the trial.
